Boy Loses Eye By Stray Bullet

John Fay, 16-year-old son of Edward and the late Catherine Fay of Webster street, met with a peculiar and serious accident last Sunday which resulted in the loss of his right eye. He and some of his boy friends were shooting an air rifle in the fields near the East End playgrounds and had built a fire to keep themselves warm. They tired of shooting the rifle and threw the remaining bullets into the fire. One of the bullets exploded and flew up, hitting young Fay in the eye. He was removed to the Salem hospital, where he is still confined. He is a pupil at the Thomas Carroll school. The accident is doubly sad because the boy's mother died Wednesday night after an illness of more than two years.

MET WITH ACCIDENT

Word has been received in this city that Charles Aechtler formerly of Peabody now located in Lake City, Fla. fell from a roof while making some repairs, breaking his collar bone, shoulder blade and receiving other minor injuries.

FORUM TONIGHT TO DISCUSS BONUS

A public forum to discuss cheaper transportation is called for next Thursday evening in the Council chamber under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. Homer Loring, chairman of the trustees of the Bay State railroad, will be invited to attend. An invitation will be sent to every society to send one or more representatives. A single fare in Peabody will be one of the subjects which will permit Lowell and Central street residents to ride through to Salem on the one fare, instead of paying two, as now.

The forum tonight at City Hall is to discuss the bonus for the soldiers. The American Legion urges all war veterans to attend. A speaker from the state headquarters will be heard on the bonus.

Peabody fraternal societies are urged to announce dates of entertainments through the Chamber of Commerce following a custom adopted in other cities which precluded conflicts. A calendar of events is to be kept by the Chamber and events thus recorded will show the activity of Peabody's social program.

TEN PER CENT CUT IN CITY SALARIES

A ten per cent. cut in all city salaries and a program of retrenchment regarding expenditures of municipal funds, is said to be giving Mayor Shea his chief concern in City Hall. The Mayor will not discuss the subject, declaring that he is at work on a policy that will prune every appropriation and permit him to submit the smallest budget since Peabody became a city in 1917. The city is confronted with a dire financial condition, this the Mayor frankly admits, and it is known that the 1922 budget is bound to see many reductions in estimates submitted by all departmental heads.

That a cut in salaries is coming is strongly intimated, although as stated above Mayor Shea is loathe to talk about it. He does say that he is using a pruning knife in his great endeavor to lessen the burden of taxation on all property owners and afford the city treasury sufficient funds with which to pay running expenses and meet the bonded indebtedness.

The sum of $204,000 will be required to meet maturing bonds and interest alone. This figure will be more than one-half of the entire tax revenue for 1922. It is understood that the only increase in salaries this year will be that of the teachers, who receive a slight advance in reaching the minimum pay.

How gracefully some of the City Hall attaches will accept the proposed cut of ten per cent. in their salaries remains to be seen, but it is generally felt that with the reduction of wages outside, city employes must expect a cut. Several members of the City Council have intimated that a retrenchment policy must find a reduction of salaries to city employes and they are likely to concur with the Mayor in a reduced budget all along the line of municipal expenditure.

Mayor Shea has the property owners in mind, it is known, when he considers cutting the budget in every possible way this year. He has let it be known that he will not approve of funds for any new improvements. He

Dyestuff Plant May Come Here

The Bay State Chemical Works, owned by Boston men may build a plant on North Central street to manufacture chemical dye stuffs. They sent representatives here this week who looked over the land in question accompanied by Don Roby secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and William F. Carlin real estate dealer. A concrete building of one story is contemplated that must be rushed to completion in a few weeks. The concern has large contracts with the Pacific Mills of Lawrence for early March delivery.

THREE NEW MEN FIELD ASSESSORS

Mayor Shea sent in his nomination for field assessors last night to the Council with three new names. Ex-Councillor Cotton and Otis Brown, who served last year, were dropped. The new list is William Reed, Ward 1; Charles N. Boyle, Ward 2; Daniel F. Desmond, Ward 3; John Kenaley, Ward 4; Leslie Goldthwaite, Ward 5; and Joseph T. Kelley, Ward 6. Boyle takes the place of John Elliott in Ward 2.

CITY HALL NOTES

The pruning of the budget is the big noise in City Hall these days. Everybody must take their share of the cutting and then only will all have complaints to register.

It is nice to have new streets with macadam finish, in fact all of us would like far more than our money will purchase, but it cannot be done in most cases.

There are two ways of looking at the results of city improvements. One way if money was not spent our city would be far from attractive, therefore less liable to grow. Public improvements benefit many and therefore suit a majority of tax payers.

There is no place where difference of opinions were as well voiced as in the town meeting. Looking back years certain citizens always objected to any appropriation calling for improvements. There is another extreme, the other being the fellow who believes the city should spend money for most everything called for, but in most cases of this kind, his share of the taxes amounts to little or even nothing but a poll tax.

We are a free country, they tell us, but the matter of spending money should be left in the hands of those whose pocketbook is affected, and if so many an appropriation would be side tracked.

The committee on entertaining the Charleston visitors are ready to do business, but the school committee have the final say as to the movements of the boys, so until they are heard from little can be done. With time slipping away, fall will be here soon and so will our Charleston friends.

We note the school committee do not attend their meetings as well as of yore. Many times of late they have been unable to register a quorum, therefore had to adjourn.

We are looking for some lively meetings of the Council this year. Councillor Duggan will be on the floor, and will no doubt have his say. Then Councillor Craig will surely give his views, and Councillor Barnes has opinions which will no doubt be voiced. We will miss Mr. Hogan, who offered many unique ideas, some of which started something. The budget will be the big noise, and what will happen to it remains to be seen, one thing sure cuts will be numerous.

Assessor Frank E. Bomer's term expires March 31, and it is expected he will be reappointed, but the Mayor is non-committal. One change each year is plenty to keep this board shaped up to accomplish the best results.

Who is to be the next postmaster? They tell us every wire known to politics is being pulled for at least three of the candidates, and that an agent of the government has been here to get a line on the sentiment as whom is wanted. Meanwhile Postmaster Dullea holds on at $250 a month. Some intimate that the appointment will not be until after the election of a senator, when Henry Cabot Lodge will be a candidate to succeed himself. Such a story does not seem probable to us.

The Board of Health have voted to have the city farm hands collect the garbage, no doubt as a matter of economy. The present collection is satisfactory to many we hear. Prompt collections are necessary for health.

The collection of ashes this year has been done well, judging from reports we receive. When the boss is on the job, as is the case this year, good results are bound to be obtained.

Are you going to the policemen's ball? Everybody should attend this dance and give our policemen a good send off.

Many raids for illegal making and selling of liquor take place. But if mushrooms have anything on stills for growing in a night, show us. Plumbers make many devices which have no name, therefore do not know their destination, so why as the customer?

* * *

The representative of the state income tax division made his last visit to Peabody Thursday. Those who have not made out their return can be accommodated at the Masonic Temple in Salem.

Buddies, War Drama Bill At Empire

A delightful, humorous peek into the after war life of the American soldier in France, "Buddies", the big George V. Hobart hit, will be the offering at the Empire Theatre all next week. It is one of the most satisfying of the plays that have been Broadway hits during the last decade.

"Buddies" is based on two love affairs, a bashful lover, an imposter and a soldier who is willing to assume an obligation in order to help out a friend. It is replete with infectious humor and is a remarkably well drawn picture of the intimate life of the American soldier boy, in time of peace, on French soil. Through the play there also runs a touch of pathos that heightens the fun of the story. To begin with Sonny was engaged to Louise Maitland who lived in Brooklyn, U. S. A. Babe was in love with Julie but never could get up the courage enough to tell her so. This, plus the unforseen arrival of Louise furnishes the central idea of the story. For three acts an audience is swept along in the delightful fun and humor of the play.

FEBRUARY FOURTEEN

Oh, ware ye all, my maidens fair,
And ware ye, gentlemen,
For there is danger in the air
Now Cupid's come again.
Encase your hearts in adamant,
And guard them round about,
For Cupid is a sly gallant
And like to draw them out.

Oh, guard ye well, my maidens all,
And ye, my gentlemen;
Where Cupid's darts are like to fall
Is always uncertain.
Gird on your armor, strong and true,
And steel your hearts, and wait,
And be convinced he shoots at you
Ere you capitulate.

SHEPPERD TO FIGHT

Charlie Shepperd, Peabody's champion boxer, is matched for a bout at Brockton next weew Friday night with Tony Julian, his former rival. Shepperd scored a decision in 10 rounds over Julian at Salem some months ago and the Italian lad wants to have another try.

A. O. H. PLAYERS IN MY "IRISH ROSE"

The Irish drama entitled "My Irish Rose," which Division 11, A. O. H., is to stage at the City Hall on March 16, promises to be one of the best dramatic events ever put on in this city.

The story of the play is entwined around Rose Creigan, a little Irish country lass brought up by her bachelor uncle, Colum McCormack, and her aunt, Ann Mary McCormack, at a small country village in County Kildare. Her brother, Florence Creigan, has been exiled to America on account of an officer of the English army who was his enemy. Maurice Fitzgerald ,a wealthy Dublin artist, falls in love with Rose, he proposes and is accepted. He soon learns he has become heir to a vast estate and a title and is now Sir Maurice Fitzgerald. His friends try to break off his engagement to Rose but Sir Maurice spurns the suggestion with contempt.

The above is the story of Act 1. There are three acts. The cast are working very hard at the rehearsals and are gaining a degree of competeney which would do credit to professionals.

The following is the complete cast: James C. Walsh, who plays the part of "Colum McCormack."

Frank Sonigan as "Maurice Fitzgerald."

Tom Kavanagh as "Terry Creigan."

John Cy McCarthy as "Mr. Archibald Pennywitt," a wealthy English tourist.

John O'Brien as "Mr. Michael Pepperdin," an eminent Dublin barrister.

Edward J. Sullivan as "Shawn McGilly," the laziest man in Kildare.

Mrs. Annie Kenneally as "Ann Mary McCormack."

Phoebe Wright O'Connor as the "Widow Hannigan."

Esther M. Cannon as "Eileen Fitzgerald."

Lena M. Armstrong as "The Lady Agnes Barricklow."

Frances E. Conroy as "Regeen Burke."

Helen E. Cannon as "Rose Creigan," a Wild Irish Rose.

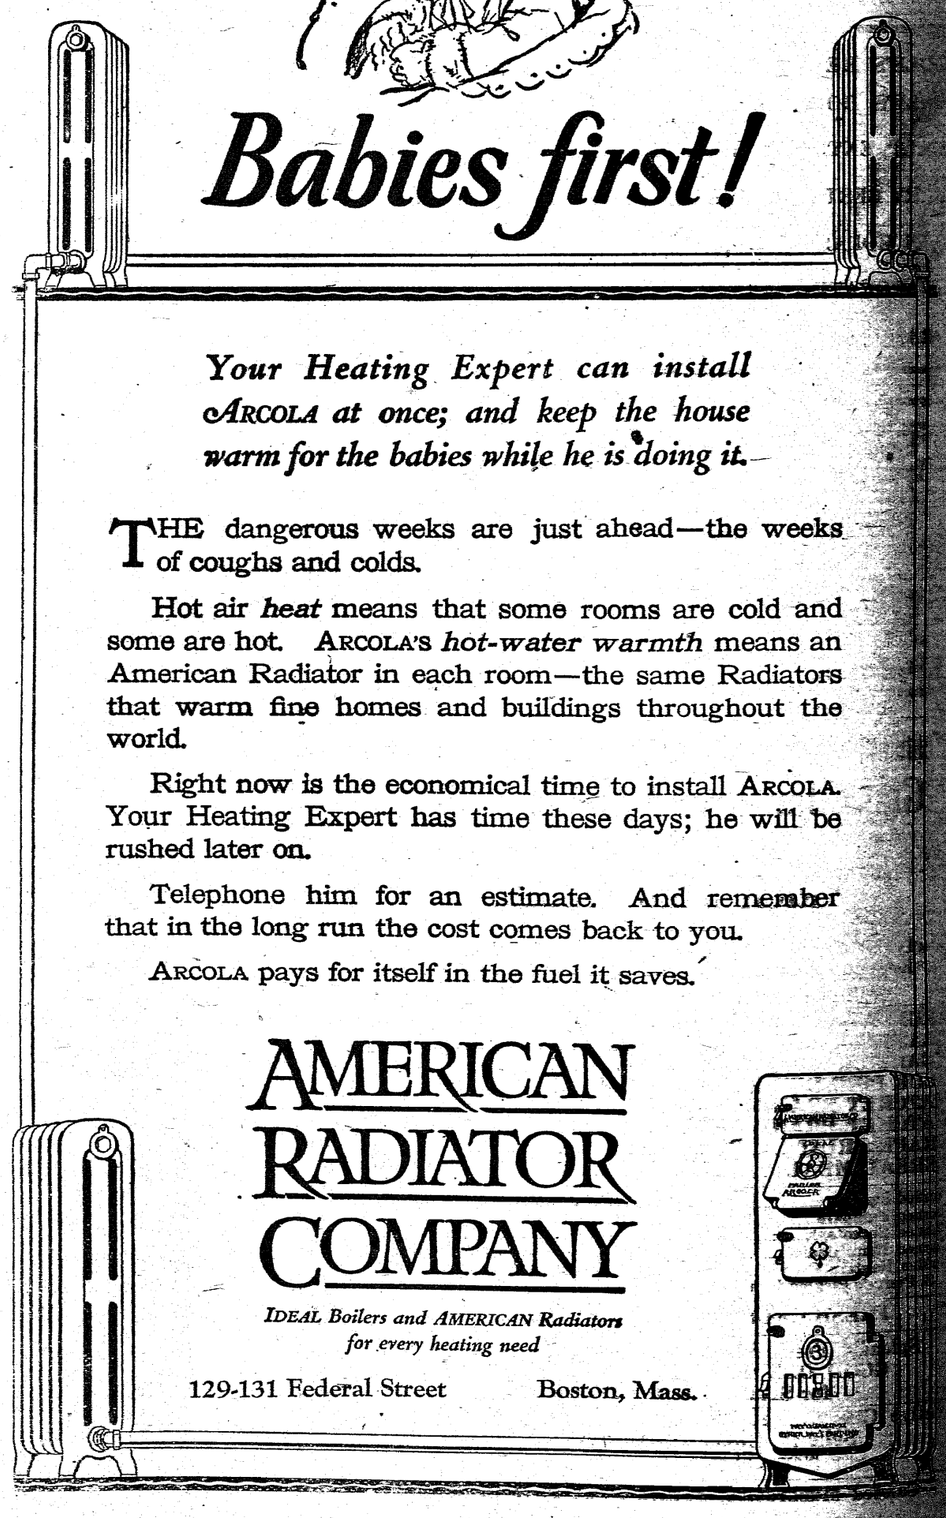
Frank Hunt who has been ill with pneumonia is rapidly regaining his health and his complete recovery is assured.

A WONDERFUL LITTLE BULL-FIGHTER

If you have attended the Barnum & Bailey Circus you have been amused by a little man who performed antics throughout the entire show, assisted by two other dwarfs. One of the chief acts of this miniature comedian is that of a burlesque bull-fight. He fastens bull's horns on his trick goat and then goes through the most ridiculously amusing stunts in imitation of a bull-fight. He waves his red flag and his sword. The bull, or goat, charges him madly and round and round the ring they go, each by turn pursuing the other. This is Joe Kassino, leader of the troupe of midgets that has for years been amusing the people of America. He is a husky little man, but nevertheless he knows his ills and tries to get rid of them.

You who have seen him will be amazed to learn that he is fifty-eight years old and has spent nearly all his life in amusing people.



Mr. Kassino is a well-to-do man, and has a safety-box that is pretty well filled with gilt-edged securities. When asked to what he ascribes his vigor at his time of life and his seeming perpetual youth, he says: "I keep my stomach and bowels in good condition with Sanalt." If you ask him what Sanalt is he will tell you that it is the "Sensible Tonic," and it has been made for nearly a hundred years and that he has used it to very great advantage.

Mr. Kassino says: "Of course, I am sometimes troubled with constipation or indigestion. No one could reach my time of life and lead the active existence that I do, without feeling the effects of being over-taxed, but whatever the trouble is I just take Sanalt for a week or so, and am fit again. It seems to make my whole system go straight. It surely keeps my complexion good by acting upon the blood, and I never have to be afraid of what I am going to eat if there is a Sanalt bottle nearby."

You can cover up a bad complexion with powder and rouge, but you cannot clear it up except by purifying the blood, improving digestion and correcting the bowels. Sanalt does all these, therefore Sanalt, the Sensible Tonic, is a true beautifier.

Peabody Offers Football Pact To Witch City

The athletic board of the Peabody high chool, comprising Principal Willard W. Woodman, Dr. F. J. Marrs, Harold Bliss, Henry A. King and Supt. Albert Robinson, in negotiating the terms for the football contest to be played with the Salem high the coming season, is understood to have proposed a contract extending over a period of years. The attitude of the Salem board toward such a proposition has not been announced, but if the arrangement is received with favor, by the Salem officials, it is believed that it will establish a precedent in school football circles. Peabody favors a five-year agreement on a fifty-fifty basis, and it would not be surprising if Salem under its new policy will agree eventually to the long term contract.

Reports that the Beverly high school is on the point of drawing out of the North Shore League are not received seriously by members of the local athletic board. It is pointed out that on the occasion of the recent meeting of the league held in Lynn in January, the matter of contemplated withdrawals was discussed and the request was made that school representatives make known at that time any intentions in that direction. There was no indications of any withdrawals.

Withdrawal by Beverly or any other school at this time would demoralize the league temporarily, and necessitates a great deal of extra work in arranging an entirely new schedule in football for the coming year, as the 1922 schedule is practically ready for presentation to the league. A league meeting will be held in the near future to discuss the football program.

The long term football contract which the Peabody high school athletic board is said to favor, grows out of the arrangements perfect near the close of last season, in the agreement reached between the local board and the Charleston (South Carolina) high school for three games to be played in alternating cities.

It is expected that the Peabody and Salem high school managements will agree upon October 21 for the annual contest between the football teams of the two cities.

HAD NO TASTE FOR KILLING

Lincoln Never Was a Hunter In the Sense That the Word Is Generally Used.

"In all the work Abraham took his part," says Ida M. Tarbell in her "Boy Scouts' Life of Lincoln" in Boys' Life. "The ax was put into his hands as soon as they arrived in Indiana, and he was so strong and so willing that he was soon able to swing it with skill. It was only from hunting that he held back. Just before he was eight years old he shot his first turkey—and it was his last. He never shot deer or bear, though he always took part in guarding family and neighbor when there was danger from prowling wolves.

"But if Lincoln did not kill, he did know how to skin and butcher animals. Curing and tanning the hides of the animals they took was almost as important to the family as the meat."

Girls Basketball

The high school girl candidates for places on the girls' basketball teams are pleased to learn that the high school gymnasium is fast nearing completion. The staining and painting of the floor was finished last week, and the sliding partition which takes the place of a curtain on the stage will be placed in position within the next few days. The placing of the partition is declared to be one of the final duties of the contractors.

ADVERTISING HELPS CREDIT

There is one way by which a business man's credit is improved, and that is by a policy of consistent advertising. Bank men believe in advertising, for they know it pays. Their feeling, therefore, is that when a merchant who is a good advertiser applies for a loan, that a reasonable amount of goods, bought by him on credit, is likely to be turned over quickly and promptly paid for, on account of his methods of keeping his goods constantly before the public. The banker would have confidence that the goods would be disposed of and turned into cash before they got out of date or shop-worn.

Discriminating buyers of every class know they can get fresh goods from the store that advertises. The merchant who advertises seldom has shop-worn goods. And in that way advertising helps the merchant's credit not only with the banks but with his customers. And one is just as important as the other.—Yuba City (Calif.)

LEATHER PLANTS TAKE ON GREATER ACTIVITY IN NEW SPECIALTIES

(By ENERGY)

I am here to tell you that the leather business is on the mend. I have taken pains of late to inquire of many of the leading tanners hereabouts what is what, and they tell me that the business is better, for they are getting and shipping orders daily in far greater volume than for many moons. They tell me while the business is far from rushing, and that many orders are countermanded, there still remains good business enough to warrant increases in many departments. One of the most pessimistic of the group, one who has seen the world going to rack and ruin, now tells me his concern is getting orders of the size that makes one smile, and while he did not declare the world would not come to an end, he agreed we should have to put it off this year anyway.

No doubt many leather manufacturers who stick to one line are still having their troubles. It always happens in ordinary times that some lines of leather do not sell. When prices are such as to substitute other leather for this certain kind then comes the dullness in that special line. I have said many times a tanner must have more than one line, or always take the chance of having dull spells. I do know of some Peabody tanners who have specialized in one leather only. They may be able to keep in the procession, but there are times in each year when the going is bad. So I presume if interviewed one would get the impression business is rotten.

I continually dwell on the prices of shoes. Why not? After all, only the prices of shoes interests the people from a purchasing point. We of Peabody want leather to sell, but leather must sell when shoes are doing likewise. Now shoe prices are on the tobogan, and all are glad of it, except perhaps those fellows who are getting big profits on the high prices. One of the most interesting stories I have heard about shoes came from a salesman who visits a certain factory in Brooklyn frequently. This shoe concern has retail stores in greater New York. They sell their shoes in these stores by supplying them with shoes of the same quality, which, in this case, happens to be a superior quality. One store on Broadway, a certain grade shoe sells for $7.85. The same shoe in another store on Fifth avenue sells for $12.00. When asked why he could not be classed as a profiteer the answer was decidely no. The rent of the Broadway store is $17,000 a year (local merchants take notice). The Fifth avenue store paid a rent of $42,000 a year, (more notice). In order to pay this enormous rent profits must be large enough. Now when one stops in sober earnest and reflects, he or she, probably she, for she does more figuring on such matters, or did before the war, prohibition and extravagance, it is clear enough that overhead, which includes rents and the thousand natural shocks that business is heir to, has much to do with costs. This overhead during the war mounted as an aeroplane, and to get away from it now is one of the great nightmares of business. No matter what may be the feelings of all of us, the unnecesasry cost to produce necessities must be eliminated. We must get back so that only those who earn their money shall be considered a necessity. When I say earn their money, many no doubt will take exception as to who does earn his or her money.

We are living in a great world, the best country, and while as a city we owe a million or two, one satisfaction is that we have plenty of company with other municipalities in the same box. We shall continue to paddle and gain the shore of success. If Peabody must compete with other tanning centers as to cost of production, there is only one way out and that is compete. I hope and trust that we will not find ourselves in the same predicament as is Lynn and Haverhill, and see our business go elsewhere.

The Peabody Leather Co.'s plant will no doubt pass into other hands if it is not already the case. Efforts of at least two other industries to locate here will no doubt lead to success, and if so it will be one of the best things that has happened to Peabody for years. That old saying too many eggs in one basket still holds true, and if a lamp or clock concern locate here, it means skilled mechanics, and that means brains. I have always been a great believer in adding other industries to Peabody. I believe an effort in the right direction to get shoe factories to locate in South Peabody would mean a boom in that section. Some day it will materialize, for the right man will come along equipped to do the trick.

I have seen this week better leather than ever before in my short experience of 30 years. I do not claim to be an expert, but I claim to know what seems to me to be quality. These dull times have served to bring about an era of effort which will lead to a far better leather than during the war. In making this statement I refer to calf and side leather. Sheep leather has been gradually improved for some years. I think more so than has side or calf leather. No doubt this improvement is general throughout the trade. But being interested in our Peabody product, it is with much satisfaction I note the change for the better. The good work is not over, and one can look for more improvement. Most of this advance has been in the beamhouse and tanning. Not a question of better labor, but chemical tanning allows for such radical departures that changes are going on for the benefit of the leather. Chemists are now one of the important factors in making leather, the better the chemist the better the leather, generally speaking.

BIG PLAYGROUND SEASON PLANNED

Chairman Henry A. King of the park commission is already mapping his plans for next summer's playground season. That will be cheerful news for the Peabody kiddies.

Mr. King wants to know what they are doing to make life pleasant for the boys and girls in other cities, and to that end he has prepared a questionaire which will be sent out under the signature of Mayor Shea, to cities and towns in parts of New England.

Through the questionaire Mr. King hopes to gather much interesting data as to costs of maintenance, methods, equipment and most of all the program of events.

This plan seems likely to furnish many interesting ideas for the conduct of the 10 Peabody playgrounds during the coming season.

CITY ECONOMY

Announcement this week by Mayor Shea that a rigid retrenchment policy will guide him in his budget soon to be presented to the City Council will meet with approbation on the part of the taxpayers. His decision not to favor any unusual appropriation for any department shows that he means to adhere strictly to his program of economy in City Hall for the balance of this year. This means that the proposed new fire ladder truck for the fire department will be tabled for 1922. His proposed flat cut of ten per cent. in all city salaries will make him unpopular with the city employes, but will find overwhelming support on the part of the small home owner and large taxpayer as well. The Mayor by this stroke puts his case in the hands of the people. They will applaud any program of economy which will keep the tax rate from soaring beyond bounds. For every city employe who is disgruntled at the cut in wages there are a score or more aspirants for his job. It is, however, entirely probable that every city employe will accept gracefully the cut which is made without exception, thereby favoring none as against the whole number of municipal employes. The new ladder truck cannot be purchased for less than $15,000. There is no place for a second hand fire apparatus in our department and purchase of any such instrument would be false economy. The general equipment of sprinklers in the great majority of factories renders the need of a ladder truck less urgent. If longer ladders are required to fight fires an emergency call to Salem would provide this need. Peabody must do away with new street construction for 1922. It must get along with Ford cars instead of higher priced automobiles and a strict adherence to economy must be practiced by the head of every department if the Mayor's program of retrenchment is to bring relief to our taxpayers. The burden of bonded indebtedness by which Peabody has built excellent thoroughfares and new schoolhouses practically uses up one-half of the entire tax revenue of the city. We believe that Mayor Shea will be generally commended for his determination to lessen the burden on the taxpayers this year.

CITY SHOULD OPERATE

The suggestion is made and we feel with some license that the city might well assume direction of the Community House as a municipal recreation center for the benefit of the citizens and the Young Americas of Peabody. To accomplish this the present corporation would have to convey title to the city and the legislature would have to give consent to the city operating the civic house by a bill which would probably place the appointing of Trustees in the hands of the Mayor. The closing of the Community House last December was a calamity, causing as it did keen sorrow among hundreds of boys and girls who get real good and comfort in attending the various classes and using the gymnasium facilities. The happiness of our children is rightly the deep concern of our municipal government. Other cities maintain similar institutions with excellent results. With the low ebb of our city finances today this is not the year to advocate any new expenditure of public funds but the suggestion that the city operate the Community House is not without merit and perhaps sometime in the future proper action looking to municipal management may be forthcoming.

GAS OFFICE HERE

Decision on the part of the Salem Gas Light Co. to open a Peabody branch office which will give a closer attention to the gas service in this city should find citizens in hearty accord. The corporation has taken a lease of the corner store at Little's Lane on Main street, opposite the Peabody Institute and will equip it to handle all kinds of service for Peabody consumers. The attitude of the gas company is to reduce its price of gas at the earliest possible moment and at the conference held this week it was agreed that with a yearly contract signed for coal supply another conference may result in cheaper gas being given. The branch office of the corporation will be of convenience to the local consumers and a more friendly relation is bound to manifest itself between the public and the gas company.

Supreme Church Architecture.

The Church of St. Peter, considered as the quintessence of church architecture, was completed in its present form early in the Seventeenth century, but it is said to have been originally founded by Emperor Constantine, at the behest of Pope Sylvester I. back in the Fourth century. The dome of the edifice, which has been the cynosure of thousands of pilgrims and tourists, was designed by Michelangelo.

WHY—

DO OUR EYES "SPARKLE" WHEN WE ARE HAPPY?

THE term "sparkling," as generally employed, is equivalent to "bright" or "glistening" and the latter synonym provides the key to the question as to why people's eyes sparkle when they are merry.

There is some nervous reaction between the feeling of merriment or joy which makes one's eyelids move up and down more rapidly than usual. This movement of the eyelid causes a tiny drop of tear-liquid to spread over the ball of the eye, precisely what occurs every time we wink, thus washing the eyeball clean and leaving upon it a film of moisture which naturally glistens or sparkles in the light. The statement that a person's "eyes sparkle" is, therefore, not strictly true. It is not the eye, but the coating of liquid over it, which causes the reflection of light and produces the impression of brightness.

There will be doubting Thomases to this paragraph, but it's worth printing: Last Friday morning workmen of the Electric Light plant were engaged in thawing out frozen water pipes near Bartholomew Grove, South Peabody. There were 17 inches of ice on the pond nearby and the mercury was below freezing, but the workmen declare they had to fight a swarm of mosquitoes while they labored to thaw the water pipes. Here was a perfectly good front page story for the Boston papers that may yet find itself recorded by the metropolitan press under date line of Danville, Conn.

Among the prized exhibits at Leonard Pickering's home on Locust street, Danvers, is an angora goat that has a penchant for eating paper. Some time ago "Len" was entertaining some visitors and the goateed exhibit made his appearance. The party fell to discussing goats and what they would and would not eat. This one eats paper with the gusto of eating sweet grass, so announced the host. One of the callers doubted. So "Len" suggested a five dollar bill be shown to the goat. The doubting Thomas produced and offered it to the animal. In a minute it was chewed to pieces and quickly swallowed by Mr. Goat.

He was for some years with the B. N. Moore & Sons in this city.

While in Washington, D. C., last week Tuesday, Alvah J. Kelley witnessed several rescues from the Theatre ruins. Mr. Kelley saw a man removed uninjured, who said he heard the creaking of the building before it collapsed and crouched under a seat where he had been ever since the collapse of the building. He also saw two children aged ten and twelve rescued who were asleep when found, and they proved to be brother and sister and had attended the theatre without their parents.

Elmer and Edward Durkee, foremost citizens of West Peabody, had to hike five miles to their home late one night this week as a result of a joke or misunderstanding. They had been in company with Walter Southwick and Ernest Leach, two other leading lights of the west district, and the party had driven down in a trusty Henry. Following the evening at candle pins, the quartet started for home. Leaving the alleys the Durkee brothers elected to have a bite to eat while the other two men took possession of the auto and went off, leaving the brothers behind. It was after 1 o'clock when the travelers reached upper Goodale street.

Peculiar Currency.

Cowdry shells are still used as money in the East Indies, Siam, and on the west coast of Africa, at the rate of one-two hundredth of a penny each. The teeth of the sperm whales are used as money in Fiji, the white ones being of greater value than the colored variety; while among the South Sea islands red feathers and attractive kinds of stones pass muster as currency.

Set Your Own Goal.

It's better to attempt and fail than have no failures to your credit. If you're afraid of the public estimate you can play the little game with your ideals. Set a goal and rate yourself on the percentage of success attained. It will spur you to greater effort and the public will never know how far short you often fall of attaining your own ideal.—Grit.

First Death Among Pilgrims.

The first death among the Pilgrims after their arrival on the coast of America was that of Mrs. William Bradford, wife of the later governor of the Plymouth colony. Before a site had been selected for a settlement and while the Mayflower was yet riding at anchor in Cape Cod bay, Mrs. Bradford fell into the sea and was drowned.

South Peabody

Ye Olde Folks' concert was given at the Second Congregational church Tuesday evening before a large audience. The chorus numbered around 30 and the singing was all well done. The program lasted over two hours and the costumes were varied, some being dainty, while others were picturesque. The concert was divided into four parts. The first part consisted of old southern melodies, including Swanee River, Dixie and Old Black Joe by the chorus, Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground by a male quartette, and Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny by a ladies' quartette. There was an interlude here with two original acts which were well received. Songs of '61 followed, including Tenting on the Old Camp Ground, Marching Through Georgia, Maryland and Battle Cry of Freedom. The second part of the concert took in the songs of the World war, starting with Over There and Oh, How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Annis sang Till We Meet Again and Lottie Brown sang as a solo The Long Trail. Miss Pauline Bakeman sang Learn to Smile and this part closed with a melody of the choruses of World far favorites. The third part consisted of general favorite songs—Juanita, Love's Sweet Song and Cousin Jurediah were sung by the chorus. Vocal duet, Whispering Hope, by Miss Agnes Jordan and Howard Gregson; solo, Daddy Long Legs, by Miss Blanche Barrowclough.

The fourth part took in some favorites of other countries. The chorus sung Auld Lang Syne, Marseillaise, Home Sweet Home; solo, Jonathan Brown; duet, Sister Ruth, by Mrs. Lizzie Eade and John Barrowclough; solo, Coming Thru the Rye, Miss Irene Kelly; duet, Santa Lucia, Misses Dora and Agnes Jordan; solo, Annie Laurie, John Barrowclough.

The program closed by singing Yankee Doodle and Star Spangled Banner. Due credit should be given Miss Beatrice Keith, who has been most faithful in her undertaking, also Miss Marion Newhall, who was the accompanist for the evening. Ice cream was on sale and proceeds of the concert will be given to the Ladies' Aid Society.

The Sewso Club met with Mrs. Esther Walker Monday evening. Next week a valentine and covered dish party will be held at the home of Miss Marion Newhall, County street.

The Bosco Club held their social at the church Monday evening. "Chick" Davies of baseball fame was the center of attraction. Carl Ricker played a cornet solo. Harold Gregson gave vocal solos and an orchestra furnished music. Ice cream and cake were served.

The grippe seems to be the prevailing sickness this week. Mrs. Robert Bakeman and Mrs. Harry Moore of Maple street are ill at present. Mrs. Henry Shaw of Brown street is also sick with the same disease.

Mrs. C. E. Holden is sick with grippe and muscular rheumatism.

Mrs. Elizabeth Batchelder, who has had pneumonia, is improving.

Another case of scarlet fever has been reported. Miss Alma Little of Brown street has contracted the disease.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Moore of Lynn are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of twin boys, born Tuesday morning. Mr. Moore is a former South Peabody boy, living on Bartholomew street all his life until his marriage.

Harold Newhall of Lynn street had an operation performed on his nose at the Thomas hospital yesterday by Dr. G. W. Ewing.

A baked bean supper was served at the Lake Shore Park church last Saturday under the auspices of the Epworth League.

Ladies' Aid Society of the Lake Shore Park church met with Mrs. Lillian Winslow yesterday afternoon.

The Neighborhood Club entertained the members of the B. I. A. at Davis' hall on Tuesday evening. A covered dish supper was served by the ladies.

Fred P. Batchelder of Lynn street started on jury duty Wednesday at the U. S. district court in Boston.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Second Congregational church held their supper and monthly meeting Wednesday evening. The president of the society was unable to be present on account of illness. Supper was served by the following committee: Mrs. Jennie Broughton, Mrs. Emma Barnard, Mrs. Annie Parker, Mrs. Elizabeth Brehaut, Mrs. Meade Davis and Mrs. Susie LeCain.

The regular monthly meeting of the Mothers'-Teachers' Association of the South school will be held next Tuesday evening, Feb. 14, at the school. The committee in charge of the entertainment have arranged a special program and have been successful in securing some of our best local talent. Miss Agnes Jordan, violinist, will give selections, accompanied by Miss Beatrice Keith, who will also render musical recitations. Miss Mildred Ricker, soprano soloist, will render vocal selections and the Peabody Grange quartette will sing.

Mrs. Mabel Wood of New York City gave a very interesting talk at the Second Congregational church last Sunday evening. She spent eight months in China making observations and she had some interesting experiences.

At a meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary held Tuesday evening it was voted to hold a valentine costume party on Monday evening, Feb. 13. A hustling committee consisting of Mrs. Sarah Mulcahy, chairman, Mrs. Teresa Broderick, Mrs. Sarah Murphy and Mrs. Veta Brown, has been elected to take charge. They are out to make this party just as successful as the poppy ball held a short time ago. Prizes are offered for the most original, the funniest and the prettiest costumes. Already a great many members and non-members have signified their intention of taking part in the march and competing for a prize.

A feature of the evening will be the "Mystery lady." She has promised the committee that she will positively appear, and she will have to be seen to be appreciated. Refreshments will be served, and dancing will be in order until midnight. No tickets will be sold, but an admission fee will be charged at the door.

The Unit is making plans for a visit to the ex-service men in the Danvers hospital early in March, and later in the month they will visit the Middleton hospital. As the number of ex-service men in the Danvers hospital has now increased to fifty-two, the co-operation of every member and every one eligible for membership is needed.

A welfare committee for the year has been appointed. It is their duty to visit the various hospitals in Essex County and to bring comforts to the ex-service men confined there. The committee consists of Mrs. Helen L. Bomer, Mrs. Mary Carbrey, Mrs. Mary Masterson, Mrs. Veta Brown, Mrs. Margaret O'Connor, Mrs. Sarah Murphy, Mrs. Teresa Broderick, Mrs. P. H. McDonald and Mrs. Sarah Mulcahy.

More than 60,000 applications for adjusted compensation have been filed by ex-service men in Ohio, according to the American Legion, which is distributing necessary blanks throughout the state.

The American Federation of Labor favors the adjusted compensation bill for ex-soldiers, Daniel J. Tobin, treasurer of the Federation, has informed the American Legion. But it does not favor a sales tax as a means of raising the money.

Questionnaires sent out by Kansas posts of the American Legion show that but 35 per cent. of the state's ex-service men would elect the cash payment provision of the five-option adjusted compensation (bonus) bill. More than 43 pe rcent. declared for paid up insurance, with farm and home aid a second best bet.

E. C. Sheppard, wounded ex-soldier, began his honeymoon in New York City. He awoke while wandering the streets of Rochester, N. Y., unable to recall his name or where he had left his bride. He is now in a hospital where the American Legion is caring for him. His lapse of memory is believed due to war injuries.

Four hundred business men of South Bend, Ind., voted unanimous support of the adjusted compensation bill, following a speech by Hanford MacNider, commander of the American Legion.

Get Rich Quick Wallingford Strand Headliner On Monday

Wallace Reid, winner of more popularity contests than any star in the world, will be seen at the Strand today and Saturday in his production entitled "The Hell Diggers." The name is one applied to dredgemen because of their work in dredging the land to bring the concealed gold to the surface. The story is built around a fued in which the farmers and a great dredging corporation are the antagonists. There is action, adventure and romance in abundance, and every scene packs a punch from start to finish.

Sam Hardy and Village Types in the Paramount Picture "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" A Cosmopolitan Production

Wallace Reid has appeared in many fast-moving screen dramas alerady, but as Teddy Darmon, construction engineer, he outdoes all his former efforts. His sweetheart, played by Lois Wilson, one of the most beautiful girls in shadowland, is shown as the daughter of one of the wealthy farmers. Her father is the leader of the ring who attempts to have the young engineer removed from the scene of his endeavors. How Mr. Reid in the end proves that he is a friend and not a foe of his farmer adversaries and how he triumphs in love as well as in business furnishes an hour of especially fine entertainment. A comedy film and Eddie Polo in a smashing chapter of the "Secret Four" round out the bill for today.

Clara Kimball Young in "Straight from Paris" will be the main attraction on the double bill for Sunday evening. Miss Young always delights in a role which permits her to appear as a society woman with innumerable pretty gowns. Madge Kennedy in "Oh, Mary Be Careful," will be the second feature for Sunday evening.

The adventures of that inimitable pair—J. Rufus Wallingford and 'Blackie" Daw, as slick a pair of crooks as ever beat a board bill, will be disclosed in "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," a Paramount special feature, which will be shown at the local playhouse in Monday and Tuesday. The picture is an adaption of the famous stage play by George M. Cohan.

"Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" shows the good fortune that befell Wallingford and Daw in the little town of Battlesburg into which they had wandered with the intention of "cleaning up." On their arrival in Battlesburg the two decide it will be easy picking. Their persuasive powers wins almost instant success and the wealthy men of the town freely invest in their wildcat schemes. They prepare to depart with their share of the loot but Cupid butts in and they find themselves unable to leave two pretty girls.

The role of Wallingford is played by Sam Hardy. Norman Kerry makes a suave "Blackie" Daw, and Doris Kenyon is the pretty secretary who helps win Wallingford over to honesty, then later becomes his bride. A Toonerville comedy and the Weekly will be the other numbers on the bill for Monday.

SALOON KEEPER'S BULLET IN BODY

Dr. Louis Albert Banks of Boston, one of the country's foremost orators in behalf of prohibition for the past 25 years, will deliver an address at the South Congregational church Sunday evening, Feb. 19, in the interest of law enforcement and world-wide prohibition. He believes the fight against alcoholism will see the entire world "dry" by 1930. Peabody churches will unite in a community mass meeting to hear Dr. Banks.

He is the author of more volumes of sermons and addresses than any man now living. His sixty-seventh volume has just gone to the publishers.

DR. LOUIS A. BANKS

He carries the scar of a saloonkeeper's bullet in his body that is forty years old. He has campaigned for prohibition in every state. He was a big factor in the achievement of national constitutional prohibition. He will be an equally big factor in securing nation-wide enforcement of prohibition. Dr. Banks is an orator of the mighty aggressive and convincing type. His volleys of logic fairly make the champions of liquor "tremble in their boots."

REBEKAH LODGE

Starlight Rebekah Lodge will hold its next regular meeting Monday, the thirteenth. After the meeting there will be a valentine party. The Sewing Circle will meet at 2.30 Monday.

The Ash.

The ash has been less noticed for its autumnal foliage than it deserves. The richest shades of plum-color to be seen—becoming by and by, or in certain lights, a deep maroon—are afforded by this tree. Then at a distance there seems to be a sort of bloom on it, as upon the grape or plum.—John Burroughs.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

LOYALTY

During the war we heard a good deal about loyalty. Everybody talked about loyalty to our country, our flag, our boys at the front, our job, for in that job we were "doing our bit."

Today we have a new idea of loyalty because of that war experience. It means more to us than it ever did before. We know what loyalty to the cause means; loyalty to the firm; to our own ball team; to our own city; to the boys who are working with us.

We believe in them. We are beginning to lose that feeling of hate and fear and suspicion and distrust which was caused by the brutality of our war effort. We are learning that the people associated with us are loyal in their service and are working together. We are finding out that we are happier whenever we get that idea right down to the foundation of our life.

There are too many of us who think that doing the work we are paid to do is all that is expected of us. We are forever criticising orders, kicking about the management, beating the anvil, all the time sowing seeds of discontent. Then we wonder why we don't get along in the world. It is because we are not loyal.

The people who are doing that sort of thing, no matter what position they hold, are preparing for a down hill slide as sure as fate. Employers, managers, workers, salesmen, mechanics, laborers, every one of us must think about his individual loyalty if we want to do our part in the readjustment and return of our prosperity.

We are standing today as the foremost nation of the world. All other countries are looking to us. Shall we stay there? Are we loyal? Everyone of us?

Are the managers loyal to the boys? Do they believe in the boys? Are they loyal to the employes who are working together the best they know how for the interest of the establishment—for the goodwill of the firm? Not working as well as they will, for ideas and methods are changing pretty rapidly in these days of "getting back to normalcy."

Management is all the time changing methods; constantly giving opportunity to men and women to improve themselves; trying to point the way to better working conditions; making all sorts of experiments; often making mistakes, but on the whole leading men and women toward better and higher lives.

Are the managers so intent upon new methods and machinery that hey seem at times to forget the great big, human body of progressive souls, striving, struggling, wondering about life and the future? Are the managers loyal to the boys?

Yes, they are. Thank God they are, even if they let their feet slip once in a while. Even in their mistakes they are at heart loyal to the boys.

And do the boys appreciate this? Do they realize the cares and worries of the managers? Or, do they criticise every mistake; kick and grouse and condemn the policy of the establishment; join the anvil chorus? Do they? Do you, son? Well, not very often; but whenever you do, you throw a handful of sand into the gears and just so much you hold back the progress of the whole establishment.

By just so much. Only by a little have you darkened the spirit of the man working next to you and held him back from the full happiness of his full day. Only a little and it doesn't count much, but you did it; you, too, have lost by just that little the full happiness of your full day.

But, again, thank God for the loyalty of the boys. They also make their mistakes but right down in their hearts they are loyal. They must not be criticised and condemned too strongly for their mistakes; they don't make any more than other people.

They proved this during the war that is passed and now that they are home again they are trying to settle down to work. They are thinking more than they ever did before; thinking of the future progress that is being made in industry today; fitting themselves into that progress and considering the tremendous responsibility of this country right now in setting an example of loyalty and co-operating to the rest of the world. No one knows how much the world needs such an example better than the boys who have been across the sea.

Yes, we are setting an example of service. It is a wonderful event,—this conference at Washington. No other country could have done what our government has just done. Its effect is seen at once. European exchange advanced immediately; the English pound is worth more than at any time since the armistice. Other foreign monies the same. As money is easier in circulation trade will grow easier; we can exchange our goods easier. Business is slowly but surely improving and will so continue unless we stub our toe and fall back into the game of "every man for himself." We can prevent this by constantly thinking of our watchwords, "Loyalty and Co-operation."

Playlot Leaders To Pass Exams

Playground instructors before becoming eligible for assignment to positions next season will be obliged to pass civil service examinations, according to an announcement made by Henry A. King, chairman of the park commission. It is expected that fifteen appointments will be made in carrying out the playground program during the coming summer season, and it is therefore important that prospective candidates communicate at once with the Department of Civil Service at the State House to obtain the necessary application blanks and examination dates. Several applications for positions as instructors have already been filed with the park commission.

A First-Class American Mother Who Is a Native of Italy

She Tells How She Keeps Her Boys At The Head Of Their Classes During the Winter

Mrs. Mary Zoboli is a native of Italy and true to the motherland in many ways, and yet she is a thorough-going American, and proud of her American-born sons. She resides at No. 4 Carleton Street, Cambridge, Mass. Like all mothers, she experiences the sorrows and troubles that come from having her children afflicted with colds, sore throat and so on. She has two fine boys, and she says:

"My boys used to lose a good deal of time in bad weather from coughs and colds that made them unfit for school, from which they suffered greatly, and of course I suffered with them.

"A couple of years ago I was told about Cerizane, and it certainly is the greatest cough balsam ever made. Ever since I learned of it, I have given it to my boys whenever they have any form of cold. It loosens hoarseness right up, allows them to raise the phlegm that seems to choke them, and I may truthfully say that Cerizane really keeps my boys at the head of their class in school.

"I have also used it myself very successfully, and recommend it to any one suffering from any form of coughs, colds, pain in chest, or headaches from colds."

All progressive druggists sell Cerizane.

Useful Birds.

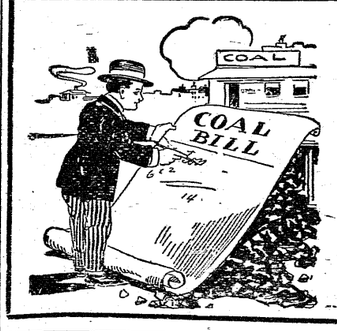
The two kinglets, the golden-crowned and the ruby-crowned, the smallest of our birds with the exception of the hummingbirds, are common during the spring migration, says the American Forestry Magazine, and flit about the trees prying into every nook in search of insects.

"Given the Sack"

In olden days mechanics used to carry their tools in a sack so that when they were discharged they were first given the sack and told to go elsewhere. Hence has sprung the familiar phrase "to sack," meaning to discharge, or, as we would put it, to fire."

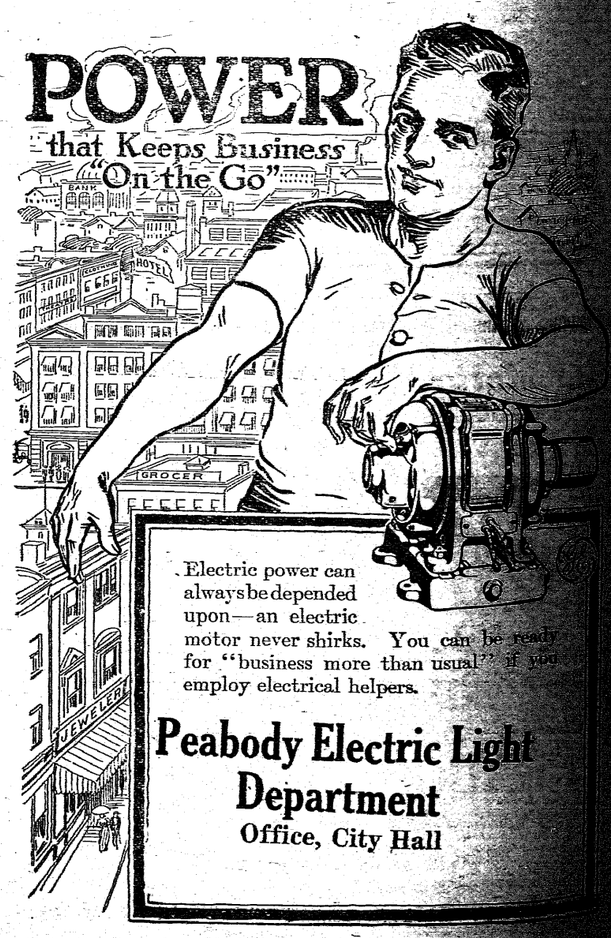
Wanted

For our new Peabody office which will be opened April 1st, a representative with the following qualifications:



Good selling experience.
Good appearance.
Ability to meet the public.
An honest hustler.

We would prefer to use a Peabody man for this position but he must meet the qualifications.



Send a complete statement of your qualifications, salary expected, etc. to the manager. Personal interview will be granted only after written application has been made.

YOUR TEETH

By Rea Proctor McGee, D.D.S., M.D., Editor "Oral Hygiene"

IRREGULAR TEETH

When the teeth come into their natural position in the mouth there is seldom any disturbance during the process of eruption.

Teeth that are irregular require much more effort on the part of nature than those that are normal.

It is like the ninety and nine that went not astray. The good sheep caused no trouble and walked right into the fold, but the one irregular one kept the shepherd out all night in the wet when he should have been asleep.

One of the causes of irregularity in the teeth is the uneven developemnt of the jaw bones themselves due to the effect of childhood's fevers and to abscesses or too early loss or too long retention of temporary teeth.

The density or hardness of the jaw bones is produced by the orderly laying down of lime salts; any inflammation may cause this.

More than usual resistance to the movement of an erupting tooth through the bone will cause the tooth either to choose the route of least resistance or to give up hope and become impacted, that is, not to erupt at all.

Whenever the teeth of a child are irregular that child suffers not only from lack of proper mastication and appearance and form of the mouth and face, but actually from a very considerable backward pressure of blood from the region of the jaws.

This causes adenoids and congestion of the membranes of the nose and in a great many instances nervous conditions that interfere with the disposition and development of the child. Irregular teeth should be straightened at the first opportunity.

West Peabody

The senior Christian Endeavor will meet Sunday at the usual hour. This meeting is to be a consecration meeting. Howard Johnson is in charge of the meeting. His subject will be "Better Purposes," Num. 14:20-24. This is "Decision day."

There was an attendance of about 100 at the meeting last Sunday and it was a very lively meeting. Interesting talks were given by Mrs. H. W. Rankin, Mrs. Leroy Foster, Mrs. Roy Condon, Miss Mabelle Leach, Miss Audrey MacDonald, Raymond Burlingham, Curtis Rankin, Howard Johnson, Everett White, Rev. Natt Scott and Mr. Day of Salem. Every one present enjoyed themselves and it is hoped that as many will turn out this week. Come! All young people invited.

A fine meeting is anticipated at the Junior Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday afternoon. Miss Nancy Mackie is the leader. Her subject will be "How Can the Juniors Follow Christ?"

The Ta-ta-pochon Camp Fire will meet with Miss Dorothy Danforth at her home on Lowell street this evening (Friday) at 7.30.

At the patriotic meeting of the West Peabody Grange, next week Friday, the cash prizes will be awarded those pupils of the West school who have won the first, second and third prizes in the essay contest upon "The Life of George Washington." Some stereopticon slides of the Life of Washington will be shown.

The West Peabody Christian Endeavor had by far the largest number of delegates, which was nineteen, at the alumni reunion, at the First Baptist church, Beverly, last Monday night. Messrs. Durkee, Mosher, White and Mrs. Phillips kindly loaned the use of their cars.

Firemen For Motorcycle To Rush Chemical

The suggestion that the Peabody fire department adopt the motorcycle as part of its equipment, in responding to still alarms, is being discussed in fire circles. The proposal that a motorcycle equipped with a side car and chemical tank attachment, be used in place of the present combination wagon, in answering still alarms, is held to have several favorable features. It is recommended particularly from an economical standpoint. It would save wear and tear on the much more expensive combination truck, say firemen, and at the same time would be capable of greater speed, especially on long runs. Fire department records show that in the great majority of still alarm fires, the flames are extinguished with a single pony chemical. On such occasions there is seldom need of more than two firemen, who could be carried on a motorcycle. The time lost in sounding a bell alarm when occasion warranted would not be as great.

Why are firemen obliged to wear uniforms on all occasions when on duty?

There doesn't seem to be any substantial reason other than custom, and from the fireman's standpoint it is looked upon in most cases as a rather expensive custom. Two suits are necessary at all times, one for working clothes and the other for dress occasions. Then there is the rubber uniform and helmet that is worn in responding to alarms.

In the old days before the eighteenth amendment became operative, it was said that the uniform was adopted to keep public servants from refreshment emporiums, but if the uniform was inaugurated for this purpose elsewhere, the excuse is now removed.

Drivers George B. Emerson and John W. Costello are trying out a pair of new horses on the East End apparatus, for which the city will expend $600. When the selection is made the new team will replace the pair of mismated animals that have been attached to the kit for some time past. The change will undoubtedly add to the efficiency of the department in this section of the city.

The firemen are making elaborate arrangements for their annual ball which will be held on the eve of Bunker Hill day, April 18.

Jews Discuss Raising Cash For Sufferers

More than 300 of the leading Jews of Essex County will gather at Lynn Sunday evening to determine how this county can best answer the nation-wide appeal of the American Jewish Relief Committee for $14,000,000 to aid the starving and destitute Jews in Eastern Europe. The meeting will be held in the Lynn W. M. H. A. hall.

Fred Ruslander of Pittsburgh, director of the New England Jewish Relief Campaign, will be the principal speaker and other Jews of national prominence are expected to attend and present facts upon which the appeal was based. There will be present eye witnesses of the widespread and actual destitution and suffering which afflicts huge areas of the war and famine-stricken countries of Eastern and Central Europe, men who have shared in the privations and who know from sad experience whereof they speak. Attorney E. A. Hershenson and Max Korn will represent Peabody.

CUT FOR CITY SALARIES

is opposed to the city adding a new fire ladder truck this year.

Mayor Shea's efforts to get the municipal garage under the wing of the police department by ordinance was the biggest thing before the City Council last night, and on the plea that more information as to the cost of the "white elephant" since last October when it was first closed down, the Council delayed action for two weeks to permit of the city auditor giving some figures.

The Council adopted a resolve asking the Park Commissioners to stop any more dumping on the Eastend playground.

John E. Doherty of 27 Elm street and John H. Chadder of 24 King street were drawn for jury duty at Salem next Monday.

A coffee house license was revoked at 66 Walnut street, where a raid was made Jan. 28, and convictions for gaming obtained in the court. Chief Grady asked to have the license revoked. Councillor Duggan argued revocation and suggested that no more licenses be issued to any building where convictions had been made. Councillor Jones opposed this on the ground that the property owners were thus discriminated against and finally the Council voted a unit to revoke.

A letter from Mayor Leonard of Springfield calling on Peabody city government to oppose several bills in the legislature was turned over to the committee. One of the bills would give the cities some of the revenue from motor registrations. Bills relating to school board powers to expend money and one affecting civil service employes was included in the list.

Councillor Barnes, chairman of the legislative committee, read a letter from the Salem Gas Co. in which the corporation told why it could not reduce the price at this time. The letter follows:

Less than a year ago the first conference for the period of at least ten years between the city officials and the Gas Company officials on the matter of a price reduction was held. At that time the company felt that it was a step in advance and hoped that the difficulties between the two groups would be handled in the same way in the future. It is, therefore, very welcome to us that we have the opportunity to talk with the committee on the reduction of the price of gas at this time.

While we may not be able to give information which would be most gladly received, we will at least be frank and lay our cards face up on the table.

As a result of the conference which was held last March and the reduction in the price of raw materials to the company, the company was able to promise and to fulfill its promise of a reduction in the price of gas to the consumers, which reduction went into effect August 1, 1921. In so doing the company was one of the first companies in Massachusetts to reduce its price from the top price. The reduction of 15 cents per thousand was made for the reason that new contracts and new prices were in effect, which permitted this reduction.

At that time it was our hope that there could be a further reduction, that general prosperity would return and that there would be further decreases in costs and further increases in business. Since that time there have been two changes which affect the situation. First, the gas coal: There had been a reduction of 60 cents to 70 cents per ton on gas coal since July 1st. Second, there has been a reduction in our business of eight per cent. during the period from July 1st to December 31st, in comparison with the same period of a year ago. You can readily see that whatever we gain on the reduction on the gas coal is offset by the loss of business. This means that we sold less gas during that period than during the same period of the previous year. This brings us to the question as to whether or not we can make any reduction.

Based on the changes in price, the conditions of business, etc., we can frankly but regretfully say that we cannot see our way clear to make any reduction in the price at this time, and we are not in a position to make any promises to make a reduction in the near future, and for this reason: Our coal contarct and oil contract expires March 31st. There will be no difficulty in renewing the oil contract. There will be some doubt as to the coal contract from the standpoint of the possibility of strike taking place at the mines at that time.

It is generally understood, and a matter of common information, that there will be a strike among the miners after April 1st. If that continues for any length of time the price of coal will probably temporarily advance. Whenever the strike is settled, coal may cost less than it costs now. We have foreseen the possibility of this strike and are preparing ourselves by having sufficient stock on hand to carry us into the early part of June.

With these facts in mind it would seem that this committee could very well consider postponement of any action toward reduction of the price of gas until after this coal strike is settled and until we know what we can do.

We again reiterate our wish to work in harmony with the city government and our desire to reduce the price to the consumer just as soon as we can.

JOHN L. TUDBURY,
Vice President.

HOSPITAL WHIST

A food sale will be held in connection with the valentine whist party in aid of the J. B. Thomas hospital next Tuesday afternoon in the Council chamber, City Hall. The party promises to net a large sum for the hospital and will be one of the biggest social events of the winter season. The hall will be attractively decorated. Refreshments will be served.

MASONIC SUPPER

Jordan Lodge of Masons are extolling the praises of the Eastern Star Order of this city for the splendid banquet last Wednesday night, when a turkey supper was served to nearly 200 of the Masons by the ladies of the Peabody Chapter. Mrs. Lucy Wilson had charge of the committee and she was assisted by a large number of the Chapter members.

CHARLESTON FANS

Peabody football fans who journeyed to Charleston, S. C., last December were pleased to receive souvenirs of a banquet held in the South Carolina city Feb. 6, at which Peabody was toasted. It was an annual banquet of the football team and their menu had mention of all of their rival teams, including the Tanners. Peabody was eulogized and the fans in the South are looking forward to their game in this city next fall.

TUESDAY NIGHT CLASS

The Tuesday night class of the Peabody School of Domestic Science enjoyed one of its most interesting lessons on Tuesday night and had as their guests that evening Supt. of Schools and Mrs. Albert Robinson. A delicious planked steak supper was prepared and served by the members of the class and after full justice had been done to it by the class and their guests, Mr. Robinson was called upon for a few remarks. He said that cooking was very much like arithmetic, inasmuch as accuracy and speed were necessary to both, although accuracy was by far the more important. He paid Mrs. Petraske a high compliment as a teacher of cooking and extended an invitation to the members of the class to visit the new domestic science room at the high school, which was meeting with a great deal of favor.

Removing Ink Stains.

Iron inks are best removed by treatment with warm oxalic acid. If such treatment does not remove the stain completely it is possible that the ink has been a mixture of iron ink and an aniline dye, in which case a second treatment with javelle water is necessary.

C. C. Hills Will Stage Rotary

Charles C. Hills, dean of the newspaper reporters in Peabody and Salem, will preside at the Peabody Rotary Club meeting next Tuesday noon and he promises to deliver a highly interesting session. By a new arrangement a different member presides at every meeting this month.

The innovation started last week when T. Henry Millea, the grocer, was chairman, and ran the meeting. Mayor Denis J. Sullivan of Salem, a boyhood chum of T. Henry's, was the principal guest and speaker. Mayor Sullivan believed Rotary Clubs were blazing the way for a better understanding among the citizens of their responsibility to their community. He deplored class or racial hatred and said from what he understood of Rotary one of its high aims was to create a better friendship among men.

Handless Crack At Peabody Club

At the Peabody Club Saturday afternoon at 3, evening at 8, an exhibition of billiards will be given by George Sutton, the handless wonder, Yamada, the Jap, who played in the recent tournament for the world's championship, and George Spears, with a record of 5041 at straight rail billiards.

MRS. CASSIDY TO LEAD LEO GUILD

Mrs. Charles H. Cassidy of Sutton street was elected president of Leo Guild for the coming year at the meeting held last Monday evening in K. of C. hall. Mrs. Cassidy is sure to prove an efficient leader for this organization that does so much good throughout the city in an unostentatious manner. She is a charter member of the Guild and has always been one of its most ardent workers. She was president of the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion in this city last year.

Mrs. Cassidy succeeds Mrs. Felix Carr who has been president for the past year. Unassuming in manner, thorough in her investigation, efficient and seemingly tireless when it had to do with a needy family who required assistance, Mrs. Carr proved an ideal president and it was with a great deal of regret that the members learned she would be unable to accept a re-election.

The other officers elected for the year and who will be installed on March 6 were: vice-president, Mrs. James Rennick; treasurer, Mrs. Andrew Sheehan; financial secretary, Mrs. John Doody; recording secretary, Miss Mary L. McCarthy.

Lowell Street

Eleanor Upton of Reading spent the week-end with Elizabeth Ingraham.

Mrs. Mabelle Lambert will again be chairman of the committee to conduct the annual May festival in behalf of the Community House. This event under Mrs. Lambert's management has always proved a great source of income for the Holten street institution. The following advisory board was appointed at a meeting held this week. Monday: Mrs. George Millett, Mrs. Eaton, Miss Sadie Porter, Mrs. Clarence Barnes, Mrs. Albert Roome, Mrs. Lyman Osborn, Mrs. John Meagher, Mrs. Edith Holman, Mrs. N. W. Penniman, Sheriff Walter H. Brown took summary possession of the Martha Ann Sweets shop where the fire of last Tuesday morning occurred.

Arvilla Barnes is recovering at her home on School street from a rather serious dental operation performed by Dr. A. C. Hovey of Lynn, assisted by Dr. S. C. Tucker.

Sprague Upton of Oak street has so improved his wireless outfit that he was able to listen in on a concert sent out from Pittsburg, Pa., last Monday evening.

Mrs. Mary L. Basford of School street is confined to her home with illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Whidden leave the city today for a few weeks' sojourn at southern winter resorts.

Miss Alice Teague, teacher at Peabody high, is sick at her home.

Suits aggregating $15,000 have been entered in the civil courts as a result of the fatal automobile accident on Sunday morning, July 21st last, on Chestnut street.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Warner of Carney Point, N. J., are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel King spent the week-end at the ice carnival at Hanover, N. H.

Miss Eleanor Low has recovered from an attack of the grippe.

Robert, the young son of Stephen Stickney, principal of the Center school, is recovering from a mastoid operation recently performed at the J. B. Thomas hospital.

Mrs. Ray Macdonald entertained the Monday Night Bridge Whist Club this week.

Mrs. Samuel Poeton, who has been seriously ill at the Thomas hospital, is somewhat improved.

Thomas Ray, son of M. T. Ray, and a senior at Boston College, is one of the stars on the track team of the college. He is a middle distance runner and great things are expected of him during the winter months.

Mrs. T. H. Hurley, mother of Mrs. C. W. Barnes, had the misfortune last Saturday at the ice carnival to fall and sprain her wrist.

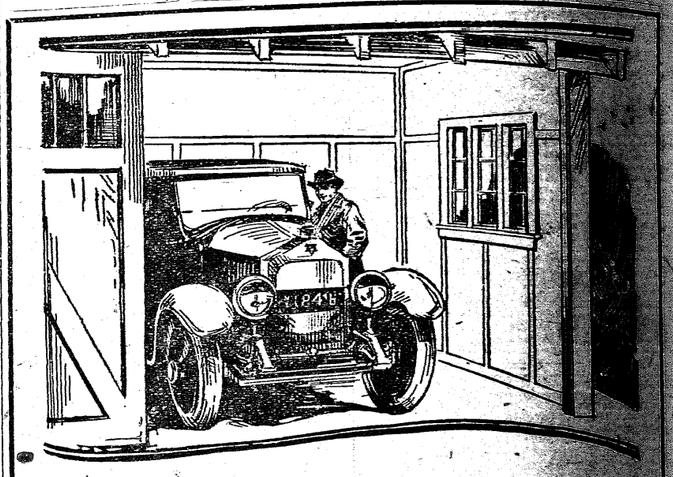
Robert Little, Allen Munroe and John Dow are recuperating from the grippe.

Capt. Osborn Palmer has recovered from an attack of the grippe.

Frank Shea of Basford's court is on the sick list this week.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Conway of King street at the Thomas hospital on February 8.

T. B. B. Club met yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Ruth White, 4 King street, and voted to hold a valentine party next Tuesday night at Miss White's home. Each member is privileged to invite one friend.



Mrs. William Irving has been confined to her home in Gardner Park this week by illness.

Keith Vaudeville Acts Will Feature Police Annual Ball

Peabody policemen will usher in Washington's birthday with their concluding waltz at their first annual concert and ball which is set for next Tuesday night in City Hall. It is going to be the banner show of the year in this city for the several vaudeville artists secured from the Keith's theatre bureau in Boston will present a high class entertainment.

Mayor Shea will lead the grand march followed by Chief Grady, President Ryan of the City Council and a long line of guests. Suitable decorations will be arranged in the hall. Potter's orchestra will furnish music for the opening number of the concert and for the dancing.

Peabody manufacturers and business men have liberally aided the police relief association members to score a success in its debut as entertainers and a souvenir program book containing pictures of the Mayor and Chief Grady, President of the Association, represents a large sum for the treasury. The sale of tickets insures one of the biggest audience ever gathered in City Hall.

John P. McBride as secretary of the association and in reality the father of the plan which resulted in the local association being organized has been aided by a zealous committee made up of all of the brother officers. Vice President Martin J. Quinlan and P. J. McHugh one of the trustees had charge of the ad book.

The officials of the ball are as follows: General Manager and floor director, Chief Michael H. Grady; Asst. Manager and floor director, Martin J. Quinlan; Aides: George E. Kingsley,

Odd Fellows Will Put On Degree Work

Several hundred visiting Odd Fellows will unite with Holten Lodge I. O. O. F. of this city on Washington's birthday to celebrate the 44th anniversary of reinstitution of the order.

Visiting Odd Fellows from all Essex County will come here for the event which is to be held under the auspices of the Holten lodge together with Bass River lodge of Beverly and Magnolia lodge of Manchester.

The ceremonies will be held in the new high school auditorium which has been provided by the school committee and the degree work which will be done by members of Holten Lodge under the direction of Dr. George L. Marshall, Past Grand Master of Somerville will be the most elaborate degree work ever attempted by the local fraternity. Dr. Marshall has been rehearsing the degree team for this event for the past five months. Some handsome scenery has been arranged for this particular occasion.

During the degree Holten lodge orchestra will play. In the evening at 7.30 p. m., in the same hall, an entertainment will be given, which will be worth while for every Odd Fellow to witness. It will be composed of selected talent from the Keith's circuit.

At six o'clock in the South church vestry a turkey supper will be served by the ladies of the South church. A few tickets can be obtained from the union degree committee up until February 18th. During the supper and evening's entertainment, music will be furnished by the South church orchestra.

WILLARD LANSING BURIED TOMORROW

News of the sudden death of Willard I. Lansing of Providence probably the best known and most popular Rotarian in New England was received in this city late yesterday. He was a former District Governor and a leading influence in the craft. Two years ago he came to Peabody as the principal speaker at a tri-city meet. The Peabody Rotary Club sent a floral piece for the funeral which is at 11 o'clock tomorrow.

WILLIAM F. SEARLE LOOKS LIKE NEW POSTMASTER

Peabody's new Postmaster will probably be designated by Presidential appointment within two weeks, following the announcement by the civil service commission of the list of three candidates. It is generally believed as from the first, that William F. Searle Republican will be the man to succeed Postmaster Dennis J. Dullea Democrat whose record of eight years in the office qualified him before the civil service board on the new list of aspirants for the appointment.

Congressman Robert S. Maloney in whose hands rests the appointment has all along been favorably inclined to recommend Angus J. MacDonald, chairman of the Republican city committee and who was a strong campaign manager for the Lawrence Congressman when other local Republicans scorned to take up his fight. The choice of candidates narrowed itself to three based on the executive experience of each man.

Mr. Searle who is 54 years old was for 25 years one of the leading newspaper editors of Essex County and at one time in the general printing business in Lynn. He is married and has a son. He has been chief of the Essex County publicity men for the G. O. P. for years. He was not an avowed candidate until pressure was brought on him to take the examination. He has been doing newspaperwork in Washington for the past year keeping his residence in Peabody. He was a visitor to Peabody yesterday but refused to discuss his chances of getting the appointment.

Harold G. Childs the third man on the list of certified candidates is assistant city collector and went overseas with the 301st F. A. He is 27 years old.

FRED P. OSBORN CRITICALLY ILL

The condition of Fred P. Osborn, old time leather manufacturer who suffered a shock several months ago is reported today as extremely critical with death but a matter of a few hours. He has had several sinking spells this week and rumor had it that he had passed beyond.

School Board To Cut Budget

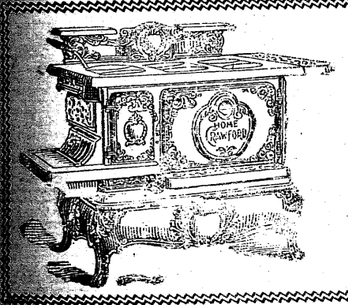
Peabody's school committee will meet tomorrow night with the purpose of cutting down their estimate for the 1922 budget. Pruning knives have been sharpened and a big slash is planned. What the committee will do on salaries remains to be seen.

$5,300 Pledged To Civic House

That Peabody citizens generally appreciate the good the Community House is doing for Peabody boys and girls is evidenced by the result of the campaign pledges and contributions announced today as follows:

Cash contributions from city at large	$2444.87
Pledges from city at large	359.00
Contributions from manufacturers turned in through finance committee	2550.00
Total	$5353.87

MAY FESTIVAL



The advisory board appointed by Mrs. Mabelle Lambert to make preliminary arrangements for the annual May Festival in aid of the Community House are already perfecting plans that will make this year's affair excell any of the previous festivals.

Jack Holt 'In Call of North' At Strand Theatre Tonight

With Jack Holt in "The Call of the North" and "Buster" Keaton in his screaming funny new comedy "The Boat" as the attractions the Strand is offering a program of unusual merit for today and Saturday.

Clever interpretation of the role of Ned Trent, a fearless trader of the great far North, beautiful natural settings in regions where the snow never melts, a story filled with color, suspense and strong action, are the big moments of Jack Holt's picture "The Call of the North". The picture is adapted from the novel "Conjuror's House," by Stewart Edward White, who is noted for his virile tales of the Hudson Bay country. In the picturization none of the thrills of the book and none of the suspense of the story has been lost. With such supporting players as Madge Bellamy, leading woman, Noah Beery, Francis MacDonald and others, playing striking roles, the result is a picture well worth seeing.

"The Boat", Buster Keaton's new comedy is one of the funniest pictures this popular comedian has ever appeared in, and, in fact, one of the best comedy films of the year. Mr. Keaton builds himself a boat and said boat is funniest thing that ever hit the ocean. His troubles in getting it properly launched will convulse the most hardened movie fan in the world. Eddie Polo in another thrilling chapter of "The Secret Four" will be the other attraction for today.

William Desmond in "Women Men Love" will be the main attraction for Sunday evening. Wilfred Lytell in "The Fatal Hour," one of the famous Drury Lane melodrama will be the second number on the bill. Mr. Lytell is Bert Lytell's younger brother.

For the seeker after something different in the realm of the photoplay Manager Chet Bent will offer something special next Monday and Tuesday when the great heart-interest drama "Why Girl's Leave Home" will be presented. Although the theme and title are from the famous American stage success of the same name which has thrilled theatregoers for years the story has been changed a bit to permit several new dramatic incidents.

The story deals with every home in general but for the sake of clarity presents two specific instances. One, the home of a rich merchant who indulges his daughter's every whim. The other, the home of the rich man's employee, who refuses to permit his daughter any of the pleasures common to girls of her age. The result is that both girls leave home to fight the battle of life alone. Later their paths cross and together they work out their own destiny. The production is elaborately staged and boasts of an all-star cast that includes Anna Q. Nillson, Julia Swane Gordon and others of note. It has been packing theatres all over the country and Peabody should prove no exception. A Mack Sennett comedy and the News Weekly will be the other numbers on the bill for Monday.

West Peabody

The prizes offered by West Peabody Grange to the West School children will be awarded Friday night. The winners are as follows: first prize, Elizabeth White, eighth grade; second prize, Blanche Martin, fourth grade; honorable mention, Nancy Mackie, eighth grade and John Mackie, fourth grade. The essays were about the "Life of George Washington", and it was difficult for the judges to pick the winners. Parents of the children are invited to the meeting Friday night to hear the compositions read by the children. An illustrated lecture on the "Life of Washington" will be shown. Interesting current events will be discussed. This is "Patriotic" night —war veterans are especially invited. The flashlight pictures taken at the last meeting will be shown.

Max L. Hopkins, President of the Salem Christian Endeavor Union is anxious to meet West Peabody young people. He will be present at the Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday night. Mrs. Roy Foster is in charge of this meeting. Her subject will be "The Sources of Happiness."

The Junior Christian Endeavor will meet Sunday at the usual hour.

"Be my valentine" will be the pass word at the Christian Endeavor valentine social, tomorrow evening, at the West Church. Everybody is asked to bring a good valentine and a joke valentine. Punch, cake, sandwiches, will be served.

Everett E. White, a student at Boston University, was fortunate in escaping, along with several other students, the explosion that wrecked the upper story of the college building last Tuesday.

Mrs. Ernest Richardson of Leominster, is spending a week with Mrs. Eliza Prime on Newbury street.

Benj. P. Danforth is ill at his home on Lowell street with influenza bronchitis.

William Davidson is ill at his home on Pine street with the grippe.

Mrs. Gilbert Lame is confined to her home on West street with illness.

Frank Croughwell is ill at his home on Lowell street with pleurisy.

Fred Roberts is recovering from a recent attack of the grippe.

Laurence Durkee of Pine street is recovering from a recent attack of the grippe.

Mrs. Richard Stocker and son James have returned home after spending two weeks at Lynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leach and son of Haverhill are spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Durkee of Goodale street.

Don't forget the clam chowder supper Tuesday evening, February 21. This is given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society; at the West church.

A group of Christian Endeavors sang at different homes Tuesday evening. Part of the C. E. orchestra accompanied them. It proved to be a very successful evening.

ROTARIANS HAD INTIMATE VIEW OF JAP CUSTOMS

The Peabody Rotary Club spent an hour in Japan last Tuesday noontime with John Gill, leather manufacturer of Salem in the role of personal conductor and many new sidelights of the Nipponese were presented to the craft. Mr. Gill was easily one of the most interesting speakers ever to appear before the Peabody Rotarians for he dwelt on many strange customs which an American observes on his initial trip to the land of the wily Jap in the far East. Mr. Gill introduced numerous lines of leather on his travels out beyond the Pacific and down into India and while he didn't keep a diary he crammed home many anecdotes and interesting information which made his address licensed to consume overtime at the noonday meal.

He told of the strange almost weird love for flowers shown by the Japanese whom he said disliked to be alluded to as Japs. He told of the sliding partitions in the unheated houses and how cold it is in the winter months; how the Japanese add kimono clothes as the cold grows and removes the garments one by one as the mercury climbs.

The custom of bathing in Japan is not merely for the purpose of cleanliness but to get the body warm, according to Mr. Gill who said the natives bathe as many as eight times a day. Public baths are prolific in Japanese cities. Mr. Gill has promised to present his interesting views of his travels before the Rotary Club at some future date and it is probable that the event will be staged as a ladies' night.

Charles C. Hills, dean of the newspapermen presided at the meeting. Using the prerogative of his office he at once commissioned George A. Blaney as Sergeant at arms who was so anxious to do sentry marshal duty that he went searching for the stocking fund bank to reap a few spare quarters. The club elected delegates to the district conference to be held in Hartford March 24 and 25. Nearly a dozen members may take in the affair to become the guest of the Hartford club which is to entertain. Mr. Gill came to Peabody as the personal guest of Clarence W. Barnes, President of the Chamber of Commerce.

Former President Albert Robinson of the Peabody Rotary Club and chairman of the committee on education will preside at the next Rotary meeting Tuesday. He will arrange a program in keeping with the nation-wide observance of Rotary's anniversary which falls on February 23, the movement having been organized in Chicago in 1905. Rotary's aims and its long list of accomplishments will be sketched.

PEABODY CLUB

Peabody Club members will be entertained tomorrow evening by Edward S. Jones official photographer of the Boston and Maine railroad with his illustrated lecture on "Maine the sporting paradise." On Washington's birthday evening a demonstration of the radio-telephone will be given at the club. Women will be admitted to this event.

They Seldom Do It

BUT IN THIS CASE ONE DID AND BOTH ARE GLAD

IT IS VERY SELDOM INDEED THAT A DRUGGIST RECOMMENDS A MEDICINE UNLESS IT IS SOMETHING THAT HE MAKES IN HIS OWN STORE. WHILE IT IS TRUE THAT THE MAKERS OF SANALT TELL THE DRUGGISTS ALL ABOUT THIS WONDERFUL PREPARATION, HOW IT IS MADE, ETC., STILL IT IS QUITE A REMARKABLE FACT THAT MANY DRUGGISTS DO NOT HESITATE TO RECOMMEND IT OR USE IT IN THEIR OWN FAMILIES, AND TELL OF THEIR EXPERIENCE WITH IT.

MR. F. C. GILL IS THE POPULAR DRUGGIST LOCATED AT 235 MINERAL SPRINGS AVENUE, PAWTUCKET, R. I. JOSEPH HERBERT DAWSON, OF 570 WEEDEN STREET, OF THE SAME CITY, IS BUYER FOR A DEPARTMENT STORE. MR. GILL SAYS:—

"My friend Dawson's blood was in very bad condition; he was troubled with boils and was thoroughly run down I gave him a bottle of Sanalt, and although it is not yet finished, we can see wonderful improvement. It has cleaned up the boils, and he says that he feels better; more active than ever; sleeps better; eats better and generally speaking, he feels like a different person."

Mr. Dawson says for himself: —

"Everything Mr. Gill says is so. I was generally run down; suffered terribly from the boils on my neck and was thoroughly miserable. What Sanalt the Sensible Tonic will do for the blood is almost beyond belief."

Any obliging druggist will sell you Sanalt.

American Legion

Investigation by Congress of the alleged illegal hangings in the A. E. F. is termed "a farcial burlesque" by the American Legion at Mineral Wells, Tex. "This abortive investigation is an insult to every loyal American," a resolution reads. "We believe it is time members of the board began devoting their efforts to matters of import instead of indulging in the hearing of unsupported and absurd complaints made by a few obviously disgruntled and irresponsible muckrakers."

The American Legion Weekly of February 10 prints an article by an ex-captain in the Signal Corps, quoting General Bullard's order to shoot "on the spot" any person advising surrender during battle, but flatly denying that evidence of any such instance has been substantiated.

District schools in Moffat County, Colo., had decided to close their doors for a period of weeks, due to insufficient funds. The American Legion succeeded in raising $916 to keep them going, taking the stand that "a shortening of the school term or a curtailment of athletics would be a backward step, depriving children of rightful advantages."

Ex-service men in Calcutta, India, have applied to the American Legion for a charter.

Found wiping his auto with an American flag, a man in Tampa, Fla., was questioned by the American Legion. He was pronounced "simply ignorant," and given instruction in how to treat the colors. Hearing of the incident, the man's employer presented the Legion with a large flag.

John J. Payne, released two years ago from a German prison, is being looked for by the American Legion. His mother, at Newburg, N. Y., has not seen him since Christmas, 1920.

Hiring squads of unemployed ex-soldiers, each squad in charge of an ex-nurse, has been suggested to the American Legion in Toledo, O., as a means of tearing down unsightly election posters.

"Nervous" ex-soldiers present a special problem in hospitalization. Neuropsychiatric treatment at Government institutions is under investigation by the American Legion, and a conference of specialists has been called by the Veterans' Bureau.

A complete French village, with a "Hotel de Ville" accomodating 1,000, will be planted at Medicine Parka, Okla., as a recreation center for the American Legion. Posts will build cottages where members may spend their vacation.

Holding aloft a tin can labelled "For ex-soldiers," a man raised $9,000 in New York streets. The American Legion learned that ex-soldiers got about $50 of it—the man got a jail sentence.

Gathered at the call of radical New York labor leaders, 600 unemployed men threatened a tear-gas attack on Fifth Avenue financiers. The American Legion was condemned as a "tool of capitalism," and ex-soldiers present were told they should have kept their Army guns to "force the Government to give them jobs."

Brooding over war horrors continues to wreck the minds of ex-soldiers. The American Legion at Tampa, Fla., reports twelve cases of ex-service men pronounced "incurably insane" since Thanksgiving.

Good standing in the American Legion will be the only security required to float a loan from the Legion's rotating fund for disabled and needy ex-soldiers.

History as taught in public schools prejudice children against foreign countries, Alvin Owsley, head of the American Legion's Americanism commission, told educational authorities at New York.

"To sail away for a year and a day!" New York state delegates plan to charter a steamer to take them to the American Legion convention at New Orleans.

Literature "on the wing" is the latest convenience provided American Legion members. "Traveling libraries" are being loaned to posts of the Legion by the Oklahoma State Library commission.

Former Citizen Loses Baby In Alberta Fire

Peabody friends of Millard O. Bent, formerly employed at the Marine Hardware Co. and later at Foster's grocery in South Peabody will be sorry to learn of his recent misfortune in Alberta, Calgary where fire destroyed his new home and snuffed out the life of his eight months old baby. Peabody and Lynn friends are collecting a sum of money to be forwarded to the unfortunate man. Subscriptions may be sent to H. K. Foster, 61 Bulfinch street, Lynn or left at the Enterprise office.

The following clipping from Nova Scotia tells of the fire tragedy:

"Word has been received here from Millard Bent, of Alberta, saying that an January 1st fire had destroyed his home and everything within, also had burned to death his only child, a baby of eight months while asleep in the cradle. Mr. Bent started a new house last fall about one hundred feet from the old one and was busy doing work inside. The mother had put the babe to sleep about 4.30 p. m. and then went to see when her husband would be able to come to tea. As he was nearly through she decided to wait a few minutes for him. They did not notice the fire until leaving the new building. They hastened to the scene, but too late. Talford Bent, a brother, living about a mile away, hastened to the scene, and after an hour's fight, got the child out of the fire.

Mr. Bent, who went West a few years ago, is a native of Hampton, N. S., and a brother of Alton Bent."

SOME ADVICE FROM A FAMOUS PRIVATE NURSE

Mr. George B. Jenkins of 621 Putnam Ave., Cambridge, Mass., was for eighteen years a private nurse employed by very prominent physicians, who used his extreme talent as well as his confidential service in caring for their wealthy and noted patients. Mr. Jenkins has travelled from Maine to California in attendance on famous men who were under medical treatment for serious ills. He is therefore thoroughly capable of judging of any treatment or medicine. But in spite of all this he was not able to find a remedy for relief of his own sufferings until coming in contact with Cerizane. He says:

"For years I have been a sufferer from chronic Bronchial Catarrh. The least change in the weather left me with a severe cough. There was mucus in the throat that nearly choked me and kept me awake at night, and there was always the tearing headache and the high fever. In spite of all my medical experience and contact with many famous physicians I had found nothing that gave great relief until, at the suggestion of a druggist friend, I tried Cerizane. While I still occasionally need it, I really believe that chronic Catarrh has practically left me for life. Cerizane surely penetrates and is not nauseating, as many cough syrups are. I heartily recommend it."

Cerizane contains no chloroform, opium or other harmful drug. Any enterprising druggist will sell it to you.

Knights of Columbus Aim To Make New Lodge Home Community Social Centre

Leo Council, Knights of Columbus, one of Peabody's foremost fraternal organizations, is looking forward to the day not far off when it will have its own home in a new building which will comprise not only lodge quarters but also a modern ball room, complete gymnasium and bowling alleys. Last year the council members pledged $32,000 toward its building fund and half of this money has already been paid into the treasury, despite the business depression. The new K. of C. home should become a community center in Peabody.

J. HENRY HIGGINS
Grand Knight

The council will observe its 22nd birthday anniversary on May 21 and before that time there may be some official word regarding the proposed new K. of C. home for Peabody. Leo Council was organized May 21, 1900, with a list of 50 charter members. Its membership comprises many of the leading citizens of Peabody who are former officers of the council. Its members can point with pride to their efforts to help win the war by raising large sums of money in all of the drives. In addition to taking a leading part in all war drives, Leo Council raised $7000 among their own members for the national K. of C. fund for war relief.

J. Henry Higgins, teacher of Latin in Peabody high school, is the present Grand Knight of Leo Council, and just passed his 23d birthday, and is probably the youngest Grand Knight in this state, if not elsewhere, among the K. of C. He was born in Peabody, Jan. 6, 1899. He graduated from St. John's Prep school in 1917 and from Boston College last year with the "summa cum laude" honors. He joined Leo Council three years ago. He is a director of debating at the high school, a new branch started since he joined the faculty. He is preparing to enter Columbia University to secure the degree of Master of Arts.

Other present officers of Leo Council are: D. J. Conroy, D. G. K.; James J. Murphy, chan.; Nathan L. Masterson, W.; James L. Eagan, F. S.; William J. Murphy, T.; Patrick J. Sullivan, O. G.; Louis S. Birmingham, I. G.

Peabody men who have served as Grand Knights in order of their succession are: John E. Hayes, John F. Duffy, Michael T. Ray, Daniel J. Donovan, James L. Sheehan (deceased), William J. Murphy, Charles R. O'Connell, John I. Anglin, William F. Duffy, Patrick J. Russell, John J. Gallagher, Peter J. Carlin, Frank P. Sweeney, William F. Noonan, Patrick J. Sheehy, George P. Carbrey, Thomas A. Cawley, Daniel J. Donovan, Patrick J. Lane, Dr. J. W. P. Murphy, William E. Tracey.

Football Dates Sees 15 Games Ahead For H.S.

The football schedule just completed for the season of 1922 calls for a total of 12 games, in which Peabody High school will participate. Nine games will be played with North Shore High school league teams, and three additional games have been arranged with outside teams, Salem High, October 21; Charleston, S. C., High, November 4 and Haverhill High Thanksgiving Day, November 30. The first two games will be played at home.

Peabody has signed a contract under which the local team will receive 40 percent of the net receipts in the game that is played at Haverhill, Thanksgiving Day.

Salem has accepted a 50-50 contract from Peabody and the game will be played in this city. The stipulation contained in the contract of 1921, that Peabody must provide an inclosed field to attract Salem to this city, has been side tracked. With the financial agreement settled upon, the two teams are virtually playing under a contract entered into a year ago. Salem was adverse to entering into any extended contract with Peabody, as suggested by the local board of management, until the termination of the present contract.

Faculty Manager Henry A. King states that with 12 games on its slate, the Peabody High team faces a strenuous season, and it may become necessary to play at least one mid-week game to keep apace with the schedule. All games as arranged at present are to be played either on Saturdays or holidays.

Basketball

The basketball season of the Peabody High School team will be a short one judging present indications. Illness robbed the team of some of its best players, just when everything was in readiness for a good get-away. "Duck" Hennessey who is recuperating at the hospital, will not be in condition to return to the game again this year.

There have been other handicaps besides illness. The fact that the High gymnasium is not yet ready for use, necessitates the team practicing at the O'Keefe school, located some distance from the High school. Then too, Faculty Manager King has found that most of the schools in this section have their schedules filled for the season, which fact has made it difficult to arrange games.

Discuss 1923 Game

With the closing of the arrangements for the Thanksgiving Day game with Haverhill there is talk of reopening negotiations to give Haverhill a return game in this city during the season of 1923. If the financial terms can be arranged, it is probable that such a contract will be signed in the near future.

Peabody High Minstrels Will Play 2 Nights

With Coach Marty Donovan as stage director and Joseph Lawler as musical director, that minstrel show scheduled to be held in the City Hall next Thursday and Friday night gives promise of being event of events.

While the affair is not under the supervision of the High school, the greater part of talent has been chosen from among the High school students and talent in this case doesn't mean all boys either, for there are several girls who will have parts—for instance, Miss Phoebe O'Connor, Miss Elizabeth Gourley, Miss Lottie Brown and some others. Mansfield Munroe has been chosen as one of ths ends. The chorus will consist of a total of from 60 to 70 voices.

Since the proceeds of the affair are going toward the meeting of some of the notes advanced by local business men, which made it possible for the Peabody High team to carry out its plans for the game at Charleston, S. C., last fall, it is certain that the affair will be well supported.

SALEM CHEEK

It doesn't seem that the City of Salem is treating Peabody quite fairly in sponsoring the two bills relating to sewerage facilities now in the legislature. This fact will probably find its reaction when the bills in question come before the proper tribunal at the state house for Peabody city officials are prepared with facts and figures which may afford a real shock to Salem spokesmen who are now trying to cram something down our throats and, if needbe, using a dose of chloroform to get it down. Just what this ammunition is is being witheld until the hearings but it can be said that Mayor Shea has not been unmindful of the need of Peabody going into the fight with big berthas and plenty of machine guns. The text of both bills drawn up with no friendly concern as to the welfare and convenience of Peabody are decidedly too drastic and arbitrary and are sure to be so considered by impartial minds when the hearings get underway. Salem was willing to enter into a friendly sewerage contract some years ago with Peabody and had certain specifications to live up to which will be aired at the legislative hearings instead of down in the North River. Salem likes to take a slam at Peabody, biting the hand that feeds it sirloins and gold dollars when in truth the Witch City allies ought to be more willing to cooperate with us. Peabody citizens will back up Mayor Shea in our defense of the charges which our sister city is so strangely making at our progressive city.

CITY BUDGET

It has been suggested that Mayor Shea call a conference of all the employes of the city in whatever capacity with a view to frankly discussing the low ebb of the city's finances and getting expressions from the various salaried men and women on the city payroll on the proposed cut in pay. This suggestion has been given to the Mayor by a well known professional man. The suggestion might bear fruitful results for at least it would inform some of the city servants just what kind of financial difficulty confronts the Mayor with his 1922 budget. There is no gainsaying the fact that some city salaries are top heavy and some undoubtedly are below what should be properly paid for the efficient service rendered. Just how Mayor Shea will handle the situation may be known at the next meeting of the City Council.

YOUR TEETH

By Rea Proctor McGee, D.D.S., M.D., Editor "Oral Hygiene"

THE HUMAN JAWS

Every bone in the body is fashioned to stand the particular strain that comes to its own zone.

The shape and strength and blood supply of each bone is just right for that bone, just as a well balanced piece of machinery must have every part fitted to do its work and must have every part strong enough to last without too much weight or bulk.

The bones of the jaw have as a protection from the pressure of chewing only a very thin membrane composed of periosteum and mucosa which we call the muco-periosteum.

The teeth are set in sockets, properly called alveoli, which are simply holes in the bone that fit the roots of the teeth.

There is a membrane that lines the socket and at the same time covers the tooth root. This is a double faced membrane which protects and nourishes both the bony surface and the surface of the tooth root. The jaws have transmitted to them the pressure that is made upon the teeth in chewing and the only thing that acts as a shock absorber is this one little thin membrane that lines the socket. As much as two hundred and fifty pounds pressure to the square inch is frequently exerted upon the teeth. Whenever a tooth is lost the work that the other teeth do is increased so that the pressure of chewing is no longer distributed over the whole jaw, but is confined to those spots where the teeth remain.

Is it any wonder that the bones of the jaw sometimes become so irritated from over-work and so inflamed from abscessed teeth that considerable portions of the bone itself may be lost?

If the teeth are kept in a state of health the bones of the jaw will usually remain strong and vigorous as nature intended they should be.

Most Valuable Knowledge.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

ONE THING AT A TIME

THE successful worker, whose achievements are greatest at the end of the day, is he or she who does but one thing at a time, and refuses to leave it until it is finished.

Such a worker never vacillates between one duty and another.

There is no undue confusion in the mind by wavering.

By putting off the seemingly difficult task for the easier.

Everything is taken up as it comes, completed in every detail, ready for the scan of the master at the top.

The worker who flits from pillar to post, starts in one direction and suddenly sets his face in another, never really gets anywhere.

He is lacking of stability, and at the end of the year he is about where he began, with no prospect of advancement and no hope of improvement. Indeed, in spite of his feverish, hurried efforts, he is slipping down grade.

Doing the job in hand and sticking to it until it is done to the very end is the only way to achieve success.

Train yourself to do this. In a little while you will find that you are getting speed with less friction. There will be no more irritability and lassitude at the end of the day.

Instead of going home at night in an ill humor, with every nerve tingling and on edge, you will find that your brain is clear and your thoughts at rest.

This, you will discover later, is because of the orderly method adopted of taking up but one subject at a time and not letting it go until you have no further use for it.

One of the foremost merchants of New York, confronted with thousands of serious questions every day, has formed the habit of returning to his home at night as care-free as a school boy during vacation season.

When he leaves his desk, he leaves his perplexities.

The next morning he comes in bright-eyed, light-hearted, eager to get in the fray.

If by chance the first encounter should happen to be troublesome, he dispenses with it before proceeding to another.

There is no loss of time, no trying of nerve force in flitting from one problem to another.

He drives straight ahead and makes decision after decision without the slightest sign of flurry.

And you, however burdened you may be, can do the same if you hold unswervingly to the same course.

KIDDIES SIX

By Will M. Maupin

THE BIGGEST BOY

THE "Biggest Boy" is not at home—
He "flew the nest" last night.
I knew the day was bound to come,
And yet tears dim my sight.
The "Biggest Boy" has said goodbye,
And gone to play his part
On life's grim battlefield, and I
Am lone and sad of heart.

The "Biggest Boy" said "Goodbye Dad!"
And "Dad" said, "Goodbye, son!"
And then the boy with head erect,
Went forth—his work begun.
And over in the corner there
"Dad's" eyes will fall upon
The "Biggest Boy's" now vacant chair,
And miss the boy that's gone.

The "Biggest Boy" gulped back a sob
When on his lips was pressed
The little mother's goodbye kiss,
When mother's hands caressed.
And then he smiled and went his way
To fight and win, or die;
While "Dad" and mother could but say,
"God bless you, son; goodbye!"

The "Biggest Boy" is in the ranks
Of that great fighting band
That seeks by arts of toil and peace
To upbuild this fair land.
And "Dad" and mother fondly hope
As only parents can,
The "Biggest Boy" will do his part,
And do it like a man.

ROUND ABOUT

While firemen worked in the front of the house to stamp out a blaze in the three decker on Warren street, last Saturday evening four little Greek children sat in the kitchen talking and having lots of fun, wholly undisturbed by the presence of the fire laddies in their home. The spectacle of the calm children was observed by the firemen with considerable surprise.

Secretary Don G. Roby of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce whose zeal went far to induce the Howard Clock Co. of Boston to purchase the Peabody Leather plant on Howley street has always modestly admitted he was a war veteran but beyond that he has said nothing like most war veterans who saw real action. Roby volunteered his services to Col. Logan of the old Ninth regiment on June 4, 1917 and that same day reported to Co. B. at the Watertown Arsenal. He went overseas with the 101st Infantry, Yankee Division, where he served 22 months and was both wounded and gassed.

Standing in line to get a word with the deputy of commissioner at City Hall last Saturday morning was a man who appeared intent on discussing his tax due the state. When it came his turn to address the aforesaid deputy he exclaimed, "Say the woman who runs the lodging house across the street sent me over to tell you her bath tub is all plugged up and leaking and she wants you to come right over and fix it".

On my visit to the Peabody Institute this week, I observed that Librarian John E. Keefe had on display a large cardboard with the titles of books on the life of Gearge Washington which undoubtedly proved of great assistance to high school students and citizens in search of historical matter on the Father of our country. Another real service to patrons of the library is a high open bookcase with fiction and non-fiction books so displayed as to invite inspection and stimulate eagerness for certain books. It is very apparent that Librarian Keefe is intent on being of the greatest possible assistance to the patrons. The removal of the ancient bookcases from the center of the main floor has added much to the appearance of the library.

Manager Warren D. King of the Electric Light plant received the following anonymous letter this week. "Friend Warren: Will you please have your men fix the light opposite Pierpont street for it doesn't burn more than half of the time and it is as black as a stove. Some soap and water would not hurt it one bit—and the one below it burns all the time. Yours very truly, A taxpayer." Investigation made by Manager King disclosed the fact that the blackened lamp in question was on Bedford street, Salem and the light that was doing satisfactory service was Peabody's. Peabody furnishes the current for the lights on Bedford street but the Salem Electric Light Co. is responsible for the upkeep of the incandescent lamp.

The annual report of the Public Trustees of Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway, states that during the year 35,000 rail joints have been electrically welded, as one step toward providing for the greater comfort of patrons of the road. Peabody patrons benefitted to an extent from this work. While it was not stated how many joints had been welded, Fred A. Cummings, Field representative of the Public Trustees, told me, the other day, that $11,000 had been expended on the rails of the Lynn and Peabody line, between St. Mary's Cemetery in Lynn and Peabody square, during the past few months. Since Mr. Cummings is an old-time newspaper man with a reputation for accuracy, we cannot doubt his figures, and can only repeat our expressed hope that it would bring a new brand of rapid transit, that will reduce the present 40 to 45 minute average on the route from Peabody to Lynn. We have the promise of Mr. Cummings, whose word seems to be law in the Beacon street headquarters of the road, that Peabody along with other cities and town in the system can expect better things from the road now that it is on a "service at cost," basis.

Some weeks ago I had an item in this column setting forth the fact that Warren Blake, fire marshal at the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. had five of his children in the old high school at the time of the recent fire and the notation that it was believed to be a family record in Peabody. The record would seem to be held by Patrick J. Ellis of Forest street who has seven of his fine children enrolled at the Center school.

MR. FOX'S NEW SUIT

"I REALLY must have a new suit of clothes," said Mr. Fox, one morning to his wife, "and while I am about it I may as well have a stylish one. I noticed in the fashions that they were wearing the trousers tighter."

"You can't get about very well in tight pants," said Mrs. Fox, "and goodness knows that you are slow enough now about getting food for the family. You better think a little more about work and less about style."

But in spite of all of Mrs. Fox's good advice Mr. Fox got a new suit, and had it made tight-fitting.

"You better put on your old suit of clothes tonight," said Mrs. Fox, as her husband started off with the market basket on his arm. "You know that Mr. Dog up at the hill farm is a very restless sleeper and if he should chase you he might catch you with those tight clothes on."

"I guess I can jump and run faster than lazy old Mr. Dog, even if I am dressed up," replied Mr. Fox, as he slammed the door behind him, for he was tired of hearing so much about his stylish clothes.

As he walked along in the moonlight Mr. Fox looked at his fine-looking shadow and forgot all about his anger, or even about Mr. Dog, and while he was careful not to tear his clothes, he jumped lightly over the wall and went to the poultry-house.

He soon had two plump birds in his basket and over the wall he sprang and started for home, but he had gone only a little way when he heard a bark behind him and, looking around, he saw Mr. Dog in full run coming after him.

Right in front of Mr. Fox was a high rail fence, and for this he ran, feeling sure that he could easily escape Mr. Dog by leaping over it and running home through the woods before Mr. Dog could crawl under.

But, oh, how little he reckoned on those new clothes. He forgot he had them on, now he was in danger, but he reached the fence and made the leap and but for a rail that stuck up where they were crossed to hold the fence he might have escaped.

Yes, Mr. Fox leaped, but he did not go over. Instead, he caught by the seat of those new trousers and hung there above the head of Mr. Dog, who by this time had reached the scene and was barking loudly.

Of course, Mr. Fox dropped the basket and the birds were crying loudly as they ran for home, and every second Mr. Fox felt sure the farmer would appear with a gun and he would never see his home and family again.

He jerked and he wiggled and at last the cloth gave way and, luckily, he fell on top of Mr. Dog and knocked him over, and while he was scrambling to his feet Mr. Fox lost no time you may be sure, in running home.

When Mrs. Fox saw him with the torn trousers and no basket she was very angry, but she did not say a word. She just took those new trousers, put a big patch of red flannel on the torn part, and when her husband saw that he put on his old ones and never again wore tight pants.

When he goes out at night now he wears a pair that are large enough for him to make a wide leap and not get caught on rail fences.

Vanderlip Declares Foreign Trade Needed To Stimulate Leather

(By ENERGY)

The letters in the Boston Herald pertaining to conditions in Europe, by Mr. Vanderlip a leading banker of New York, and recognized as being a high authority on financial matters, gives one food for thought as to the future of business and we in Peabody, the leather business.

As regards the leather industry, there is an open question as to how much leather was sold in Europe and England before the war. England was always a big market for splits. Always the surplus of this kind of leather could be sold there, therefore keeping the price up. I remember one finisher of split leather who made enough to retire from the business, and all of his product went to England. Today with chrome tanning taking the place of the vegetable tan, few such splits in the rough are available.

So I am wondering how much the leather business is affected by money matters in Europe? Many large shoe manufacturers had a strong hold in Russia and no doubt other European countries. If that trade is gone, and no doubt most of it is a thing of the past, it affects leather just the same. But as for what leather that was sold in Europe, with German and French competition, I doubt if it was as much as many people think it was.

Selling leather in foreign countries has been a game which required study and much pains to hold such trade. Our methods are not the same as is the foreigners. It may be that many tanners have lost their foreign business for the reason their sorting and packing was not as required. It costs money to ship leather as those people insist on having it, but those who have done so keep the business

So I often hear of tanners complaining of dull local business and not having any of the foreign, are stranded. There are certain plants here which have been busy through the dullness and many cannot figure how they do it. I am guessing that foreign business would tell the tale.

Each week I speak of the leather business and its future. I presume it amounts to little, but again I say that even this week has shown a slow but steady improvement in the leather situation. There may be some world happenings which will change the trend of affairs. But the money in European countries is the big stumbling block and the visit of Mr. Vanderlip there recently spells something more than a vacation. It is evident to me that this personage sailed for Europe with a definite purpose in view. It is evident to me that the big moneyed interests in the United States must be the ones to take the situation in hand and no doubt they are making efforts in that direction. From what I can learn, the policy is to gradually place each nation on its feet, and only Germany and Russia need cause worry. I do not know whether Germany has deliberately planned to go bankrupt so as to repudiate the enormous debt thrust upon her. But repudiation seems to me the best way out, but France does not think so and I surely do not blame France.

The Howard Clock Co. have come to see us. They have purchased a former leather factory on Howley street and evidently were proud of it as they paid some $70,000 some on time perhaps. If any of my readers want a good time, do not leave the city, for the former Grove street plant will furnish it. The Peabody Leather Co. have moved to Milwaukee I am told, and while we are sorry to lose even pancakes, the clock factory will be a big asset to our city.

Then the new O'Shea plant on Grove street, I am expecting something doing there shortly. This new plant, is ideal for most any business, and with business improving new enterprises are seeking locations; as well as some old ones. It was our Chamber of Commerce who made it possible to get the Howard Clock Co. here, and they should be given due credit. They will show more of such stuff, and even if it costs $25 per, come on and join.

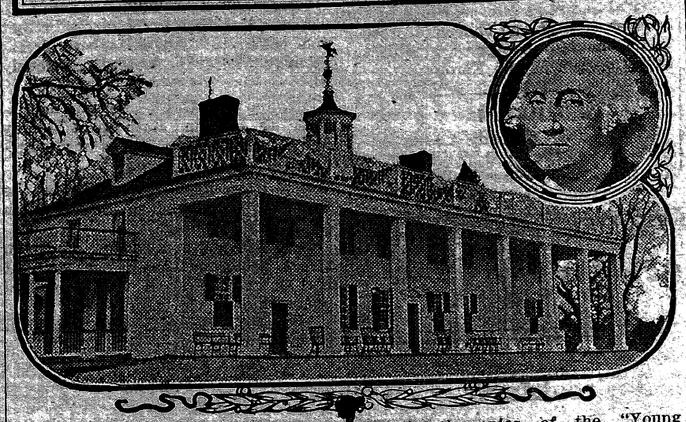
I find that prices for labor in leather factories vary widely. Most of the large concerns pay according to schedule, but the smaller ones are hiring men at pre-war prices. The small fellow by so doing is able to produce leather which will meet competition. But few of the factories recognize the Union I am told. So it can be seen that the mix up has created cost for manufacturing, difficult to figure. It is a fact that many men will refuse a cut but will take one in a new factory. Pride evidently has much to do with it but facts do not make him any better off. It seems to me a difficult problem to figure what will happen with labor prices.

West Peabody Wants City To Buy Playlot

Although it is known that Mayor Shea is doing all in his power to keep the municipal budget down to a minimum during the current year, West Peabody folk are understood to be contemplating a drive to obtain sufficient funds to provide that section with a real community center.

West Peabody parents were given their first taste last summer of playground work, and they were so much impressed with the idea that they would like to see more of it—or rather, see it worked out on a larger scale than is at present possible in the school yard.

The citizens of that section are seeking an appropriation that will make possible the purchase of the land situated between the grammar school building and the railroad tracks, which is being excavated as a gravel pit. It is owned by the Boston & Maine railroad. Advocates of the purchase point out that this site would provide an excellent place for the playgrounds, and unless its purchase can be negotiated soon, it promises to become an unsightly spot in the very heart of the community center, because of the constant excavating.



It is understood that steps are in progress to establish a fair valuation on the property, which comprises about seven acres, after which the officials of the Boston & Maine will be approached to ascertain what figure that place upon the property.

Judging from present activities it is likely that the Peabody voters, or at any rate the mayor, will hear more about this matter, in the not distant future.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

At the next monthly meeting of the Peabody Historical Society, Tuesday evening, February 21, at 8 o'clock, Frank Reynolds of Peabody, who has made quite a study of this subject, will speak on "The Feltons and Their Houses". The public is invited to attend. These meetings are held at 35 Washington St., the home of the Society.

Historic Mount Vernon

REAL WASHINGTON INTENSELY HUMAN

BY NO MEANS THE DEMIGOD HE HAS BEEN DEPICTED.

Admittedly of Violent Temper, but With Strong Powers of Self-Control—Naturally Melancholy.

The Father of His Country would hardly have fancied himself in the role of a demigod—as folks nowadays are disposed to regard him. He was very human.

When a young man, his hair was decidedly red. At the age of fifty he was quite gray, and on occasions of ceremony his locks (done up in a queue) were freely powdered, as was the custom of the day.

His teeth from early manhood gave him a great deal of trouble. They were, in fact, badly decayed—dentistry at that period being an undeveloped art—and this circumstance rather marred his good looks when he smiled or laughed.

He was also considerably pock-marked, having suffered an attack of smallpox at nineteen years of age, while in Barbados with his invalid brother. Those were days when most people had smallpox sooner or later, vaccination being as yet unthought of.

At fifty-seven (when inaugurated as President in New York), he had lost nearly all of his teeth. He then wore a false set of hippopotamus ivory, which made him very uncomfortable. In sitting for his most famous portrait, painted by Gilbert Stuart, his lips were padded out with a wad of cotton.

He seems to have had little sense of humor, and unquestionably was of a most melancholy temperament. The dinners he gave in New York were described by his guests as dull affairs. As a rule, he sat silent, rather sad of visage, and taking little part in the conversation. While others talked, he would keep tap-tapping on the table-edge with fork or spoon—a curious habit he had.

He had a pronounced weakness for gambling—though always held in check by a reluctance to commit himself imprudently. A born speculator, he was constantly engaged in land deals. He subscribed to every lottery and raffle that came along, and would spend many hours at a stretch with a pack of cards, though usually a loser. To attend and bet on a horse race, he often went to Annapolis, or even as far as Philadelphia.

Spelling was by no means his forte. To the end of his life he wrote "winder" for window, "latten" for Latin, etc. Nor is this surprising, inasmuch as his education was finished in a village school. The style of his penmanship, so neat and clear, followed the stereotyped copies of the "Young Man's Companion," which was the guide of his boyhood.

At Mount Vernon he had a very decent collection of books, but his reading seems to have been restricted mainly to works on farming and military science. How he managed to evolve the classic literary style that marks his public and private writings is a puzzle not easy to solve.

The discussion here attempted, however, is not of Washington's many perfections, but of his human weaknesses—to show that, like the rest of us, he was far from godlike. This most admirable of men had certainly a terrific temper. He could swear on occasions with alarming emphasis. A story, well authenticated, is that he pitilessly beat an Alexandria butcher with a horsewhip because the meat-merchant had exposed for sale a deer that was recognized by the master of Mount Vernon as killed on his own plantation.

In 1759, a few months after his marriage, he wrote: "I am now, I believe, fixed at this seat, with an agreeable partner for life; and I hope to find more happiness in retirement than I have ever experienced amidst the wide and bustling world."

Note, if you please, that Washington was then only twenty-seven years old. Yet his attitude of mind was elderly, with a touch of sadness.

On his return to Mount Vernon, after the war, he wrote to Lafayette: "I called to mind that I was now descending the hill I had been fifty-two years in climbing, and that, though blessed with a good constitution, I was of a short-lived family, and might soon expect to be entombed in the mansion of my fathers. But I will not repine. I have had my day."

Think of writing in such terms at fifty-two years of age!—a time of life at which men nowadays consider that they have barely reached their heyday. Washington, as a matter of fact, had still fifteen years to live, eight of which were to be spent in administering the affairs of the nation as its President.

But he was always a melancholy man. For many years before his death the prospect of his departure from this world seems to have been constantly in his mind. Whence, presumably, the great interest he took in the removal of the old family burial vault at Mount Vernon, which was being undermined by an underground stream.

One hundred and ninety years have elapsed since George Washington was born. One hundred and twenty-three years have elapsed since he died. He never saw a railway locomotive, a steamboat or an electric light. But he still lives as the predominant figure of American history and the annals of American statesmanship record no state paper that even approximately compares with his farewell address.

JOHN G. BURBECK 54 YEARS TODAY

John G. Burbeck, member of the firm Pyne & Smith, leading tinsmiths and plumbers is quietly observing his 54th birthday anniversary today having been born February 17, 1868. He was born in this city and was married to Miss Carrie L. Messer March 27, 1894. He graduate from Peabody high in 1886. He is well known in fraternal circles being a member of the Elks and Masons. The Burbeck home is at 30 Holten street.

Simple, and to the Point.

Breathlessly he rushed into the lawyer's office. "My next-door neighbor is learning to play the cornet," he exclaimed. "The man is a publis nuisance. What would you advise me to do?" "Learn to play the saxophone," advised the astute lawyer. "Ten dollars, please."

Was It Coincidence?

Next time you see your typewriter note that all the letters composing the word "typewriter" are found in the top row. It may have been only a coincidence, or the inventor of the standard keyboard may have arranged it so on purpose.—New York Evening Post.

Origin of Town "By-Law."

By is an old Danish word signifying town, burg or borough, and is still retained in many names of places, as Grimsby, Derby, Whitby, all of which towns were renamed by the Danes. The term by-law is therefore "the law of the by or town."—Edwards' "Words, Facts, and Phrases."

WOMAN'S GLEE CLUB

The Glee Club of the Peabody Woman's Club will give a cantata, "The Lady of Shulot" in Peabody Institute, Friday evening, February 24. They have been working hard for some time for this concert, and trust that it will be well patronized by the public. The club will be ably assisted by Carl Webster, cellist, and Charles Alexander, baritone. A rich musical treat is assured to all those who attend.

COMMUNITY HOUSE

Five dancing assemblies to be held on alternate Saturday nights in the Community House gymnasium are planned for high school boys and girls. Under the guidance of Mrs. George Dean these parties have proven very popular in the past and no doubt will be even more so this year. The first one will be held this Saturday night in the form of a George Washington party. The other dates are March 4, 18 and April 1 and 15. Subscription for gentlemen is 50c, for ladies, 35c.

"A Basket Party, or the Full Lunch Basket,—Shall we Share?" A play under the auspices of The Woman's Missionary Societies of the church will be given next Tuesday evening. Special interest attaches to the play because it is written and managed by Mrs. B. J. Manoogian, President of the Missionary Society. As the title suggests, "Sharing with the needy" is the underlying thought of the whole plan in the picture, which is presented charmingly and naturaly, with the human touches that go to make it up. The cast include groups of participants of every age, the Basket Party being a typical, good old fashioned church picnic, with whole families going by barge to the picnic grounds. The bustle of Mother getting the children and luncheon ready, the hurry of getting the crowds together, the jolly games and songs, and great dinner at last, the sweet little folks singing, "Daddy Long Legs" to entertain their elders, all the full day with its joys, and some thoughtlessness is summed up true to life.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY
CHARLES H. EGLEE

THE BUSINESS SITUATION
A Few of the Factors that Influence Present Conditions

James S. Alexander, President of the Bank of Commerce, New York, says,—"the emphasis placed upon deflation during the last year has tended to create the impression that it would be a cure-all for depressed business. This is not entirely correct for different classes of prices have been thrown greatly out of line by the irregular downward movement."

"The most prominent instance is that of the farmer. As a wholesale producer he must accept thoroughly deflated prices, but as a retail consumer he must pay prices that are entirely too high. While this lack of balance in values exists there cannot be a complete business prosperity. Proper balance must be re-established, but not by a higher price for the food furnished by the farmer, not by further advances in salaries and wages, but by a reduction in the prices the farmer as a consumer must pay."

The National Industrial Conference Board says,—"The recovery of business involves many elements such as tariff, taxation, increased foreign trade, and a restored confidence. The dominating factor in industry, however, is labor. If the workers of the country are willing to play the game and to co-operate with the employers in an effort to produce goods cheaply enough to tempt money into circulation, and join with capital in an increase of production, in quality of goods, in elimination of waste, business conditions will steadily improve."

The House of Kuppenheimer, one of the largest producers of clothing, says to its retail stores,—"the public demands clothing at a less price. It is our business to produce such clothing and your business to sell it. If in the doing of this we are obliged to cut our profits, or even to produce without any profits at all, we shall do it and we shall expect you to do the same thing, for, the public will be served and if we do not serve them someone else will."

The National Association of Credit Men says,—the high cost of shelter is now seen to be one of the reasons for a high cost of living. So many different lines of business have been forced to very severe liquidation that it is only right that the landlords do their part. Rents must be reduced or prices and living costs cannot be brought down. Rents naturally advanced on account of increased taxes, overhead, and repairs, but these are now declining. Rentals must follow, or those who keep them up will suffer directly and seriously from a continued depression."

Dun's Review shows that,—"the increase in number of business failures, although severe in all parts of the country was greatest in sections where the people are dependent upon agriculture, and this is also true of indebtedness. The record of failures is distinctly adverse, but an unfavorable condition was to be expected in a year of such far reaching adjustment. Notwithstanding an unusual number of large failures the average is somewhat below 1920 being $1300 less per failure."

The National City Bank of New York says,—"as compared with the war years, our exports during the past year show a great falling off, but as compared with years before the war they are well above the average, though not in all lines."

"It cannot be expected that foreign demands for our products will increase in 1922 or even be as great as last year. As to food exports, much will depend upon European harvests. Agriculture will be restored everywhere but in Russia. The purchasing power of Europe will depend upon the currency problem, but it seems as though Europe will manage to export enough of its own products to buy food necessary to keep the people from starving."

Richard Spillane in the Philadelphia Ledger writes,—"while foreign trade is not good, it is far from bad. The demand for raw or partly raw products seems great, notwithstanding the heavy rate of exchange. The people of foreign lands must draw upon America for foods, fuels, fibres, woods and various other articles, but they can get along with fewer manufactured goods, and it is in such goods and not in lumber, copper, grains, cotton and coal that the reduction in exports is shown."

"When people begin to measure present business by the yardstick of 1913 instead of 1919, it will not appear that domestic trade or foreign commerce is so badly off as they think it is."

And then we have extracts from some of the best thinkers of the business world. Each has a different view point but no one is discouraged. The fact is that a very wonderful work of readjustment has been done. There have been many failures, but no panic; much unemployment, but no breadlines and soup kitchens, as we had in 1913-14; many disappointments and losses, but no discouragement. As a nation we have been a lesson and an example to all nations of the world.

We shall continue to steadily improve and steadily make progress as each and everyone of us does his part, makes his own sacrifice, and gives his best service. Like Kuppenheimer there are thousands of manufacturers working without a cent of profit today. Like the farmers there are thousands of workingmen accepting lower wages. We are beginning to work together.

And yet there are those who are all the time stirring up trouble, creating hatred, making people unhappy and discontented. Let us turn our deaf ear to such people. Keep our courage and our faith for we have ten years of a wonderful prosperity ahead of us. Above all if we have a job that will keep our heads above water, let us hang on to that job like a puppy to a bone.

COMING EVENTS IN PEABODY

The following dates have been listed with the Coming Events Bureau of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce. These events are listed not for the purpose of advertising, but to serve the people of Peabody so that conflict in dates may be avoided. Secretaries of organizations have been requested to schedule their events at the Chamber of Commerce, for the good both of their organization and others, and the Chamber depends largely upon the courtesy of these officers to make the bureau give the services for which it was designed. Societies planning a public event should call the Chamber of Commerce, telephone 60, find out if the date in mind has already been arranged for by some other organization, then by the telephone, or preferably by letter, let the Chamber know when the event is to take place.

Coming Events

Feb. 19—South Congregational Church, 7.30 p. m., Dr. Lewis A. Banks, Lecturer.
Feb. 21—Policemen's Relief Association First Annual Entertainment.
Feb. 21—Peabody Historical Society, 8 p. m. Mr. Frank Reynolds —"The Feltons and Their Homes."
Feb. 21—Peabody Rotary Club Weekly luncheon, 12.30 p. m.
Feb. 23-24—High School Minstrels in City Hall.
Feb. 24—Peabody Woman's Club, 8 p. m. Glee Club Concert.
Feb. 27—Golden Jubilee—St. John's Church, City Hall.
Feb. 28—American Legion Post 153 Annual Entertainment.
Feb. 28—Rotary Club of Peabody, 12.30 p. m. Weekly luncheon.
Mar 2—Fourth Forum of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce. Council Chamber, City Hall, 8 p. m.
Mar. 10—Peabody Woman's Club, 8 p. m. Stereopticon Lecture.

CITY HALL NOTES

Mayor Shea is pruning the budget to the extent that perhaps the tax rate will not be over $40.00 a thousand. It will take some pruning at that.

Two of the original field assessors survive this year. Gene Reed in ward 1 and Leslie Goldthwait in ward 5.

The whist party for the benefit of the Peabody Hospital Tuesday afternoon attracted a large gathering. Perhaps some of the women could not play whist according to Hoyle, but what they lacked in whist they easily made up in conversation.

The rule having been broken regarding using the council chamber for entertainments, it is liable to keep John Russell busy taking up and laying that carpet. It was always a nuisance.

The city garage continues under the supervision of Chief Grady whether legally right or wrong. When the costs since the change are compared with those before, an idea can be had as to management. We expect to see the expense cut down.

There was one fire that no one could accuse the owners of setting. We refer to the load of hay on Lynn street this week. Tough luck for the owner,

We hear that Councillor Francis L. Poor has put on considerable flesh and will undergo another operation soon. This operation is expected to cure his trouble.

There are many murmurings about city hall as to what is to happen when the terms of present employes run out. It would not be surprising if new names in some cases were presented by the Mayor. However his honor is non-committal.

It is said that the dove of peace is once more hibernating at the pumping station up in South Peabody with chief engineer Conroy having a smile for everybody.

Even if the City Council does pass the ordinance putting the garage under the wing of the Chief of Police, friends of former Supt. Thomas Sexton argue that he will still be the super in city charge by his civil service status. He is now in the insurance game and making good.

A taxpayer has asked the Enterprise why the city of Peabody should have three building inspectors when Salem has but one.

LEO GUILD

Members and friends of Leo Guild are to be treated to an honest-to-goodness vaudeville show next Monday evening in K. of C. hall when Mrs. Catherine Rennicks and Mrs. Margaret Gallagher hostesses of the evening will stage a show of many surprises. The names of the participants have not been divulged by the hostesses but they promise that the entertainment will surpass anything the members have seen for some time. Members are urged to be present and bring a guest. A small fee will be charged for guests and refreshments will be served.

PERSONAL

Miss Alice T. Chamberlain of the law office of Donnell & Powell is confined to her home with tonsilitis.

John Cotton is ill at his home with the grip.

Mrs. Ernest Woelfel is confined to her home on Summit street by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Page left for Florida on Wednesday.

Mrs. Thomas Waters is ill at her home on Osborne street with an attack of grip.

Miss Evelyn Cross and Miss Helen Lane have gone to New York to attend a wedding, and will return home on Monday.

Chief Barrett and Engineer Arthur Bodge, were in attendance at a Firemen's convention in Boston on Wednesday.

Thomas Smith is ill at his home on Cottage street.

Dr. Ralph E. Foss' wife and little daughter, Frances, are ill with influenza.

The A. C. L. office girls played basketball at the Community house on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Boyle returned home from Florida on Monday.

Miss Marion Quint returned to her duties at the Water's River plant office on Monday, after being confined to the house three weeks with influenza. Several members of her family are now ill with it.

Leslie Goldthwaite is ill with influenza at his home on Gardner street.

There will be an entertainment in South Church vestry this evening at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Willing Workers. An interesting program consisting of plays, pantomine and music will be given by the young people. Oriental costumes will be worn. A silver collection will be taken.

A whist and dancing party will be held next Wednesday night (Washington's birthday) in Levin's hall under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Peabody Hebrew school. A large attendance is anticipated.

Hospital Nets $225 By Whist

Over 200 society women of Peabody, Danvers and Salem made the Valentine whist party in aid of the J. B. Thomas hospital a big success last Tuesday in the Council chamber, City hall and as a result the fund for the enlarging of the maternity ward at the hospital is richer by $225. Danvers clubwomen came down in large numbers returning the visit of Peabody women to that town some weeks ago when a fund was raised for the visiting nurse. Mrs. Robert Little and Mrs. William H. Fay had charge of the whist party.

The sum of $68 was netted from the food sale and $35 more from the proceeds of the refreshment table. Mrs. George Low had charge of the food sale and Mrs. Henry Hanson was chairman of the refreshment table.

Dr. H. K. Foster, President of the Board of Trustees of the hospital told of the needs of more room for the maternity ward at the hospital.

The committee in charge is especially grateful to Mayor Shea for his cooperation and to the Odd Fellows, American Legion, G. A. R. and Harry Stockwell for the use of tables and chairs. They also wish to thank the following men and women for donation of prizes: Mrs. J. E. Fitzgerald, Mrs. George Millett, Mrs. M. J. Mulcahy, Mrs. Thomas Hayes, Mrs. H. V. Hunt, Mrs. Felix Carr, Mrs. Perley King, Mrs. Thomas A. O'Keefe, Mrs. D. J. Donovan, Harry S. Whidden, George S. Curtis, Frank T. Edgerly and Norman W. Hunter.

Thomas Hennessey organist at the Strand theatre furnished a delightful program at the piano during the whist.

There were 11 tables from Danvers under the direction of Mrs. William T. Langmaid, Mrs. Arthur Donnell, Mrs. Walter Weston and Mrs. Ellsworth Cullen.

Thomas P. Masterson, Bernard H. Gill, Patrick J. McHugh, Frank J. Clarke, James J. Lillis, Philip F. McGinn, Timothy J. Dullea, Thomas Doyle, Edward F. Pierce, William R. Hingston; Reception Committee: Chief Michael H. Grady, Thomas H. Grady, John J. Lee, Thomas H. Quinlan, John T. Keane, Dennis J. Dullea, James F. McMahon, James H. Kerwin, Patrick M. Noonan, John P. McBride, Daniel J. Coakley.

During the intermission refreshments will be served in the Council chamber by members of Leo Guild under the direction of Mrs. Charles H. Cassidy the newly elected President. The proceeds from the refreshments will go toward the charity fund of the Guild.

Mrs. Alfred Baker of Clement avenue was among the first to secure pussy willows which bloomed forth in various sections of the city last week.

Foreman Michael Murphy of the city engineer's department has recovered from recent illness which also claimed several victims in his family.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
Essex, ss. PROBATE COURT.

To all persons interested in any of the estate of AUGUSTA LAAKSO, late of Peabody in said County, (wife of Karl Viktor Laakso) deceased, intestate.

WHEREAS, Karl Viktor Laakso of Peabody, in the County of Essex, has presented to said Court a petition, representing that he as the husband of said deceased is interested in the property of said deceased in this Commonwealth, that the whole of the property of said deceased remaining after the payment of debts, and charges of administration does not exceed in value the sum of five thousand dollars; and praying that the value of the property remaining after the payment of debts, and charges of administration may be determined by said Court, according to law:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem in said County of Essex, on the sixth day of March, A. D. 1922, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to each person interested who can be found within the Commonwealth, fourteen days, at least, before said Court; and if any one cannot be so found, by publishing the same in the Peabody Enterprise a newspaper published in Peabody, once in each week, for three successive weeks, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, post-paid, a copy hereof to his last known address seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this tenth day of February in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

Lowell Street

Miss Margaret Batchelder entertained a number of her friends at her home on Emerson street last Friday evening, the occasion being her birthday.

Miss Elizabeth Craig, daughter of Councillor Craig was tendered a miscellaneous shower Tuesday evening at the home of Helen Mackinnon. Miss Craig's engagement to Lawrence Madison was recently announced.

Rev. and Mrs. John Reid quietly observed the 26th anniversary of their marriage last Tuesday. They were remembered with flowers by societies of the church but were not at home to their many friends on account of Mrs. Reid's indisposition.

Mrs. Howard Spaulding will entertain the Monday evening whist at her home on Central street.

Mrs. Alice Warner of Wollaston is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ray Macdonald.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Glacken entertained at a valentine party at their home Tuesday evening.

James Dagnau of Franklin street is ill at his home with the grip.

Chief Grady is exhibiting the latest creation in wearing apparel, the moonshine corset. This was obtained on valentine's day in a local raid and while not being worn when found was filled and ready for business.

Misses Helen Tucker, Judith Barnes, Leslie Gardner, Nathalie Lane and Marion Cotton were entertained at Radcliffe College last Saturday afternoon by Miss Winnifred Johnson an instructor at the High school and alumni of Radcliffe.

Miss Mary A. Osborn is recuperating from a severe attack of grip.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Poeton will be pleased to learn that Mrs. Poeton is greatly improved and that she will soon be able to leave the J. B. Thomas hospital.

Miss Helen B. Tucker entertained a party of her young friends at her home on Chestnut street, Valentine evening.

Frank C. Hunt, eldest son of Herbert V. Hunt left the city Monday for an extended vacation in the South where he will recuperate from his recent serious illness by pneumonia.

Miss Louise King of the Electric Light office has gone to Orono, Me., where she will be the guest of her brother Eben at the University of Maine carnival over the holiday.

A whist party will be held in the Council Chamber City Hall on Tuesday afternoon, February 28th, the proceeds of which will go into the treasury of the society for the prevention of cruelty to children. The list of patronesses includes a number of well known Peabody women and the affair promises to be a most enjoyable one.

AMERICAN LEGION

The Valentine costume party held by the American Legion Auxiliary in Legion Hall on last Monday evening was a decided success. The hall was prettily decorated with red crepe paper and valentines. The costume parade was led off by little Evelyn Murphy and Marie Mulcahy dressed as valentines. The judges were Wm. Carlin and John Jackman. They awarded the prizes as follows: funniest costumes, Mrs. Mary Roche, Mrs. Helen Bomer, and Joseph Levasseur; prettiest, Miss Evelyn Murphy; most original, Catherine Sullivan; Mrs. Teresa Broderick also received honorable mention. Mrs. Roche and Mrs. Bomer dressed as Hiram and Samanthy were easily the hit of the evening. On their backs they bore a placard informing the onlookers that they were on their wedding trip and requesting that they be shown the way to the Hotel. Solos were sung by Mrs. Teresa Broderick, Miss Bessie Roche and Ollie Quirk.

Commander Leo Sullivan and Adjt. John Feeney attended the banquet of the State Legionaires in Boston the past week.

The Auxiliary will serve refreshments at the Minstrel Show on February 28.

STRAND THEATRE

The Ware Brothers, proprietors of the Strand theatre, have just installed two new projection machines. The new picture machines are the latest type on the market. Only one other theatre in New England has this equipment in operation at the present time. The machines have several late inventions which will place the Strand's projection ahead of nearby cities. They will be in operation starting today and any one interested in seeing them may do so by getting in touch with Chet Bent, the local manager.

MRS. MAY S. HAY

Firemen Lose Cash By Slick Ad Book Man

Peabody manufacturers and businessmen were victims of a clever advertising agent representing a firemen's magazine published in Boston recently, when they paid over $400 supposing they were aiding the Peabody Firemen's Relief Association. Instead, they were filling the pockets of the promoters and the firemen get nothing. It is alleged that the solicitor claimed he was working in the interests of the local firemen. Steps looking to prosecution may be taken on the grounds that the money was obtained by false pretenses.

Peabody Girl Dies In Capitol

Miss Alice G. Walsh, 28, daughter of Mrs. Catherine and the late Peter J. Walsh of 6 Bartholomew street, died suddenly in Washington yesterday from pneumonia. Her body is due to arrive here today and funeral services will be held from her home tomorrow morning with burial in Lynn. She is survived by two sisters, Anna and May, and five brothers, John P. of Haverhill, Peter J. of Lynnfield and Rickard S., William A. and Fred B. of this city. She had been employed in the treasury department for the past two years. She graduated from Lynn Classical and Salem Normal

Dumping On City Play Lots Must Cease

Dumping on the playgrounds must stop by edict of the playground commission who met last night and so voted. A meeting of manufacturers may be called with a view to employing a caretaker who will supervise dumping where it can be used as a permanent filling, but until such arrangement is made the commission will insist the evil stop. Permits must be obtained for any more dumping, and arrests will be made for violating the order.

BUY A DAISY TO AID VETS

This is Daisy Day in Peabody in aid of the disabled war veterans, and the drive will be in order here tomorrow as everywhere in the state. Mrs. Frank E. Bomer, president of the Auxiliary of the American Legion, has a large corps of workers selling the daisies.

NEW BORN BABE SAVED FROM FIRE

Fire in Lake Shore Park early last evening destroyed a bungalow owned by George R. Hemenway. Mrs. Hemenway and baby, the latter but a few hours old, were removed to the Lynn hospital.

DUGGAN FLAYS MAYOR ON GARAGE ORDINANCE

Peabody's City Council gave most of its time last night to debate on the proposed ordinance placing the municipal garage under the jurisdiction of the police chief and in the end failed of a decisive vote. Consequently the garage remains in the same status today as it has for the past several weeks. The garage is virtually under the direction of Chief Grady today with three men doing an eight-hour watch for service on the police ambulance and Black Maria.

When the ordinance was reached for action last night, one could have heard a pin drop for none of the Councillors was ready to say the first word. That Mayor Shea lacked a spokesman in the City Council was painfully apparent, and after a pause of a few seconds, Acting President Barry took up the next item of business.

That any mention of the ordinance was made was due to voice of Councillor Duggan, who consumed more time than any other Councillor last night talking on about every question before the house. He moved that the garage ordinance be taken up for discussion.

Duggan took the Mayor to task, declaring that his failure to come before the Council and enlighten it on the garage and explain the reason for the ordinance was discourtesy. He said if the Mayor could show that the garage should be abolished he was ready to support him. We've had 14 months of wireless government, continued Duggan, and it isn't good business, and will reflect on the tax rate later.

Councillor Duggan moved that the ordinance be laid on the table indefinitely. Councillor Cullen amended to have the ordinance advertised. Councillor McKeen injected an amendment to have section two, giving the police chief authority to hire additional help

GOLDEN JUBILEE OF ST. JOHN'S SCHEDULED FOR MONDAY NIGHT

The golden jubilee of St. John's parish will be fittingly celebrated at the reunion to be held in City Hall next Monday, and it is expected that it will be one of the largest gatherings that ever attended an affair of this kind in the city. The afternoon will be given over to the children of the parish and a special entertainment has been planned for them, including a "Punch and Judy" show. In the evening a concert will be given by the Waverly orchestra, which will also play for dancing, and a pleasing program will be given by William P. Connery of Lynn, comedian; Miss Mary L. McCarthy, soprano; and little Bessie Hickey, solo dancer. Whist and forty-fives will be in progress throughout the evening and at intermission Irish jigs and reels will be enjoyed,

LEGION WILL USHER LENTEN PERIOD WITH EXCELLENT SHOW

The musical comedy and entertainment this year of the American Legion will be one of the best productions ever put on the local stage. Under the direction of Leo B. Murphy, who took the Father Mathew show in its final rehearsals and made such a success of it, and who has also directed other local performances, the cast has made rapid progress and promises to give a first class entertainment.

The show is staged in a hotel and has three very elaborate scenes. The opening number is by Ollie Quirk, who needs no introduction to local audiences, and who never fails to please. The second act brings on the All Star Four in the story book ball and this is one of the best acts that has ever been attempted. Kavanaugh, O'Connor, O'Donnell and McLaughlin make up this quartet and they will be appreciated. The scene is next shifted to the hotel interior and the whole cast is present. Specialties are given by Tom McLaughlin, Tom Kavanaugh, Rita B. O'Donnell, Phoebe O'Connor, John Mahoney, Arthur Conroy and George Gillis. Every one of these is a performer of note. Eddie Holleran will render a solo and this in itself is a big attraction.

The committee have been very fortunate in securing two Lynn stars, Miss Kingston, who is fast becoming one of Essex County's premier fancy dancers, and Miss Hudson, who is a very capable comedienne. Theresa Burke Roy will render a solo and is sure to please.

Cy McCarthy, that old minstrel man himself, has prepared a comedy sketch, "The Old Town Hall," and his crew is sure to cause a sensation. Clarence Hartnett of Salem will render a solo, as will also that old time favorite, Jack Higgins, one of Peabody's most popular soloists. Anna Hooks, who made such a hit at her last appearance in this city, and who since has been starring in Salem productions, will please her many friends. Phoebe O'Connor, the star of the high school show, has developed into one of the best entertainers. The committee has been very fortunate in securing Miss Margaret Griffin as musical director, and this fact has done much to make the show the success that it undoubtedly will be.

LEO SULLIVAN, Commander

The Legion has spared no expense to make this a banner performance, and they hope that their efforts will be rewarded by the satisfaction of the large crowd that the advance sale of tickets presages will be present.

Bakeman Asks Citizens Aid For Russians

Editor, Enterprise:

From competent and impartial observers, the reports keep flooding in of the terrible famine conditions in Russia. It is seriously predicted that unless immediate aid comes the whole population along the Volga river is doomed to die of exposure and starvation. This means that more than 25,000 men and women and children are dying every day. It means that more than a half-million have died in the last three weeks.

Pictures come to us of children dying so fast that their bodies are simply heaped in piles on carts and carried away; of new-born babies coming to breasts that had no nourishment and wasting away to certain death; of disease penetrating the whole of the famine district and unable to be checked.

And the fate of those who do live through the terrible season until the next crop comes—with their undernourishment and their exposure to the cold! It will be felt in Russia until this generation has passed on.

Men and women of this community, the time to talk has past. The time to ask about the truth or error of the Russian government is not now. Humanity calls. Our brothers and sisters in Russia are dying by the thousands every day. The bitter cry of little children comes to us from across the ocean asking for food and a chance to live.

The acid test of a Jesus comes ringing down through the ages to a land that professes to be Christian: "I was an hungered and ye fed me." What shall our answer be?

A concerted effort through a "tag day" and house to house visitation will be made soon in this community by a carefully audited organization. I hope that Peabody will "come through" in the name of our common humanity.

Yours very truly,
ROBERT A. BAKEMAN.

PERSONALS

The twin daughters of Hon. and Mrs. S. Howard Donnell are confined to their home with chicken pox.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Smith visited Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith, Cottage street, on the holiday, from their home in Fall River.

Mrs. Benjamin Nafis of State street is able to be about after being ill with the grippe for past two weeks.

Walter Hill, sexton at the South church, has recovered from his recent illness. His wife, who was ill also, has suffered a relapse, which has again confined her to her bed.

Mrs. Willis Knowlton underwent an operation at the Thomas hospital on Thursday.

Mrs. John Mahoney has been ill at her home on Osborne street the last few days.

Robert Stewart of the A. C. L. plant who lives in Middleton, has the sympathy of his many friends in the passing away of his wfe at the Thomas hospital on Monday.

Mrs. Joseph Brooks is somewhat improved at her home on Pierpont street, after a long illness.

The annual meeting of Friendship Circle of King's Daughters was held at the home of Mrs. Albert Robinson, Chestnut street, on Monday evening, Feb. 20. The following officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. Sadai P. Porter, leader; Mrs. Helen K. Robinson, vice leader; Mrs. Kate L. Hartwell, treasurer; Mrs. Jennie M. Woodbury, secretary. This organization although only in its fifth year, proved by its reports to be in splendid condition, and is striving to do much good in the community.

Mrs. Shanahan is a member of the executive board of the house, by whom the tea was given, and Mrs. Carr represented the Leo Guild, of which she is president.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sim of Sutton street are among the victims of the grippe.

Mrs. Ralph Russell is ill with the grippe.

Social Whist Will Net Fund For Children

Plans are well laid for the whist party and food sale to be held in the Council chamber next Tuesday. The affair is for the benefit of the local branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. This society is doing a great deal of good work in a quiet way in Peabody and deserves the support of the public.

Mrs. George Millett and Mrs. Daniel J. Donovan are in charge of the event, and have working with them the following committee: Mrs. Clarence Barnes, Mrs. J. F. Barry, Mrs. Felix Carr, Mrs. Charles Cassidy, Mrs. D. J. Conroy, Mrs. Howard Donnell, Mrs. Eaton, Mrs. W. H. Fay, Mrs. P. Fennessey, Mrs. J. E. Fitzgerald, Mrs. H. M. Fox, Mrs. J. E. Hayes, Mrs. T. F Hayes, Mrs. J. J. Hickey, Mrs. W. N. Lambert, Mrs. D. C. Manning, Mrs. John Meagher, Mrs. M. E. Messer, Mrs. A. T. Millea, Miss Sarah Moore, Mrs. M. F. Mulcahy, Mrs. T. H. Mulherin, Mrs .Walter Williams, Mrs. T. A. O'Keefe, Mrs J. B. Palmer, Mrs. N. W. Penniman, Mrs. Sanger, Mrs. R. Sturgeon.

Whist will start at 2 o'clock, for which twelve suitable prizes are being offered, and during the afternoon the gathering will be favored with vocal selections by Mrs. T. F. Dorgan (nee Marion McBride) and Miss Mary L. McCarthy, both of whom are pleasing and well-known singers.

Cake and candy will be on sale and refreshments will be served. There has been quite a large advance sale of tickets to date and all indications point to an enjoyable and successful occasion.

"Uncle Tom" By Empire Players

Harriet Beecher Stowe's famous story classic, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," will be the attraction all next week by the Luttringer players at the Empire theatre, Salem. Not in a generation have greater Salem players been privileged to see the stage version of this immortal story which did more to arouse the conscienceness of the American people to the evils of the dread slave traffic which eventually culminated in the great war of the Rebellion.

Everyone knows Uncle Tom's Cabin is a play that deals with the problems that were apparently settled over 60 years ago, but the romance of old slavery days, the clash of race against race, the heroism of northerners flying in the face of southern customs and conditions, all have their appeal today just as much as they did years and years ago.

Uncle Tom's Cabin is a play that will never die and it will seem good to get away from the too much given problem and sex play—from which Salem has thankfully been spared since the Luttringer Stock Co. inaugurated their season of stock at this popular playhouse.

Mr. Luttringer is to be commended for his courage in presenting for the pleasure of the older lovers of the drama this splendid play and by the new generation of theatre-goers for this opportunity of witnessing one of the classics of the American stage.

West Peabody

Miss Marion Moulton of Swampscott is visiting her sister, Mrs. Richard Stocker, on Lowell street.

Miss Florence Martin of Waltham spent Friday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Martin of Pine street.

Miss Evelina Martin spent Tuesday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Martin.

The Ladies' Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. John Trodella on Newbury street Wednesday, March 1, at 2.30 o'clock.

The Young Men's Club will hold their weekly meeting Wednesday at the club room, corner of Lowell and West streets.

The Junior Christian Endeavor will meet at 3.30 at the West church Sunday afternoon. Miss Evelyn Winslow will be the leader. Her subject will be "What the Missionaries Are Doing for the Philippines."

Edwin Durkee of Goodale street is recovering from a recent attack of the grippe at his home.

Thomas Monahan is ill at his home on Lowell street with the grippe.

Donald Durkee is confined to his home on Newbury street with a case of the grippe.

Miss Alice Leach has been confined to her home the past week with illness.

The Senior Christian Endeavor will meet Sunday evening at 6.30. The leaders are the Misses Hilda Monson and Esther Leach. Their subject is "Uplifting Books."

Miss Susan Danforth spent the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Durkee on Goodale street.

Mrs. Chester Raymond and son Kendall spent the holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Durkee.

Miss Barbara Young is recovering from a heavy cold, by which she has been confined to her home for many days.

Misses Mary Hills, Mary Carlin, Gertrude and Bessie Mahoney, Rena Brown and Martha Dean were among the enthusiasts who enjoyed the winter sports among the hills of New Hampshire the past week.

Wall Street is determined to kill the adjusted compensation bill at any cost, according to a report sent by New York state executives of the American Legion to national headquarters at Indianapolis, Ind. The report states that mandatory orders were issued by at least one large stock exchange house, ordering employes, both men and women, to write their congressmen urging against the passage of the measure. Suggested forms were handed out, and employes were instructed to deliver their letters in unsealed envelopes to their employers for inspection.

Lined up with Wall Street against the bonus is the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, which, however, is meeting continued opposition from its constituent chambers in widely separate parts of the country. Chambers in Omaha, Neb., in Battle Creek, Mich., and in several cities in Oklahoma and Ohio have now flatly declared in favor of the bonus in the questionnaire sent out by the national body. In Toledo, following a hearing by the American Legion, business men of the local commerce board refused to vote on the matter, charging that the issue had not been impartially presented by the U. S. Chamber. They said that it had ignored three of the five options.

"I think that I am 32 years of age. I am five feet nine, and weigh 130 pounds. My eyes are gray and I have blonde hair. I believe I was a soldier. If anyone can tell me who I am or anything about my past, please telephone the police."

This is what a clean-cut young man told attendants in a Los Angeles, Cal., hospital. He wore an American Legion button, and Los Angeles posts of the Legion are helping him find himself.

Failing in his attempt to commit suicide by freezing in snow-drift at Emporia, Kan., Chester Hagerman, jobless war veteran, is being sought by the American Legion. A woman of Medicine Lodge says her son, who bore that name, was reported "killed in action," and a body, supposed to have been his, brought from France for burial here.

Lined up patiently for hours in advance, hundreds of tattered ex-soldiers received shoes, overcoats and children's garments from the American Legion distributing committee in New York.

Convalescing at Kennilworth, N. C., from wounds received in the Argonne, one American Legion man sent $1 to the Woodrow Wilson fund, and promised four more payments. Many Legionnaires are listed among the donors to the foundation.

Possessing all the requisites for a dance except music, American Legion men in Lincoln, Neb., called on an ex-gob for help. He rigged up a radiophone and tuned in on an orchestra 1000 miles away.

A Spanish bull fight will be staged in Madison Square Garden, New York, by an American Legion post. One stipulation is that the bull shall not be hurt.

A married man, who formerly was earning $72.50 a week, applied to the American Legion, wholly destitute. He took a job as a packer at $15, and said he was glad to get it.

Twelve majors, five naval commanders, 27 captains, and nearly 100 lieutenants have applied for jobs at American Legion employment headquarters in New York since September.

A cemetery in Fairmont, W. Va., where Civil War soldiers were buried, had become a thicket of briers. The American Legion cleaned it up to do reverence to the dead heroes.

The Star Spangled Banner, rendered on a handorgan with a monkey accompanist, is taboo with the American Legion in New York. A bill before the legislature would prohibit collections being taken for playing the national anthem.

Plans for a Connecticut state hospital for ex-service men have been endorsed by Governor Lake. It will be named for Frederick W. Galbraith, late commander of the American Legion.

A federal appropriation of $16,400,000 for hospitals for wounded ex-soldiers has been asked by the American Legion in New York, where continued investigation has revealed inadequate facilities.

* * *

Kansas women have organized to put over a state bonus. Mrs. Ida Walker, woman legislator, has told the American Legion she wants nurses included in the compensation.

Mr. Sullivan Says Sanalt Takes the Place of Exercise

Nervous Indigestion Relieved by Sanalt

No doubt many people who are compelled to take medicine could do without it if they were able to exercise, especially outdoors.

Mr. George D. Sullivan of 235 Prairie Avenue, Pawtucket, R. I., is a well-known and highly respected young man who has lived in that city for thirteen years. He states that at several times throughout his life he has suffered very greatly from nervous indigestion and he believes it was largely because he has not been able to exercise freely. He says:—

"Over a year ago I used two bottles of Sanalt the Sensible Tonic. I had been suffering intensely from poor blood and nervous dyspepsia. My stomach was very much bloated. I would not have bowel action for two or three days at a time. I was generally depressed, blue, heavy and slow. I used all sorts of pills, but got only temporary relief.

"A druggist friend recommended Sanalt to me and I must confess that I could not see that the first bottle had done much good, but before I was through the second bottle I surely got the desired relief. My bowels and all other organs were moving regularly. I was eating heartily without any bad after effects and every one noticed the wonderful improvement in my appearance, as my complexion cleared up and I gained weight, and the best of all, my ambition and cheerfulness returned.

"This spring I felt a slight return of the stomach trouble but less than half a bottle of Sanalt soon set me right. I consider Sanalt the Sensible Tonic the sort of medicine that every one should have on hand."

All progressive druggists sell Sanalt.

KING WILL SEEK BIDS ON BASEBALLS

Faculty Manager Henry A. King of the Peabody high school was named a committee of one at the recent meeting of the North Shore Baseball League, to obtain bids from leading sporting goods houses in this section, for the purchase of 100 dozen Harwood national league baseballs. The Harwood ball will be used as the official ball in the league during the coming season, the league meeting having rescinded its previous action in favor of the James W. Brine baseball.

After he has obtained the bids, Mr. King will forward the results to the various team managers in the league, and the purchases for each team will be governed by bids offered.

Decline of Shoe Trade Alarms Local Tanners--Sport Shoes Having Call

(By ENERGY)

New England has been a shoe and leather center since there was a center. That is no news. I might go farther and say it has been the biggest leather center of them all. You note I say has been. But statistics tell us we are slipping. The Banker and Tradesman heads a column "Wake Up New England." They go on and say that one of the prized industries of New England is the shoe business. But our leadership in this trade is threatened. New England's portion of this business has fallen off year by year until now we can claim but one-half of the business. Once it was, we had three-fifths of it.

Not only in boots and shoes does this decline exist. But other industries are foreign to this column, so here's to boots and shoes. The decline dating from 1899 to 1921 shows a steady shrinkage, and from what I can glean next year will show a larger percentage of shrinkage, due to strikes mostly. Now these records do not mean we are hopelessly swamped. There are many opportunities to retrieve our losses, but it cannot be done with different factions of the business pulling apart. In other words, if we of New England want to keep up the traditions of a section of our country dearly beloved by those who have made it, we must return to those principles practiced by our fathers. Can it be done? Is the generation of today the type to carry on the good things which were formerly so well intrenched?

When one looks about him in his home city or town, he can easily see that one by one families have gone west or elsewhere and their places taken by another class. Some of this new class produce, while others clog the wheels of progress. But after all that is said and done on this subject, the spirit of '76 is lacking. And in saying the spirit of '76 it seems to me it illustrates the whole condition. Love of country was then general and not followed by a part only, as is the case today. Perhaps in making this statement I should qualify by saying that pertains to the immigrant who has not and will not acquire that love, and who comes here only to get his and go back home. But that class is increasing fast. We are trying to teach them our ways and here's hoping we succeed.

So when a leading periodical tells us a clear and unmistakable story of our shortcomings and puts the situation squarely before us, those of us who want it different rise and ask what can be done? If our shoe business gets away there is nothing to take its place and shall we go to dry rot?

One answer will suffice. Let us produce our shoes as cheap as the other fellow and our shoe factories will be running. We must be able to meet cuts, and an understanding between capital and labor, a confidence in each other so that when facts and figures are presented all concerned will say yes for the good of all. This is a serious situation.

There are many tanners today who are sailing close to the wind. They have been punched from every angle until they are groggy. If the business comes better, they will get back and all will be forgotten. I believe most of these tanners will survive, and sincerely hope so. Many of this class expanded at the wrong time. They did things they would not think of doing in normal times, and it was perfectly natural. During the war everybody was going next to crazy in a business

ORGANIZED LABOR FOR "HOME RULE"

Brockton Central Labor Union Sends Resolutions to Gov. Cox

FAVORS COUNTY CONTROL

Central Labor Bodies Throughout State Are Expected to Follow Suit

Organized labor in Massachusetts is waking up to the dangers which are besetting local self government, providing certain measures now pending before the legislature should be passed, and more particularly the measure which is known as Senate 280 and 281, which comprise the report of the special legislative committee which investigated conditions in penal institutions in the state last year and a bill accompanying this report which provides for the state taking over control of all county penal institutions.

The Central Labor Union of Brockton has taken the lead in expressing its disapproval of the scheme on foot which is becoming to be generally considered as the opening wedge for the ultimate obliteration of local self government.

The Brockton body has voiced its disapproval of the "state control" measure and placed itself on record as in favor of "Home Rule," in a set of resolutions unanimously adopted at a recent meeting. The vote of the meeting provided that copies of the resolutions be sent to Gov. Channing H. Cox and to each of the members of the Legislature from the Brockton district.

It is expected other Central Labor Unions throughout the state will take similar action.

The resolutions passed by organized labor in Brockton are as follows:

Office of the Secretary
Brockton Central Labor Union

Brockton, Mass., February 8, 1922

At a regular meeting of the Brockton Central Labor Union held January 25th, 1922, the following resolution, expressing our opposition to the proposed legislation seeking to have State control of penal institutions, was adopted:

RESOLVED: That Brockton Central Labor Union place itself on record as in favor of Home Rule, and opposed to any further encroachment upon the right and duty of the people to have a direct and immediate control of their own affairs.

Particularly is this Union opposed to any attempt to weaken and destroy the very ancient unit of government known as the County, or to take therefrom any of its functions and privileges. Under our form of government the State is to do only that which the Town, County or City cannot do for itself.

Centralization is destructive of the "check and balance system" on which depends the strength of our institutions.

(Signed) BROCKTON CENTRAL LABOR UNION,
Frank W. Gifford, Sec.

SOLE LEATHER IN GREATER DEMAND

Slight improvement in the call for union sole leather in Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago. Oak sole shows but little change in Boston demand such as it is running mostly to heavy leather. Philadelphia oak market quiet to spotty while in Chicago buying is small. Boston offal markets fairly active. Union heads are selling more frequently while Philadelphia reports the principal demand there is for shoulders. More looking around in the Boston oak offal market. In the Boston upper leather market elk and buck are the best sellers, Calfskins, with exception of specialty stock, quiet. Philadelphia tanners are getting more small orders. Patent leather demand has improved. Glazed kid quiet owing to more general use of novelty leathers for sport footwear.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

Peabody citizens are sure to do their bit in the state-wide "Daisy Drive" today and tomorrow in aid of the disabled war veterans. The women of the local auxiliary of the American Legion are on the highways today with their mite boxes for the local contribution to this most worthy cause. Sixty per cent. of the proceeds obtained from the two days' drive in this city go into the local treasury to aid Peabody disabled war veterans and this fact should add impetus to the fund raised here. We owe it to every war veteran who is incapacitated as a result of his service in the great conflict to do our little part in giving what we can to promote their welfare. The Leather Workers' Union which had planned to hold a tag day in aid of the Russian sufferers tomorrow have graciously postponed their event and will throw their efforts to help the Legion women.

TAXATION

Whoever said the surest thing on this earth is death and taxes drove the nail home. Perhaps there are some people who are getting away without paying a liberal tax. If so, they are saying little about it. When the world war commenced, tax became familiar. As the war continued, one became still more familiar with Mr. Tax. When the war ceased, this insect became almost a part of our being. And ever since we hail the federal, state and local taxation as a big part of our lives. Few of us realized what the price of war is. Few of us realized that we should have to contribute to the extent we have been called upon to do. The dancers pay the fiddler and the people pay war debts. So we of Peabody had a high tax rate in 1921. The causes were legitimate. And this year we will be called upon to pay on a still larger tax rate. You ask who is to blame, and we answer those spending the city's money for good or evil. Figures show we owe up to the limit, and it remains for us to pay as the interest comes due. We cannot in the near future hope to have anything but what is actually needed. We must play the game as any thrifty individual plays it when his income is reduced. If Peabody was alone with high taxes, there would be more cause for complaint. But we are surrounded with high tax rates, many far higher than our own. Going out of the state, Newark, N. J., had a tax rate of over $38.60 a thousand with a hundred per cent. valuation, and repairs on streets and sewer adjacent to the property, added. No, high tax rates are as common as automobiles. Some day the tide will turn, but until it does, we must keep on paying, as a part of our existence.

I AM YOUR TOWN

(American Legion Weekly)

Make of me what you will—I shall reflect you as clearly as a mirror throws back a candle beam.

If I am pleasing to the eye of the stranger within my gates; if I am such a sight as, having seen me, he will remember me all his days as a thing of beauty, the credit is yours.

Ambition and opportunity call some of my sons and daughters to high tasks and mighty privileges, to my greater honor and to my good repute in far places, but it is not chiefly these who are my strength. My strength is in those who remain, who are content with what I can offer them, and with what they can offer me. It was greatest of all Romans who said: "Better be first in a little village than be second in Rome."

I am more than wood and brick and stone, more even than flesh and blood—I am the composite soul of all who call me Home.

I am your town.

Song Came From His Heart.

George Matheson, a young minister of promise, who wrote "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," was engaged to be married, and unexpectedly he went totally blind. He told his sweetheart that he thought he ought not to press his claim on her promise, and gave her permission to cancel it if she wished. She did, and it was then that Matheson wrote: "O love that will not let me go, I cast my weary soul on Thee."

What Books Have Done for Liberty.

Think what books have done for liberty! In old days of the struggle for freedom many a grand speech might die away within the walls where it was uttered; now by the aid of the printing press, reverberated through all the nations, it may go thrilling and thrilling through the world, and come rolling back to the speaker in millions of echoes. The spoken word may reach two or three thousand; the printed page may be read by three hundred million of men and women.—Dean Farrar.

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

WHEN TO READ.

What do you read?—Shakespeare.

A YOUNG bride writes with the following complaint: "My husband's older brother, who is making his home with us, insists on reading his morning paper at the breakfast table. This is annoying to me and I feel that it is an act of discourtesy to me. Although my husband himself does not do it he says it is quite all right for his brother to do so. What do you say about it?"

It is so usual for our busy husbands and fathers and brothers to read the paper over their breakfast, often because they feel that is the only time they have to do so, that it would be unfair to say that they are thereby doing us an act of discourtesy. However, I do agree with you that it is not very good manners. Where one does not have the excuse of reading the paper because it is the only opportunity to do so at breakfast then it is less pardonable than otherwise. If it is quite clear that the reading is simply actuated by curiosity and impatience then there is even less excuse for it. The fact is that with many families mealtime is the only opportunity for friendly leisurely intercourse and where one person chooses to put a damper on that spirit he is acting in a decidedly unsocial manner.

If a person breakfasts alone that is another matter. Then he may read the paper for companionship. So in a hotel restaurant when you occupy a table by yourself you are not showing bad manners; to do so though if you must eat at a table with other persons even if they are strangers to you, you are not showing very much politeness if you prop the paper up before you. The practice of paper reading has become so general at breakfast time that there are little metal paper props in the stores for which there is considerable demand, making it possible for one to eat undisturbed and have one's paper held at a convenient angle before him.

There is really no reason why one should not read a paper in the car or train though, of course, the courteous man or woman will contrive to hold the paper or magazine or book so that it does not annoy his neighbors or so that his elbows in holding it do not prod them. It is extremely discourteous to read paper or magazine at a lecture, or any performance. If this does not actually embarrass the performers it is the kind of thing that detracts from the enjoyment of the other members of the audience. And never, never read when some one is talking to you. To be sure, you may be able to attend to what is being said to you and sense what you are reading at the same time, but it is the sort of discourtesy that is almost never excusable.

ALL ABOARD!

O YOU Reader of this Rhyme
Are you running well on time?
Do you keep your rails all clear
For the Special trains of Cheer?
Are your trains of Sympathy
Running through from A to Z
With no side-tracks to delay
Progress o'er the right of way?
Are the switches wisely set
Lest you detour to Regret?
Do your schedules give good heed
To the shadowed Land of Need—
And your Terminals today—

KIDDIES SIX

MY PRAYER

GOD, for the gladness of this day,
Grateful, I come tonight.
Through all the days to come, dear Lord,
Guide Thou my steps aright.

I thank Thee, God, for health and friends,
And strength to work with cheer;
Grant me refreshing sleep this night,
Free from all care and fear.

And may I awaken calmed, renewed,
And ready for the day;
Whether of sorrow or of joy,
Help me to keep Thy way.

Grant, Father, purity of heart,
And courage for the right;
Grant me the gift of cheer alway,
And favor in Thy sight.

Amen.

ROUND ABOUT

A traffic policeman in a city not afar from Chelsea, who has a particularly difficult post to handle because it is the meeting place of five heavily traveled highways, has taught a valuable lesson to many motorists.

When a driver breaks a rule of the road at that particular corner he is promptly halted by the traffic cop, who walks to the side of the car and remarks:

'Evidently you don't know the A. B. C. of driving an automobile."

The remark invariably gets a rise out of the motorist, but humility succeeds anger when the policeman kindly explains that the A. B. C. of automobile driving means simply—

"Always Be Careful."

I observe that Andrew N. Jacobs, for many years a leader in town government, reached his 79th milestone on Feb. 16, the coldest day of the present winter. Mr. Jacobs may be seen almost daily taking his walk into Peabody square, bowing right and left to his old friends who will wish him many more years of happiness. He served the town as selectman and for many years was superintendent of water supply. He was born in 1843. He enlisted in the Fifth Mass. regiment in the Civil war. He and his wife were married in 1873 and consequently will observe the 49th anniversary of their wedding this year.

The first signs of summer were found by an Enterprise reporter at the local telephone exchange a few days ago. It came in the announcement of Miss Margaret M. Ryan, chief operator at the exchange, that the summer vacations have already been in force two weeks. Mrs. Nellie C. McAvoy of Tremont street returned on Monday from her vacation of two weeks, a part of which was spent with friends in Leominster. Miss Helen C. Case of Lynn street, South Peabody, also an operator at the exchange, started on her vacation this week, and is planning to participate in some of the late winter snow sports at Laconia, N. H.

I observed several Cambridge police officers were guests of the Peabody police at the latter's concert and ball last Tuesday evening. A reserved section was waiting their arrival. The Cambridge "cops" made many friends here during the leather strike of last year.

A. C. L. Paper Proving Real Newsy Sheet

The A. C. L. in its February issue contained 12 pages and its columns were filled with newsy matter of the big leather plant which pays the major portion of the taxes of the city of Peabody. Editor Earl W. Weaver is making the plant organ eagerly looked forward to by the hundreds of A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. employes. Here are a few of the items culled from the last issue of the paper:

By a singular coincidence two of the sheepskin foremen were christened Grover Cleveland, and are employed in similar occupations, tanning and coloring. These two are none other than our friends Grover Cleveland Hambrecht and Grover Cleveland Durkee. Perhaps some of you can figure out their ages from this information. It's a good name to live up to.

One of the old time ball players at the plant is Charley Thomas, better known as Tully. Tully was pitcher on the old St. James team of Salem which was one of the fastest teams that ever represented Salem. Tully played three years with them and then went with the Bangor team in the old New England League.

Another one of the old St. James team also working at the plant is Marty Kenney, who was shortstop and captain. Marty was also some polo player, having played with the Salem team and with the Portland outfit. Tully and Marty can be seen every noonhour in the sheepskin department having a good talk over old times.

James O'Connor, who handles the news in the sheepskin department for The "A. C. L.," is an experienced newspaper man, having served as Peabody correspondent for the Lynn Telegram while conducting his variety store on Mason street for several years. Mr. O'Connor has been clerk in the pickleskin department of the A. C. L .plant for the past three years, previous to which he was fourteen years in business for himself in his store.

On one of the bitter cold days at the end of January, Inspector Pierce of the Peabody police happened up near the plant just in time to observe a small boy down the railroad track who was suffering with the cold and did not seem to be able to find his way home. Mr. Pierce at once took him into the mechanical office, where first aid was applied, which undoubtedly saved the child from a severe frostbite. The boy's fingers were nearly frozen at the time he was picked up.

Philip Pitman, who was mentioned last month as having the honor of being the start of the fourth living generation in the Pitman family, has a formidable rival for honors in Irving Warren Blake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Blake. I. W. has one great-grandfather and two great-grandmothers living, besides seventeen aunts and uncles. His father, two grandfathers, three aunts and two uncles work for the A. C. L., and his mother was an A. C. L. girl before her marriage.

Notice is hereby given that Bank Book No. 16,832, Warren Five Cents Savings Bank, Peabody, is lost and application for payment made. Chap. 171, Acts 1912.

South Peabody

The Sewso Club met with Miss Edith Currier, Lynn street, Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Curtis of Winnegance avenue spent Sunday with relatives in Middleton.

The Boy Scouts will hold a meeting at the Second Congregational church next Monday evening at 7.15.

John McDonald of Winnegance avenue is able to be out again after an attack of the grippe.

The Bosco Club held their meeting Monday evening. The debate for the evening was in reference to the 18th amendment and the boys voted to keep the amendment as it is.

South Peabody friends of Mrs. Flavel Goodwin are sorry to hear that her condition has not improved since she went to stay with her daughter, Mrs. Ray.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bowden have a baby girl born last Saturday. Mrs. Bowden is ill with pneumonia at the present writing.

Albert C. Morse of Belfast, Me., spent a few days with his son, Harry Morse of Maple street.

Georgia Coombs of Lynnfield street has contracted scarlet fever.

R. B. Draper has opened his variety store and has taken the South Peabody agency for newspapers.

The men of the Lake Shore Park church are to serve an oyster supper next Monday from 5.45 to 7.30. This is the men's first appearance as cooks and it is hoped that every one will help make this a success, as the proceeds are to go toward the church debt.

The South Peabody Dramatic Club will present a rural play in four acts at the Second Congregational church next week. The drama will be given Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings in order to give every one in the community a chance to see it. It is requested that all children who desire to see this play will plan to go Tuesday, as the seating capacity of the church is limited and this will give ample room for the older people to go either Wednesday or Thursday and be sure of a seat. W. E. Weld is directing the play, which is called "Home Ties.' Ice cream will be on sale every evening.

The family of C. E. Holden, Lynnfield street, have been on the sick list. At one time there were five members of the family sick.

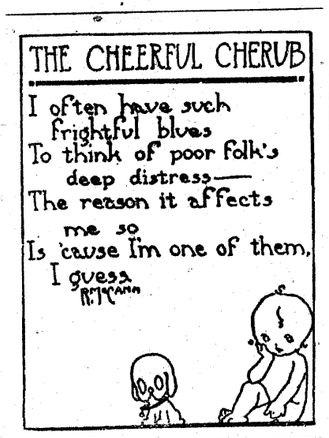
Harvey Wilson of Lynn street was struck by a Ford truck and knocked down Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Lou Carney of County street is still on the sick list.

Franklin Larrabee of County street was removed to the Salem Contagious hospital with a case of scarlet fever.

C. J. Fitzpatrick of Lynn street has returned from a two months' pleasure trip. He spent the most of the time at Bermuda.

Mrs. George Hanscom of Lynn street has been ill the past week.



The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lake Shore Park church met with Mrs. Hattie Evans Thursday afternoon. The members were busy making aprons for a sale to be held in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Keezer of Lakeside have a baby girl who arrived Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Keezer moved recently from Lake Shore Park.

At the quarterly conference held Friday evening at the Lake Shore Park church the officers were elected for the year and the church was shown to be in a flourishing condition. It was voted to ask the pastor, Rev. Harry Hill, to return for another year.

Lake Shore Park Church

Harry B. Hill, Pastor. Morning service at 10.45; subject, "A Tribute to George Washington." Sunday school at noon. Evening service at 7 o'clock; subject, "The Helper of the Helpers." Prayer meeting this evening at 7.45. The sixth in the series on the Lord's Prayer. Theme, "Forgive us our Trespasses." Everybody cordially invited.

'Fighting Mad' Thrilling Tale Of Adventure At the Strand

A fast-moving, exciting adventure story is "Fightin' Mad," which will be the feature attraction at the Strand today and Saturday, starring William Desmond. Written for the talented H. H. Van Loan especially for the star, one feels safe in saying that it brings out the actor's ability to a marked degree. The story revolves around a healthy, athletic chap who returned to the farm after seeing Paris while in the army. He couldn't become satisfied. He craved adventure and found it by joining the border police.

MADGE KENNEDY,
Goldwyn Pictures Star.

Quiet, unassuming, no one took him for a fighter. And they teased him—these rough and ready ranchmen. And how he could fight. He would get so fightin' mad that he forgot to stop administering punishment. And the whole picture is packed with punches and lively adventure and a fine flavor of romance. In Desmond's company are players of recognized talent, including Rosemary Theby, of "Connecticut Yankee" fame, Doris Pawn, J. J. Dowling and Virginia Faire. The picture is well staged, carries sufficient action and humor. Ben Turpin, the famous cross-eyed comedian, will be presented in his comedy, "She Sighed by the Seaside," as the comedy feature. Eddie Polo in another smashing chapter of "The Secret Four" will round out the bill for today.

Vivian Martin in "The Song of the Soul" will top the double feature bill for Sunday evening. Bessie Love in "Penny of Top Hill Trail," an out-door drama, will be the second feature for the Sunday evening concert.

"Molly O," starring Mabel Normand, which comes to the local playhouse on Monday, contains sufficient material for several ordinary pictures. There are no less than four strong dramatic situations, tense enough for the climax of an unusual production, and through it all runs a love story as sweet and winsome as ever imagined. There is so much doing in every foot of "Molly O" that a brief synopsis can give but a faint idea of the thrills that are really in it, and has to omit the delicious humor entirely.

"Molly O" is based upon a Cinderella theme and showing the manner and customs of an Irish family, revealing a thousand and one little intimate touches which are appealing and fascinating. Miss Normand plays the part of Molly, a family drudge, who delivers washing and does odd chores. She dreams of a fine romance with the young doctor who, having independent means, is working among the poor and unfortunate. Eventually she makes her dream come true because her Irish blood makes her get everything there is out of life. Most everyone has heard about this production which has been breaking records all over the country. A Harold Lloyd comedy entitled "Number Please" will be an added feature for Monday and Tuesday.

Why Women Dread Washday

Mrs. Charles Bailey is the wife of a well-known paper maker. She has resided in Farley, Mass., for fourteen years. Mrs. Bailey is one of those vigorous, strong and enthusiastic young mothers who find joy in the labors of the home. But sometimes such labors lead to disaster. Mrs. Bailey says:—

"I have three small children and am usually rugged and healthy. One Monday I had a very heavy washing and got awfully warm, but as it wasn't very cold, I went out to hang up the clothes without putting on any wrap. The wind was more chilly than I had thought and by the time I got into the house, I was shivering. I took a hot drink and thought I would be all right, but the next day I had chills and fever, head and backache, inflamed eyes and a terrific head cold. My husband suggested that I go to Orange and see Druggist Jackson. I did not feel like getting out of bed, but I struggled into town and told Mr. Jackson how it hurt me to cough and what an awful night I had. He recommended that I take Cerizane. He said he would guarantee it and return the money if I was unsatisfied. So I bought a large bottle. After using about half of it, I began to get better and by the time I had finished that bottle, my cough was loosened and I was nearly cured. I took a little more and was soon entirely well. I am sure that Cerizane saved me from a long spell of sickness — probably even from Pneumonia. I shall always have Cerizane in the house in the future as I have found that there is no better cough medicine for children or grown ups than Cerizane."

Cerizane is one of the famous Winsol lines. It has been made for almost a hundred years and contains absolutely no chloroform, opium or any other harmful drug.

Any obliging druggist will supply you with it.

Sport Shoes In Big Demand

way. It went with the war. No one would listen only to 100 per cent. profit and the mania spread as does the small pox.

Prices of leather are being cut in many instances to get business. Some tanners took their inventory at prices below the market and are willing to sell at the inventory price. There is a dollar in leather today, provided a superior article can be produced at pre-war prices. That many are doing this is the reason we hear of some busy factories. The fellow who thinks he is as good as the rest, but sits in the office complaining of dull business, had better count up, for he is only dreaming.

Perhaps most of us have thought little about sport shoes. By that I mean the large number worn in the summer. Tennis, baseball and other sports with the exception of golf are not big factors. But golf shoes worn by the millions who play the game are a decided factor. No one could hope to be a golfer today without the proper fixings. Once was the time any old shoe would do, but now if one appeared on the links with such an outfit, he would be looked upon as a golf tramp, and only fit to play in the barn. And looking at it from a comfort standpoint, shoes are as important as are the golf sticks.

Soon the tax rate will be announced and soon the tanners will be called on to pay their part, which has always been a large share of the taxes of the city. With the high rate which must come, these taxes will mount into big money, all the remains of the world war. As Peabody is not alone, perhaps this satisfaction may help some.

Rotary Club Observes 17th Anniversary

"A meeting that is being held around the world" is the way the members of the Peabody Rotary Club designated the gathering last Tuesday under club auspices this week, to help it celebrate the seventeenth anniversary of the organization of the first Rotary Club.

This statement was made because the eighty thousand Rotarians in the world who can attend are gathered with more than one thousand clubs in twenty-five different countries doing exactly the same thing—celebrating Rotary's anniversary and telling something of the aims and history of the organization to a gathering of the same sort as that which accepted the local club's invitation.

This international movement, which has assumed the proportions in membership and number of clubs that has been given, developed in the last seventeen years from a meeting of four men February 23, 1905, in the office of Paul P. Harris, a lawyer, in Chicago.

Harris, who is still a member of the Chicago Rotary Club, is looked upon as the "Father of Rotary." He had the original idea of forming a club that would promulgate the spirit of service and would be different from any existing organization. Associated with him at that first meeting were Silvester Schiele, H. E. Shorey and Gus A. Loehr. The test of the idea came with another meeting which drew to Rotary such men as Harry Ruggles, Rufe Chapin, Charlie Newton, Will Jenson, "Doc" Neff, Bernard Arntzen and Albert White—men who now as then represent a dynamic force of organization and ability which has been of inestimable value to Rotary throughout the world.

The idea they evolved and fostered to the point where it actually became a world force was an organization which would consist of one man from each business or profession who would meet in rotation at various places at frequent intervals and discuss various questions that might come up from time to time, become better acquainted with each other, the problems of the business of each as it affected the life of the community and for good fellowship. It was agreed that to promote fellowship one important step would be to call each man by his first name or nickname—to make it compulsory that this should be done.

The name "Rotary Club" was adopted shortly after the first meeting because the members met in rotation in the offices of each other.

The Chicago Club continued to increase in membership. In 1908—three years after the first meeting—the second Rotary Club was organized in San Francisco. Other clubs followed on the Pacific coast and then the movement spread to the east and then to the south until sixteen clubs had been organized by the end of 1910.

It was in 1910 that the first convention was held in Chicago and the "National Association" formed. At this convention Chesley R .Perry was elected secretary and he continues to hold this office at the present time. Rotary emerged from a national organization to an international organization two years later at the Duluth convention. A short time previous to this convention a club had been organized at Winnipeg, Canada, and during the convention a cablegram was received from the Rotary Club of London, England, asking for a charter. Rotary had thus quickly evolved from one club in 1905 to an international organization in 1912.

Since 1912 the organization has grown even more rapidly than during the first seven years. Today there are more than one thousand Rotary Clubs in the world. Although the greater number are in the United States, where the movement originated, there are now Rotary Clubs in Canada, Newfoundland, Great Britain and Ireland, Cuba, South America, the Republic of Panama, China, India, Australia and New Zealand. This growth seems all the more remarkable when we realize that the organization has never at any time employed paid organizers. And in addition, extreme care has always been exercised in surveying cities and towns applying for membership to make sure that such communities are ready for a Rotary Club and are of sufficient size from which to secure a membership of representative men and still have the membership restricted to one man from each business or profession.

The Peabody Rotary Club held its anniversary program last Tuesday noon with former President Albert Robinson, chairman of the committee on education, presiding. He had as the speaker, Alexander Kerr, a leading printer of Malden, Rotarian and vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, whose theme was "Co-operation Among Rotary Members." Next Tuesday John E. Fitzgerald, vice president of the Turner Tanning Machinery Co., will preside. The Rotary Club recently raised over $300 to equip 40 Boy Scouts at the Community House and the boys start their work with new uniforms and $100 in the bank.

Federal Taxes Due March 15

From now until March 15 a great income tax drive is being made throughout the country. Practically half a million income tax returns are expected to be filed in the Massachusetts district. In past years many persons have waited until the very last days of the filing period before submitting their returns, and thousands of those so doing have proceeded to the Boston office or one of the branch offices located throughout the state to have their income tax returns prepared for them. The assistance of the collector's office should be confined to giving council and advice, taking the oath, accepting the return and the payments thereon; not actually preparing the return for each person.

Every taxpayer should, without delay, assemble the accurate figures of his income and expenses called for by the income tax blank, which contains full instructions. He should prepare his own return as far as possible before consulting employes of this office, and file his return as early as possible.

AS GERMANY IS

Much interest is being shown the coming lecture here next week of Rev. Thomas Van Ness of Brookline, who is to present the truth about Germany as that nation now exists. Dr. Van Ness is to speak at the Unitarian parish house next Wednesday evening and a crowded house is sure to greet him. He has recently returned from a sojourn abroad, during which time he learned true conditions in Germany.

Too Much to Ask?

It is suggested by a public speaker that the voter should know the candidate; should know the duties of the office and should know whether the candidate is fitted for those duties. However, we must not ask too much of many voters or they will be losing all of their interest in our elections. —Detroit News.

Notice of public hearing on the proposed quarantine prohibiting the shipment of willows and poplars from certain towns in Middlesex, Norfolk, Essex, Plymouth and Suffolk counties, Massachusetts, on account of the Satin Moth.

The Director of the Division of Plant Pest Control has found that certain cities and towns within the Commonwealth, to wit, the cities and towns of Andover, Arlington, Bedford, Belmont, Beverly, Billerica, Boston, Boxford, Brookline, Burlington, Cambridge, Chelmsford, Concord, Danvers, Everett, Framingham, Georgetown, Groveland, Haverhill, Holliston, Lawrence, Lexington, Lincoln, Lowell, Lynn, Lynnfield, Malden, Marblehead, Medford, Melrose, Merrimac, Methuen, Middleton, Millis, Natick, Needham, Newburyport, Newton, North Andover, North Reading, Peabody, Quincy, Reading, Revere, Rockland, Rowley, Salem, Salisbury, Saugus, Sherborn, Somerville, Stoneham, Sudbury, Swampscott, Tewksbury, Topsfield, Wakefield, Waltham, Watertown, Wayland, Wellesley, West Newbury, Weston, Wilmington, Winchester, Winthrop and Woburn are infested with the Satin Moth.

This dangerous insect pest infests willows and poplars.

In order to prevent the spread of the dangerous insect which might result from the unrestricted movement of such plants, it is proposed to issue an order in accordance with Chapter 468 of the General Acts of the year 1921 prohibiting the exportation of all species and varieties of poplars and willows from any of the towns specified to any point without the same.

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held at the office of the Department of Agriculture, 136 State House, Boston, at 10:00 A. M. on Monday, February 20, 1922, at which time any person or organization interested in the proposed order may appear and be heard either in person or by attorney.

R. HAROLD ALLEN, Director.

"IRISH ROSE" ON ST. PATRICK'S EVE

The caste which is rehearsing "My Irish Rose," the St. Patrick's day drama of Div. 11, A. O. H., is reaching a degree of competency which will do them credit when they appear at City Hall on Thursday evening, March 16th.

The story of the play has been told in this paper up to the time when Sir Maurice Fitzgerald becomes a baronet after he has proposed to Rose Creigan. Lady Agnes Barricklow (Lena M. Armstrong) has long been in love with Sir Maurice and now that he is wealthy decides to marry him. She arrives at the McCormack farm with Eileen, Maurice's sister, and tries to break off the match between Rose and Sir Maurice by suggesting to Rose that her lover is already engaged to marry Eileen(who is really his sister).

Rose sees Maurice embrace his sister and thinking she is his betrothed agrees to break off with him. But Archibald Pennywitt (Cy McCarthy), a blundering English tourist, explains that Eileen is Maurice's sister, and as the curtain goes down in the second act Maurice introduces Rose to all as his affianced wife.

The story of Act 3 will be told later, as Terry Creigan (Tom Kavanagh) Rose's brother, a famous Irish patriot, is still in exile and Sir Maurice is entirely ignorant of his existence, but a Creigan of Kildare is as good as any Fitzgerald that ever walked.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY
CHARLES H. EGLEE

EFFICIENCY

There is only one way in which wealth can be created; that is, by labor; either by labor of brain or by labor of body, and usually by the labor of both together.

If we are to create more and more wealth, the labor of the brain must be constantly improving, so that the brain will do more and more, without becoming tired or worn out. At the same time the labor of the body must be constantly improved so that more and more wealth can be produced, without either tiring or wearing out the body.

This process is going on all the time. If we look back to the days of our grandfathers we see cloth spun and woven in the house with much labor; grain was planted and cultivated by hand, threshed by a flail and often ground in a mill run by hand power or horse power. When a chair was needed our grandfather chopped down a tree, hewed it out with an axe, and made a rough seat, working days and perhaps weeks before it was completed.

Today by the use of marvelous machinery produced by the labor of some one's brain, the efficiency of body labor has been so greatly increased that hundreds of chairs are turned out with less effort and in less time than grandfather used in making one. Great factories weave thousands and thousands of yards of cloth. Immense grain fields, cultivated by machinery, feed mills that send flour all over the world.

The result is more wealth to divide, more wages to more people, higher wages to every wage earner, more prosperity to all. Wealth created by labor of brain and body working together. Efficiency. "The greatest good to the greatest number."

Increased efficiency means higher wages. American railways pay wages five time as high as wages in Europe, yet carry freight at much less cost per ton mile. American automobile manufacturers pay wages from three to ten times the wages paid to better mechanics in France, England and Italy, and yet our automobiles cost less than half the price of foreign cars. Efficient industrial managers know that low wages do not mean low cost of production in every instance.

A recent investigation in the paper business shows that in some mills the labor cost was as low as $2.19 a ton; in others as high as $7.26 a ton. Moreover, those mills paying the lowest wages and having a twelve-hour day, had a higher labor cost per ton of paper than those paying the highest wages and having an eight-hour day. The difference was in efficiency. Brain labor and body labor working together.

Do you know that wages paid to leather workers in the Peabody district today are the highest wages paid to any leather workers in the world? It is true. We are just a little bit more efficient than our competitors and the wage earner gets the benefit. If we lower our efficiency, wages will at once go down to meet wages elsewhere, or else Peabody will lose her leather trade.

But we are not lowering our efficiency. During these days of lessened demand and no profits our manufacturers are trying to increase the efficiency of their factories. Four different firms in Peabody and Salem have built large additions during the past year. Not one of these firms will sell a single skin more on this account, for there is no demand; they are spending this money to increase the efficiency of the plant, the quality of the leather, the increase in production, more economy in cost, more efficiency.

Our manufacturers are introducing new and better methods of bookkeeping, modern methods of cost accounting; trying new ways of planning by scientific records; buying supplies in large quantities by a system of collective purchasing; employing industrial engineers to teach them the best lay out of machinery, of ventilation, of lighting. Our manufacturers are employing trained chemists to experiment in new processes. All for what? For efficiency. To keep Peabody on the map. To prevent our trade going to the west. To keep German leather out of the country, for in Germany the leather workers are earning $5 to $6 a week, and working 10 hours to 12 hours a day.

Never has the brain labor of the leather industry in this section been so active as it is today and yet in several instances this brain activity has been strongly opposed by organized labor. Planning systems and cost systems that are installed for the purpose of giving a steady employment to the factory and do away with constant laying off and hiring on, systems that the wage earner ought to welcome and ask for ,are used as an argument to set worker against employer and to stir up bitterness, hate and distrust.

When shall the day arrive when the worker at the machine will realize that the best friend he has is the employer with money enough to pay for brain labor, to invent and install systems that steady his employment and keep up his wages? When shall that day arrive? It will be when the wage earner elects as his leaders men of vision, of judgment, of business sense. The day of hate and fear and strife is nearing its end. The day of A Square Deal, of Co-operation, of Service, is close at hand.

Peabody Sews Salem Game

The doubts held by some regarding the Haverhill-Peabody contract are ended for the contract has been signed and everything points to a close relationship between Peabody and Haverhill on future Thanksgiving days. The contract calls for a sixty-forty guarantee. Peabody is to receive forty per cent. of the gate receipts.

The basketball season is indefinitely postponed—Peabody high's basketball team defeated the fast Burdett college team of Lynn twice by decisive scores. The receipts of the first Peabody-Burdett game was $21.05.

The commercial Club held a valentine party and dance at the Daniel Francis Keefe school Thursday evening, February 16, which was largely attended. Games were played and dancing was held during the evening. Refreshments were served and paper hats were distributed, and a good time was had by all. The Commercial Club wishes to thank all those who helped make it a success.

The following school program was carried out Tuesday in observance of Washington's birthday: March, High School orchestra; singing, "America," by the school; original essay, "Washington As a Statesman," Marea M. Johnson, '22; "True Americanism," by Henry Van Dyke, William D. Ratcliff, '23; selection by the High School orchestra; original essay, "The Significance of Washington's Birthday," Michael J Flynn, '23; "Patriotism," by Lyman Abbott, Elbridge Tarbox, '22; "Birthday of Washington" by Pauline Bakeman; "An Appreciation of Washington," by William McKinley, Raymond F. Grady, '23; singing, "The Star Spangled Banner," by the school; march, High School orchestra.

Marmalade.

The name "marmalade" comes from the name of the fruit—Portuguese quince—called marmelo, from which it was originally prepared. It is frequently mentioned in old cookery books as "marmals." The name "jam" comes merely from the method of preparation—to jam, or crush, the fruit and sugar together.

To Get Rid of Moths.

Benzine is advised for exterminating moths. With a syringe inject the liquid into every crevice and corner of the furniture covering, turn up the edges of the carpet and (after it has been well cleaned) wet the edges with benzine. It will not injure the color or material of your best furniture or carpet. Shut the room up closely for several hours to allow the benzine to evaporate slowly. Be very careful not to have a fire or a light in or near the room. Benzine is dangerously inflammable.

for the garage, stricken out. The amendments were quickly defeated and Duggan's motion failed to carry, lacking one vote. Five votes were for his motion and four against. It needed six to carry.

Messrs. Cullen and Craig believed Chief Grady the man to have charge of the garage. McKeen quoted Mayor Shea as willing to cut out the section giving the police head authority to hire help in the garage. The City Auditor furnished the items of expense to the garage since last October, which netted over $6000. City Solicitor Farnham said the Mayor was willing to have only three men at work in the garage as now.

The other spice of the evening was Duggan's effort to get the Council on record as favoring a referendum on the bill to clothe the city electrician with civil service, but this failed to carry.

Messrs. Cullen, Barry, Sullivan, Eagan and Craig opposed the referendum, although the city electrician declared he was willing to test the popular vote on his record. The latter was paying his respects to the opponents of his bill when the acting president called a halt, despite the desire on the part of Duggan to let Mr .O'Keefe continue.

Following this vote Councillor Duggan got the Council with him in his motion to have the city solicitor produce the statute which will let the City Council take steps to clothe the street laborers with civil service.

Acting President Barry gave the most finished demonstration of what an intelligent presiding officer can do in his deliberations in the chair last night. He was nominated by Councillor Craig without opposition. President Ryan was detained, owing to illness in his family.

Alfonse Levasseur of Northend street and Cornelius P. O'Brien of Basford court were drawn for jury duty March 6 in Salem. Councillor Barnes drew the Ward 6 man and Councillor Cullen upheld the interests of Ward 5 by drawing Levasseur.

The field assessors as nominated by Mayor Shea two weeks ago were confirmed. Messrs. Jones and Duggan voted against Charles M. Boyle for Ward 2. Duggan declared the Mayor had failed to reward former field assessor Elliott by not nominating him. Boyle is the only war veteran on the list.

William F. Carlin was granted an auctioneer's license.

Bill Aims To Give O'Keefe Civil Service

An interesting story surrounds a bill that was recently introduced in the legislature by Rep. James E. McVann, in which authority is asked to place the Peabody city electrician and his assistant under civil service.

It was only by mere accident that City Electrician Vincent O'Keefe discovered a few weeks ago that his office was no longer under civil service. He also learned for the first time that he has not been a civil service employe since the city charter was adopted in 1917. Revelation of the true state of affairs came to him through a chance meeting with an examiner of the civil service department.

Under the old town form of government, Mr. O'Keefe was automatically placed under civil service when the office of superintendent of fire alarm system was created. Then the city charter was adopted and the duties of the superintendent of the fire alarm system was combined under the title of inspector of wires. It was at that time that Mr .O'Keefe and his assistant lost their rating as civil service employes of the city. Later, another change was made under which Mr. O'Keefe became city electrician, with powers stipulated for the regulation of that department.

As soon as the necessary authority has been obtained from the legislature, Mr. O'Keefe and his assistant, Charles Burns, will take the examinations in order to secure their former rating under the civil service rulings.

CONCERT BY GLEE CLUB

The concert to be given by the Glee Club of the Peabody Woman's Club in Peabody Institute hall this evening is sure to be well attended. In addition to the cantata, "The Lady of Shalot," a miscellaneous musical program will be given. Carl Webster, 'cellist, and Clarence M. Alexander, baritone, are the assisting artists. Club members will be admitted on membership tickets.

HOLTEN LODGE

Holten Lodge of Odd Fellows of this city earned much credit for the successful degree work exhibiton put on Washington's Birthday at the new high school auditorium, when over 500 members of the order witnessed the pleasing ceremony. Essex County lodges were well represented. A turkey supper was served in the South church vestry and over 500 covers were laid.

Leo Guild To Install March 6

The installation of officers will be held on Monday evening, March 6, in K. of C. hall, and it is expected that there will be a record attendance. Supper will be served by a Lynn caterer and a charge of 50 cents will be made. Members intending to attend should notify any member of the following installation committee before Friday, March 3: Mrs. Nettie Tucker, chairman, Mrs. Florence Howe, Mrs. Annie O'Connor, Mrs. Katherine Emmons, Mrs. Alice Fennessey, Mrs. Delia Fox, Mrs. Katherine Conlon, Mrs. Margaret Sullivan, Mrs. Mary Ryan. At this meeting a member of the executive board of the League of Catholic Women, Boston, will give a short address on the many advantages of the League House. A meeting of the installation committee will be held at 2.30 next Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. Felix Carr's home on Ayer street, when plans for the installation supper will be perfected.

At the last meeting of the Guild it was voted to serve the communion breakfast to the Father Mathew C. T. A. S. on Sunday, March 5.

The vaudeville show given on Monday evening was greatly enjoyed by an audience of more than 100 women.

RETURNED FROM HOSPITAL

Frank A. Gallagher, brother of John J. Gallagher, returned home yesterday from the Parker Hill hospital and will remain an out-patient. His home is at 47 Nichols street, Danvers. He entered the hospital last January.

POLICEMEN GIVE BANNER SHOW ON THEIR DEBUT

Peabody policemen are exceedingly grateful to the Peabody manufacturers, businessmen and citizens who made their first annual concert and ball a huge financial success. Proceeds from the sale of tickets and ad book will net several hundred dollars for the treasury of the relief association, which comprises all but two or three members on the force. Chief Grady, as president of the association, thanked the citizens for the generous support. The Keith circuit acts which featured the concert were high class, and Roy Patch, the Beverly tenor, rounded out the program nicely. The biggest house of the winter season was recorded. During the dancing Leo Guild women under the direction of Miss Ethel Grady served refreshments and will use the proceeds for their charity. The success of the entertainment will make the police concert and ball a much looked forward to event next year.

SCHOOL PLAYERS WIN APPLAUSE

The show presented at City Hall last night by the Peabody High school was one of the snappiest performances ever given locally. It was called a "Musicalaugh," and differed greatly from the regular minstrel show, as a number of specialties were introduced that gave it a pleasing variety.

The first part of the program gave a glimpse into the lives of several of Broadway's stars. Ethel Barrymore was portrayed by Elizabeth Lillis; Fay Templeton by Miss Irene Ellis; the Two Orphans by Misses Helen Attridge and Ester Horrigan; George Cohan by Matt O'Keefe and Fritzie Scheff by Elizabeth Gourley. Misses Lottie Brown, Elizabeth McHugh and Phoebe O'Connor, as the girl ends, were three live wires and danced like professionals. The three boy ends were Mose Harris, Mansfield Munroe and Jack Anglin, and each made a decided hit with their songs and funny antics.

Pleasing solos were rendered by Misses Lucy Peabody, Bessie Carney and Lena O'Brien, and graceful dancing specialties by Miss Alice Elliott and Mary Collins were greatly enjoyed. Matt O'Keefe in his impersonation of George Cohan, and later when he sang "Put it on—take it off" was one of the bright lights of the show, and lived up to his former reputation of being "as good as a professional."

Miss Elizabeth Gourley delighted the audience with her rendition of "Kiss me again" while impersonating Fritzie Scheff, and later when she sang "Cupid tell me why" she displayed a voice of rare sweetness. Altogether the show was cleverly done and reflected credit on the pupils who participated and on their director, Joseph Lalor, whose efforts were rewarded by a first class performance. The show will be given again this evening, followed by dancing.

COUNTY RING HAS GRIP ON LEGISLATION

Pres. Clarence W. Barnes, Councillor David Craig and City Collector Michael J. Sherry represented the local Chamber of Commerce at a hearing before the joint committee on counties at the state house last Tuesday on R. S. Bauer's bill for an investigation of the stewardship of the county commissioners, with instructions to support the bill. They reported the committee to be aparently hostile to the proponents and are not surprised at their decision to report unfavorably upon it by a vote of 9 to 2, with Senator A. P. Wadleigh and Representative Higgins only dissenting. Senator Wadleigh, a resident of this county, promises to make a vigorous fight for the measures upon the floor of the senate upon presentation of the report of the committee. Surely the county ring seems well entrenched even in the committee rooms of the legislature.

Tag Day Here To Aid Russia

Tag day in aid of the starving Russian people will be held in Peabody tomorrow under the auspices of the Leather Workers Union. This tag day was scheduled for last week but the Leather Workesr gave way in favor of the disabled war veterans in whose behalf the local drive was a success.

MAY KNOW POSTMASTER NEXT WEEK

Congressman Maloney

The name of Peabody's new postmaster will probably be sent to the U. S. Senate next week, according to a report which reached Peabody today from Washington. Congressman Robert S. Maloney has been receiving much correspondence relative to candidates for the berth and his mind is said to be made up in favor of one of the three men who qualified.

There will be no further examination by the civil service commission. This point has been settled and the name of the aspirant will be drawn

Forum On Car Service Votes Conference With Road For Longer Rides

Following the public forum held in the Council Chamber last night to discuss improved street car service and single fare for Peabody the forum voted to have the Board of Directors of the Chamber confer with the railroad officials.

Lowell street, Central street and Andover street residents urged a longer ride within the limits of Peabody and one of the speakers asked the railway representatives to remedy the blockading of Peabody Square by the present method of taking on and letting off patrons.

Fred Cummings publicity man representing the Trustees of the road and Manager McCormick of Salem were present at the forum and expressed their willingness to confer with the local Chamber with a view to bringing about improvements in the car service.

Mrs. Frank Merrill of Lowell street asked that the Lowell street residents who patronized the cars be allowed to ride beyond, Peabody Square for one fare. Mrs. Henry H. Buxton, President of the Woman's Club added a word in behalf of Central street residents who use the Central street cars and Councillor David Craig spoke in favor of more frequent car service for Andover street people.

There were about 40 men and women present at the forum which showed that car patrons are apparently not terribly vexed at the Bay State car service in this city.

According to Mr. Cummings the road is now paying all of its bills and wants to make friends with the public wherever it can. He believed some of the questions raised last night could be settled by Manager McCormick.

Rev. Robert Bakeman, who is ill, sent a letter requesting that a 10-trip ticket between Peabody and Lynn be available for South Peabody residents.

Councillors Burnes, Craig and McKeen were the only city councillors present.

Manager McCormick let it be known

ASKS WORKERS AND EMPLOYERS TO GET TOGETHER

What's wrong with both labor and capital, is the keynote of the address to be given by George W. Cartwright of Philadelphia before the Chamber of Commerce next Monday night. The meeting will be held in the Council chamber in city hall and the public is invited. A special invitation is being sent to manufacturers and to the Leather Workers.

The speaker recently appeared before the Salem Chamber of Commerce. He is a former state senator in California and is now Vice President of the American Education Association with offices in Philadelphia. He seeks to secure a maximum of initiative and production. He is introduced as the greatest teacher of Americanism since Roosevelt.

LEGION POST WILL HOLD TEN FORUMS

The American Legion Post of this city will begin a series of ten public forums on Sunday afternoon when George Wilson of Boston veteran of the Spanish and World wars who organized the American Legion in this state will be the speaker. His subject will be "service for the ex-service men". The forum will open at 3 o'clock. Among the speakers already assigned are Mayor McPhetres of Lynn and Ex-Rep. John W. McCormick of Boston.

ETHEL CLAYTON "IN BEYOND" HEADS STRAND BILL TONIGHT

Ethel Clayton proves herself to be a great artist in her latest picture entitled "Beyond," which will be the main attraction on the bill the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. This is a photoplay with a strong story tinged with the mystical and it is this latter element which vests the production with an interest all its own. The picture is a William D. Taylor production of the story by Henry Arthur Jones. Miss Clayton is seen as the wife of a man of wealth who later is shipwrecked in the South Seas and has many thrilling adventures. The brilliant interior scenes and homes of wealth afford her ample opportunities for effective satorial display and that Miss Clayton has taken advantage of them, every woman spectator will testify.

"The Leather Pushers," featuring Reginald Denny, made from the famous stories by H. C. Witwer which appeared in Collier's Weekly and later in the Boston Post, will be another number on the bill for today. While these pictures are released as a series each chapter tells a complete and thrilling story. The humor of the stories is irresistible and they will appeal to young and old alike. Eddie Polo in "The Secret Four" rounds out the program for today.

Vivian Martin in "Pardon My French" will top the Sunday program. The titles for this picture were written by Irvin Cobb, America's best known humorist. Jose Collins in "Where Is My Husband" will be the second feature for Sunday evening.

Rudolph Valentino, star of the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and "The Sheik" will appear at the local playhouse on Monday and Tuesday in "The Conquering Power," and adaption of Balzac's story "Eugenie Grandet." Rex Ingram, director of the "Four Horsemen" also directed this production, and his wife, Alice Terry, plays the title part. Others in the big supporting cast are Ralph Lewis, Edward Connolley and Eric Mayne.

The scenes of the story are laid in a provincial city of France, where the miserly old Grandet hoards his gold and live in poverty with his daughter, Eugenie, played by Alice Terry. A nephew Charles, played by Rudolph Valentino, a young man of strong temperament, son of a bankruptcy suicide, is thrown upon the miser's charity. This is merely the opening scene of Balzac's tremendous novel of love and greed.

Mr. Ingram has illustrated his production with photograph that has the tonal quality of works of art and although "The Conquering Power" is not another "Four Horsemen" it is an artistic achievement of uncommon merit. The News Weekly and one of the Brigg's "Toonerville Trolley" comedies will be the short subjects carded for showing on Monday and Tuesday.

SOCIETY WHIST TO AID CHILDREN

Nearly $200 was netted by the whist party held in aid of the Society for the Preventon of Cruelty to Children last Tuesday afternoon in City Hall, and the local society is much pleased. It needed funds with which to promote its welfare work among neglected children.

There were 50 tables in play. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Marion McBride Dorgan and Miss Mary L. McCarthy. Mr. Lathrop of Boston told of the important work of the society and the need of funds.

Mrs. George Millett and Mrs. Daniel Donovan were in charge of the party. Mrs. Henry Hanson and Mrs. Rosa Sturgeon had charge of the refreshment tables and Mrs. George Low presided over the cake and candy table, receipts from which tables added to the fund.

Prizes were donated for the party by the following: Mrs. George Felt, Mrs. Thomas Hayes, Mrs. D. J. Donovan, Mrs. George Millett, Parke Snow Co., George S. Curtis, Mrs. B. G. Hall, Miss Gertrude Millett, Mrs. J. E. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Daniel C. Manning, Mrs. Henry Fox, Mrs. J. J. Hickey, Rev. Thomas P. McGinn, C. L. Beckett, Norman W. Hunter.

The officers of the Peabody branch are: Stephen A. Stickney, president; Mrs. Rosa Sturgeon, vice president; Mrs. Mabel L. Williams, secretary; and Attorney Elmer J. Foley, treasurer.

Today and Saturday

New York, and a pair of lovers just married.

An isle in the South Pacific, visited only once in years by a tramp steamer.

A big New Zealand ranch, and a weakling there, spoiling three lives.

Beyond—a wonderful thing that draws them all together into a great heart-romance of vivid adventure.

Lynn Girl Star For Title Role In "My Irish Rose" March 16

HELEN E. CANNON, LYNN GIRL, IN TITLE ROLE

The story of the drama "My Irish Rose," the St. Patrick's day affair of Div. 11, A. O. H., has been partly told in this paper, telling how Sir Maurice Fitzgerald falls in love with Rose Creigan, an Irish country lass, whose brother, an Irish patriot, is in exile in America, and how Lady Agnes Barricklow, an old favorite of Sir Maurice's, tries to break the match because she wants him for herself.

In Act 3 Rose and Maurice have been married for a year, but Lady Agnes is still trying to cause trouble by suggesting a separation. Terry Creigan, Rose's brother, comes home from America and is exonerated of all charges, while Sir Maurice is endeavoring to remove all restrictions against him.

Rose after a bitter quarrel with Agnes asserts her rights and orders her from her house, so Agnes departs for Belfast. Sir Maurice, too, is going to Belfast to secure Terry's release, though he does not yet know he is Rose's brother. Rose suspecting that Sir Maurice is to join Agnes at Belfast spurns her husband and departs for a grand military ball with Terry, who has been in the house unknown to Sir Maurice.

Maurice, thinking that Terry is Rose's lover, decides to challenge him to a duel, but everything is explained later.

Helen E. Cannon, who plays the title roll, changes from an Irish country lass to a grand lady and has a hard time studying her French. "But whatever is the use of French when an Irish brogue and an Irish heart is waiting to give you an Irish welcome.'

DUMPING EVIL ON PLAYGROUNDS HEALTH MENACE

Members of the Park Commissioner recently made a tour of inspection to the East End playgrounds, where they found that the careless dumping of rubbish threatens to completely block the drainage trenches. The commission proposes to put a stop to such practices, which if allowed to continue uninterrupted would in time lead to a dangerous condition in and menace to the health of the children for whom this plot of land has been set aside as a playlot during the summer months.

Manufacturers who have been assisting in filling in the grounds, and who desire to continue the practice, are invited to communicate with members of the Park Board, and some plan will probably be worked out whereby the work of filling in may be continued, without interfering with drainage facilities.

LEATHER PRODUCTION BOUND TO INCREASE SO DECLARES ENERGY

(By ENERGY)

Each week shows me that the leather business is gradually becoming better. I am aware that some tanners will tell you that the year 1922 will not show any better than did 1921. Perhaps their particular lne may not show, but on the other hand quite a few manufacturers are getting more orders than for many moons, and there are men going to work this week who have not done anything in the leather game for months.

So as I read the daily papers, everything points to a better all around business. To be sure there are factors which disturb the business horizon, factors which may lead to serious trouble. But England with the big coal strike and the Irish question presumably settled, is doing more business than for some years. Germany is reaching out more and more, and I saw an example of it this week, where in a certain store in the city, they offerred razor blades to take the place of the original blades for 65 cents a dozen, against 89 cents for the regulars. I keep hearing of German leather being offered for less money than our makes, and no doubt it is purchased. Shoe manufacturers tell tanners they must purchase leather for less than ruling prices, as the public demand lower price shoes.

It is the tendency of all staples. Lower prices means lower wages, and when the chain is completed all will be as well off. We read of strikes in the textile industries, large in the number involved. Street railroads now have the authority to reduce their workmen 15 per cent., and whether it will be accepted, remains to be seen. As to local workmen, I am informed that wages in the tanneries are being held up in some cases, while in others men are willing to work for whatever is offered. The outcome must be that tannery wages will eventually drop to pre-war figures, which is as natural as other world doings.

One trade paper on the business situation has this much to say: "It is doubtful if there ever was a piece of legislation that aroused more general interest than that affecting the payment of the so-called bonus to ex-service men. It is undeniable that the question has its political aspect, but even this is completely overshadowed by the tremendous bearing the whole subject has on the general business of the country. Opposition to bonus legislation is on the increase. It is conceivable that the oppositon may be strong enough to force a postponement of definite action, in which case the whole subject will again become almost entirely a political issue. Special or general taxation for bonus purposes at this time would postpone the recovery of business at least a year.

After reading such a story, one can see that while all would like to see the soldiers get a bonus, if it will affect business as predicted, and coming from the source it does, I believe it will, what shall be done? Surely dull business affects everybody, and is the vitals of the discussion. If only politics is influencing the situation, then let us stand up in our boots if we have any, and for the good of all, postpone the bonus until such time as the country can stand it without affecting everything.

The hide market remains quiet. Such is told by a trade paper, which must mean it has been quiet. There is only one answer to a quiet hide or leather market, lower prices. It cannot mean at this time that the market will go to pieces, for it cannot go below nothing. It does mean that if there are hides or leather for sale, concessions will be made to get the business. Another feature of the market is that merchants are not paying their bills promptly. Many tanners refuse to sell their wares unless the money is forthcoming when due. Those who have trusted out big sums are worrying more about getting what is owed them rather than adding to that sum by selling more leather. Then again shoe manufacturers will purchase only what they need to clean up their orders. If 1000 pairs of soles are needed, none will be carried over for fall business, for they say that means money tied up which can be used to better advantage. So the tanner today is carrying the surplus leather, when during the war the shoe man would almost commit murder to get any old leather. What a change!

Now the government is claiming that there is a monopoly in the dye stuff business. I remember during the war how the tanners were struggling to get dyes. When American manufacturers accomplished the trick of copying the German dyes, they were pronounced wonders. Much money was spent to get desired results, and now somebody is trying to take away what they have justly earned. I have no sympathy for those who would injure the dye industry of this country. If Germany is allowed to send their dyes here to the injury of the American dye manufacturers, it simply shows we are wrong somewhere or everywhere. Lest we forget.

HAVERHILL SHOPS GETTING BUSY

Samples have been completed by many manufacturers and salesmen are preparing for the road. Factory production is not brisk, and, while most shops are running, a part-time schedule is effective at many. A lull is likely until just before Easter, when some retailers will be forced to place small orders. While several of the larger centers have experienced a decline in immediate business, Haverhill factories are slightly busier. Much attention is being paid sport shoes which are already being featured by dealers with indications of a run on this type of footwear. The white shoe factories are also well favored with orders. The wholesale trade is fairly active, with a slow, but steady improvement. Dealers are showing a tendency to depend more and more on the wholesaler for staples at least. This is also reflected in the fairly steady business with factory instock departments.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

Mr. Scheid Could Not Stay In Bed

Almost Choked From Catarrhal Cough. Cerizane Brought Relief

"I can recommend Cerizane for any sort of a cough." So said Mr. Herman Scheid, a skilled pattern weaver, who has been a resident of Clinton, Mass., for thirty-five years. He then went on to say: "I have had catarrh for the last fifteen years and off and on during the winter would have a very hard cough. The dripping of mucus almost choked me and I had to get out of bed to breathe. But the first bottle of Cerizane brought great relief, and by taking a little occasionally, I am kept free from catarrh and coughs."

Cerizane Cough Balsam is one of the famous "Winsol" line of medicines. It is absolutely free from narcotics, chloroform or any harmful drug. Cerizane has been helping people for ninety-five years and it has never hurt any one.

CHILD RESCUE

A wrong opinion obtains frequently in cities and towns as to the real purpose of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. By some this society is held to meddle in families where its appearance is unwelcomed, and looked upon as an intrusion wholly unlicensed and quite unnecessary. Yet the record of this laudable society, supported largely by the voluntary subscriptions of well-to-do people plus the efforts of local branches to raise its funds, shows only too clearly that many a little child has been rescued from hunger and neglect from parents or foster parents who looked upon the little tots as so much excess baggage. It is a fact, also, that the records of the society disclose that numerous children rescued from homes of misery and poverty have grown to useful manhood and womanhood, owing their start in life to the efforts of this society. In its short existence in Peabody it has rendered a service to several homes where sickness and distress had proved too great a handicap to give precious little children sufficient food and warmth. The whist party held on the eve of Lent this week netted a substantial sum to promote the work of the society, which deserves the support it now appears to be getting from Peabody citizens.

SERVING PEABODY

The public forums held under the auspices of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce are positive proof that the organization aims to serve the interests of the city and promote the welfare of the citizens. Its activity in getting the Howard Clock Co. to purchase the former Peabody Leather plant on Howley street is deserving of the praise of every citizen who honestly and unselfishly seeks to help our city progress. There is room for other industry in Peabody besides leather and the efforts of the Chamber is being given to induce other manufacturing business to locate here.

The Chamber cannot be run on wind and it requires financial support quite the same as any other service organization. Consequently, its appeal to the citizenship to come forward with funds is urgent if the city is to have a Chamber. Have you paid your dues? Send in your check today and become actively behind the best efforts of the organization.

YOUR TEETH

By Rea Proctor McGee, D.D.S., M.D., Editor "Oral Hygiene"

THE FIFTY-TWO TEETH

Every normal person will have in his lifetime fifty-two teeth, as many teeth as there are weeks in the year.

There are twenty teeth in the temporary set and thirty-two in the permanent set. In each jaw the temporary teeth will consist of two central incisors, two lateral incisors, two cuspids, two first molars and two second molars.

There are no bicuspid teeth and no third molars in the temporary set; these are found only in the permanent teeth.

Nature's method of erupting or cutting the teeth is peculiar.

The temporary teeth in baby's jaws are developed in a little groove just like planting corn in a furrow in the field.

These little teeth have the enamel formed first and then the roots. The teeth do not begin to erupt until a bony covering is grown from the edges of the development groove completely over the tops of the baby teeth.

Then as soon as this job is complete, nature at once begins to absorb the layer of bone so recently grown over the tops of these teeth, and presently the teeth, with the aid of blood pressure, push their way through bone and gum into the mouth.

The permanent teeth form more deeply in the jaw and of course as they are more perfect, they form more slowly.

When all of the baby teeth are in place the little jaws are literally crowded with teeth; twenty in place in the mouth, and thirty-two more or less developed teeth yet concealed beneath the bone.

Does it not seem good judgment to take care of the permanent teeth so that abscesses will not form about their roots? Just think of the damage that infection from baby teeth can do to these crowded little jaws.

There are no other bones in the body that have other organs developing within them.

Only the jaw bones have, in a lifetime, fifty-two holes punched in them by Nature to accommodate fifty-two additional organs. A healthy jaw has as much work to do as it can handle without adding to its burden infection that can be prevented.

J. Carlton Saunders came to himself with a start, as Elizabeth spoke his name. He knew from the tone of his sister's voice that she had spoken before, and had been ignored.

"You asked, my dear—" he questioned.

"When you are going away," Elizabeth retorted, "isn't it about time for one of your trips?"

"Yes," Carlton answered, "I ought to be in New York this week."

He frowned; it was diplomacy to pretend these business trips a bore and a bother. Otherwise, the two elderly and dominating sisters who were his housekeepers and companions, would feel themselves cheated of the participation of a pleasure.

As a matter of fact, Carlton Saunders, in the prosy regime of his small town home, looked forward to these escapes into an outer world with secret anticipation and enjoyment. Elizabeth and Katherine were good sisters, annoyingly anxious concerning his welfare.

J. Carlton appreciated their solicitude, while he fretted under the constant surveillance. There were those who insisted that the kindly man might long ago have rejoiced in a home of his own with a wife to share it, had it not been for Elizabeth's and Katherine's rule. But the brother in his heart refuted this.

Were his sisters not bringing before him constantly possible applicants for matrimony?

"Yes," he answered Elizabeth again, "I must be in New York this week."

"We will pack your valise," Katherine said, "and don't forget to wear your rubbers."

But when he walked into the New York hotel a few days later, he had left, unconsciously, his habitual diffidence at home. His name on the register was signed merely Jack Saunders. The clerk bowed in greeting.

"Can't give you your usual room," he explained apologetically, "we are filled up."

The room the bellboy ushered him into was comfortable enough. But as he turned to place coat and hat on the hanger, J. Saunders stared; a filmy blue cloud of something had forestalled him there. While all about the small room was the indefinable fragrance of that mystical romance, which he had missed. Lilac, or lily of the valley or just sweet springtime—what was the alluding odor which enchanted his senses?

A tap on the door. Carlton turned guiltily. A woman's face was raised to his—her eyes were as blue as the filmy cloud on the hanger, but they were not the eyes of a young girl—nor yet the calm gazing eyes that Elizabeth would have recommended.

"I am afraid I left some of my belongings in this room," the sweet-faced woman said. "I had decided to occupy it when the clerk discovered that the one I prefer was vacated. So they carried my grip in there. I am sorry—" she paused, and then at his bow of permission, gathered up her apparel and went on her way. But the breath of springtime remained. When J. Carlton went into the dining hall at evening, he saw the young woman seated alone at a secluded table. He liked the plainness of her blue serge dress, which was such a different plainness from Julia Well's, or his sister's; and he liked the piquant hat that she becomingly wore. As he passed down the corridor to his room, it gave him an unaccountable feeling of relief, to hear the woman at the hall desk address the lady of the blue cloud as "Miss Darby." Miss, then she was not married. He speculated about her, as he bent over his writing. The usually matter-of-fact John Carlton could not write; he could not take hold of his work; he decided to retire. And there on the floor at his feet, lay a pair of small blue slippers, quilted satin slippers with ridiculous fluffy pompons upon either toe. So, she had forgotten these. They were the sort of slippers a Cinderella of past dreaming might have chosen—to slip on in the firelight. The following morning he sank into a chair in an adjoining "coffee house" and opened his paper. Springtime floated provocatively around him, lilac and lily-of-the-valley springtime. Two very blue eyes smiled over a coffee cup, opposite.

"Good morning," greeted the lady of the blue cloud, "thank you for returning my slippers."

"I travel," she told him upon their third chance breakfast together, "for a linen company. Imported linens. My knowledge in that line was my one chance for self-support after my father died. It's a good business, but it leaves me homeless. That's—the drawback."

"I have a home—" Carlton said musingly, "an old place, with bushes around it."

"Not," asked the woman eagerly, "not lilac bushes?"

Carlton nodded.

"How I would love it," she exclaimed.

"I am old," he answered her irrelevantly. "I was mourning over my bald head this morning."

"So much—" asked the lady opposite, "that you quite missed the clear youth of your eyes?"

When Elizabeth and Katherine received a telegram some days later, they stared at each other in speechless amazement.

"Married," read the brief message from their brother, "bringing my wife home with me."

ROUND ABOUT

A former Peabody woman now living in a suburb of Philadelpha sent the Enterprise the following letter a few days ago, together with a clipping from a Philadelphia newspaper. The clipping read: Peabody, Mass., Feb. 15. Women bootleggers are plying their trade using moonshine containers made for wear under their waists. A copper tank, constructed like a baseball catcher's chest protector is used. In her letter she writes: "It is awfully nice to know one's home city is on the map. I know the women of our city are very progressive, but their progress in the direction indicated by the enclosed item, was not very flattering, after doing my best to boost the Tannery City. But you know every knock is a boost."

George Gallagher, 19-year-old wireless operator on the revenue cutter Tampa, witnessed the overhauling of the Grace and Ruth steamer, alleged mother rum running ship from which the cargo recently seized in Salem is said to have come. The chase after the steamer and the firing of a loaded shell to stop the fleeing vessel provided real movie thrills for the Peabody operator, who saw the action.

I observed that Mayor Shea had as his principal guest at the recent police ball, his aged mother, a resident of Salem. Mrs. Shea is passed 80 years, but belies her years by frequently walking from her home in Salem to Peabody.

Daniel, a 14-year-old son in a family of 15 children, walked into the office recently and in quest of a job for afternoons. He attends the high school, this being his first year, and he is anxious to start work at 2 in the afternoon to earn money that he may bring home. There ought to be a job for this lad somewhere in Peabody, and the writer of this column hopes some business man will see that Dan gets a chance to earn something.

Peabody leather manufacturers were sorry to hear of the death of Charles Palen Hall, vice president of the American Hide and Leather Co. He was well known in leather circles.

Chief Thomas R. Murphy of the San Francisco fire department hopes that Peabody will be represented at the 50th anniversary of Fire Chiefs and Fire Engineers to be held next August in his home city. He declares in a letter received by the Enterprise this week:

"Too often, unfortunately, the sending of a chief to such a convention is considered in the light of a junket. Personally, I can say, that I immediately adopted several devices which I first saw practically demonstrated at last year's convention at Atlanta, Ga., and which I believe will be of incalculable benefit to my city."

I observed Patrolman James McMahon hold up an auto truck driver Wednesday afternoon who had raced through Peabody Square at a speed close to 25 miles an hour. It required five lengths of the truck to bring it to a stop. The square was more or less congested and the truck driver was taking a big chance in cutting through in his effort to proceed up Lowell street. It is probably true that this same truck driver will proceed at not over ten miles an hour in the future when driving through Peabody's busy mart.

A well-known factory superintendent attended a lecture this week in Peabody accompanied by his esteemed wife, having listened to the press agent's story of what a good talk Dr. Van Ness was to deliver on Germany. The official taking the tickets was an acquaintance and promptly lifted his hand to accept the pasteboards. Instead the aforementioned "super" shook hands and tickets were not a part of his busy mind. In fact he had to be reminded and of course dug for a dollar bill. He had expected the lecture was free. The incident had its humorous aspect because the "super" likes to turn a joke on his friends and today he is telling how the joke was on himself.

Rev. Edward D. Towle, minister of the Unitarian parish, toured Europe 20 years ago this year with Dr. Van Ness, the Boston preacher, and recalled his pleasant tour this week when he introduced the Boston lecturer before an audience of Peabody citizens.

Roger Coombs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Coombs, now of Henniker, N. H., is enroute by auto across the states with three other former college mates. Their destination is Los Angeles, where they will visit Everett Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Murray Wilson of this city.

Don't grumble, don't bluster,
Don't dream and don't shirk,
Don't think of your worries,
But think of your work.
The worries will vanish,
The work will be done,
No man sees his shadow
Who faces the sun.

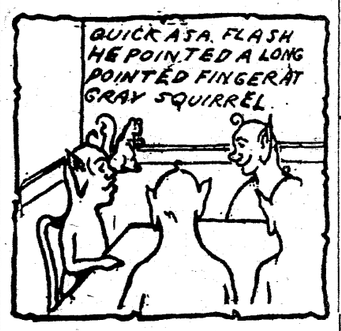
Modern Diplomacy

The ancient idea that a man had to be a good dancer in order to make a successful diplomat has about vanished. It has given place to the milder requirement that he shall be ready to shake hands at a moment's notice.—Washington Star.

THE GREEDY SQUIRREL

HE IS sure it all happened, but his mother told him if he had not eaten such a heavy supper he would not have dreamed it—but for all that he has his tail to prove his story.

Grey Squirrel had a very bad habit of getting up after all the family were in bed and getting nuts that were to be served for breakfast, for he was a greedy little fellow and cared little about anyone but himself.



One night as he got out of his bed he saw a light shining, and when he looked out of the window of his home he saw under the bushes across the path a long table spread for a feast.

Around the table sat so many little men in green and red suits that Grey could not count them.

These little men all wore red caps, which they were very careful to make sure were on their heads, for every once in a while Grey noticed that they would feel to see that the red cap was in place.

Then out of the house he carefully crept and was soon on the other side of the path hiding behind some bushes, where he could plainly see all that happened.

Of course, the little men feasting were Goblins and Grey should have known better than to have gone out of the house while they could be seen, for those little magic people are very jealous of any eyes that look at them other than their own magic folks.

But his greediness soon got him into trouble, for he poked his little head out too far and a Goblin saw him.

Quick as a flash he pointed a long pointed finger at Grey Squirrel and gave a funny little cry of "kool, kool."

Grey Squirrel, of course, expected to dart back from sight and run as he always did; but to his surprise he found he could not move his head or feet or his tail.

Grey tried again to run, but it was no use, he could not move and in another second the funny little men stood in a circle around him.

"He is a good nut cracker," said one. "Why not make him a Grey Goblin and have him for our servant? He could crack all our nuts, and to punish him still more for peeking at us tonight we will not let him eat any; only crack them for us."

"Never eat another nut" thought poor Grey. "Why, I'd rather lose my bushy tail than suffer that punishment."

Then, just as if they knew what he was thinking, as quick as a wink another Goblin said. "I know a better way than you have mentioned to punish this peeking creature. We will pull some of the hair out of his bushy tail and make it look so thin he will be ashamed."

All the Goblins began to shout "Enif, enif!" and then at Grey they rushed, and with a tiny finger and thumb each one pulled a hair from his handsome tail, and then with it held over his head each little fellow began to hop and jump, dancing like wild creatures.

But then something happened, for in their wild dance they forgot their red caps, and off they fell on the ground, and right then Grey Squirrel found that he could run, and run he did faster than ever in his life, and when he reached the place where he had come into the Goblin land he was lucky enough to find the door open. The Goblins had forgot to close it.

Out he ran along the path home, and as it was not quite daylight he nestled down into his bed, trembling with fear that the Goblins might find him even there, for he knew that by that time they must have put their caps on, which gave them their magic power.

He gave one look across the patch as he ran into his home, but the table was not there, and when he told all about it the next day everybody laughed and his mother told him he had eaten too much pie for supper. But Grey Squirrel knew it was not a dream, and anyway there was his scraggy-looking tail to prove his story.

He does not run out any more at night, nor does he get up in the night to eat, but he has thought many times about the strange magic words the Goblins used that night and wondered what they meant.

Read them backwards and see if you can tell.

COAL consumers of Massachusetts, who have long complained against the high price of anthracite, may find hope of real remedial action through the recent organization in New York City of the Anthracite Coal Consumers Association, Inc., whose announced purpose is to force a reduction of at least $2.50 on every ton of coal burned in New England, New York, New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania.

While its sponsors include many big coal consuming interests, the hope is for co-operation from every consumer of large and small, has not been entirely for, through chambers of commerce other civic organizations and individually, these consumers have already made known their desire to co-operate with the new movement to bring about a saving of not less than $100,000,000 each year on their coal bill.

The association's first move will be to ask the Interstate Commerce Commission to reduce present anthracite freight rates fifty per cent. It is expected that the railroads of the country will offer stiff opposition. And for this reason, officers of the new association have asked that con

THE ONLY WAY TO REACH HIM

COAL consumers of Massachusetts, who have long ineffectually complained against the high price of anthracite, may find hope of real remedial action through the recent organization in New York City of the Anthracite Coal Consumers' Association, Inc., whose announced purpose is to force a reduction of at least $2.50 on every ton of coal burned in New England, New York, New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania.

While its sponsors include many big coal consuming interests, the hope for cooperation from every consumer, large and small, has not been vain, for, through chambers of commerce, other civic organizations and individually, these consumers have already made known their desire to cooperate with the new movement to bring about a saving of not less than $100,000,000 each year on their coal bill.

No section has shown a greater interest than Massachusetts, and scores of requests for full information on the plan which has been formulated to bring cheaper coal, all of which is outlined in a booklet which the association is distributing freely have reached the offices at 90 West Street, New York City.

The association's first move will be to ask the Interstate Commerce Commission to reduce present anthracite freight rates fifty per cent. It is expected that the railroads of the country will offer stiff opposition And for this reason, officers of the new association have asked that every consumer of coal at least interest himself to the extent of sending for detailed information. Henry Mace Payne, formerly dean of the School of Mines of the University of West Virginia, has been chosen president of the association, Charles S. Allen, a freight rate expert, Secretary, and George Gordon Battle, general counsel.

The second step of the association will be an attempt to force cleaner coal. It is estimated this will improve the combustibility of the fuel 10 per cent., effecting another saving of approximately $1.70 in Massachusetts, where anthracite is now selling for more than $17 a ton.

The association has won the endorsement of the Real Estate Board of New York, Building Managers' and Owners' Association, Fifth Avenue Association, and other big coal consumers.

From Massachusetts boards of trade and chambers of commerce have come requests that speakers be sent to appear at mass meetings. Meetings in the principal cities of Massachusetts and New England will be arranged.

"This is the first time a successful attempt has been made to get the consumers of anthracite coal together in an effective organization that can make itself felt before the Interstate Commerce Commission and elsewhere in fighting for a reasonable price for coal," said Mr. Allen, who will press the case before the Commission. "We want every man who uses anthracite coal to enroll in this association."

Henry Millea, the Foster street grocer, is out again after a week of illness which threatened to develop pneumonia.

The feature of the West Peabody Grange meeting tonight will be an electrical display and demonstration of all kinds of electrical kitchen devices by Lee & Osborn. This is "Home Economics Night," and as electricity has been the latest great improvement in the home, it has been given the main place on the program. Washing machines, vacuum cleaners, toasters, heaters, percolators, will be among the appliances exhibited. Various members of the Grange will read short papers telling how certain electrical devices have made work easier in their homes. Three five-minute talks on Current Events are scheduled. A prize is offered for the best joke told. The new programs are here, and will be given out Friday night. Flashlight pictures of the costume party will be for sale.

Mrs. Ralph Goodwin of Beacon boulevard is ill with pneumonia.

A great deal of sympathy has been expressed for Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hemingway, who had their home destroyed by fire last Thursday evening at Lake Shore Park. Mrs. Hemingway and her son Louis, only a few hours old, had narrow escape from being burned and were taken to Lynn hospital, where they are reported as comfortable. A two-year-old baby, who was boarding there, was rescued by Elbridge Tarbox and also taken to the hospital, where she died the next night. Mr. Hemingway has been out of employment for some time, and practically everything was burned.

Special mention should be made of two South Peabody pupils who attend high school. At the exercises in memory of George Washington, held last Friday, Miss Pauline Bakeman and Elbridge Tarbox took prominent parts and each one delivered a fine declamation.

The oyster supper served Monday evening by the men's class of the Lake Shore Park church was a decided success. About 110 people were served, and an entertainment followed by Messrs. Wilson and LeCroix. The men hope to have another supper in the near future.

Miss Eileen Tucker of Beverly is spending a few days with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tucker of County street.

Mrs. Lucy (Bryant), wife of William Carney of County street, died early Wednesday morning, after an illness of about two months, following an operation. She was 28 years of age and leaves her husband and three children to mourn her loss. She also leaves a mother and father, two sisters and a brother, the latter residing in Canada. She was a member of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Second Congregational church and will be missed by a large number of acquaintances. The funeral takes place at the Second Congregational church this afternoon at 2.30.

Thomas Johnson of Glenway avenue died suddenly Wednesday morning. He worked at the General Electric Co. all day Tuesday and did not complain of feeling ill. He retired at his usual hour and when called for breakfast was found dead. He was 75 years of age and besides a wife he leaves six step-children. Funeral services were held at his late home this afternoon, Rev. Lewis Malvern officiating.

Discharged by a Wall Street banking house for refusing to write letters to Congress attacking adjusted compensation, an ex-service man has turned to the American Legion at New York for help in finding another position. He was one of three, out of 250 employes, who refused to sell his pen. The Legion secured his affidavit stating that typewritten forms were passed out by the firm to all their workers with an order that each employe hand in four unsealed letters, one to President Harding and three to Congressmen, and the remark that "you fellows had better write these letters tonight if you want to keep your jobs."

The order of "commander of the Legion of Honor," conferred on him by the French government, has been declined as a personal decoration by Hanford MacNider, commander of the American Legion. He cabled Marshall Foch that he wished to accept the award only "as a tribute to all members of the Legion."

With stores closed, the countryside out en masse, and a plane wheeling overhead to direct the attack, the American Legion at Beaver City, Neb., staged a record wolf and coyote hunt for the benefit of farmers. The money for the pelts went to needy ex-soldiers.

Ex-service men in Alabama will vote without paying a poll tax. A state amendment, backed by the American Legion, grants them the exemption.

One thousand "doughnuts and coffees" a day to feed the jobless and homeless ex-soldiers in the growing bread-line at St.-Marks-in-the-Bowery, New York, are being supplied by a single post of the American Legion, during each day and night. The unfortunate men sleep in the church.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, America's premier ace, was the first Ohio war veteran to turn back his state bonus check of $185 to a fund to establish a hospital for Ohio's disabled soldiers. The American Legion has asked all other veterans who do not have imperative need of cash to follow Rickenbacker's lead.

A string of world war medals (bought at a sale) across his chest, the world's fastest-working beggar took $60 an hour from New York's theater crowds until the American Legion got the police on his trail.

The Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh, Pa., home of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, has voted for the American Legion's adjusted compensation bill. Almost at the same time the Chamber at Los Angeles, Cal., with 9,000 members and called the largest in the United States, endorsed the bonus. Calling the U. S. Chamber's tactics unfair, the local commerce board at El Dorado, Kan., denied its membership and then voted for the compensation measure.

Racing a street car for a mile, an ex-soldier in Dallas, Tex., just up from a sick-bed, beat five other applicants to a job.

To prevent the spread of a smallpox epidemic, American Legion men by day and night guarded all roads into Mansfield, Ark., to stop entrance or exit.

Every sick and wounded ex-service man in New York state hospitals will be assigned an able-bodied member of the American Legion, who will see that his charge gets a square deal.

Body pains and legal aches will not go unsoothed in Providence, R. I. Doctors and lawyers are offering free services to jobless American Legion men.

A referendum on adjusted compensation taken by the Kansas City, Kan., post of the American Legion showed 74 in favor of paid-up insurance, 45 for farm and home aid, and 29 for cash.

Several thousand ex-service men who returned to "do Europe right" are stranded in the large cities there. Posts of the American Legion in London and Paris are helping them book passage "back home again."

A two-dollar bill was sent to the American Legion in Boston by a hard-working woman whose son is insane from war injuries. She asked that hungry soldiers be fed.

Matteo Gambaiano doesn't ask anybody to take him at his word. When he paid his subscription to the American Legion Weekly he sent a check for $2 and his bank book to show that the check was good.

* * *

To Colorado alone 25,000 tubercular ex-soldiers have migrated. Only two percent of all hospital cases are Colorado citizens. The American Legion is sending the names of the service men to posts in their home states to set up lines of communication for them with friends and relatives.

MRS. EMMERTON WELL KNOWN HERE

Mrs. Charles S. Emmerton of Federal street, Salem, a former resident of Peabody, died yesterday. She was taken ill last Saturday and pneumonia developed. She leaves a husband, three sons, Silsbee, Donald and Lawrence, and one daughter Emily, the latter the wife of Edward H. Merrill, now of Montreal. The funeral will be tomorrow at 2 o'clock from her late home.

POULTRY RAISING

Prof. Angell of Chicago was in Peabody this week making arrangements to give an illustrated lecture on poultry raising, in the Keefe school hall, next week Friday evening. The lecture will be open to the public without charge.

CELEBRATED BIRTHDAY

Donald Gourley celebrated his sixth anniversary Tuesday by playing host to all of his neighborhood chums at his home on Milk street. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gourley and attends the Wallis school. He received many presents. The kiddies were given a fine spread.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY

CHARLES H. EGLEE

AN INTERESTING EXPERIMENT

A recent copy of "Management Engineering" gives an account of an interesting experiment in the Simonds Saw Manufacturing Company which may well follow our last week's "Little Talk" on "Efficiency."

In January 1921 the General Manager sent a letter to each foreman in the employ of that company asking them to assist him in,—"making a study of the 100% foreman. Of course you and I know that there isn't any such creature, but if you will let me know from your own experience what qualities you think make the best foreman, it will be a help to me in this little study and may be some help to all our other foremen."

Fifty-six foremen answered the letter and the qualifications most commonly mentioned by them were as follows:

Secure the greatest production	29
Thoroughly understand all parts of the work in his department	26
Treat the men fairly	25
Have the goodwill of the men	17
Be friendly, yet dignified with the men	16
Be loyal to the company	14
Listen to suggestions from the men	13
Have the ability to instruct the men	11
Understand human nature	11
Honesty to the men and to the company	11
Always be on time	10
Should study the men	10
Accept suggestions from the superintendent	8
Be tactful	8
Have the confidence and co-operation of the superintendent	7

One hundred and thirty-seven other desirable qualities were given,—

He must work for the company as he would for himself, try to promote a better understanding between the men and their employer and make them proud of the firm that employs them.

He needs to have a larger vision than his men, not only of his job but of life; should never lose his temper; never criticise his superiors to his men; never try to make good at some other man's expense.

He must be a "good all round sport" with a personality of his own; never be content to stand still but be constantly growing; always be "a good mixer" and not a "grand stand" player.

He should keep posted on his work and related work by reading good books and magazines; always be guided by the Golden Rule and when he has made a decision he should stand by it, unless he finds without question he is wrong.

He should set an example to his men in all things; should not consider himself better than they are, even though he knows more about his department; he must be able to do as much or more than he expects any of them to do.

He should lead his men and not drive them, but be a good fighter; make no promises to his men that cannot be kept; never try to borrow money from them.

He should be able to get good team work with his men; see their faults and try to remedy them, being watchful of the quality and quantity of production.

He should give a man credit when it is due him and a word of praise whenever possible, in order to make him feel that he amounts to something and that he has some responsibility.

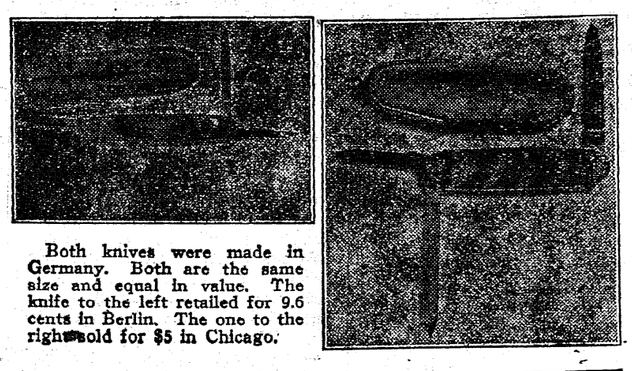
He should deal with his men as persons and not as things and be willing to share the blame as well as the praise with them.

He should try to teach his men thrift and get them to save money for themselves.

He should represent his men and defend them whenever they are right and never "call down" a man in the presence of another or criticise one of his men to another.

He should discourage the men coming to him with trifles.

He should maintain cleanliness in his department and always look out for safety.



He should endeavor if possible to own property, be connected with some church, and have some standing in his community.

So here we have some of the ideas of some of the fifty-six foremen employed in one establishment regarding the qualifications of a 100% foreman. If any one man had all of them he would be a "wonder." If any man had half of them he would be a big man. It is interesting, however, to hear what foremen say about their own job.

I am reminded of two statements regarding "the boss," one from Andrew Carnegie, who said,—"A good executive, or a good boss, is a man who does things and is sometimes right." The other is from Charles Schwab,—"In my wide association in life, meeting with many great men in various parts of the world, I have yet to find the man, however great or exalted his station, who did not do better work and put forth greater effort under a spirit of approval, than he would ever do under a spirit of criticism."

When all is said, I think we can all turn back to the head of the column and once more study the three words written there.

Nine-Cent Knife Brings Five Dollars in Chicago

Both knives were made in Germany. Both are the same size and equal in value. The knife to the left retailed for 9.6 cents in Berlin. The one to the right sold for $5 in Chicago.

U. S. MANUFACTURERS LOSE CUSTOMERS AND U. S. WORKMEN LOSE THEIR JOBS BUT THE CONSUMER PAYS PROFITEERS

CHAIRMAN FORDNEY, of the Ways and Means Committee of the United States House of Representatives, exhibited the knives photographed above to Congress. One cost nine cents in Germany; the other five dollars in Chicago.

A few days later a Chicago importing firm stated that the knife No. 2 cost twenty-five times nine cents and that it was bought in America. The Chicago firm bought the knife, which was manufactured by J. A. Henckels in Germany, from the American agent of that firm. The Chicago store paid $2.40 for it according to their own testimony giving the Chicago store a profit of more than 100 per cent., but the German importer in New York who bought it for nine six-tenth cents in Germany and sold it for $2.40 "cleaned up" $2.30 on the deal. The consumer, according to Mr. Fordney, paid the bill.

Testimony before the U. S. Senate and House of Representatives shows that Paris hats, which cost $8 in American money in France, are selling here as high as $22.50; fine steel-cut buttons, costing 24 cents per dozen, are selling for $2.00 per dozen. This is possible because the present tariff law provides that imported articles shall be subject to duty on their value in foreign money, and foreign money has dropped far below par so that the government is losing millions of dollars per day in revenue and the public is paying profiteering prices.

Chairman Fordney declares that the remedy is in the tariff bill now before the U. S. Senate. It provides that imported articles must pay duty on their value in this country. This is called "American valuation." Supporters of this bill say that importers and mail order houses are spending more than one million dollars to defeat it because it means death to their huge profits.

These adherents of American valuation also point out that never has such a fight been waged in Washington against a bill in Congress as is being waged against the Fordney tariff bill.

"Twin Beds" At the Empire All Next Week

Three acts of what can happen when six people live two by two in three apartments in the crowded confines of a fashionable apartment house; when the over-sociability of a pretty young wife entangles them all in an unwelcome neighborliness, constitutes the plot of "Twin Beds" which the Popular Stock Company of Players will offer to the patrons of the Empire Theatre all next week.

"Twin Beds", the wholesomest of farces and the most continuously amusing, earned its unprecedent popularity as much by virtue of its deft characterization—a rare quality in farces—as by that of its witty lines, surprising slang and cumulatively thrilling situations.

The people whose destinies it concerns are all distinct social types familiar, incalculably amusing and refreshingly delineated. The Signora Monti, an ex-music hall singer who has had the foresight to marry an Italian tenor whom she found singing in a Brooklyn cabaret and elevated him to the $2,000 a night class in the Metropolitan, introduces a scintillant line every minute trying to keep him in the path of virtue. The Signor himself, with his constant susceptibility, is equally amusing. The two newlyweds, Harry Hawkins and Blanche—the latter a friendly little soul who brings on all the trouble—are deliciously human in all the coils of comic disaster into which they are caught. The other newlyweds, one a model of a husband, the other a suspicious wife, and last, but by no means least, Norah, a gem of a maid with a mania for strict obedience, make up a company whose vicissitudes Mr. Field and Miss Mayo have made so overwhelmingly amusing.

FIRE DEPT. NOTES

Local firemen believe that some steps should be taken to reduce the number of needless automatic alarms sent into the Central fire station. On one occasion recently out of four automatic alarms answered by the department, two proved to be tests. It is pointed out that such alarms besides causing an expense through wear and tear upon apparatus, calls one piece of kit away from the station together with a detail of men, thus reducing the protection given to the city in the event of other alarms coming in. These needless automatic alarms are for the most part sent through the American District Telegraph station, and they are not confined to the hours of day light.

Members of the Lawrence School committee who visited this city to inspect the new fire alarm system installed at the O'Keefe school by City Electrician Vincent O'Keefe, were much impressed with the arrangement, and will propose a similar system for the schools of Lawrence.

The automatic boxes installed in the O'Keefe school are attached directly with the nearest street box which happens to be No. 312, so that when an alarm of fire is sounded from the boxes located in the school building the number of the street box is automatically recorded on the tape at fire headquarters.

New rear tires have been installed on the Seagraves Combination No. 1 stationed at the Central Fire station.

Three alarms during the past week from Box 312 is an unusual record for this box on the O'Keefe school. Of the number one was false, another was occasioned by an automobile crashing into the telegraph pole on which the box is located, while the third was for a small fire.

Better service is promised by Combination 4, now that two properly paired horses are attached to the kit.

Peabody Elks Welcome New Dist. Deputy

District Deputy G. E. R. William McPhee of Haverhill, a leading surgeon of that city, received a pleasing welcome on his visitation to Peabody lodge of Elks last Monday night. It was his first official visit and the local Elks turned out in large numbers to greet their new chief. City Treasurer Jacobs of Haverhill and Dr Leonard, a dentist of that city, were members of the suite, and former District Deputy S. John Connolly of Beverly Farms filled the office of Esteemed Loyal Knight. For his part in helping to organize Peabody Lodge, the former district deputy was presented with a pair of silver candlesticks. Initiation of several candidates gave the Peabody lodge officers a chance to perform. The work of Dr. Lawrence K. Kelley, esteemed leading knight, who is to be the new Exalted Ruler, was the feature of the initiation work. A collation was served following the evening's ceremony.

The Misfortunes of a Famous Strong Man

ROY J. McDONALD is one of the handsomest of the strong men in professional life. He is not only a magnificent specimen of physical manhood, with his wonderful muscular development, but he has a fine head and handsome features. He is well known throughout the show world. During the season of 1921 he was with the Ringling Brothers Circus. When the season opened, he was rather worried about his condition. He says:—

"I had been losing strength, and when the season opened I was completely run down. People who saw me perform probably did not appreciate it but I had lost flesh, and was having a hard time to get through the performance. I was in constant fear that I would have to leave the show. My complexion got bad, my stomach was completely out of condition, and when just about ready to give up a friend recommended Sanalt and I commenced to take it. Before I was through the first bottle my appetite returned and I had gained seven pounds. After taking a few bottles I was completely restored, and have been perfectly well since then. Sanalt is certainly a very great medicine for any one who feels that he is generally out of condition."

PERSONAL

Don G. Roby, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who has been confined to his home for the past several days, has resumed his duties.

Thomas Cawley is confined to his home on Aborn street with a severe cold.

Mrs. C. H. Brooks is recuperating from an attack of the grippe, which as kept her confined to her home on Central street.

Dr. Lawrence K. Kelley attended the annual banquet of the Boston City hospital staff last Tuesday night.

Mrs. William J. Woods has been ill at her home on Lowell street with the grippe.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Koster of 18 Warren street will entertain Sunday, the occasion being the first birthday anniversary of their son Herbert.

ZINKAVITCH JOINS AMATEUR BOXERS

Peabody has unearthed another clever boxer in Al Zinkavitch, a popular employe at No. 4 building, Waters River plant of the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. His home is on King street. Al stepped into the limelight last Monday night at the St. Joseph A. A. tournament and got the decision over his opponent. As proof of his prowess at the game he brought home a gold watch that he is proudly showing his friends at the big leather plant. He weighed in at 122 pounds. It was his debut before a big crowd and he displayed all of the ear marks that count 'em winners in the roped arena. Jimmie Walsh is the lad's manager and is very enthusiastic over his find.

Mother's Cook Book

"Life is not a cup to be drained, but an offering to be poured out."

HAVE A CRACKER

CRACKERS are the ever-ready standby of the "up-to-the-minute" housewife. They will keep indefinitely if kept dry and air-tight. If they do soften—five minutes in a hot oven will crisp them again as good as fresh ones. Any kind of crackers, sweet, graham, oatmeal or ginger may be used for a dainty sandwich to be served with a cup of tea or a refreshing drink. An old-fashioned dish and one good for an invalid or a child is cracker soup. Toast the crackers until brown, spread with butter, sprinkle with a little sugar and pour over hot milk.

A sweet cracker put together with marmalade, jelly, cream cheese, nuts or any other good filling makes a good substitute for cake.

Graham Cracker Pudding.

Take four tablespoonfuls of butter, add one-half cupful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of vanilla, the yolk of an egg and a pinch of salt, mix well, then add three cupfuls of finely rolled graham crackers, three-fourths of a cupful of milk, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder; lastly fold in the well-beaten egg white, add one-half cupful of dates cut in bits, with the stones removed. Steam for one and one-half hours. Serve with a hard sauce or whipped cream.

Cheese and Cracker Supper Dish.

Spread milk crackers with butter and cover with finely minced or grated cheese; place in a baking dish until enough have been prepared to serve the family. Cover with a custard, using two eggs to a pint of milk, one-eighth of a teaspoonful of salt and a generous sprinkling of paprika over all. Bake in a moderate oven until the custard is set. Do not overcook or the cheese will be stringy. Serve hot from the baking dish.

Tomato English Monkey.

Take one and one-fourth cupfuls of cracker crumbs, two tablespoonfuls of butter and three-fourths of a cupful of milk. Beat two eggs, add salt, pepper, a pinch of soda, one and one-third cupfuls of cheese; add to the scalded milk. When the cheese has melted add three-fourths of a cupful of tomato strained, stirring until well mixed. Serve on hot toasted crackers.

YOUR HAND

How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm.

THE FINGER NAILS

GOOD taste, tact, delicacy of mind, and other desirable qualities are seen in nails that are white and polished, soft in texture, pink because they are transparent, and of normal and well-proportioned length. Nails that are slender or narrow are generally a good sign of intelligence, but this is frequently combined with a tendency to dominate others. These same long, narrow and slender nails are marked in the person of strong ambition.

If the nails are red and marked, it is not a good sign, since it means a nature that will not forgive easily, but will seek vengeance for wrongs, real or imaginary. Nails that are either very pale or very dark, show physical weakness and disease.

A nail that is wide and long is good, as a rule, but may show a disposition that is too mild and gentle and self-denying. In rare cases one encounters nails that are crooked, or oblique. These show a deceitful nature, one that is wise in its own conceit.

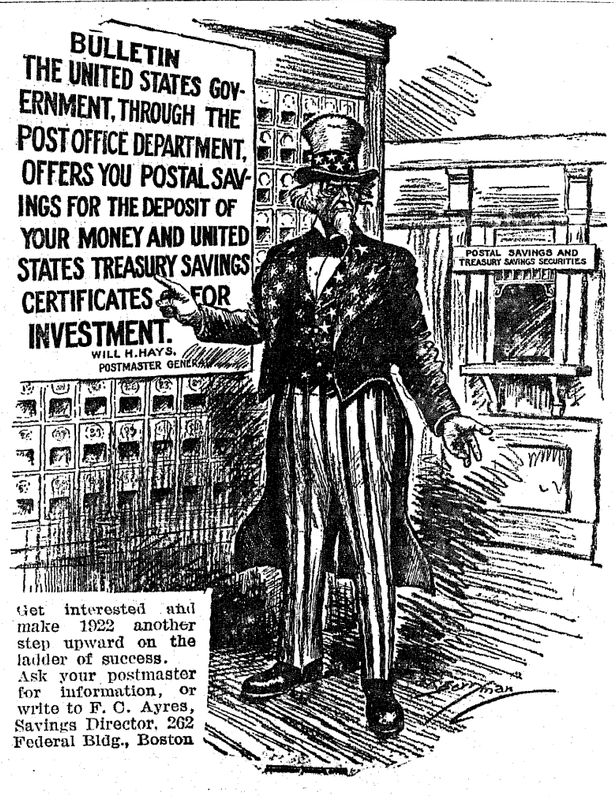
Tournament At Civic House Draws Crowd

The Community House boys held game tournaments with the Salem Fraternity in Salem Wednesday evening. In basketball the first team composed of Simon Beres, Barnett Weinstein, Manuel Vorlosschy, Solomon Beres and William Halpern, won by the score of 28-8. The second team, composed of Charles O'Donnell, Samuel Rosenstein, Frank Wiggin, Chas. McCarthy and John Spilane, lost 8-4, while the midgets, composed of Donald McKinnon, William Weinstein, "Buddie" Lowe, Eddie McHugh, Jacob Bernstein and Edmond Dowling, were just nosed out by the score 5-4. In pool, McCusker and Wilson and McCusker and A'Hearne, won their matches and the tournament. In checkers and shooting, the Community House were poor seconds.

The Boy Scouts of Troop 4 had a hike to Lynn Woods on Wednesday. Fires were built and dinner cooked out-of-doors, after which the tower and dungeon were visited.

Tuesday, March 14th, will be Community House night at the Strand theatre. The picture will be "Just Around the Corner," featuring Fannie Hirsch, and an entertainment will be given by some of the boys and girls of the Community House. Everyone is promised a good laugh. The proceeds go to the Community House.

The last two courses of ten lessons in dressmaking will begin next Wednesday, March 8, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and 7 in the evening.



The spring course of eight lessons in millinery will begin Friday evening, March 10, at 7 o'clock.

PRINCIPAL WOODMAN HAS GRADUATED OVER ONE THOUSAND PUPILS

Extremes in the manner of dress, and secret societies, are unknown evils at the Peabody High school, Principal Willard W. Woodman told a reporter for the Enterprise a few days ago. Fads such as bobbed hair, sport hose, bare, dimpled knees and knickerbocker suits are not worn by girl students in Peabody.

"Our school has been quite free from those extremes that are troubling other schools," said the principal, who attributed the absence of such fads in Peabody to the fact that the social demands are not as great as in the larger cities. Reforms of this nature, he declares, spring up where the social element is most pronounced.

Mr. Woodman declares High school girls should practice simplicity in dress and above all avoid extremes. He would apply the same rule to teachers.

Principal Woodman's position as head of the athletic board of the High school leaves but little doubt as to his stand on athletics. It is almost needless to say that he is an ardent supporter of clean sports, for girls as well as boys. "I believe the girls should be given equal athletic advantages with the boys," he told the Enterprise reporter. "They have been very much neglected in this respect in the past, but they are coming into their own."

"Athletics, properly supervised, have a tendency to develop leadership and we have a right to feel that they tend also to develop the power of initiative and self control," he said.

Discussing the advantages of athletics as they relate to school activities, Principal Woodman expressed the opinion that boys who have for their first consideration intellectual interest combined with athletics, produce the strongest characters in life. He issued a warning, however, to boys, and girls too, against permitting their enthusiasm for sports to detract from their school interests.

Principal Woodman has graduated an entire generation since taking over his duties as head of the Peabody High school. In the period since 1900, when he first came to Peabody, the growth of the community has been registered in the increased graduation classes from his school. The graduating class of 1900 numbered but 14, while that of last June totalled 71, and the largest class to graduate comprised 84 pupils.

Many of his former students are today prominently identified in various walks of life, and it is with a source of pride that Mr. Woodman points out many former students among his present day teaching staff, and the teaching staff in the elementary schools of this and other cities. In the 22 years that he has been at the head of the local school he has graduated considerably more than 1000 pupils, while the number of students who have entered the school and studied under him without completing their courses, would probably number several times this total.

His first classes were in the old High school building, that was swept by flames recently. Today the school is housed in one of the finest equipped buildings of its kind in the state. The manner of teaching has been but little changed, only one course, that of Domestic Science, having been added.

The increased opportunities for young people in the business world today furnishes the greatest incentive for High school education, Mr. Woodman believes. There are more opportunities for young women than ever before, he points out, because of the many positions that have been opened up in business.

The greatest problem for both parents and students today is to select the course of studies that will be most valuable in after life. This situation is relieved somewhat in cases where the natural inclination is toward some particular line of trade or profession. In either event Principal Woodman advocates the slogan "Get all you can out of school. Make your training as broad as possible."

"Many cases have come to my attention where success in after life depended on a single subject" he said.

Principal Woodman was born in Hebron, Me., January 18, 1865. He was educated in the Edward Little High School at Bangor, graduating with the class of 1883 and during the following year taught school at Minot, Me.

He was graduated from Bowdoin college with the degree of A. B. in 1888 and three years later was given the degree of A. M. During his stay in college he was editor of the Bowdoin Orient and The Bugle. He married Miss Alice L. Paine at Gorham, Me., June 30, 1891. He was instructor of Latin at the Thayer Academy in South Braintree through 1888-89 and the following year returned to Maine where he was principal of High school and superintendent of schools at Gorham, resigning that position to accept the principalship in Peabody. He is a member of the Essex Institute of Salem and the Peabody Historical society.

Mackintosh On Bird Lore Before Woman's Club

The next meeting of the Woman's Club will be held in Peabody Institute hall on the evening of March 10, instead of the afternoon.

R. B .Mackintosh, who has so successfully conducted the Nature course of the club this winter, will give a stereopticon lecture on "Birds and Bird Notes," for which the Audobon Society will furnish slides.

Charles E. Moulton, bird imitator, who has recently given his bird imitations in Termont Temple, will be present.

Miss Marjorie Clifford, soprano soloist of Boston, will provide the music.

This meeting is open to the public and will commence at 8 o'clock.

MAHONEY—O'CONNOR

Michael Mahoney of Osborne street and Miss Gertrude O'Connor of Salem were married at the Immaculate Conception rectory on Tuesday evening, Feb. 28, at 8 o'clock. Mr. Mahoney is well known in this city, being a member of the Legion, Father Mathews and Knights of Columbus. They were attended by the groom's brother, Timothy Mahoney of this city, and Mrs. Ray Hemeon of Beverly, aunt of the bride. After the wedding ceremony the wedding party journeyed to Boston, where a wedding supper was served at the Westminster hotel.

The young couple will reside at the home of the bride's parents, 60 Linden street, Salem.

from one of the three who received the endorsement of the civil service board.

William F. Searle who headed the list is believed to have the inside track for the appointment because of his executive experience together with his age and general knowledge of the post office business. He is engaged in newspaper work in Washington but has retained his residence in Peabody and consequently is a Peabody citizen.

That a Republican instead of a Democrat will be named is a foregone conclusion and this eliminates Postmaster Dennis J. Dullea who has held down the job for the past eight years at a salary of $3000. Mr. Dullea has given his best effort to the postal service and has endeavored to meet the wishes of the public in improved service.

Harold G. Childs, war veteran and now assistant city collector is not without hopes that the plum will come to him. A Lynn paper referred to him as the youthful candidate. Childs is 27 years old and unmarried and has been employed at city hall following his graduation from the high school. His friends say younger men than he have been given responsible positions comparing to Postmasterships. He was third on the list.

The appointment of Harland Cummings of Lynn as Postmaster in that city has its interest in Peabody because of his many friends in this city. He is managing editor of the Lynn Item and one of the best newspapermen as his work on the Item attests. The newspaper editors appear to be favored at Washington in the appointments of Postmasters and Mr. Searle's friends pick him for the local post because of his civil service rating and long experience in journalism. Mr. Searle is married and has a son formerly in the office of Senator Lodge who became ill last year and is still suffering from that illness.

CAR SERVICE

in an interview with the Enterprise last night that a slight effort on the part of the Peabody City Council can restore the Lynn cars to Washington street. He declares he so informed a former member of the City Council. He also promised to take up the matter of loading and unloading passengers in Peabody Square.

LEGION SHOW FINE SUCCESS

The annual show of Post 153, American Legion, given before an audience of about 1500 people on Tuesday night in City Hall, was easily one of the most enjoyable entertainments given locally this season. The stage settings and costumes were unusually pretty and gave a sort of musical comedy effect to the otherwise regular minstrel show.

The ends, John H. Mahoney, Tom Kavanaugh, Arthur Conroy, George Gillis, Rita O'Donnell, Phoebe O'Conor and Edna Hudson dressed as waiters and waitresses were exceptionally clever. Several good specialties were introduced, the most amusing being a skit entitled "The Old Town Hall" by "Cy" McCarthy & Co. Whistling solos by Charles Enos and a dancing specialty by little Miss Kingston were much enjoyed. Solos by John Higgins, Ollie Quirk, Clarence Hartnett, Miss Anna Hooks, Mrs. Teresa B. Roy, Miss Willena Fish and a duet by Miss Fish and Edward Holleran added greatly to the program. Charles M. Boyle in the role of interlocutor was exceptionally good and did much to insure the success of the performance. The show was under the personal direction of Leo B. Murphy assisted by Miss Margaret Griffin as pianist.

City Hall Notes

City Hall now has its postmaster, with Harold Childs, assistant collector, being greeted with that title by his friends in the government seat.

War veterans don't stick together, apparently, from the vote on confirming Charles M. Boyle, field assessor in Ward 2. Councillors Jones and Duggan were the only two to vote against the Boyle confirmation, and both are war veterans. The incident has caused much comment.

Reserve Officer John J. Lee is shaping up as a painstaking patrolman when doing special duty. He covers his beats and keeps his eyes open, and as a result is making many friends by his attention to duty. He will make a good appointment to the regular force sooner or later.

Apropos of the police, Chief Grady is rounding out his 22d year as chief of the local department. He joined the department in 1888.

The Peabody Electric Light plant night crew welcome telephone calls notifying them that street lights are not operating and such information generally sees the night patrolman quickly on the job.

The Enterprise was asked this week what the salary of the City Councillors is. Answer: $250, or about $4.44 a week.

UNIVERSALISTS TO HOLD FAIR

Women of the Universalist church are to hold a rainbow fair on Wednesday and Thursday afternoon and evening of next week, at which a pleasing entertainment will be given on both nights and supper served. A dancing exhibition by a number of young girls under the direction of Mrs. Norma Pierce King, and a farce, "Obstinacy," will be the entertainment. A food sale will be held on both days and fancy articles will also be offered.

The various chairmanships for the tables are as follows: Mrs. Daniel B. Lord, Mrs. Isaac A. Cowdrey, Miss M. H. Merrill, Mrs. Frank Childs, Mrs. Kenneth MacCharles, Mrs. Herbert L. Brown and Mrs. William Watkins. The fair will open at 3 o'clock on each afternoon. Supper will be a la carte.

Lowell Street

Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Merrill of Montreal arrived in Peabody today to attend the funeral of Mrs. Charles Emmerton in Salem, mother of Mrs. Merrill. Mr. Merrill has recently become identified with a leading silk concern in the Canadian city.

Marion Pushard of Emerson street is spending the week with relatives in Worcester.

Arvilla Barnes of School street entertained her cousin, Elizabeth Hurley of Salem, during the vacation period.

Miss Mary Boettner spent the week-end with her sister in Lynn.

The J. B. Thomas hospital continues to function without a matron. It is rumored that of a number of applicants summoned for personal examination at the last meeting of the trustees only half appeared and that none would stand the acid test demanded by that board.

Miss Alice E. Trask, chairman of publicity, accompanied Pres. Bessie R. Buxton of the Peabody Woman's Club to a luncheon and meeting of the Essex County Association at the Hotel Westminster in Boston last Tuesday.

Mrs. Edith C. Holman is enjoying the winter carnival at Hillsboro, N. H., a guest of relatives.

Mrs. Ralph Blair was the soloist at the Strand theatre Monday and Tuesday this week.

Margaret Batchelder of Emerson street entertained a number of girl friends yesterday at a luncheon held at her home.

Mrs. Ramsey Sinclair has been a victim of the prevailing influenza during the past week.

William Ratcliffe, Willis Moore and Ralph Nash visited Technology Tuesday.

Some little criticism has been heard of the fact that the dances following the two recent performances of the high school minstrels were apparently unchaperoned by any of the faculty or parents. It would almost appear that any such assemblage of young folks of school age demanded the watchful eyes of more persons than the lone hall policeman, as vigilant as Officer Kerwin is known to be.

Carroll Miller of Wrentham has been a guest of Willis Moore for a few days. Miss Helen Tucker arranged a dinner party for her former neighbor and his host during his stay in Peabody.

The sympathy of the community goes out to Mrs. Edith U. Howes in the loss of her mother, which occurred at the Universalist parsonage last Tuesday morning. The deceased, Mrs. Ellen L. Cockerelle, has been a resident of this city since the Rev. George H .Howes assumed the pastorate of the local church, but unfortunately has been an invalid for a number of years. Her funeral was held yesterday afternoon at Edson Memorial chapel at Lowell.

Elizabeth Ingraham is spending the week with her sister in Bristol, Conn.

Mrs. Edward Hall of Endicott street has been confined to her home with illness.

Norman Crane has been called to Blackstone on account of the illness of his father and brother.

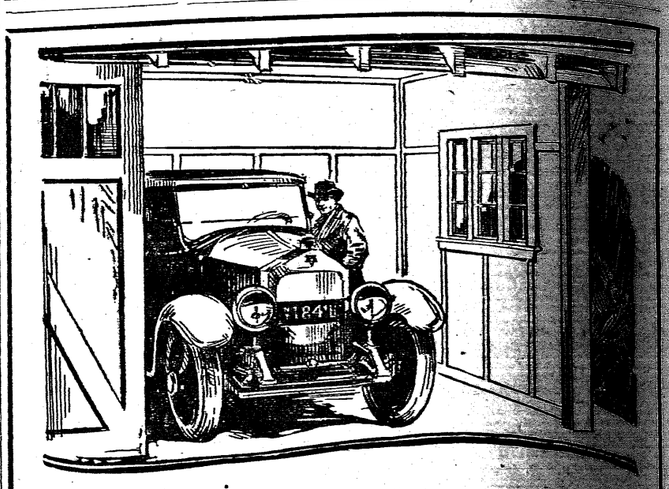
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ovens of Lowell street will remove shortly to West Peabody.

Mrs. Robert Little will entertain the Monday night bridge whist club next week.

Allan Munroe will entertain at an unique costume party at his home on Orchard street tomorrow evening.

George W. Abbott, superintendent of the South church Sunday school, missed last week the first regular session since his appointment three years ago. George has been so regular in his attendance that it was thought impossible that even the ravages of la grippe could "lay him low."

PEABODY GRANGE



Members of the Grange were entertained last night by singing and recitations. A delegation of the members will attend the service at the Baptist church Sunday, meeting at the hall at 10 o'clock.

MISS SARAH HAYES

The funeral of Miss Sarah Hayes, aunt of George E. Hayes, will be held from her home on Holten street tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Deceased was 89 years old.

WEST PEABODY GRANGE

Mrs. Grace M. Fischer will have charge of the West Peabody Grange night this evening, when a program will be given over to Home Economics with a large display of electrical goods by Lee & Osborn of Peabody and Salem.

DIST. ATTY. DONNELL WILL SOON DECLARE HIS CANDIDACY

While District Attorney S. Howard Donnell, Peabody's first Mayor, has not yet officially announced himself a candidate for re-election, this announcement will be forthcoming in the near future. He will seek re-election for the four-year term beginning Jan. 1, 1923, and there is every reason to expect a rousing majority as an endorsement of his three years' conduct as the county prosecutor.

Evidently with a view to causing a party split someone started a report that Attorney William G. Clark of Gloucester, now First Assistant District Attorney, might be a candidate to oppose his chief. Atty. Clark nailed that report this week in a published statement in which he asks for the re-election of Mr. Donnell. He paid the District Attorney the following compliment on his record of service:

DIST. ATTY. DONNELL

I shall not be a candidate for this office against him. As an able, efficient and conscientious public officer who embodies the qualities of an ideal and practical District Attorney, the type that the public requires in

Jews Appeal For Sufferers

Plans are being formulated all over New England to start the drive for $14,000,000 for the Jewish war sufferers of Europe which commences March 26 and will continue for 10 days. Peabody's quota will be $5000. A big mass meeting is being arranged which will be held on Sunday, March 19. At that meeting prominent speakers will be present who will explain conditions as they found them during the last year. At the present time there are over 300,000 war orphans and hundreds of thousands of men and women who are literally dying from starvation.

Every Jew in the city without exception will be called upon to do his duty in the campaign for saving the lives of their brothers and sisters across. Jewish people whenever they have been called upon to do such work have always responded and there isn't any question that this campaign of life saving will also be successful in Peabody and elsewhere.

Robins Usher In Springtime

One of the first signs of spring is reported by Frank Randall the barber who says he saw a robin on last Tuesday near his home on Sutton street. He also heard a singing sparrow. A flock of crows also made their appearance in the vicinity this week in definance to the ground hog.

ORDINANCE WOULD PUT CITY GARAGE UNDER CHIEF GRADY

Mayor Shea had a square deal at the hands of the City Council last night in their half hour deliberation and as a result his proposed ordinance making the municipal garage an adjunct to the police department was ordered advertised and will come up for action at the next meeting of the council. Councillor Barnes made the motion to have the ordinance advertised.

Councillor Duggan, who generally leads the opposition to the Mayor in the Council, made an amendment to lay over the proposed ordinance until such time as the Mayor would enlighten the Council on his budget and what it might include for the garage upkeep. He expressed surprise that the budget was not before the Council last night on the grounds that 60 days have elapesd in which time, according to the charter, the Mayor's instrument should have been sent to the Council. His amendment found Councillors Jones and McKeen with him. The Barnes motion was then carried.

The ordinance if adopted merely places the garage under the direction of Chief Grady of the police department.

Councillor Dugan declared he understood another court proceeding was coming in the garage muddle within a few days.

The Mayor's budget will be before the Council at the next meeting, it is reported today. Every department has been slashed and the strictest economy outlined for the balance of the year in the effort to keep the tax rate down.

Mayor Shea sent in re-nominations

Leather Business Is Steadily Increasing In Peabody's Plants

(By ENERGY)

Another week has passed and the leather situation is better and not worse. I have thought that perhaps many of my readers adjudge me as a rank optimist. Many probably say that I am boosting the leather business to fill this column only. Such is not the case. I have many ways of reaching the ways and means of the business, and adding them together it spells better. I meet optimists, pessimists and others who take matters as they come and refuse to be declared up or down.

Sellers of leather today are in the retail business. No large orders, but each day small sales, enough to carry the shoe manufacturer along for a day or two only. Such a business means more expense, but it is better than no business. When the time comes that orders come in for larger volumes, it will mean that not only will leather be purchased for present needs, but shoe manufacturers will carry leather which is not the case today.

I find that New England shoe concerns are doing more business today than in many months. I find that even in Lynn more leather is being cut than for a long time. Haverhill is still in the doldrums, and evidently their labor disputes have not been adjusted as well as elsewhere. From what I hear of Lynn the unions have seen the light and have already accepted an adjustment of wages which is satisfactory to all concerned. Such being the case, I look to see the shoe and leather business advance in rapid strides and when the fall comes a normal business will be the result.

Specialties is the big percentage of trade today. Standard lines are dull, but by filling in with such specialties as have been in brisk demand tanners have managed to keep their plants busy. Buck leather and with it ooze has been a winner for some months. I have always contended that leather finished on the flesh side was the best for wear, and sometimes I think such a finish has come back to stay. It has been a question of dressing shoes of this kind, and by getting a proper dressing the public will wear them in preference to grain finish. Such rapid strides have been made in flesh finish, it no wonder the public take to such shoes. No grain to peel off, or crack, but all wear.

The water situation here is far from normal. Last year at this time all the supply ponds were full, but today we are taking water from Suntaug lake as the last resort. Coming as it does at a time when spring rains with snow should give us plenty of water, there is much food for thought. Engineer Emerson has a plan, which seems feasible to those who have given this subject much thought, a plan to my way of thinking, is the simplest and cheapest way out of our difficulty. Lynn has a pipe system from Ipswich river which runs through Lynnfield. But a short way to Suntaug, this pipe could be tapped and a four months' supply could be stored there. The National Leather Co. has given the water situation much thought, figuring that while we have had water in plenty the last few years, it was because of these years being so called wet years. We are bound to have some dry years, (not from prohibition) and then our troubles begin. The large well on Walnut street has cost this company big money. It has not yielded as yet, but it is felt by everlasting effort, a suppy of water will eventually come which will pay, particularly in a dry season.

A shortage of water means everything to our tanners. With home brew and its relatives, perhaps householders can stagger through, but no one has heard as yet of home brew tanning anything but stomachs. We have heard of Russia leather famous for its odor, if this home brew would produce the old odor, it would be the biggest seller. But, seriously, we are today facing a serious situation should our water supply give out, a situation that would affect everybody.

There were rumors this week that one concern had failed for an amount well in the millions. Not being able to verify this rumor, it is useless to comment. Anything of this kind is a direct blow to Peabody and let us hope all our tanners will weather the storm.

Harry W. Moore, who has been with the Mulholland Co. as superintendent for some years, has accepted a position with the Richard Young Co. He has had several flattering offers from concerns in Buffalo and Detroit, but he expects to locate here.

* * *

With business slow and many concerns stopping or going out of business, many tanners of reputation have taken up new jobs. A tanner with a reputation can command big money, and by the way offers are made for such men, their services are looked for. Making leather, a first-class article, is an art. How many times leather is produced and called ok, only to have it come along later a different article. Meanwhile the seller has sampled the good leather, only to get into all kinds of trouble later. Therefore the man who can produce a staple article the year around, is worth the money. Here is a chance for all of you who can produce.

'My Irish Rose' To Be Greeted By Big Crowd

The Irish drama, "My Irish Rose," will be staged at the City Hall on next Thursday evening by a cast formed of local talent, who are bordering on professionals, and who are sure to keep the audience on edge from start to finish, as the story of the play is most interesting and is sure to be appreciated by hundreds, as the advance sale of tickets has far outdistanced any like entertainment Division 11, A. O. H., has ever put on.

The St. Patrick's day frolic, which is a part of the drama, will be made up of the following well-known dancers: Miss B. Flynn, Miss Helen Mongan, Miss Mary Flynn, Miss Mary Burke, James O'Neil, Patrick Walsh, James Gallagher and Martin Twohy. The specialties between the acts will comprise of a reading by Miss Mary Fitzpatrick and a four-hand reel, hornpipe, double and slip jig, by Miss Mary Callen, Miss Agnes Callen, Miss Mary Collins, Miss Dorothy Doyle, Miss Jennie Fahy and Master Charles Crowley.

Tickets will be exchanged for reserved seats on Saturday afternoon from 2 o'clock until 6 at the A. O. H. hall, Lowell street, and every evening after that from 7 until 10 until the night of the show. There will be dancing in the small City Hall after the show, also Irish dancing and Irish music at the A. O .H. hall after the show. The large committee in charge are doing everything possible to make it enjoyable for everybody on this St. Patrick's day.

The Mummified Miner.

The collection of the Museum of Natural History in New York has been enriched by addition of a mummified miner from Chile, which was presented by the owners of the mines where the body was uncovered. The miner was after copper and had burrowed into the earth a distance of 15 feet when he was caught by a cave-in and buried.

Essex Aggie Farmers Day On March 16

The eighth annual farmers' day will be held at the Essex Aggie school Thursday, March 16th. An all day program has been arranged, which includes trade and educational exhibits, a corn and vegetable seed show, club poultry show, and demonstrations of household appliances. Excellent speakers have been secured to present topics of interest to every farmer and homemaker in the county. This has come to be the great early spring event in the county agricultural life.

Corn and Seed Show

The corn and vegetable seed show will be held again this year. The entries already received assure the success of the exhibition. The state department of agriculture offers a total of $74 in prizes. The main feature is the 30-ear exhibit of corn of any variety in the flint, dent, sweet or pop corn classes. Entries in this exhibit must pass a germination test as well as to be of good appearance. Prizes will be awarded for exhibits of 10 ears and single ears of the above classes.

Prizes are also offered for vegetable seeds and the roots and bulbs from which the biennial varieties are grown.

Many kinds of vegetables originated in Massachusetts or have been improved here in the past.

The object of this show is to further stimulate and encourage the growing of the much sought after dependable seed without which farming and market gardening cannot well succeed.

Trade Exhibits

The trade exhibits will show many new agricultural appliances. Fruit men will have a fine chance to obtain some first hand information on dusting and dusters.

New feeds will be an exhibition. Dairy and poultrymen will be interested to talk with the exhibitors of these products.

The farm machinery and tractor display will bring out many new ideas in labor saving devices.

Moving Pictures

There will be moving pictures on power farming, which our farmers cannot afford to miss. There is little doubt but that we need our minds and bodies to direct and oversee the farm work, leaving the hard physical work for machines to handle.

Home Appliances

In the home appliance exhibit, it is expected to have a fine selection of electrical appliances, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, toasters, heating pads and many other smaller articles.

Speaking Program

A speaking program extending from 10.30 a. m. to 4 p. m. will be offered. The speaking for the morning will be of general interest. In the afternoon four sections: Women's, home economics, dairying, field crops, fruit, as well as poultry. At the end of the program there will be an illustrated lecture on power farming.

Grange Will Entertain On Next Thursday

At the meeting of Peabody Grange next Thursday evening the entertainment will be in charge of the relief committee. "A Mother Goose party" will be held.

Ladies' Auxiliary will meet at 3 in the afternoon.

Chebacco Pomona Grange will meet March 15 at Ipswich, afternoon and evening. Those wishing to go by bus please notify the master, William Watkins.

A number of the members will attend the Essex County annual farmers' day at the Essex Aggie school, March 16.

An interesting program, consisting of speaking, has been provided. Also a valuable corn show, trade display, and educational display, and many other features.

Really Gets Nowhere.

"Tellin' a man his troubles is his own fault," said Uncle Eben, "simply helps along de worry an' don' give no assistance."

Notices for the week:

Monday, 7.30 p. m., Men's Brotherhood. Meeting to be addressed by Rev. Francis Beal.

Wednesday, 7.30 p. m. Business meeting and social of Christian Endeavor Society. Election of officers. It is important that all members attend this meeting. It is hoped that the West Peabody Society will be our guests at the social.

Methodist Church

Communion Sunday morning, and special offering for city missionary work. Sunday evening, a gospel team from Boston University will have charge of the 7 o'clock service. This service will be preceded by a social hour, at which time the people will have opportunity to meet these young men in person. The Yoke Fellows and Epworth Leaguers will have charge of the hour. All the young people of the church are urged to be present.

March 30 is a date not to be forgotten by our people—one which will linger in their memories for many days after it is past—a time of which the young people will talk, and the older people converse, a time of—well, wait and see.

Experience of a Much Loved Elderly Clergyman

REVEREND GRANVILLE PIERCE is widely known and beloved in the ections of Massachusetts embracing Warwick, Brant Rock, Marshfield and Orange. The Reverend Pierce says: —

"I had been suffering nearly a year from nervous exhaustion, which in its development had seriously affected the nerves of the stomach and bowels. There was a general depression, with irregular heart action. I was exceedingly constipated, suffered intensely from flatulence, or gas in the stomach, and my appetite had almost deserted me. The doctors did not seem to be able to help me.

"Two months spent at the seashore brought an improvement, but when returned to Warwick, in the latter part o. August, my trouble soon became as bad as ever. I commenced taking Sanalt early in October. There was an almost immediate improvement. In two weeks I felt decidedly better. The whole tone of the system had improved; appetite was better and I felt considerably stronger As an alterative tonic and appetizer, I have never known the equal of Sanalt."

Disabled emergency officers of the World War would be retired on an equal basis with regular army officers by the terms of the Bursum bill, sponsored by the American Legion. The bill has already passed the senate.

Lionel Barrymore, Film Star Tops Strand Theatre Bill Today

Lionel Barrymore, considered by many critics the best actor in America, will appear at the Strand today and Saturday in "Boomerang Bill," an adaption of one of Jack Boyle's stories, who is famous as the author of the "Boston Blackie' tales. The role of Bill, the gunman, is played in wonderful fashion by Mr. Barrymore.

Boomerang Bill is a Chicago gunman hiding in New York. He is a crook, but when circumstances take him into pleasanter fields he turns honest. Then comes a great dilemma. The girl he loves needs money. Her mother requires expensive medical attention and a change of climate if she is to live. Bill decides to do one more crooked job for their sakes. He is caught and sent to prison. The girl pledges herself to await his release. Then fate takes a hand in the game and the picture builds up to a tremendous climax that only an actor like Barrymore could carry. The picture is well staged and compels the attention from start to finish because of its great dramatic strength. Larry Semon in his new comedy hit, "The Show," will be another big attraction for today. Semon's stunts around the theatre are a positive scream and the comedy will be numbered among the best this comedian has done. Eddie Polo in an exciting chapter of "The Secret Four" rounds out the bill for today.

"Snowbird," starring Cullen Landis, and adapted from the popular novel of the same name by Katherine Newlin Burt, will be the feature attraction on the double feature bill for Sunday evening. Beautiful snow scenes mark this story of the north. Bessie Love in "The Midlanders" is the other feature listed for showing on Sunday.

"Just Around the Corner," a Paramount-Cosmopolitan special attraction, will be presented at the local playhouse on Monday and Tuesday. It is a story of the East Side of New York, with its joys, its sorrows and strivings. It is taken from an original story by Fannie Hurst, who is the author of the record picture "Humoresque." Miss Hurst's original story appeared in the Saturady Evening Post and was heartily applauded by the millions of readers of that weekly publication. It was then entitled "Superman." It is the type of picture that will please any kind of an audience. Comedy and drama are skilfully interwoven and the result is a mighty fine picture. Ben Turpin in "Love and Doughnuts" will be the comedy attraction for Monday and Tuesday. Mgr. Chet Bent says it is one of the funniest comedies ever brought to Peabody.

Tuesday evening the Community House will put on a vaudeville show at the Strand. The proceeds of the evening will be used to buy a pool table for the boys. In addition to the vaudeville "Just Around the Corner" and Ben Turpin's comedy will be shown.

West Peabody

Prof. Harvey of Danvers will give an illustrated lecture covering 700 miles on the North Shore and the White mountains this evening in West hall. There will be dancing and whist at the close.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Moulton of Swampscott spent Tuesday with their daughter, Mrs. Richard Stocker, on Lowell street.

John Trodella entertained his friends at a "stag party" at his home on Newbury street Monday evening. A clam chowder was served, followed by whist.

Miss Ruth Small is recovering from a recent attack of tonsilitis at her home on Lowell street.

Miss Ada MacDonald is ill at her home on Goodale street.

The Boys' Club hold their "old folks' dance" this evening. There will be a lecture on the North Shore with colored slides.

The Ta-ta-pochon Camp Fire Girls will present "Engaging Janet" on March 15. The cast is as follows: Janet Clarke, Miss Dorothy Danforth; Miss Briggs, Miss Mona Bishop; Madame Maude, Miss Hilda Monson; Miss Bumpus, Miss Esther Leach; Miss Spike, Miss Dora Lame; Miss Higgins, Miss Louise Small; Bridget, Miss Lillian Rankin.

West Church

The following services take place at the West Congregational church this following Sunday, to which everyone is cordially invited to attend: Morning worship, 10.30. Pastor Natt Scott. Sunday school, 11.45. Junior Christian Endeavor, 3.30. Senior Christian Endeavor, 6.30. Evening service, 7.30.

The weekly prayer meeting will be held at the West church on Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

Charity Whist By Leo Guild

Leo Guild will conduct a charity whist in the Council Chamber, City Hall, next Friday afternoon, March 17, and the affair is being looked forward to with much pleasure by whist lovers of the city. Mrs. Charles Cassidy, president of the Guild, is in direct charge of the affair, and has an energetic committee assisting her, which assures the success of the party. The committee: Mrs. Daniel Donovan, Mrs. Irving Emmons, Mrs. Maurice Ryan, Mrs. Daniel Conroy, Mrs. John Callahan, Mrs. James Rennicks, Mrs. Felix Carr, Mrs. John Meagher, Mrs. John Hayes, Mrs. Lawrence Kelly, Mrs. Thomas O'Keefe, Mrs Andrew Sheehan, Miss Margaret Murray, Mrs. William McElroy, Mrs. P. J. Fennessey, Mrs. Edward Lynch, Mrs. T. Henry Millea, Mrs. Frank Conway, Mrs. John Gallagher, Mrs. Margaret Sullivan, Mrs. John Keefe, Mrs. Florence Howe, Mrs. P. J. Sheehy, Mrs. Arthur Millea and Mrs. William Tucker. A cake sale will be held in connection with the whist.

A special meeting of the Guild is called for next Monday night in K. of C. hall at 8 o'clock and members are requested to attend.

The installation of officers held last Monday evening was a most enjoyable affair and was attended by nearly 200 women. The guests were Rev. W. F. Shaughnessy, Rev. C. D. McInnis and Mrs. Martha Moore Avery of Boston. The principal address of the evening was given by Mrs. Avery, which proved a highly interesting discourse on "Catholic Unity." She also gave the members some intimate knowledge regarding the Catholic League House in Boston. During the evening a delightful program was given, including piano selections by Miss Frances Conroy, dancing specialties by little Miss Sharkey and Miss Halloran of Lynn, soprano solos by Mrs. Margaret Kellaher of Salem and readings by Mrs. Abbie Todd Halloran of Lynn. The retiring president, Mrs. Felix Carr, presided, and Mrs. D. J. Conroy as installing officer, inducted the following into office: Mrs. Charles Cassidy, president; Mrs. James Rennicks, vice-president; Mrs. Andrew Sheehan, treasurer; Mrs John Doody, financial secretary; Miss Mary L. McCarthy, recording secretary.

WOULD HAVE CITIZENS PAY TAX IN ADVANCE TO SAVE BORROWING

Editor Peabody Enterprise:

One of the leading questions today is that of taxation. And right here in this city this question has become one that must be considered, not only by the rich, but also by the poor, who are unable to pay their taxes at the present time.

In a democratic republic like this we find that society develops in such a way that power seems to concentrate in the hands of a few. In all official bodies there is a constant tendency to not only exalt their functions, but to add to these, as far as possible.

In all of our leading cities there seems to be a certain class which looks upon itself as a governing class. In other words government becomes the business of a special class, which class make their living out of politics, and their acts soon tend to pass out of control and out of the scrutiny of the common people .

The mass of the people may be groaning under heavy burdens of taxation, but the burden is never lightened. This is due to the fact that the office holders do not take the same interest in the affairs of government that they would in their own affairs. The economy that would naturally guide them in their own expenditures, is forgotten when it comes to spending other people's money, and in this way taxes increase as the years go by without any improvement of condition, so far as the average citizen is concerned.

The undersigned claims that there is plenty of opportunity to save money to the tax payers of this city, but the tax payers themselves must see that this is done. Men must be selected for office who are willing to give their best efforts to the people and to their city. There are many such men in this community and hereafter it will devolve upon the common people to find such men and to place them in office where they will be in a position to bring credit upon themselves and upon the city which has honored them.

At the outset the undersigned will say that he has never held public office of any kind and never will. But like many another citizen he feels the weight of increasing taxation and would strive for better methods. And all who feel aggrieved must also feel like he does. All who have given the subject any thought must know by this time that it is either wilful neglect, or perhaps downright contempt of the rights of tax payers, that has brought the city to its present condition in the matter of high and uncalled for taxes.

There are many citizens who feel that ways can be found to put a stop to incresing taxes. And some of these ways will be pointed out in this column. More people are interested in this question just now than in any other question before them, and they are determined to do something to remedy matters in the future.

Recently the city treasurer has borrowed some $200,000 or so, according to report. This money is borrowed in anticipation of taxes. This means that, as much as that, and considerably more is owing the city, but the treasurer has borrowed all this money and has paid, or will pay, something like $6000 for the use of that money for the next few months.

If all this is true, the first thing we want to find out is, why it is necessary for the city to borrow this money when the tax payers know that they owe the city that much and more. Taxes must be paid at any rate, a few months from now, and why compel the city to throw away $6000, or whatever the sum may be, in order to have some available cash.

The writer believes that there are enough patriotic people within our city limits who would not put the city to this expense if there was some means to avoid it. Civic pride is not dead yet, and we have any number of citizens who would be willing to pay what they could, in advance, to save the city $6000. If they are not willing to do this, what becomes of their boasted patriotism? Are they of that class of patriots who wave the flag in one hand while they go through the people's pockets with the other?

Now the writer is not condemning the treasurer. But the system which tolerates this wicked waste must be stopped. The tax payers could save that $6000 and it would remain in their own pockets, if they would take thought on the question, and act as though they really believed in themselves and in their native city.

Understand that this $6000 is just so much added to the tax levy. The people must pay it to the bankers, who advanced money that the citizens would not advance, or were not asked to advance. This one sum of $6000 could be saved and there would be that much stricken off the tax bills.

The time is now come for the people themselves to take action in this matter of taxation. In this particular case it simply calls for good will on the part of men, who want to do something for themselves and for the city. If they have the money, why not pay part of their tax in advance? Even if the tax bills are not made out, that does not make any difference whatever. Every tax payer knows that he must pay about so much anyway, and if he is a real upholder of the city, and stands for its best interests, he will do what he can to show that he means business.

Perhaps the men who collect the taxes will say that this has never been done and that it could not be done. They are mistaken in such a view, should they take it. It has been done and will be done again, and it is now time for Peabody to establish such a sytsem. Taxes can be paid on instalments, before they are due, just as well as after they are due, and in this particular case it means a saving of $6000 or more every year to the city and that money does not go into the city treasury but remains in the pockets of the citizens, who are today complaining of the load which many of them are staggering under, and which some are unable to bear longer.

When the city needs money in advance of the taxes let an appeal go out to the people and not to the bankers. Let us establish some new ideas of our own creation, which will take us far in advance of other municipalities. Let other cities send their statesmen to us to find out how we manage our systems and civil institutions.

Pictures Will Tell Suffering of Russian Tots

Julius Godkin, noted Russian lecturer, will present the Russian famine scenes with pictures at the Strand theatre next Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of the Friends of Soviet Russia. There will be solos by Anita Bornstein, a Peabody soloist. The doors will be open at 1.30 and the lecture will start at 2 o'clock. An admission fee of fifty cents is to be charged, the proceeds being given to the relief fund for the Russian famine sufferers. The Peabody Russian Social Club is responsible for getting Mr. Godkin to come to Peabody on his long itinerary of making an appeal to the American people for funds fr ostarving Russia.

THOMAS MAC CURTAIN COUNCIL

A meeting of the Thomas MacCurtain Council will be held on next Sunday afternoon at the A. O. H. hall at 3 o'clock, William Whalen, the boy orator from Tipperary, Ireland, will address the meeting. It is hoped that all members will be present and the meeting will be open for all citizens, as Mr. Whalen is a most enthusiastic speaker and is well versed on the Irish situation as it stands today.

THE WATER QUESTION

The old saying, "when it don't rain, it don't leak," could be applied to the water question in Peabody. For several years we have had what could be termed wet seasons. By all known rules of nature, such a weather condition is followed by a number of dry seasons. For many years we have had little to worry about plenty of water. Many times when it appeared that Spring pond was nearly pumped dry, there came copious rains and all was well. Our city government with many warnings by men well versed in water supplies, has never made a move which would relieve any situation whereby the city would suffer for lack of water. When factories close for want of it, men are thrown out of employment and the endless chain is begun. The question arises, are we to have a dry season this year? If so we will be in trouble, for our water supply at the present time is at a low ebb. We have been drawing water from Suntaug lake, which is the last resort from the auxiliary supplies. Rain we must have and plenty of it. Peabody has had its warning of a condition of this kind, and refused to act, for the reason there were more ways for a remedy than there was time to work them out. To concentrate on one idea, an idea developed by the best brains available, is to our mind the proper course to pursue. Shall we close the doors of the barn after the cattle are gone?

HOUSING OUR WORKMEN

When the Chamber of Commerce devised a plan to build houses for those who earn their livelihood in Peabody, it seemed to us a move not only in the right direction, but a hint for other capital to go and do likewise. It is certain that Peabody cannot thrive without suitable and ample living quarters. We have welcomed a new concern to our city who will employ skilled labor and who will demand homes. To have them go elsewhere to live will give us but a small benefit for their employment. Therefore the time has arrived for a concerted effort on somebody, yes all public spirited citizens, to devise some way to erect dwellings. If what is everybody's business is nobody's business, then let us throw up our hands and let the other fellow do it. But such a way is the record of many cities and towns where everything went to dry rot, and those who were left sat down on barrels in the grocery store and tried to figure out what was the matter. The situation here is one which will do much or little for our city. It is a part of our duty as citizens to do what we can to start something in the right direction. Many may say they can do little or nothing, but all can, if they will, lend their energies to a proposition which will add hundreds to our population, and the kind of people we welcome to our city.

CITY IMPROVEMENTS

When a city makes improvements in one section it is natural that other sections demand their share. Peabody is large in acreage. Few municipalities have a larger area. When one looks at the map of our city, the first thought is the size of Ward 6 and the largest part of it is West Peabody. Perhaps it is unfortunate for that section that it is called West Peabody. A separate postoffice and delivery, it is in reality a township in itself, but governed by the majority in the city proper. For years this section has tried to get water, better roads and all the good things cities are heir to. It has been an uphill fight, with minor results in most cases. Some years ago water was voted for that section, but the pipe extends but half way. The roads there are of the country variety, and automobiles and trucks keep them far from what is desired. Again the appropriation has not been adequate to do a first class job, therefore West Peabody is trying for better conditions. Under present conditions we cannot see where it will succeed. With a depleted treasury, no section should get only what is absolutely necessary. Whether any section will get more remains to be seen. It seems to us assured that our neighbors in the western part of the city must wait as they have for years, and perhaps the time will come when their wants will be attended to. We believe the water should have been extended to that section in 1918, when it was voted so to do. But political conditions in Peabody are changing, and as the city grows, the tendency must be toward West Peabody, and improvements must follow.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

UNIFORM CIVILITY

TO BID welcome to the world when everything seems to be going against you, is to exhibit the right sort of courage and to show yourself capable of overriding difficulties.

Though firebrands may be thrown across your pathway and backbiting tongues assail you, if you still remain amiable and courteous, you will emerge from the ordeal unscathed.

Civility and all that it implies gives you the staying strength to surmount obstacles and to press forward in all kinds of weather.

Scowls, frowns and short answers very frequently make of the talented and gifted, sorrowful toilers, while, on the other hand, urbanity and suavity elevate men and women of moderate attainments to power and affluence.

Civility commends itself to people who know not its name, but recognize it when they see it. The crabbed old boor and the proud youth are now and again arrested by its soft answer and smiling face, and even the rude vagabond will stop a moment when it crosses his path and stare at it in open-eyed wonderment.

In some subtle way civility touches hearts and knits mankind closer together, yet, despite this fact, it has a long way to go and a great deal of hard work to do before it can overtake the masses and make them understand its true worth.

To those who are just starting careers, and especially to the young, good manners are as essential to their success as good commendations.

Indeed, politeness may be said to be the better thing of the two, for the reason that it builds character, and makes it imposing in the eyes of others.

There is no time in one's life that courtesy of behavior in the treatment of others fails to win recognition.

The employee who is uniformly civil, considerate of his or her employer, and thoughtful of associates as well, is usually the first to win promotion.

If you will think back, study cause and effect, you will find as you reflect that the greater number of failures in life had their beginning in incivility, and that those who today are conspicuously successful in the arts, professions and industries were in their beginning, and are now, habitually courteous in words and acts.

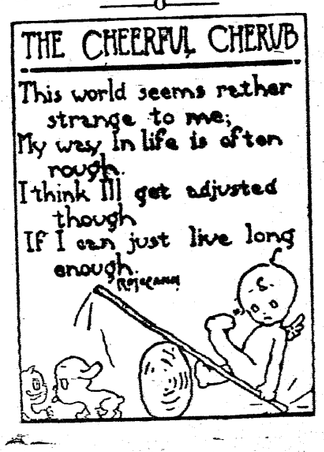
GOOD THINGS WE ALL ENJOY

CHICKEN cooked as a pot roast is much superior to the ordinary fried dish, as it is moist and juicy. Cut it up as for frying, place in a tight kettle with a little fat, stir until hot, add a very little water to keep it from burning and cook closely covered. Usually no more water will be needed, but add very little, a tablespoonful or two at a time. Season and cook very slowly for two or three hours. Longer is better.

Fruit Salad.



Place halves of stewed pears on crisp lettuce leaves. Remove the pits from white cherries and arrange around the pears. Serve with cooked salad dressing.

Potato Soup.

Boil four medium-sized potatoes in salted water and when soft put through a ricer. Slice one onion and scald with one quart of milk. Remove the onion. Add the milk to the potato, season with a teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of celery seed, two teaspoonfuls of chopped parsley and a dash of white pepper. Melt three tablespoonfuls of fat in a saucepan, add two tablespoonfuls of flour and when well cooked, stir in the milk and potato. Sprinkle with the parsley and serve.

ROUND ABOUT

The work of laying out Sanborn street should receive the attention of the city engineer's department with the coming of spring. The Enterprise has always championed the laying out of this street leading from Oak street to Elliot place, on the grounds that six tenement houses, having three families in each house, are the homes of from 50 to 65 children. At least one hydrant which should be available in time of fire is practically buried with its top barely sticking through the earth, due to allowing dumping on the thoroughfare. The Council has voted the acceptance of this street, and the residents have waited patiently for just action. This work should be undertaken among the first spring activities of the highway department.

I heard some little comment that the street department did not clean up Peabody square and the business streets last Wednesday on the first day of spring, following the freshet of the early morning. The square is the most important concern of the highway department and spring cleaning was surely in order.

One of the reasons why the street department didn't get to Peabody Square Wednesday, according to City Engineer Emerson, was the fact that all of the men were needed to repair washouts on various streets including those in West Peabody. The severe rainstorm of early Wednesday morning wrought havoc on many of our streets and sidewalks.

Bids for the ash collection is published in this issue. The work which has been done by John J. McGlone the past year in removal of the ashes has given the highest order of satisfaction, and there are many who will hope he will again be given the contract. No matter what the weather has been the regular collections have been made on the day set and general approval of his work has been expressed.

Tuesday evening there was enough water in front of the Levin block on Lowell street to give Spring pond a boost. The sewer at this point evidently has not the capacity to take care of the large amount of water which flows down Lowell and Chestnut streets meeting at this point.

Elmer J. Foley, city treasurer, is confined to his home, 11 Perkins street, with an attack of the grip. Miss Driscoll of the Assessors office is helping out during the busy hours.

We note efforts to get reduced fares on the local street car lines are being made. Such efforts are praiseworthy, but until such time as the street railway corporation can get on its feet, so to speak, there appears to be little reason for the company to reduce fares. Peabody is a good customer of the road, our opinion being backed by the traffic between Salem and our city.

There is considerable property changing hands. One block on Peabody square is under negotiation, a large tract of land on Lynnfield street is another, and a house on Chestnut street is said to change hands this week. In other words, it adds to the signs of coming prosperity.

Manly Solovicos, owner of the Martha Ann Sweet Shops in Salem, with others, will take a lease of the store 9 Lowell street, where the recent fire occurred. He is thinking of starting a first-class restaurant there.

Much has been said about raising rents on Peabody square, but they will not be cheaper, and if the tax rate climbs, naturally rents will climb also. When called upon to pay advances the landlord places the extra expense on the tenants. Natural enough.

The condition of the driveway leading to the Peabody depot of the Boston & Maine railroad has proved a sorry spectacle this week with the passing of the snow and the thawing of frost. Likewise, comment is made at the failure of the railroad to pave its yard near the freight depot, and thus do away with the terrible mud that is now washed out onto Central street, much to the discomforture of passersby who use the sidewalk adjoining the freight yard. A conference by officials of the Chamber of Commerce with the railroad officials might get some results. There is every reason why the Boston & Maine should remedy the yard conditions about its property, none of greater weight than the fact that Peabody shippers net the road a handsome revenue in freight receipts. Peabody has long suffered from neglect on the part of the B. & M. railroad. There ought to be some way of bringing about the desired improvements which would be possible at a minimum of expense.

Congressional Medal of Honor.

The medal was instituted by a law approved July 12, 1862. It is authorized by congress and awarded for particular deeds of distinguished bravery in action. Congress did, however, on March 25, 1776, order a gold medal struck for General Washington. Before that was done a silver medal was voted, struck and presented to Lieutenant Colonel Fleury for his gallantry in the assault upon Stony Point, July 15, 1779.

LAMENT OF THE PENCIL

"I DECLARE I am tired to death," said the Pencil as it was dropped into a tray beside the pen and other desk folks.

"Why didn' t you stay at home as I did?" said the Penholder. "You have been gone all day. Where have you been?"

"You may be sure I did not choose to go away," was the answer. "Didn't you see that I was taken out of the tray this morning when no one was looking? I was carried off to a place called school and there I was made to do the hardest sort of work. Just look at me; an inch shorter than I was and worn to a stubby point as well. I am sure I have walked miles since I last saw you all."

"Do tell us about it," urged the Fountain Pen, who was always keen to hear the latest news, as it was really more up to date than any of its companions. "Do you mean that some one used you instead of a pen?"

"That is just what I do mean," said the Pencil. "The one who carried me off first dropped me on the floor and broke off my nice, sharp point, then he sharpened me with a funny cap-shaped thing, and off came a piece of my wooden coat; but at last I was given another point and then my troubles began.

"I was made to walk up and down, across and over miles of white paper, and, oh, you should have seen the dreadful spelling and the untidy figures that I was forced to make!

"You all know that the one who usually sits at this desk uses us in the most artistic manner and never do we have to make mistakes or make crooked figures or letters."

"No, never," said all the desk folks; "poor Pencil, how you must have suffered."

"But that is only a part of the tragedy," continued the Pencil. "I was sometimes put in the mouth of the one who made me work so hard and that made me feel very uncomfortable. Besides that his teeth would sometimes almost bite off my point.

"Then he dropped me on the floor again and some one stepped on me, although I was fortunate that time in not having a sharp point, so I was not injured, though my feelings were certainly hurt.

"But at last my troubles were at an end and I was brought back to my home, which I never expected to see again, and I am so tired I cannot say another word."

Then over rolled the poor, tired Pencil sound asleep, while the Pen holder and the Fountain Pen and the big blue pencil looked sadly at their misused companion and sighed.

"This goes to prove what I have always thought," said the Fountain Pen "children should never use things that do not belong to them. Poor Pencil will never recover from the hard treatment he has received today and I hope we will all be fortunate enough to escape his sad fate."

WHY—

DO WE YAWN?

OXYGEN is one of the elements of the air which is essential to the healthy, normal action of the lungs. Unless a sufficient quantity of oxygen is taken into the body, the lungs become irritated and flash a signal to the brain that a larger supply is necessary. The easiest method to overcome this shortage of oxygen is, of course, to take in an increased amount of air at one time. Hence the nerves which regulate our breathing apparatus react upon our jaw and throat muscles, causing both of them to open wide. Expansion of the lungs at the same time results in the inhalation of a much larger amount of air than is obtainable through ordinary breathing, thus supplying the needed amount of oxygen.

The reason that yawning is usually connected with a feeling of drowsiness is because a desire for sleep is a sign that the body is tired and is seeking a stimulant of some kind—either rest or an added amount of oxygen the fuel which keeps the human furnace burning brightly. The satisfaction which follows a yawn is due to the fact that the blood has received an extra supply of the material which it needs and we immediately feel the result of this.

DON'T KILL THE DOG

Once more we say, don't kill the supposed rabid dog. This for the sake, not now of the dog, but for your sake if you have been bitten. If the dog is mad, in all probability he is not, he will be dead in eight days from rabies. If he doesn't die, you know he isn't mad, and anyone bitten need never worry about having hydrophobia. Catch the dog somehow, if possible, with some sort of net or noose. Get him into any kind of enclosure, or yard, or kennel, and keep him under observation for a week. The average officer thinks that every dog that bites anyone must be mad, and that he must shoot him. If every man and woman were shot who, irritated, worried, hungry, thirsty, sick, frightened, snap at and bite, metaphorically speaking, the first persons they meet, what a destruction of the population!—"Our Dumb Animals."

Names and Phrases.

The bird usually connected with the Christmas Season is known as the turkey. Contrary to popular belief turkeys did not originate in Turkey, but on this side of the Atlantic in the West Indies. The French name for the bird is "dindon," the Russian is "indeiski." Rather a far-fetched theory of the origin of our word is that it is derived from the Hebrew "tikki" a peacock, or Tamil "toka," having the same meaning.

This process for macadamized streets fills the bill.

PAID up shares paying 5% can be had on application at the Peabody Co-operative Bank. They cost $200 each and ten shares can be purchased by one person. They are a gilt edge security and are always worth one hundred cents on the dollar invested. They are not effected by fluctuations in the stock market. Interest on paid up shares is paid semi-annually.

ORDER OF QUARANTINE NO. 3
RELATIVE TO THE SATIN MOTH

WHEREAS, a dangerously injurious insect, the Satin Moth (Stilpnotia salicis L), has been found in the following cities and towns in Massachusetts, namely:—Andover, Arlington, Bedford, Belmont, Beverly, Billerica, Boston, Boxford, Brookline, Burlington, Cambridge, Chelmsford, Concord, Danvers, Everett, Framingham, Georgetown, Groveland, Haverhill, Holliston, Lawrence, Lexington, Lincoln, Lowell, Lynn, Lynnfield, Malden, Marblehead, Medford, Melrose, Merrimac, Methuen, Middleton, Millis, Natick, Needham, Newburyport, Newton, North Andover, North Reading, Peabody, Quincy, Reading, Revere, Rockland, Rowley, Salem, Salisbury, Saugus, Sherborn, Somerville, Stoneham, Sudbury, Swampscott, Tewksbury, Topsfield, Wakefield, Waltham, Watertown, Wayland, Wellesley, West Newbury, Weston, Wilmington, Winchester, Winthrop and Woburn.

And, whereas, this insect has been found to infest certain plants hereinafter named, so that it is likely to spread to other portions of this state and other states through the movement of such plants, now, therefore, I, R. Harold Allen, Director, Division of Plant Pest Control, with the approval of the Commissioner of Agriculture, by authority of and under the provisions of Chapter 95 of the General Acts of 1919, and after a duly advertised public hearing held at 136 State House, Boston, on February 20, prohibit the movement from any points within the abovementioned cities and towns, constituting the area known to be infested, to any points outside of this area of all species and varieties of poplars and willows.

Provided: That willows and poplars brought into the known infested area during the months of March and April may be reshipped to points outside the infested area under special permit issued by this department providing such shipment is made before May 1 of the same year.

Corn, America is Burning Will Save Starving Armenia

Burying the Body of Another Victim of Starvation in the Fields Near Alexandropol, Armenia—Captain Paxton Hibben (insert at top)

The first complete semi-official account of conditions in Transcaucasian Armenia, contained in the Report of the American Commission of five members, sent out by the Near East Relief, and published in part in The Enterprise, has been made public in full. It states that in Armenia "conditions have been found shocking, indeed far worse than present conditions in the famine district of Russia."

The immediate cause for the present acute famine situation in Armenia, the Commission goes on to state, is "the destruction of some 140 villages by the invading Turks, from which the populations were driven and almost all beasts of burden, agricultural and household implements and conveyance were removed by the invaders. The evacuation of this portion of Armenia did not take place until April 21, 1921, too late for any extensive crop to be put in, even had the implements the draught animals and the implements to plough and sow the ground.

"According to this Report there are a rough total of about 400,000 homeless refugees in Armenia now facing starvation without food. Of the 50,000 Armenians concentrated in cities and towns by far the greater part were actually starving, when observed by this Commission early in August. Children were lying dead in the streets and the sick and infirm were dying in great numbers daily. Cholera had set in and was making havoc, partly due to the reduced resistance to disease of those suffering from hunger."

The Commission states that the American Near East Relief is the only agency which stands between the whole population of this country and death this winter.

"Two relief ships loaded with the corn the farmers of the west are burning or feeding to the hogs would see the people of an entire nation through the winter," declared Capt. Paxton Hibben, secretary of the Commission. "President Harding, in his message to Congress, has said: 'It seems to me we should be indifferent to our heart promptings, and out of accord with the spirit which acclaims the Christmastide, if we do not give out of our national abundance to lighten this burden of woe upon a people blameless and helpless in famine's peril.'

"We in America can save a whole people without feeling it or missing a meal. Will we?"

Civic House Lads Perform At Strand

Tuesday night, March 14th, will be Community House night at the Strand theatre. Two pictures, "Just Around the Corner," written by Fannie Hurst, and a Ben Turpin comedy will be shown. A short but interesting entertainment by some of the boys and girls of the Community House will also be given.

Among others will appear Manuel Enos, whistler, brother of the well-known whistler, and Dorothy Doyle in special dances. Proceeds go to pay for the new pool table.

The spring course of eight lessons in millinery begins Friday evening, March 10, at 7 o'clock, under the instruction of Mrs. J. J. Murphy.

Wet Feet Started This Woman's Trouble

Timely Arrival Of Father Kept Her From Severe Spell of Sickness

Mr. A. G. Swett, of 31 Adams St., Waltham, Mass., a well-known business man of that city, gives the following testimonial as to the value of Cerizane. He says:

"On a visit to my married daughter, I found that she had gotten her feet wet, and contracted a terrible cold. She was sick in bed and tried several remedies. Nothing seemed to help her. She was hardly able to speak, with such a cough it made my heart ache to hear it. She had not been able to sleep at all for two nights, and was thoroughly worn out. Having used Cerizane Balsam myself, and knowing how quickly it worked, I rushed to Carter's Drug Store for a bottle, and commenced to give it to my daughter. Believe me, in twenty-four hours she was all right. Cerizane is truly a wonderful medicine."

Cerizane Cough Balsam has been made for ninety-five years by the Wilson family of Boston, who originated the famous Winsol line of medicines. It contains nothing of a harmful nature. It ha helped millions and hurt none. Your druggist probably has it.

Poultry Talk Free to Public

Poultry fanciers and even the men and women who keep a few hens for eggs for the table will find it to their advantage tonight to attend the lecture on poultry raising to be given in Keefe school hall by Prof. Angell of Chicago, who will give an illustrated talk on the cackling family. The lecture is free, no admission being charged. Prof. Angell comes to Peabody at the invitation of A. P. Ames Co., grain dealers. The proper feeding and care of poultry will be the keynote of the lecture, which will begin at 8 o'clock.

South Peabody

The funeral of Lucy May (Bryant) Carney of County street took place Friday afternoon at the South Peabody church. Rev. G. B. Shattuck of Lawrence, a friend of the family for 30 years, officiated, assisted by Rev. Robert Bakeman. Mr. Shattuck married Mr. and Mrs. Carney ten years ago. Mrs. Wilkinson of Salem sang appropriate selections. A large delegation of the members of Peabody Grange were present, as well as members of the Ladies' Aid Society.

The church was filled with relatives and friends and the flowers filled the whole space around the pulpit. Lucy Bryant was born 28 years ago in the house in which she died, having lived there all her life. She was a lovable spirit and her passing on at so early an age was a terrible blow, not only to her immediate family but to a host of friends. The sympathy of the community is extended to the family.

Last Saturday afternoon Barak L. Stevens of Aberdeen avenue was married to Miss Dorothy P. Shangraw of Beverly at the South Peabody parsonage by Rev. Robert Bakeman. The double ring service was used.

David Coombs of Lynnfield street is recovering from tonsilitis.

Mrs. Inez Griffin of Lynn street has been sick with the grippe for the past week.

Carl Newhall of Lynn street is in New York on a business trip.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lake Shore Park church met with Mrs. Sadie Rainford yesterday afternoon.

The Boy Scouts will give a "double header" program next Thursday evening at the Lake Shore Park church. Instead of one drama, as usual, they will have two, and they want the co-operation of the older people to make it a success.

A business meeting of the Epworth League was held Wednesday evening, after which a social was held by the following committee: Miss Edna Newhall, Mrs. Hattie Evans and Mrs. Elizabeth Hetherington.

Rockville Camp Fire Girls met last night with Miss Annie Osgood, Lynn street.

Rev. Lewis Malvern of Bartholomew street is able to be out again, after a long seige of rheumatism.

Mrs. Orrin Sweetland and daughter Lillian of North Reading spent Monday with Mrs. Sadie Currier, Lynn street.

Mrs. George Hemingway and baby are staying at the home of Arthur Matthews for a few days.

Ladies 'Aid Society of the Second Congregational church met Wednesday. Some of the ladies met with Mrs. Bakeman in the afternoon to make aprons. Supper was served at the usual hour. The following committee had charge: Mrs. Annie Reed, Miss Ella Reed, Mrs. Annie Annis, Miss Irene Skinner, Miss Edith Currier and Miss Nancy Twiss. At the business meeting, held after the supper, the March entertainment committee reported that a minstrel show was in progress and would be given the last of March.

Mrs. Rose Holden of Lynnfield street is able to get down stairs after an illness of five weeks with muscular rheumatism.

Men's Club will meet next Wednesday at the Second Congregational church.

At the whist party held at Davis hall by the Neighborhood Club, five tables were filled and Henniker Foster and Mr. Cummings were awarded the prizes.

Quarantine has been removed from the Ferguson house on Lynn street, also Little's on Brown street.

Lake Shore Park Church

Harry B. Hill, Pastor. Morning service at 10.45. Subject, "The Exercise of Faith." Sunday school at noon. Evening service at 7 o'clock. Subject, "The Scout and His Ideals." Several Scout troops of the city will attend this service.

Official board meeting this evening at 7 o'clock. A full attendance is urged. Prayer meeting at 7.45.

American Legion

The American Legion Auxilary will visit the service men at the Danvers hospital on Sunday, March 19. They will leave Peabody square promptly at two o'clock. A short entertainment will be given on arrival, and it is also planned to have community singing. Each person making the trip will bring a box containing fancy cookies, cake, fruit, chocolate and cigarettes. As the number of boys confined there has increased greatly since last year, it is absolutely necessary that every member attend if possible, or if they cannot attend, at least pack a box and send it to the American Legion hall before 1.45 p. m. on March 19. The auxiliary would be glad to have any person who is interested in the cause of the boys, come with them on this visit and see for themselves the good that is being accomplished. All persons who desire to go are asked to notify Mrs. Helen Bomer, 12 Park street, either by telephone or by card, in order that sufficient machines may be secured for transportation.

The members are to be accompanied by the Legion, who are co-operating with them. They urge the public to show the proper spirit and to donate the use of their machines to transport the talent and the members to the hospital.

These entertainments and visits have done wonders for the boys. It seemed impossible to arouse the faintest spark of interest in any of them, when the auxiliary first started to make their visits, but many of them have improved so rapidly that they now recognize those who have visited there before, and take an active part in the singing and entertainment.

There seems to be some misunderstanding in the city about the purpose of the American Legion Auxiliary. It is not organized solely for social purposes. It is organized to help the boys, to help every ex-service man who needs help, whether it be financial or otherwise. This is in no sense charity. It is the duty of the American public to the men who fought for them. If there is any ex-service man in this city who is in need, they want to know it. Their need is known only to two persons. After assuring themselves that the person in question is sincere, and not one of the impostors, who unfortunately often take advantage of the service man's aid, every effort is made to do everything possible for him. In many cases the man chooses to regard this as a loan to be paid back when they are in better financial circumstances. It is hoped that no one who is entitled to this aid will hold back, but will go to the president of the auxiliary or the commander of the Legion, and tell them how they can help them.

Adjusted compensation won a decided victory in the nation-wide referendum conducted by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce—4116 chambers voting favorable, 2657 voting against the measure.

"From the U. S. Chamber's point of view," said John Thomas Taylor, vice-chairman of the American Legion's legislative committee, "the referendum was a flat failure, for that body represents the most highly organized opposition to the bonus. By trying to separate the cash feature from the more productive provisions of the bill, and by other means, it has done everything in its power to influence its constituent members against the bill. In spite of this fact, the vote shows almost 2 to 1 favorable.

"The Legion despises unfair discrimination—cash and the other features cannot be separated, as the U. S. Chamber separated them in its referendum."

On March 4, American Legion membership was 108,000 more than on March 4, 1921. New members have joined at the rate of 6600 a day since Jan. 1. These figures have been given out from Legion headquarters to refute the statement that the organization is losing members because of its stand on adjusted compensation.

The American Legion has won the first suit in its history, brought to defend its name. Judgment by default and damages were awarded the Legion against Francis H. Shoemaker, alleged radical worker, for statements made in a speech last December. Shoemaker was quoted as saying that the Legion is "subidized by big interests" and "opposed to organized labor."

Before sunset of the first day, 500,000 daisies were sold in the American Legion's "Daisy Day" drive throughout Massachusetts for funds to help unemployed ex-soldiers. Four daisies brought $125.

* * *

Charging that the bonus is attacked "not by those who fought" but "by those who profited," the American Legion at Marion, O., home of President Harding, has appealed to congress to look at the facts "in the light of pure reason."

"It will be blowed up!" The police at Centralia, Wash., received this threat against the erection of the American Legion memorial building, to be dedicated to men shot down by alleged I. W. W. members, in 1919.

To attend an American Legion initiation, an Oregon rancher trekked 35 miles—18 of them on snowshoes. Wounds received in France did not check his determination to "arrive."

* * *

A member of the American Legion or its Auxiliary will sit on every school board in Iowa, if plans of the Legion's Americanism department in that state carry.

Cash payments ran forth in a referendum on adjusted compensation taken by the Elgin, Neb., post of the American Legion in five townships. At Bozeman, Mont., there were no votes for the cash option.

Repudiating the stand against adjusted compensation taken by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the Chicago commerce board went on record in support of the bill, following a visit to Chicago of Hanford MacNider, commander of the American Legion.

The ex-service man on the beach at Waikiki needs a bonus as much as his buddy in this country, according to the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce, which has passed a resolution endorsing the American Legion's five-fold adjusted compensation bill.

Making expenses by selling chewing gum, an ex-cavalryman is walking from Chicago to Los Angeles to get a job promised him there. "It's 1500 miles, but jobs are scarce," he says.

The longest wireless jump ever made at sea was recorded when the steamer American Legion, entering Buenos Ayres, picked up a message from a ship off Honolulu, 7000 miles distant.

"How a man worships his God is his own business," wrote Hanford MacNider, Legion commander, answering a magazine article entitled "Rome Heads the American Legion." Mr. MacNider said religion is of no consideration in Legion membership.

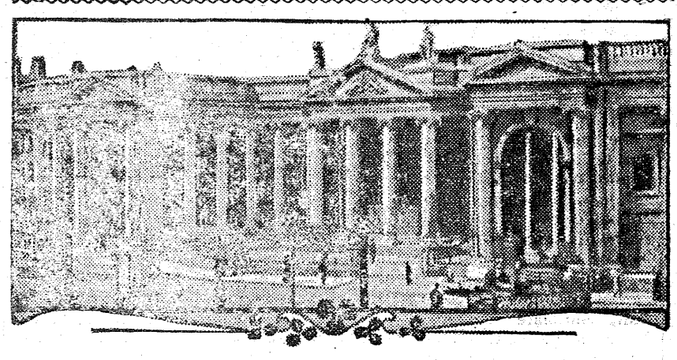
Armed with fence pickets, doughty ex-soldiers staged a bloodless bull fight in the Jersey City stockyards to raise funds for the American Legion. The nimble matadors had to jump the fence on several occasions.

* * *



Arrested for a minor offense, Gordon Seybold, Oneida, N. Y., ex-service man, says state troopers swung him up by his wrists and pummeled him to get a confession. The American Legion has engaged counsel to probe the charge.

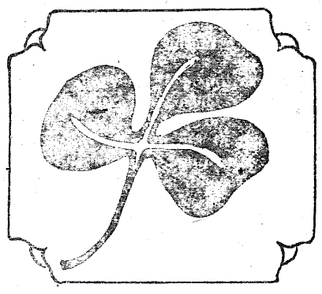
PARLIAMENT HOUSE AGAIN



The old Irish parliament building on College Green, now occupied by the Bank of Ireland, is destined to become the official home of the legislature of the new Irish Free State, according to the political correspondent of the Freeman's Journal.

"When Michael Collins and William Cosgrove visited the handsome historic building," the writer says, "their visit was not entirely concerned with matters of finance. When arrangements appointing the Bank of Ireland as financial agents of the new government were concluded, the ministers were conducted around the building with a view to investigate its suitability to house the parliament.

"They spent a little time in the old house of lords, which is practically unchanged after the 122 years that have rolled away since it put the castle within reach of the subverted Grattan's parliament."

THE SHAMROCK

Almost everybody wears a shamrock or a bit of green in honor of St. Patrick, the patron saint of Erin, but how many know why they do?

The shamrock, or small white clover, was used by St. Patrick, then a missionary in the island, as a symbol or illustration of the Trinity in speaking to the then pagan natives. Menaced by the Druid priests of the pagan faith, St. Patrick plucked a shamrock at his feet and asked, "Is such a thing more unbelieveable than that this plant should have three leaves?"

It is a curious coincidence that the trefoil in Arabic is called "shamrakh" and was held sacred in Iran as emblematical of the Persian Triads. Pliny, the ancient naturalist, says that serpents are never seen upon the trefoil.

It is reasonable to imagine that the Irish had inscribed mystical virtues to the trefoil, or shamrock, previous to St. Patrick's arrival, and on hearing of the Trinity they fancied some peculiar fitness in their already sacred plant to shadow forth the newly revealed and mysterious doctrine.—Chicago American.

FAMOUS OLD DUBLIN CASTLE

Historic Edifice Dates From 1210 When It Is Known to Have Had First Royal Occupant.

Dublin castle, recently brought into the limelight by the evacuation of the English military, followed by Irish occupation, has figured as prominently in old world affairs as any vaunted traditional "castle on the Rhine" or stronghold of medieval "robber barons," remarks the Kansas City Times.

Its first royal occupant was King John, who spent two days there in 1210. Richard II sojourned there for nine months two centuries following King John's visit. Many sovereigns at different times have spent short stays there, including King George IV and the present prince of Wales.

King John ordered its building in 1209 and from then on many wings and additions were built, in the mode of architecture favored by the reigning monarch. As no two monarchs agreed as to the most esthetic form of "frozen music" the castle has presented an appearance as variegated and temperamental as the Irish themselves.

The castle yard is likewise historic. Back in 1583 it was the scene of "a trial of combat." Two cousins, both O'Connors, were haled before the lord justice to settle the responsibility of the killing of a fellow clansman. They were each given a sword and a shield and after taking oath that each believed his cause a just one, they fought. The victorious O'Connor cut off the head of his cousin and presented it to the lord justice.

INNISFALLEN ABBEY

Upon the spot where the ruins of Innisfallen abbey stand, tradition has it that St. Patrick preached. The abbey was founded by St. Finan Lobhor (St. Finan of the books) who died late in the Sixth century.

Arising midst a wooded isle,
Where fair Killarney's waters smile,
Famed Innisfallen abbey gray
Presents itself in sad decay;
Its ruins mirrored in the lake
Where monks of old their thirst did slake.

A thousand years before our time
The abbey had attained its prime;
Its monks had fasted, prayed and wrote
To love and piety promote—
Books on the mysteries of creeds
With annals of great Irish deeds.

But centuries have passed away
Since matins ushered dawn of day,
Since the sweet vesper hymn was sung
And the refection bell was rung;
Now nothing but the songs of birds
The abbey's solitude disturbs.

What memories cluster round the place
Of men, the noblest of their race!
Men of ideals high and true
Who loved the right, would wrong eschew;
Who toiled to make men meet for heaven,
While not a thought to self was given.

Dr. Van Ness Will Lecture On Slovakia

Rev. Thomas Van Ness of Boston, who recently gave an intimate picture of Germany behind the scenes at the Unitarian parish, has consented to come here Tuesday evening, March 21, again and give the truth about Czecho-Slovakia, which he declares is "The keystone in the present European arch." Dr. Van Ness pleased an audience of over 100 men and women at his last lecture on Germany. The public is invited. Dr. Van Ness spent some weeks in Czecho-Slovakia last fall.

JUSTICE SERVICE CO-OPERATION

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

CO-OPERATION

We are working together—co-operating in our shop. A good many of us don't believe this, but, we are. A good many of us don't know what co-operation means, but, whether we know or whether we don't know, we are working together just the same. Working together to make leather.

Some of us workers built the shop and put machinery in it in order to manufacture leather. Some of us are managing the shop and the machinery. Some of us are working at the machines making leather. Some of us are selling the leather to the public. We are doing four different kinds of work, but we are all WORKERS, in co-operation, and each of us is necessary to the others.

It is our shop to work in, ours to produce in, ours to manage, and the conditions under which we work and produce determine our life and our happiness.

Those workers who built the shop and put in the machinery cannot make leather to sell unless others workers use this machinery, and neither of these can work unless there is a management to wisely direct the business of making and selling leather.

In every successful business there are four parties interested. Capital is useless, and Labor is useless, without a Management to direct and a Public to buy. Each is helpless without all the others. It is a wonderful example of co-operation.

The Shop must be built.
The Workers must produce.
The Management must direct.
The Public must buy.

The last party is the most particular, because, if the leather is not a proper quality and price the public will not buy. Who is this "Public"? We are. We, the workers in our shop and in all the other shops and factories and stores and banks and railroads. We are the "Public."

It would be impossible to make all the different goods this Public wants without machinery. Machinery is capital. Money is not capital. Money is a tool we use to move things from one place to another. Buildings and machinery and skins are capital and without machinery each worker could only produce what his own hands could make. The wages we earn are made steady and secure by buildings and machinery.

We, who have built the shop; we, who are managing the shop; we, who work at the machines; we, who sell the leather, are each entitled to our just share of the money from the sale of the leather produced in our shop.

The worker at the machine is paid wages.

The work done by capital is paid interest.

The managers of the shop are paid salaries.

Each is dependent upon all the others.

The Public pays all of us.

Just as we are all workers, so we may all be capitalists. Every man or woman who has one dollar, or ten dollars, or one hundred dollars in a bank, or in a home—is a capitalist. Each of us is a wage earner and a capitalist at the same time.

If we abuse Capital there will be no money to build shops and factories and keep them in repair, or to pay wages until the goods are sold and paid for. If we abuse Labor it will refuse to work, the goods will not be produced and the capital invested will be worthless. If from either cause shops are idle, the public suffer. That is—We suffer.

Every capitalist who is a "profiteer" is hurting the public; hurting Us. Every laborer who is a "slacker" is hurting the public; hurting everybody. Every manager who is a "bonehead" is hurting the public. We are so closely in co-operation that what is harmful to one is harmful to every one.

In Russia two classes of workers would not co-operate. Capital and Labor quarreled. They thought they two were the whole works and forgot the other two parties in the game, Management and the Public, and, in consequnce all production stopped. Capital was killed, Management was frightened away and there was no one to take care of the factories and the goods. The Public could not buy and mills are idle, railroads are not running, people are without clothing or food—many are dying from starvation.

But we are not in Russia. Our shop is in Peabody, in the United States of America, the best country on earth. Here we can talk things over among ourselves. Here we work together. We co-operate. We have learned in our shop that each of us is necessary to the other. So we are working together—co-operating—in our shop.

'Scandal' Is Title Play At Empire

"Beatrix is one of the most fascinating of characters. She does normal things and, when she faces a situation, jumps to a conclusion that keeps her constantly in hot water. It is these characteristics plus a certain underlying sweetness that makes her as interesting as she is. I have never played a scene as well written as the third act of 'Scandal'. If the audiences enjoy the play one-half as much as I enjoy playing it, it is going to be a very happy week for everyone."

This is the opinion of Miss Ann Kingsley, the leading woman of the Luttringer Players, regarding "Scanday", the Cosmo Hamilton comedy that is to be played at the Empire theatre, Salem, all next week.

The story of the play revolved about a bit of gossip, printed in 'Town Tattle', regarding the visit of one Beatrix to the studio of Sutherland York, a rather notorious artist. It was a perfectly harmless visit, but no one believed that, not even her family. So she tried to find a way out of her troubles. She announced that she had been secretly married to another man, who lived just across the hall from York's studio, and wouldn't give him the chance to deny it.

"Scandal" is one of the most consistently laughable comedies that has ever been written.

Communion For Div. 11, A.O.H.

All members of Division 11, A. O. H., are requested to assemble in their hall at 6.45 o'clock on next Sunday morning with badges and white gloves and march in a body to 7 o'clock mass to receive holy communion. Every member is obliged to be present, unless for very apparent reasons only will there be any excuse, as the division hopes to turn out one hundred per cent. of its members on this most important occasion.

Only 5 Days Left To File Income Tax

To avoid penalty, income-tax returns must be in the hands of collectors of internal revenue on or before midnight, March 15.

Every taxable return must be accompanied by a payment of at least one-fourth of the total tax due. Extensions of time for filing returns are allowed only in exceptional cases, illness, absence, etc. Applications for extensions under these circumstances should be addressed to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer lives. No extension beyond thirty days can be granted by a collector. Requests for further extensions must be addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington.

For failure to make a return on time the penalty is a fine of not more than $1000, plus 25 per cent. of the tax due.

For failure to pay tax when due or for understatement of the tax through negligence, there is a penalty of 5 per cent. of the tax, pus interest at 1 per cent. a month until paid. For making a false or fraudulent return the penalty is a fine of not more than $10,000, or not exceeding one year's imprisonment, or both, together with the cost of prosecution and an additional assessment of 50 per cent. of the amount of tax paid.

AUNT GLORY'S TEST

By MOLLIE MATHER

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

"My dear," said Hildegard's mother, "Benny Travers is a nice boy, but if he ever intends to make anything of himself, he had better begin now. And if I were you, I'd wait, before bestowing too much of my friendship, until he showed some promise of making that start. And—"

"Ben," remarked that young man's mother, "what in the world do you find to admire in that Hildegard Kane? She doesn't move in your sister's circle, you know, and both your father and I would be pleased, if you'd confine your attentions there."

So the trouble began: Hildegard and Benny, seated on a mossy green bank, discussed cordially their elders' objections.

"What mother wants," said Ben, "is for me to marry a social success. I haven't been blind to my sister Jane's game, either. This is the third time she's had that Barlow girl to visit us, and I'm supposed to chauffeur her all over every time she comes. But I'll marry the girl I want, and that's you, Hildah."

His companion nodded pleasantly.

"And mother evinces old-fashioned ideas about manly ambition, and being settled in business," she remarked. "I know all the time that she is fairly throwing Jack Balcome at my head; just because his mother happens to be my mother's best friend, and Jack is doing well in his uncle's law office. Even if you have no particular ambition at present, Benny dear, you do make a jolly companion, and you don't have to worry about making money for some time, do you?"

"Not while dad has his pile," Ben comfortably replied. Then he bent over and kissed Hildegard.

"I—don't quite want you to do that yet," she said doubtfully.

"But we are engaged, aren't we?" he asked in an injured tone.

The girl considered. "Well, maybe we'll call it that," she agreed, "between ourselves."

"In the meantime," the young man began eagerly, "you will let me take you around occasionally, won't you Hildah? And perhaps we might go for our week ends, out to your Aunt Glory's farm."

Hildegard beamed admiringly.

"You do think of the nicest things," she said. "Always I have told Aunt Glory all my secrets, and she doesn't boss or irritate me like mother."

Her young lover arose and gave her his hand.

"It makes me darn mad to have people trying to run me," he said hotly. "Mother's objecting will only make me see more of you than ever. We will surprise them all, sweetheart, one of these days."

"We will," smiled Hildegard demurely. She walked on, smiling, his arm about her.

Aunt Glory listened earnestly to her niece's confidence.

"Of course, if you are both sure that you love each other, all will come right," she said. "But sometimes we make mistakes. There was a young man that I knew in my youth, and I had not known him long, when I was quite certain that I could not live without him. So I cast aside a faithful love of years—and afterward found that my new fancy had been an illusion. We have to be with people a good deal, sometimes," sighed Aunt Glory, "in order to know, not only them, but ourselves. Do you think that your mother would allow you and Mr. Travers to spend a week with me on the farm?"

"I am certain she would not," mourned Hildegard; "she thinks I see too much of Benny now."

"Perhaps," considered Aunt Glory, "she might be in favor of the idea if I made a house party of it, and invite your friend Jack, as well. And—why not have the desired Miss Barlow to make up the four?"

Hildegard laughed. "You are the wisest thing!" she exclaimed. "Of course mother will be fairly eager if Jack is to be there."

Aunt Glory's farmhouse was a picturesque place, and its amusements were many.

"Regular country club entertainment," Benny described it; while the intolerant Miss Barlow warmed into good nature. Hildegard, from her accepted place at Ben's side in the veranda or garden, watched with unaccountable impatience, Betty Barlow's enjoyment of Jack Deming's play.

They made a good pair at tennis, and one evening, as she played absently upon the piano, for Ben's amusement, she was piqued to find that he had fallen asleep in his chair.

Hildegard's mother at the end of the week received a letter; after reading the first sentence she turned, white-faced, to her husband.

"It's from Hildah," she said weakly; "she is engaged."

Then she cried, "Why, the child says that she loves Jack, that they only found out how much they cared for each other away out there in the country.

"'We were always happy just to be near each other,' Hildah says."

"What," father asked succinctly, "about that Travers fellow she was so fond of?"

"I'll read you Hildah's own words," the mother said: "'As for Ben and me, we bored each other to death; I never knew that his society was so tiresome. Anyway, Betty Barlow is more Ben's kind.'"

BE A MAN

It's a mighty good thing, while you're running life's race
Just to pause, as you go, and come face to face
With your conscience, and ask it a question or two;
For it's right you should know what your life means to you.

Have you done things worth while; have you drifted along?
Have you filled it with sigh; have you filled it with song?
Have you helped when you should; have you tried to do right?
Have you struggled for good, or just fought for might?

Have you given your hand to some fellow in need;
Have you sneered at the man who was not of your creed?
Have you been open-hearted and ready to do;
Have you tried to be just; have you tried to be true?

Oh, it's easy to preach, and it's easy to tell
Of the other chap's fault's—but our own faults, ah, well!
We are cowards at time, and the truth, you will find,
Is a thing we dislike, for it's rather unkind.

But the Past, let it rest—give a thought to Today
And Tomorrow, as well, for the Time's growing gray.
Do the things that you should, do the best that you can;
Crown your life with your deeds—be a red-blooded man!

—W. Dayton Wedgefarth.

Trying It Herself.

A girl of five taken to a vaudeville show was much impressed with the ventriloquist. That evening while saying her prayers she asked God to look after her brothers and sisters and to make her a good girl—then after a brief pause she was heard to say, sotto voice: "All right!"

THOMAS ELECTED DICTATOR BY PEABODY LODGE OF MOOSE

John H. Thomas is the new Dictator of Peabody Moose Lodge as a result of the annual election held this week, which witnessed several contests and brought out a large membership to cast ballots. He is one of the best known members of the Moose and has always been a leading worker for the good of the order. It comes natural for him to head organizations, for he is Sachem of the Red Men of this city, and a Past Great North Moose of Mooseheart Legion. In addition he is a member of the Peabody Lodge of Elks.

Mr. Thomas is married and the proud father of five children. His home is on Aborn street. He is a foreman at the N. H. Poor Leather Co.

P. T. LANGDON, P. D.
Elected Secretary

Peabody Moose Lodge was organized in Peabody in November, 1913, with 35 charter members, including Ex-Mayor Donnell and the present Mayor William A. Shea Today it has around 400 members It has staged several successful fairs and has a substantial treasury. It had 70 of its members in the World war, one giving his life in the service.

The installation of the newly elected officers will be held on March 28, when the Beverly lodge degree team will come here for that purpose. In the recent election William F. Robinson and Jeremiah Shea tied for trustee and another election will be held unless one of the two withdraws.

Patrick T. Langdon, Past Dictator of the lodge, was elected secretary, winning over Gardner Viles in a spirited contest.

The other officers to be installed this month are: Vice Dictator, Wm. H. Sweeney; prelate, S. MacEwen; secretary, P. T. Langdon; treasurer, Wm. F. Brown; delegate to convention, W. F. Robinson; alternate, P. T. Langdon.

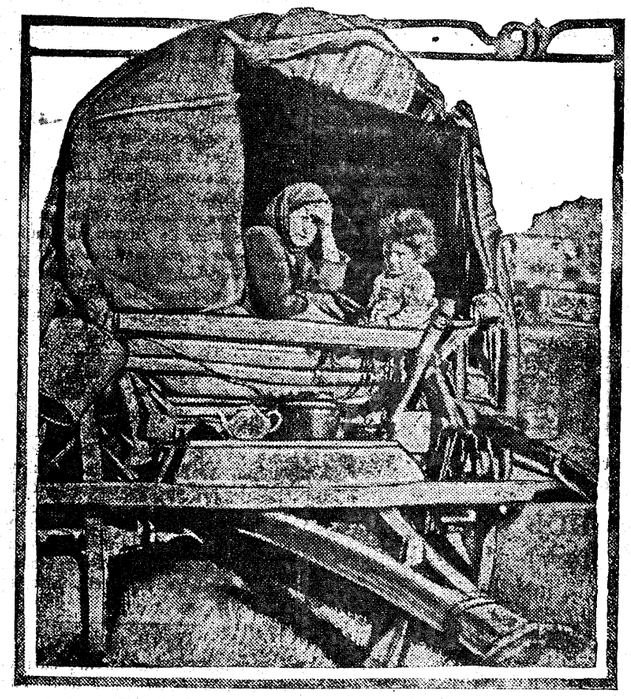
BOXING TQURNEY TUESDAY

Peabody is at last to have boxing bouts with a license granted to the Peabody A. C. to conduct amateur bouts in City Hall. The first big show will be staged next Tuesday night as a tournament with a galaxy of stars who seek to emulate Jack Dempsey and become the world's champions.

The bouts carded are 112 pounds, 126 pounds and 147 pounds, all being open to the aspirants who can weigh in at those figures. One of the big features of the card will be the 118 pound bout open only to novices or beginners. This bout should provide plenty of thrills. Gold watches of 15 and seven jewels will be awarded the first and second winners in all events.

The judges and referee are sent here by the N. E. A. U. which has just admitted the Peabody A. C. to membership. There will be three rounds in each bout of three minutes' duration.

John H. McNamara is president of the Peabody A. C. and Albert Brown is the secretary. The latter is brother of Kid Brown, the champion in the 112-pound class for amateurs. The Kid will step into the ring Tuesday night after a six weeks' layoff nursing a fractured hand sustained in a bout at Lynn. He has been in 26 bouts and lost but one, and has scored 21 knockouts.



Leo Barry, who will be in the ring Tuesday, scored a victory over Thomas Falls of Lowell last night before the Somerville A. C. Falls has been national champion in his class for the past five years. It required an extra round for the Peabody lad to get the decision.

Mrs. Thomas P. Masterson has been confined to her home with a severe attack of grip for the past two weeks.

PURCHASED HOME

Percy Robinson of Clement avenue has purchased the home of Richards B. Mackintosh on Howard avenue and hopes to take possession April 1. He is employed at the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. in the motor transportation department, being in charge of repairs.

New Desolation Threatens Land of Constant Turmoil—Near East

Refugee Family Fleeing with Possessions from the Danger Zone.

French evacuation of Cilicia, where for months the military forces of the Republic have been all that has stood between the Armenians and renewed Moslem outbreaks, threatens further misery and desolation in a land which has known little but war and devastation for more than seven years.

Fearing outbreaks similar to those of a little more than a year ago, when more than 20,000 Armenians lost their lives in massacres at Hadjin, Marash, and Urfa, armies of refugees are flocking into Syria and cities on the coast, imploring to be sent to the Island of Cyprus and other asylums of assured security.

American workers of the Near East Relief who have been caring for the survivors of previous massacres report that throughout Cilicia native Christians are in the wildest panic of fear. With winter coming on, with the centers to which the refugees are fleeing already overcrowded, and with relief supplies inadequate, a terrible problem is facing the American relief workers in the care of these people, according to Lieut. J. M. Chankalian, a veteran of the French Foreign Legion who has spent four years with the French forces in Cilicia.

"Almost beyond description," he declares, "are the acute sufferings of the fugitives, many of whom have left their homes with little more than the clothes on their backs.

"Their fear is unreasoning, but it is not unreasonable. They are largely the survivors of the massacres of last year and they are only too familiar with Moslem ferocity.

"They know what is going to happen just as soon as the last European soldier is withdrawn across the border into Syria."

From other sources, from relief agents at isolated stations in the interior, from directors of larger relief units in the big cities, and from the stories of refugees themselves comes confirmation of Chankalian's statements.

Reports to relief headquarters in New York tell of almost incredable suffering among the thousands fleeing from their homes, particularly among the children who form a large proportion of their number. Relief agents in the field assert that unless immediate assistance is forthcoming the deaths from starvation and exposure during the winter will run into the thousands.

Major Nicol, head of the Near East Relief in the Cilicia area has cabled to New York asking that the relief funds at his disposal be doubled.

Patrolman W. Fred Wiggin Rounds Out 35 Years On Force

Patrolman W. Fred Wiggin rounds out 35 years today as a member of the Peabody police department, having received his appointment as a town constable on March 10, 1887. He became a member of the regular force a month later. He is still one of the most vigorous members on Chief Grady's staff and accredited with being one of the most fearless.

He was born in Peabody within a stone's throw of his present abode off Lynn street on June 10, 1857 and after his early schooling went to work in the glue factory. Later he tried leather when wages were three dollars a week for the first year. Finally he listened to the call of the uniform and gave up his leather trade to join the local police. He served as Chief of the department for four years.

Patrolman Wiggin is a deacon in the Second Congregational church and for some years a trustee. He is a Past Noble Grand of Holten lodge of Odd Fellows and is a member of the American Men. He has five daughters and one son. The daughters are Mrs. Etta Stone of this city, Mrs. Ann Pollock of Everett, Mrs. Feronia Putnam of this city, Mrs. Charles Wilson f Dorchester and Miss Edith L. Wiggin who resides at home. The son is Fred T. Wiggin of Melrose Highlands. The smiling policeman has 13 grand children.

Dist. Attorney

the administration of the affairs of an office of this character, he deserves and will receive a renomination.

He is giving largely of his time, at the sacrifice of his private practice, to the attention of the duties of this office. I have never served under a more manly man, and have in the last two years had ample opportunity to survey and measure him at close range, and it has increased my admiration and respect for the man, his character, capacity and honesty.

Our relations have always been cordial; never has the slightest friction arisen between us; we have come to know and understand each other; for me to run against him would not only be base ingratitude, but would be a futile attempt to defeat a capable, hardworking, faithful and upright public officer. His work is a credit to himself and an honor to the district. He will not be seriously opposed.

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM G .CLARK.

Sprague Upton reports "listening in" last Saturday evening on the U. S. shipping board liner America, while she was 700 miles at sea. The ship was attempting to communicate with the general electric station at Schenectady, N. Y., but did not connect until the following afternoon, when she reported herself as 350 miles from Sandy Hook. Sprague was "listening in" at that time also and heard the operator say that he had been trying to reach the station for twenty-four hours. Messages were received from the captain and numerous passengers. One woman asked Schenectady to call a friend by phone and notify her of the arrival of the boat on the following day.

Mrs. Frederick Mac Allister and daughter Patricia are spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Barnes of King street.

Dr. S. Chase Tucker plans to leave tomorrow for his annual golf vacation in the south land. It is surely deserved, for the doctor in common with the other local medical men has been sadly overworked this winter and spring.

Mrs. Lars C. Larsen is recovering from a serious case of influenza at her home on Oak street.

MARGARET SULLIVAN

Miss Margaret Sullivan died last night after a long illness at her home 9 Summer street. Besides her aged mother she leaves two sisters, Mrs. Mary McGinn and Miss Nellie Sullivan, and one brother, James Sullivan to mourn her loss. Her funeral will take place from her late home Sunday afternoon at 1.30 followed by services at St. John's Church at 2 o'clock. A pro burial high mass of requiem will be celebrated at St. John's church Monday morning at 7.45.

MOTHER-TEACHERS

The monthly meeting of the Mother-Teachers' Association of the South school will be held next Tuesday evening at the school. Mr. Woodman, principal of Peabody High school will speak. Community singing will be lead by Miss Sullivan, supervisor of music.

Chamber of Commerce Elects Miss Louise Doyle As Secretary

Donald G. Roby tendered his resignation as secretary of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of the directors yesterday afternoon to take effect April 1. He has been offered the secretaryship of the Wakefield Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Roby has been here one year and has made many friends. He is secretary of the Peabody Rotary Club. He has given his best effort to his work and his many friends will wish him all success in the future.

The directors voted to procure other quarters and will probably take a vacant office in the Allen block facing the Warren National bank. Miss Louise Doyle will be given the appointment of office secretary as a reward for her services during the past three years as assistant secretary. She will become the only woman secretary of a Chamber of Commerce in Massachusetts. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doyle of King street.

A conference is slated with Manager McCormick of the Bay State with a view to getting some improvements in the local car service. A committee of the directors are to confer with a big Essex County concern which seeks larger floor space and this conference may result in a new industry locating in this city.

MISS LOUISE DOYLE

MAYOR NOT TO CUT SALARIES

There will be no cut in the salaries of city officials and employes this year. That has been decided by Mayor Shea on the grounds that the salaries paid to the municipal family here is only on a par with what is paid by other cities and towns. The budget for 1922 which will go before the City Council next week Thursday will see no reduction in pay, but it will give a staggering blow to departmental heads, who will find their estimates so badly cut as to make their original figures hardly recognizable.

The pruning knife has been used almost with fiendish glee by His Honor in his frantic effort to prevent the tax rate soaring into the $40 and better figure. No new street construction, no extension of sewers or water mains are in sight this year. How well the tax-payers will take to the item which may provide for a new motor fire ladder truck remains to be seen. The Mayor believes with the tractor out of commission, it is cruelty to animals to compel two horses to draw the ponderous ladder truck.

The elimination of all city improvements this year is due to the fact that the city must pay $203,381.25 alone in maturing bonds and interest on bonds, principally the new school house construction of a year ago. This figure alone fixes ten dollars of the tax rate.

The Mayor hints that a reduction in the number of city employes may be brought about in the near future. It is known that he has put this matter

School Alarm Caused Panic

Hundreds of Peabody mothers and fathers were thrown into a state of panic yesterday shortly before 11.40 when an alarm from box 612, St. John's parochial school, sounded, with City Electrician Vincent P. O'Keefe at the school ready to inspect the alarm box. Before the all-out signal could be given the whole city was on edge fearing that another school fire had visited the city, endangering the lives of precious children.

Wednesday at a practice fire drill the signal given in the school was not heard in all of the rooms and Rev. Thomas P. McGinn, pastor of St. John's church, requested the fire box apparatus be examined to insure the signal being recorded in every room. That accounted for the city electrician being at work on the box yesterday.

ANNIVERSARY HIGH MASS

The second anniversary high mass of requiem for the repose of the soul of Thomas H. O'Shea will be celebrated at St. John's church tomorrow morning at 7.45.

HOLTEN LODGE AT MANCHESTER

Eighty members of Holten lodge of Odd Fellows went to Manchester last night where the local degree team worked the first degree on a number of candidates in Magnolia lodge. The trip was made by autos. George W. Abbott degree master had charge of the team which has attracted widespread comment in Odd Fellows circles this winter. Hazen Quint, Melville Hallowell and Joseph Chandler take prominent parts in which they give a high class performance.

LEGION POST AETER ALL SERVICE MEN

An appeal to all ex-service men in Peabody to join the American Legion Post has gone forth, together with the announcement that a mass meeting will be held next Monday night to get expressions as to why the Post in this city is not numerically as strong as it should be. There are over 1000 ex-service men in Peabody. Talk of a home for the Legion boys will be echoed at the meeting and an appeal made for suggestions which will swell the membership and make it take its rightful place in Peabody. Every ex-service man should attend this meeting.

ENERGY MAKES PLEA FOR HARMONY TWIXT CAPITAL AND LABOR

(By ENERGY)

Cost of production is the main artery to business volume today. This does not necessarily mean that labor must be cut to affect the cost. There are many ways in the process of tanning where costs can be reduced. I heard recently that some concerns not in Peabody were paying four times as much for labor as here. The conditions in that factory were such that it meant a shutdown or a cut in labor costs. After several days thinking it over the men wisely decided to work and so the story goes.

A better understanding between capital and labor is coming slow, but sure. Everybody recognizes that fair wages are the best for all. I do not believe 10 per cent. of the Peabody tanners wish to grind down their help. But when every cut in processes are made, and then leather cannot be produced to meet competition, then labor cost must be tackled. Anybody who will take the pains to compare costs here and in the west, will agree that the west is producing leather cheaper than we are. I agree it is not all labor. But when a better understanding between all concerned has arrived, when capital and labor can come together and meet without distrust, then all will be well.

I do not believe that the big majority of laboring men, when convinced that cuts are necessary, but would accept them. The trouble as I see it is that when capital tells them true facts, having in the past been fooled, it is difficult to convince them. But there is today a feeling which is gaining headway, where bosses and employes are coming together and feeling that what is said by both is believed. I believe it a new era, an era that will be helpful to all, and will intrench the business so strongly that any competition can be met and declared a winner.

Many tanners stick to old ways of doing business. Naturally they say, we have succeeded by those methods and why not continue? As the world goes on, new ways come which are beneficial over the old ones. It does not do for me to criticise, but should any tanner have continued without machinery, all hand labor, where would he be? So with labor. They must be recognized as a big factor, and by being recognized I mean their pay must be commensurate with conditions. In other words, the time has arrived when a get-together is becoming one of the fixtures of business. The seed for this change has been sown, and already the reaping process is on. A willing worker is an asset in a factory, an unwilling one a bolt in the cogs of progress.

"Thoughts of spring are inevitable; and the influence upon one can be depended upon. When the sap begins to rise in the trees, and nature wakes up from her winter sleep, humanity is similarly influenced. All other things being equal, we may expect despondency in the autumn and optimism in the spring. The middle west is much more hopeful. The farmers are buying cheaper and selling dearer. Wheat has advanced twenty-five per cent. and sheep have nearly doubled in value. There has been record breaking shipments of corn. Prices touched 70c—an advance of 20c since January."

Such is a clipping from the Shoe and Leather Reporter, and I will ask you if it does not look like business? Come on you pessimists, do away with that far-away look, let the breath of life once more induce you to see things as they are, and tell your neighbors we as Americans are no longer an army of pessimists but optomistic to the limit.

"The notion that a tariff on hides would induce higher prices for cattle is nonsense. The scrub animals the Rock Island Road is asking for would yield more valuable hides for making sole leather than the high-priced Jerseys, Guernseys, Aldernies and Holsteins. Scientifically fed beeves which do not have to forage for a living during the winter, do not grow thick tough hides."

Another from the Shoe and Leather Reporter, and it gives food for thought as to the tariff on hides, which has collected as many arguments as has the soldiers' bonus. I think I had better duck this subject, for while I might guess right, I am not a good guesser. But I will say that in my opinion cheaper leather will be made without a duty.

* * *

All trade papers quote that the shoe business is far from brisk. But they all tell us that with other lines of business becoming better, the shoe business must follow. Logical. The weeding process still continues. There has been ugly rumors of certain Peabody concerns going under, but so far as I can find out, the reports were not founded on facts. Peabody has received this year several punches which hurt, but later we expect to see them returned with interest. The ill wind will blow, as it always has.

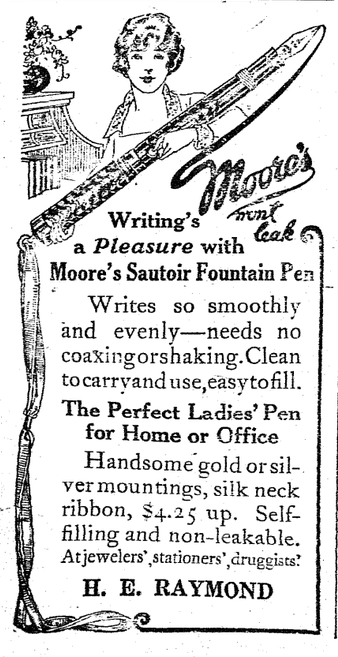
Leather Markets—Shoe and Leather Reporter: "Sole leather markets generally quiet. Buyers only taking stock for their immediate requirements. Side leather still below normal. Specialty leathers for sport and novelty footwear the most active end of the list. Calf leather business limited to small quantities. Tanners carrying more colors than ordinarily, but not getting enough business to warrant full operations. Patent leather continues to be the feature of the upper leather markets." Such is leather life.

MOTHERS WILL JOIN CHILDREN IN WEIGHT TEST

A meeting of the Mother-Teacher Association of the South school of South Peabody was held Tuesday evening. Mr. Woodman, principal of the high school, gave a very interesting and instructive talk on the "Value of the High School for Every Boy and Girl." He also spoke on the program of studies. Community singing was led by Miss Anna Sullivan, who is supervisor of music in the schools. A business meeting followed with a report of the child welfare committee, who have many plans. The first will be a food sale, to be next Wednesday at Keith's store, Lynn street.

Nutrition classes are to be started for all underweight children and mothers.



Health posters have been promised which will be shown throughout the school. Weight cards are to be sent to the homes with each report. The committee is planning to have someone speak about every two weeks. A ladies' social club committee and a social club committee were appointed.

ELKS TO HAVERHILL

Peabody Elks will go to Haverhill next Tuesday evening to attend the visitation of District Deputy William McPhee, former Exalted Ruler of that lodge. Haverhill is to make much of the occasion and a good time is assured. A fleet of automobiles will go from Peabody over the Andover turnpike, which is in excellent condition.

Coming Events

The following dates have been listed with the Coming Events Bureau of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce. These events are listed not for the purpose of advertising, but to serve the people of Peabody so that conflict in dates may be avoided. Secretaries of organizations have been requested to schedule their events at the Chamber of Commerce, for the good both of their organization and others, and the Chamber depends largely upon the courtesy of these officers to make the bureau give the services for which it was designed. Societies planning a public event should call the Chamber of Commerce, telephone 60, find out if the date in mind has already been arranged for by some other organization, then by the telephone, or preferably by letter, let the Chamber know when the event is to take place.

COLLINS AT DUBLIN CASTLE

January 30 was a historic day for Ireland, when Michael Collins took over the reins of executive authority along with the other members of the provisional government who will guide the Irish ship of state.

They arrived at Dublin castle in the afternoon, being followed soon after by the viceroy, Lord Fitzalan. About the same time auxiliaries were packing up and left the castle amidst enthusiastic scenes.

The photograph shows Michael Collins arriving at the castle in a motor car. It was a historic scene.

EMPIRE FOLK IN 'CHARLIE'S AUNT' ALL NEXT WEEK

Unanimously proclaimed the greatest of all farcial comedies and aptly described as the farce of a thousand laughs and the comedy without a laughless moment, "Charlie's Aunt" is the vehicle chosen for presentation by the popular Stock Co. at the Empire theatre, Salem, all of next week.

"Charlie's Aunt" is a farcial comedy in three acts and it can be said in all truthfulness that it has attained greater popularity than any farcial comedy ever written, for proof of which although it is a comedy that has had numerous presentations, it is still being played by the best stock companies in the country and it iis invariably repeated each season so widespread is its popularity. From the opening scene in "Charlie's Aunt" until the final curtain in the last act the play is punctuated with one laugh after another, the situations are so ridiculously funny, the situations suggest themselves so naturally and the denouements are so unexpected that there is hardly time to compose oneself between the laughs.

The story of the piece has been told so often that it seems as if everyone must know it, it has brought more happiness into the world and joy to jaded theatregoers than any play of recent times, and for sustained humor has never been eclipsed by any stage production.

Many Peabody people are attending the automobile show in Boston this week.

Her Druggist Recommended It

And All the Family Used It

MRS. A. H. SHOVAN is a much respected resident of West Orange, Massachusetts. After taking a number of medicines prescribed by physicians and otherwise learned of, without gaining desired results, she took her druggist's advice. But let her tell her own story

"I was in a generally run-down condition, weak and always tired. My food did not seem to nourish me and I id not enjoy it. It seemed to me that all the organs were out of sorts. The doctor's medicines and others that I had taken did me no good. I was in Mr. Jackson's drug store and telling him of my troubles. He asked me to try a bottle of Sanalt and he said if it did not help m he would cheerfully refund my money.

"I took the first bottle and it made me feel so much better that I took two more. It made me stronger in every way. I was so pleased that I bought a bottle for my two children, and soon found a great difference in their actions. Now my husband is taking Sanalt and is already being benefited as it has had a wonderfully helpful effect upon his stomach. So you see Sanalt has done good for the whole family. We were generally out of sorts, as entire families often get, feverish, somewhat constipated and restless, and it seems as if Sanalt just started us going in the right way."

Hon. James F. Ingraham of Peabody, who will not be a candidate for re-election.

Mr. Fraser was a candidate four years ago and made such a creditable showing that his friends have urged him to again become a candidate.

He proved to be such a cheerful loser four years ago that he won the admiration of many of the friends of his opponent, who have assured him of their loyal support this year.

He is treasurer of the Lynn Gas and Electric Co., trustee of the Lynn Lodge of Elks, bank director and 32d degree Mason and a member of the Shrine. He will have the support of Councillor Ingraham's friends and is not likely to have any contest in the Republican primaries.

Peabody Rotarians To Attend Big Conference At Hartford Next Week

The Peabody Rotary Club will be represented at the New England conference in Hartford next week Friday and Saturday by Vice President George A. Blaney, Charles C. Hills, John W. Power, Donald G. Roby, secretary, and Frank W. Penniman, president, the latter the delegate to the big conclave. The conference will cover two days with some big speakers, and a program of entertainment which will make the trip to the Connecticut capitol well worth while. The Peabody Rotarians will join with Salem, Beverly and Lynn members going on a special train from Boston early Friday morning.

Judge Robert W. Hill of Salem, past president of the Salem Rotary Club, and a member of the international committee to revise the by-laws, will be boomed for the next District Governor. President George A. Hooper of the Salem Club is determined to put Judge Hill over and the Peabody delegation will back him solidly. Judge Hill has done much to promote the welfare of Rotary organizations in this district and is eminently fitted to be the next District Governor in charge of the New England clubs.

At its meeting this week, the Peabody Rotary Club extended its hand to the members of Union Post, G. A. R., of this city, to Arthur F. Poole, adjutant of the Post, who was the principal speaker. Members of the Rotary Club will donate autos this year to assist the G. A. R. veterans in decorating the graves of their deceased comrades. Charles H. Smart, member of the Post, and for many years superintendent of fire alarms, was also a guest. Mr. Poole gave some interesting information concerning the local Post, which now numbers 33 members. It once had 220 on its roster.

About ten of the members are able to visit the headquarters of the Post in the Thomas block. Following the address by Mr. Poole, Dr. Lawrence K. Kelley, who is the Exalted Ruler-elect of the Peabody Elks, offered the G. A. R. Post free quarters and other assistance.

Just before the call for dinner was sounded, in walked District Governor Herbert C. Wilson, prominent Worcester contractor, on his first official visit to the Peabody Rotarians. He was given a pleasing reception as he was introduced. He complimented the local club on its financial assistance to the New York Rotary Club in the prosperity signs on the billboards, later extolled the singing of the club during the lunch hour, and then to make his visit more official had something to say about the absence of the Rotary pin on the lapels of the coats. The District Governor complimented the local club on its interest in the G. A. R. Post and related what his home club does for the Civil war veterans every year.

Charles C. Hills told of the visit last Friday night of several Rotarians to the Boy Scouts at the Community House and how well the little fellows were taking to their military drill. These boys were outfitted by the Rotary Club.

Next Tuesday noon the Rotary members will hear a discussion of business methods employed by its members in keeping with the program laid down by the International office. William S. Felton of Salem will be the principal speaker. On March 28 Rep. James E. McVann will be the speaker, with some facts about the legislature.

American Legion

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold a special meeting tonight at 8.30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Helen Bomer, 12 Park street, to complete plans for their visit to the Danvers hospital on next Sunday. All who intend making the trip should notify Mrs. Bomer before that time, as transportation will be secured only for those who do so. All will assemble in Legion hall at 1.45 p. m., and all machines will leave a few minutes later. There have not been enough machines donated up to the present time, and the Auxiliary would greatly appreciate it if the public would donate the use of their cars for a few hours to transport the entertainers and members to and from the hospital. They are also soliciting donations of fruit, candy and smokes, and if Mrs. Helen Bomer is notified these donations will be called for.

To put 700,000 ex-soldiers into jobs is the American Legion's immediate objective, according to an announcement from Legion national headquarters. To accomplish this, a nation-wide drive will be launched from local posts in every city and town in the country on March 20, and employers and business men will be called into conference to devise ways and means of creating jobs and putting an end to a situation which Hanford MacNider, Legion commander, has called "the greatest crisis in the Legion's history."

Civic organizations from Maine to California have been asked to swing into line to back up the Legion and make a concerted effort which will be felt in all sections of the country. By stimulating industry, by pushing engineering projects and municipal development, by speeding up public utility enterprises, roadbuilding, paving, dredging, truck gardening, reforestation and reclamation, and by encouraging the "back-to-the farm" movement, the Legion hopes to break the labor slump which has kept worthy men out of work and caused widespread distress. Each city will be divided into regions, each under its own post and employment committee, with a general committee co-ordinating the efforts of all.

The Assembly of the state of New York, in legislative session, has passed a resolution endorsing the American Legion's five-fold adjusted compensation measure and urging its passage. Copies of the resolution were sent to New York's members of congress.

It took a small Jewish girl and a little maid from Italy to win first and second prizes for the best essay on "Our Greatest American." The contest was held by the American Legion at Auburn, N. Y.

Napoleon was right! Fifty cakes, 40 cases of soft drinks, two bushels of peanuts, 20 gallons of ice cream, 4000 sandwiches, and a crate of oranges were consumed by 900 ex-soldiers (and friends) at an American Legion housewarming at Binghampton, N. Y.

There is only one god, and that God is Allah," yelled a young man at midnight, from the top of a lonely hill in Nashville, Tenn. The police were not placated until American Legion comrades explained that was be-

VALUES OF REAL AND PERSONAL ESTATE

The World war has made values in personal and real estate which when normalcy arrives, will have to be adjusted. We note in the store windows that most commodities are gradually dropping and will soon reach pre-war levels. Real estate, owing to materials and labor holding up, cannot tell the same story, as yet. They will tell you that houses can be erected today for a figure far below war costs, but when all the figures to build that house are in, the price is staggering. If one wants repairs done in his home, he must either have plenty of money or do the work himself. To have mechanics, it costs more than double pre-war prices. Is this condition going to continue or will mechanics charge a price that will compare favorably with other commodities?

There is one thing certain, there have been more home-made carpenters and painters the last few years than ever before. So today the outlook appears to us that personal property has taken and is continuing to take a drop. Real estate has been somewhat reduced, but not anywhere near in the proportion to personal property. Land values are always governed by supply and demand, and while war tended to increase such values, the increase was far below most everything that entered into our living. Real estate today is selling at prices which benefit the seller, but these prices do not equal replacement values. Sooner or later everything that enters into our living may be nearer normal. We do not believe that houses will be cheap, for materials are farther away from their base, and building up Belgium and France does not help the situation. Supply and demand which has been forgotten, has again arrived, and will umpire the game of life as it always did in normalcy.

PUBLIC SERVANTS

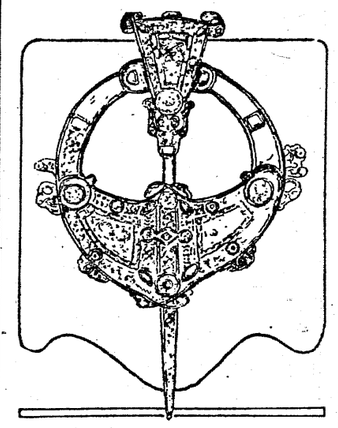
When any one is appointed or elected to a municipal office he is looked upon as a public servant for better or worse. It might be possible to divide such office holders into two classes, one of the type who works as he would for a private concern or himself. The other a professional politician who has been given a position for the good he has done politically. Generally, this type uses his position to further his ends with little regard for the public benefit. Looking over the history of Peabody, one cannot but say that those who have held office of trust have been by a large majority men who have given their best efforts for the city, or the town as it formerly was classed. There is far more chance for politics to appear in a city than in a town form of government. Town meetings had their evils, but there it gave the tax payers their say in public debate. It is plain that political influence figures more and more in city affairs and put ahead of unselfish service, we do not hesitate to say it will do harm which will be paid for by owners of personal and real estate. Such a state of affairs can be remedied by a concerted effort on the part of those who pay the bills, by seeing to it that men are appointed to positions which require ability to get results. History tells us that concerted action takes place in municipalities once in every ten years, or that is an average. The rest of the time is governed by conditions, and while Peabody has escaped any serious inroads by politicians, many other cities can tell a sad story.

THE ROGERS ESTATE

When Elizabeth P. Rogers passed away, Peabody lost a resident who had done much to help the city. For two score years the Rogers family has been a factor in town and city affairs. No charitable affair was complete without Mrs. Rogers' name on the list of subscribers. The always generous way she gave is no more. It is evident those who now own the property will dispose of it to the best bidder. An estate of the old fashion kind, there are few its equal. Many are more expensive, but that good, homely estate should be for another like Mrs. Rogers, and not be cut up into house lots, as it is likely to be cut up. The Rogers family for years has claimed Peabody as their residence. Therefore the taxes derived from them has always been large. Her departure means that the city must lose and cannot hope for years to get the equivalent if the estate is divided. There has been some talk that a golf course will be located there, and it would make an ideal spot. But golf courses cost much money, and with so many other courses near by, it appears doubtful if enough money is forthcoming for such a venture. There is a large frontage on Andover street for many house lots, leaving the balance for farming purposes.

TARA IN HISTORY

For Centuries Sacred in the Eyes of Irishmen.



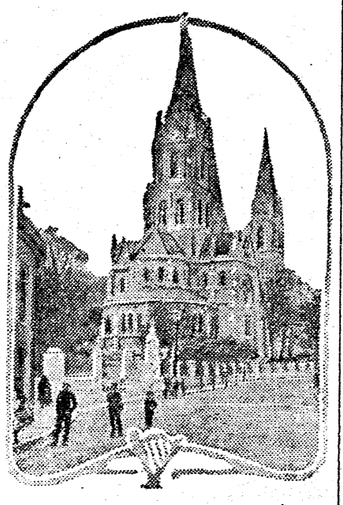
Royal Residence There Many Years Before the Dawn of the Christian Era, It Is Recorded.

Though "The harp that once through Tara's halls the soul of music shed" be now silent, the hill itself has lost nothing of its pristine fascination and popular favor. The oldest historic site in Ireland, it is also, probably, the most interesting, and cold indeed would be the heart and dull the ear that could listen unmoved to its story. Now, as in ages past, the bard who sings of Tara will have a sympathetic audience, whether the strains awakened be sad or gay, and whether its verdant summit be bathed in the glory of sunburst or darkened by storm-clouds. Through a mist of memories that makes the mere mention of its name more full of meaning than that of any spot in Ireland, the Hill of Tara looms as something sacred in the eyes of Irishmen the world over.

Some 19 centuries ago, before the Christian era, there was a royal residence at Tara, the first king to build a palace there being Slainge, who, according to ancient annals, was contemporary with Abraham.

Slainge was of the Firbolg race, and therefore of either Greek or Oriental origin. It is with the coming of the Firbolgs to Tara that the authentic history of the Irish people begins, the colonists who preceded them having left little or nothing by which their footsteps can be traced. They appear to have been fairly advanced in civilization. "They had laws and social institutions," says Sir William Wilde, "and established a monarchial government at the far-famed Hill of Tara, about which our earliest centers sprung."

Although not more than 500 feet above the seal level Tara commands a beautiful and far-reaching view, and on its broad, flat summit the five great roads of ancient Ireland had their meeting point. The Firbolgs reigned at Tara for about 37 years when they were supplanted by the Tuatha-de-



The Tara Brooch.

Danaans, whose queen, Croffinn, gave the name Cathair Croffin to the hill.

Near by stood the palace of the celebrated king, Cormac MacArt, to whom the most important buildings at Tara owed their existence. During his reign the chroniclers of Ireland were assembled at Tara, and by his order wrote the "Psalter of Tara." The Tuatha-de-Danaans introduced the art of Ogham writing into Ireland and brought to the Hill of Tara the Lia Fail, or Stone of Destiny, on which the kings of ancient Ireland were crowned. This colony was in its turn supplanted by the Milesians, an eastern tribe that came from Spain to Ireland. Ir, one of their number, is said to have given his name to the whole island, just as the lovely and accomplished princess, Tea, cousin and wife of his brother Heremon, gave hers to "The Beautiful Hill." The legend tells us that as the Milesians sighted "the isle they had seen in dreams," Tea begged as a special favor that her husband would give her as a dower whichever hill in Erin pleased her best. The request was granted and her choice fell on the same hill that had charmed both Firbolg and Tuatha-de-Danaan before her, and it became Tea-mur, or Temair, the Mound of Tea. In time Tea-mur was latinized, Temora, from which we get the modern name Tara.

ROUND ABOUT

I was passing on Andover street one day this week when I observed some distance ahead of me and coming toward me three men marching three abreast and swinging along something after the fashion of the YD boys going to the trenches. As I got nearer, the men were recognized as the three principal assessors, Patrick J. Sheehy, George E. Nelson and Frank E. Bomer. They had started their April work two weeks ahead of time, which shows that they are on the job.

* * *

Potter's orchestra contributed its services free last Wednesday night at Parker Hill hospital, when the Peabody Lodge of Elks staged a show for the benefit of the sick and disabled war vetearns. The Peabody Elks are very grateful to the musicians who joined with the American Legion players in providing the excellent entertainment. Peabody manufacturers to a man allowed their employes who took part in the Legion show cast to take off the time without loss of pay. The cry that we are forgetting our war veterans doesn't ring true with this paragraph. We cannot do too much for the veterans, particularly the sick and disabled.

The condition of Peabody streets as disclosed by the early spring weather is reported as much more creditable than in many cities, and I have observed that the highway department is already at work patching where the travel of the big motor trucks has dug up the macadam. It is pleasing to note also that the Bay State railway is preparing to replace concrete where it excavated on Main street some months ago.

A victim of shell shock overseas, a Peabody Greek soldier who is now a citizen of the United States, was removed to Danvers state hospital this week by Constable Alfred A. Hall and Commissioner of Military Aid, Andrew J. Fyfe. The poor lad had wandered away from an institution in Boston eager to get back to his former place of employment. He went into the service early in 1917, and was among the first Peabody soldiers to get to the trenches.

Soon the silent cops will be on duty, and they do well even if they do not talk. That one at the junction of Foster and Peabody square earns his money, seven days and nights each week, without extra pay.

The Danvers Bleachery, so called, but more properly the Naumkeag Cotton Co., is making extensive improvements particularly on a new power plant which will be the latest in electric equipment. It will be patterned after the Hunt Rankin power plant. Additions to the office building and a general spring cleaning is in order at this, one of Peabody's busiest factories.

The familiar features of J. Howard Fallon, superintendent of the Danvers Bleachery, is missed on Foster street, where he passed for 30 years as superintendent of the Danvers Bleachery. He is with his son in California seeking better health.

* * *

Papers were passed this week transferring the Nelson house at Chestnut and Church streets to Dr. Henry I. Yale. Dr. Yale has one of the best appointed dental offices in this section, and has a large clientage.

That repaired roof on the old high school building is an insult to public property. It is evident this building is not popular with the school committee and teachers, but it has turned out many hundred boys and girls who learned in spite of the noise and so-called poor ventilation. In fact, there were more husky boys there than there are today. There is plenty of bunk in many new notions, well backed by the builders, who reap the harvest.

Thomas L. D. Perkins, the Berry street grocer, probably holds the lead for number of years a merchant in Peabody. Monday of this week he rounded out a half century as a grocerman and among his customers today are several families who started with him 50 years ago. He passed his three score and ten years last December 9, but is still vigorous and actively engaged in all of the details of his business.

* * *

A copy of the West Palm Beach Post came to my desk this week through the kindness of a former Peabody woman now sojourning in the southland. It contained a story of the Seminole Indians who were to hold a sun dance this week and at which the only living slave of the Seminoles was to be a principal guest. The story dealt with the customs of this Florida tribe.

Spring is most here, and the baseball fans are sizing up the big league teams in Boston as of yore. If many of these local fans know as much about baseball as they think they do, Duffey and Mitchell had better take to the woods. But that is what makes the fan, so why not?

* * *

The grounds about the high school are in bad shape just now. When the contractors get the steps completed and the grading done, another story will be told. It is going to be a grand proposition to build a stadium, but where is the money coming from? If some of the cost of building that addition had been taken for the stadium, all right. But it looks to many that we have too much building for our means.

Concrete streets look good this time of year. If one wishes to see the other kind, take a trip to Gardner park and gaze at the streets which connect Gardner and Margin streets. Being of a loomy nature, there are no worse thoroughfares in the back woods. We suppose all will be forgotten when the frost is out of the ground.

There is good building possibilities on Andover street as well as in Gardner park. On Andover street much front land is used for farming purposes that would make ideal building lots. We have plenty of available land but how about the houses?

* * *

City Councillor Craig has a bungalow on Andover street which is an innovation in house building. Plenty large enough for most modern families but would never have filled the bill for our forefathers. No doubt this type will attract many looking for a house at a low cost. We were told house at a low cost.

A LINE O' CHEER

By John Kendrick Bangs.

THE WAY

I LITTLE care for empty dreams,
Or statesmen's visionary schemes
To make anew this world of ours
By dint of arbitrary powers,
And bring to permanent reform
The wreckage of the martial storm.
My plan is simpler far, and came
Up from a Heart of living flame
That ever toiled for love, and died
By shameful mandate crucified—
A Heart that in the hour of stress
Dwelt ever on Unselfishness,
And dying proved the Immortal Good
Of Sacrifice and Brotherhood.

Parcel 3. A certain parcel of land constituting an island situated in said Peabody and Lynnfield, containing about 4 acres and 72 square rods, bounded on all sides by the waters of said Suntaug Lake.

Attention is hereby called to Sections 74 and 75 of Chapter 131 of the General Laws, which read:

"Whenever such preserve has been established or a close season has been established upon a territory by an order as above provided, no person, except as provided in section seventy-two, shall molest, hunt, pursue, take or kill any bird or quadruped within the said territory, or disturb or injure any nest, eggs or young, or remove the eggs or young from the nest. Violations of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than two months, or both.

The entrance of any person with a firearm or any device adapted for killing or injuring birds or quadrupeds or with a trap or snare upon any territory established as a preserve or upon which a close season has been established, shall be prima facie evidence of a violation of the provisions of the preceding section."

The Director of the Division of Fisheries and Game may authorize in writing any warden or deputy appointed to enforce the provisions of Sections 69 to 75 inclusive or the owner or occupant of any land within any such territory or any other responsible person to hunt, pursue, trap, snare or kill within the said territory and under the direction of the director any quadrupeds or birds which he may consider harmful to birds and game or to agriculture.

Attention of the public is further called to Section 12, Chapter 130 of the General Laws, which provides a punishment of not more than six months' imprisonment or fine of not more than two hundred dollars for any person who willfully and maliciously injures any property or any posted notices on the reservation.

KIDDIES SIX

By Will M. Maupin

AT EVENTIDE

TWO little shoes, run-down and worn,
Tossed in the corner over there;
Two little stockings, soiled and torn,
Lying beneath the rocking chair.
One little sweater, one little cap,
Little knee pants, a shirt once white—
All in a heap, and in my lap
One little lad, his eyes shut tight.

Two little arms that 'round me twine;
Two sturdy legs worn out with play;
One little heart that beats 'gainst mine,
Full of joy at the close of day.
One little nightie donned at last,
Ready the lad for slumber deep;
One more day with its joytime past—
One little moment—then asleep.

Sleep, little boy, till the morning breaks;
Dreamless sleep till the stars shall fade,
And the rising sun ev'ry songbird wakes
And music rings in the leafy glade.
Sleep, little boy, and watch the ward
O'er thy cot may the angels keep.
Safe in the arms of the children's Lord—
Sleep, little laddie—sleep, sleep, sleep!

Classifying Girls' Names.

A writer has just issued a list of girls' names and what they stand for in most people's minds. Lucy, he says, suggests to most people a girl who is tender and clinging. Margaret and Elizabeth carry a cross, but bear it with patience and courage. Olive is successful and hard. Susan and Sally are bewitching. Ethel has no imagination. Madge has a brilliant wit. But for a truly womanly woman, says the writer, choose Anne.

Discusses Municipal Garage From Viewpoint of Taxpayer--- Forgets Stress of Police Work

Editor of Enterprise:

Taking up the question of taxation again we have to call attention to the fact that under the old-time primitive methods of the Town Meeting, government was kept close to the people. Government was directly within their control. The people had a voice in their own affairs and expenditures were restricted to those things necessary to the common welfare.

Under the city form of government it is different. Taxes are laid without the citizens being consulted. And taxes are laid in such a way that those on whom they rest may feel the pressure, but they are unable to tell from whence it comes.

At the present time, there is some discussion in the matter of the municipal garage. This, it may be said, is one of the many devices by which the owners of some little wealth are induced to give up part of it. Support of such a proposition could hardly be expected by immediate taxation. Direct taxes for the support of the garage, and all that goes with it, would arouse indignation and resistance, and from those who could make an effective resistance.

The undersigned can say that he has always been in favor of public ownership and control of utilities, but here is a case where the principle is abused. It is a direct setback for those who have given the best part of their lives, to forward the cause of public ownership.

Here is a garage with some four or five machines and with three men in charge of these machines. The machines seen there are those of the city engineer, chief of police, inspector of police, police patrol, and the ambulance. Some days there are but four machines there, as the city engineer keeps his elsewhere.

Do the tax payers realize what this means? Each of these men are paid $35 per week. This makes $105 each week for the three. And that is the labor cost for taking care of four machines.

There are other incidental expenses in this garage, of course, such as heat, light and other expenses. A conservative estimate would probably place the cost of caring for the machines at $125 per week.

I speak now of the cost of storage only. This estimate has nothing whatever to do with the expense of up-keep. Private citizens who own automobiles will understand this. Private citizens may well ask themselves as to the relation of cost, in caring for a machine in their own garage, and the cost of tires, repairs, gasoline, and other incidental expenses that are inseparable from the machine, no matter whether it is owned by the city or by an individual.

When the municipal garage was first thought of most people were under the impression that such a garage would be used for all the machines belonging to the city. Such is not the case, however. That garage is really operated to care for the police equipment. It costs more than five thousand dollars per year just for the help alone. How much more it costs no one seems to know.

The average citizen who undertakes to make a study of the top-heavy automobile system of this poor city of Peabody will speedily arrive at the conclusion that the whole system is a burden upon the tax payers and one that can be lifted and thrown off just as soon as the city fathers realize that the people are heavily burdened and that the taxes are actually gnawing at their very vitals. No other city of Peabody's class has anything like this. No other city has been managed in any such manner, if indeed we can call it management.

That the people will understand just what is being done in Peabody, in our various departments, and how taxes have gradually increased as the years went by, we have to examine the expenditures of other communities of like size. We will know how we have fared in many things when we compare the methods here with those elsewhere and in cities older than this, stronger than this, and with considerable more wealth of a taxable nature.

Inquiries of other cities show that there are no municipal affairs dignified by the name of garage. These other cities not only save five or six thousand dollars per year, by refusing to establish such a building, but they make a further saving of many more thousands by refusing to buy the machines which are used for an excuse to establish a garage, to the end that three men may draw $35 per week each for caring for four machines.

Seemingly the work of the garage has narrowed down to taking care of the machines of the police department. Let us read what other cities are doing in the matter of machines for this department.

City of Newburyport

Replying to your letter would say that we have no police ambulance in Newburyport and we have no patrol auto. We have a motor cycle for use in the summer time, driven by one of the traffic officers.

We have public taxi service so close by that we think it much better to hire when needed, rather than to keep an auto for the exclusive use of the police department.

M. Cashman, Mayor.

City of Gloucester

Our police department auto equipment consists of one ambulance, which is used in the service of the Addison Gilbert hospital largely, the city's receipts from the hospital for this ambulance running to $600 and $700 a year. We also have a Ford touring car which is used in the general busi-

Peabody High School

The pupils of the high school appreciate the fact that since the completion of the auditorium, they have been able to assemble in a body for music every Thursday morning. This is the first time for many years that the entire student body has been able to assemble at one time. The pupils file to the auditorium in four single rows, according to the parts they sing, and take their places. Because of this arrangement, Miss Sullivan has tried two or three songs in four-part music with much success.

Because of the delay in finishing the auditorium, the pupils have met only three times, and Miss Sullivan will not attempt to form any Glee Clubs, as there are so few weeks of school left, and there will be no time to plan anything.

Rehearsals have been planned for the seniors every Friday, for practice for a special chorus number for graduation.

The orchestra has also been reorganized with new members from the sub-freshman class, under the direction of James Crowley, who also has charge of the orchestra and music at Salem high school.

At the Washington day exercises in the auditorium, the student body of the high school was given the opportunity of hearing the orchestra after only three weeks' rehaersal, and the result was very pleasing. We shall expect big things from our orchestra in the future.

The Essex Agricultural school has offered a prize of a four-year scholarship, with all expenses paid at any college, to the pupil writing the best essay on the subject, "What Good Roads Have Done for My Community." Arrangements are being made at the Peabody Institute Library for any material that will be of help to pupils entering the contest. The essay must be in by April 1, and must not exceed seven hundred words.

The class rings arrived for the seniors this week. The rings are very simple, having the school initials, and the year 1922 on them.

Positions have been secured for a number of the girls of the senior class, among whom are: Miss Ida Keniston and Miss Mary O'Neil.

Miss Norah McCarthy substituted at the school for Miss Moriarty last week. Miss Mary Barry has been substituting at the school last week and this.

"I Was All Wheezed Up and Coughed Most of the Night"

"Cerizane has worked wonders for me, and for a number of friends to whom I have recommended it."

Mr. Josiah J. Cobb says this. He has lived for forty-eight years in Pawtucket, R. I., and is chief day watchman for a large manufacturing plant.

"I was all wheezed up and coughed most of the night. Thought my throat would split open, the cough, dryness and pain were so terrible. Every time the weather changed I caught cold, and each cold seemed to be added to all the others that I had before it. I tried a dozen different medicines. None of them were any real help. The cough syrups I took upset my stomach and put me all out of sorts. Then I got Cerizane, and I never knew anything to act so quickly as that medicine did. It loosened the cough right up, took the heat and soreness out of my throat, stopped the chest pains and made me perfectly fit in less than a week."

Cerizane is one of the famous line of Winsol preparations. It contains no chloroform, opium or any other harmful drug. New England doctors have used it for nearly a hundred years.

Any reliable druggist will supply Cerizane.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY

CHARLES H. EGLEE

CO-OPERATION

"The "Little Talk" of last week entitled "Co-operation" was almost word for word (except the last few paragraphs) the statement of one of our leather workers in a Peabody factory. This man was thinking; as he talked to me he was "thinking out loud" and I wrote his thoughts down and passed them on to you. Think it over for yourself.

Today I want to talk again about Co-operation because of a remark in the article by "Energy" in this paper last week. I like the way "Energy" expresses his thought. He writes in the first person. I am going to imitate his manner and say "I," although in the past this has not been the custom in these "Talks."

"Energy" says: "I am informed that wages in the tanneries are being held up in some cases, while in others men are willing to work for whatever is offered. The outcome must be that tannery wages will eventually drop to pre-war figures, etc., etc."

It is true wages are being held to a high level by a majority of the leather manufacturers, a higher level than is paid anywhere in the world. Manufacturers are increasing the efficiency of their factories; they are building additions, employing expert engineers, putting in scientific planning systems, improving their cost accounting, cutting down overhead expenses, adding trained chemists to their working force, buying supplies in large quantities, training workers to efficiency.

Chicago City calf skins sold as low as .20 per pound in 1914. Last week they sold for .16 per pound; 20% lower than before the war; but, the cost of making these skins into leather was more than three times the cost of making such leather in 1914. Why? The wages are not three times the wages in 1914. What is the reason for such costs? Waste is one reason. Extravagance in the manufacturing processes is one reason. War carelessness is one reason. No co-operation; no co-ordination of effort, two more reasons. Plenty of reasons beside the wage reason.

Now, most of our manufacturers are awake as never before. They are working together; they are exchanging ideas; they are cutting down costs of manufacturing; but, they are not cutting down wages.

One large manufacturer writes to me saying: "You know, and our workmen should know, that the majority of manufacturers here are not at all anxious to see laborers paid the wages they were paid in pre-war times. In order to keep that condition from being brought about the laborer should realize that he can only do so by co-operation and increased efficiency."

And for that reason I am today making an appeal to the shoe and leather workers for just that co-operation and efficiency. It seems strange that such an appeal is necessary. It seems strange that in some factories systems installed by expert engineers should be strongly opposed by the workers. Why is this? Cannot the men see that Essex County will surely lose its shoe and leather trade, factories will close or run on part time, wages will come down to pre-war level, unless efficiency is increased?

CHARLES H. EGLEE

Will the farmer who is selling his produce at less than pre-war figures, buy leather costing three times as much to manufacture as it did before the war? Of course he will not. He will do without. He will buy in Germany.

What are we going to do about it?

We are going to clean house. Start fresh. Improve our efficiency. This cannot be done while workingmen think their employer is no better than a horse thief. It can't be done while men come to the shop with a grouch and work all day with a bitter taste in the mouth. Cut it out. Away with all this distrust and suspicion and holding back. Why will men say they won't do more than so many dozen per day even if they know they cut their own pay by doing so? Why oppose any system that will do them good, give them more pay for less hours of work? Frankly, I cannot understand it. But this I do understand—we all must be more efficient. Leather and shoes must cost less. It can be done by co-operation and cheerful helping of each other. That is the best way and the way the manufacturers want. If it works out that way then wages will not be reduced to pre-war levels. If not,—then wages are doomed to be lower even as "Energy" tells us. It is up to the men and their foremen to assist the manufacturer in his new plans and thereby help to keep up their own wages.

Roger W. Babson in a recent report, says: "There must be an increase in production efficiency in order to lower costs and increase buying. The investor will do well to buy shares in concerns which are following an intelligent labor policy and which realize that the solution of the labor problem is in production per dollar, and not in dollars per hour, or hours per week. I believe our troubles will be solved through increasing efficiency rather than by decreasing wages, because decreased wages means less purchasing power."

I know the minds of many of our manufacturers, as well as the minds of many of the workingmen. Many of each of these talk freely to me. The great majority are strongly and unitedly in favor of co-operating—working together. A few are suspicious and distrustful. A less number think they ought to oppose everything good. These are the ones who think their employer is something like a horse thief. Such thoughts never increase efficiency. Such thoughts lower the wages. Get rid of them. Cut them out. Get together.

'Ten Nights In Bar-room' At The Federal

The Arrow Film Corporation is presenting at the Federal theatre, Salem, for one week, beginning next Monday, "Ten Nights in a Barroom," the screen sensation that has packed the Globe theatre, Boston, for the past few weeks, starring John Lowell. Most people who read, write and talk English know something about the bible and a few other books. The bible, Shakespeare, the writings of Thomas Kempis, all turned into English in the last three hundred years, are probably the three most widely printed, circulated and read books. Millions and millions of copies of them have been sold and are still selling. Into this class "Ten Nights" has crept since its first appearance about sixty years ago.

For at least 50 years it has been a stage play somewhere or other. If a vote could be taken of those who understand the matter, to determine how many pictures before the public were in the hundred per cent. class, "Ten Nights in a Barroom" would certainly find a place. For in the entertainment world there is everything in a name. You have to have a name or get one by hook or by crook or printers' ink. There has probably been more printers' ink expended on the advertising of "Ten Nights in a Barroom" than any other play that has been brought to the notice of the public for the last half century. This is a large order.

The action of the play is placed at Cedarville, which is a lodging mill center. The most sensational scenes in the photoplay are on the river covered with logs, where Joe Morgan and Slade ,the keeper of the inn, who had ruined Joe and deprived him of his mill, do some very savage fighting. If any audience can keep its seat while this part of the picture is in progress, there is no red blood left in America.

SAINT PATRICK IN HISTORY AND LEGEND

St. Patrick was born in North Britain, in what is now Dumbarton, during the second half of the Fourth century. His parents were Christians and of noble family. His father, a Roman citizen, Calpernius by name, held the rank of decurion, and was an ordained clergyman; the mother Conchessa, was the sister of St. Martin, bishop of Tours.

Although his parents were rich, St. Patrick was brought up very simply, living for the most part with his foster parents, on a farm. Early he began to work those miracles and wonders for which he is so famous.

In those days the Picts and Scots made frequent incursions upon the British coasts and on one of these invasion a band of marauders alighted from ships upon the shore near the farm where Patrick, now a lad of about sixteen, was playing in company with some of his younger brothers and sisters.

The pirates kidnaped St. Patrick, carrying him off to Ireland, where he was sold as a slave to Milcho, king of the Dalaradia, and given the task of tending the swine. It was during his years of serfdom that Patrick acquired his knowledge of the Irish tongue and his love for the country folk.

After six years of this servitude an angel came to him in a dream and told him how to escape. Accepting the angel's advice and his escape duly accomplished, Patrick traveled on foot to the West, and there took ship for Britain. After much wandering he arrived at his old home only to find that his parents had died during his absence. He settled down quite happily with his brothers and sisters until one night the angel appeared to him saying that Ireland needed him. Patrick never slept without hearing in dreams the voice of the children of Folchut Wood crying out to him beseechingly. "Return to us, holy youth, come once more and walk among us!" And the angel explained that this was the voice of the children yet unborn, in Ireland. From that moment, Patrick determined that he would carry salvation to them.

In order to prepare himself for the carrying out of this mission, he sought advice and counsel of his uncle St. Martin, bishop of Tours, who had founded a monastery at Marmoutier, in France. St. Patrick made all the land part of the journey on foot.

One night when near the end of the journey, he lay down to rest in the snow under the bare branches of a blackthorn tree, to sleep. When he awoke in the morning, to his amazement he found the thorn all out in white-scented blossom, while the country around was still frozen. To this day the traveler may still see St. Patrick's blackthorn tree in blossom in bleak December. Here the old legends blend with those respecting Glastonbury, where he is said to have remained and studied theology.

For eight years Patrick remained at Marmoutier, studying and fasting. But on one occasion he was given a piece of meat—meat was not allowed to those in training—which he hid in a jar, hoping for an opportunity to eat it in stealth. While awaiting this opportunity he came face to face with a strange being with eyes both at the front and at the back of its head. When asked who and what it might be, the creature answered. "I am a servant of God, and with my eyes in front I see the apparent actions of men, but with the eyes at the back of my head I saw a certain monk concealing a piece of meat, that he might eat it in secret. . . ." Then the apparition vanished.

Falling upon his knees, and smiting his breast Saint Patrick begged to be forgiven and promised never to eat meat for the rest of his life, which promise, it is said, he faithfully kept. His angel returned to him and telling him he was pardoned told him to take the offending piece of meat and cast it into the water. When he had done this, publicly confessing his guilt, the meat was suddenly changed into a quantity of fresh and shining fishes, which sufficed for all the brothers.

After the death of St. Martin, Patrick spent fourteen years in Auxone, and a few years more in the isle of Lerius, where St. Vincent was among his companions.

But all through these years, the voices of the children of Folchut Wood kept on crying to St. Patrick: "All we Irish beseech thee, holy Patrick, to come and save us from the wrath to come. O holy youth, come once more and walk among us!"

Finally the angel appeared again to Patrick and said: "Go to Ireland, for thou shalt be the apostle of its people." Patrick at last set out for Rome to seek advice from its Bishop Celes-

THE THRUSH at BALLYBOWER

I wonder in the evening,
In the dusky evening hour,
If a thrush is singing sweetly
In the glen at Ballybower;
If his notes are rapturous, golden
As on dusk-sweet eyes I knew,
When the fairies crept to listen,
As I stood alone with you.

I'm hoping in the evening,
In the calm, sweet evening hour,
That there's sadness in a thrush's song
In far-off Ballybower;
That a lingering note of longing
Falls upon your listening ear,
Stirring vague regrets and yearnings
For a voice you cannot hear.

A.C.L. Co. Gardens For Employees At Waters River

Announcement of the fifth season of summer gardens is made in the March issue of the A. C. L. magazine, which was circulated this week. Application for the lots 50 by 50 at the Waters River plant must be made to the garden committee not later than April 15. The April edition of the A. C. L. will begin a series of stories on hobbies of the various employes, which ought to prove very interesting. A hopeful article on the leather outlook was included in the March issue from the pen of Willis R. Fisher, vice president of the National Leather Co. Another article that caused much favorable comment was a story on the work of Employment Manager Horace A. Wilson.

Methodist Church

"A Tryst Well Kept" is the topic announced by the pastor, I. F. Lusk, for the 10.30 a. m. service.

The Gospel team from Boston university who gave such a splendid service last Sunday evening, will have charge of the evening service again. Messrs. Weimer, Swenson, Alexander, Mellinger and Blake compose the team. The personnel of this group is the finest, and their several addresses were very choice. The official board without a dissenting voice voted their work most satisfactory. A large hearing for them is expected.

That March 31 has music in it, music right from the city of peace, charms that could not originate other than in a place of such wonderous peace that harmony is its natural product as surely as the rose is the product of the bud. The date is being kept by many people, kept for enjoyment, kept for one of the very best times.

The Epworth Leaguers are preparing a play to be given early in the month of April. Miss Mona Hayworth is in charge, and under her direction a worth while program is assured.

'Welcome Stranger' At the Tremont

Beginning Monday night, March 20th, Sam H. Harris will present Aaron Hoffman's delightful comedy, "Welcome Stranger,' with George Sidney at the Tremont theatre, Boston. The marvelous success of "Welcome Stranger" in both Chicago and New York is sufficient endorsement of the merits of this comedy to make its coming here of interest to all of our theatregoers. It is a realistic picture of life in a small New England town whose citizens are so self-centered that they resent the coming of any stranger who plans to start in business there and be an opposition to old established shops. The adventures of Isidore Solomon, delightfully portrayed by that consummate artist, George Sidney, form the ground work of the play. His arrival furnishes the sarcasm for the title. He meets with opposition and harsh treatment from the leading citizens, but undaunted goes on with his plans. There is a most interesting story in the piece and it is replete with comedy that keeps the audience in constant laughter from the beginning to the final curtain. Sam H. Harris has provided an excellent company for the interpretation of the piece and among the players supporting George Sidney are David Higgins, Ben Johnson, Howard Gould, Edward Snader, Charles I. Schofield, Frank Herbert, John Adair, Eli Dawson, Sylvia Field, Francis Loughton, Isidora Martin, Vivian Hickerson and Jules J. Bennett. The entire scenic production and all of the stage accessories used in the New York performance will be seen.

PEABODY WOMAN'S CLUB

The regular meeting of the Peabody Woman's Club will be held in the new high school hall, instead of Peabody Institute, March 24, at 3.30 p. m. It will be "Literature Day" and Mrs. Rena H. Carten will preside. Mrs. Susan F. Thorndike will give readings from "Shelley" and Mrs. Ida M. Bushby will provide the setting in music. There will be an inspection of the new high school building, and the literature class will act as hostess. Refreshments will be served.

BOWLERS TO BANQUET

The Inter-factory League which has been rolling all winter at the Victor alleys next to the Enterprise office will hold a banquet in Moose hall on Monday, March 27, with 100 covers laid for the happy occasion. Robert J. Feeley of the Cox Leather Co. will preside. Final arrangements will be made at a meeting of the committee Monday night.

Popular Thomas Meighan At Strand In Prince There Was

Thomas Meighan, the popular Paramount star, will feature the program the Strand will offer for today and Saturday, when he will be presented in his new picture, "A Prince There Was." It is said to be a big, good, clean story with plenty of human interest and heart appeal. The star, who has any number of popular successes to his credit, plays the part of a rich, young idler. The girl in the story is a struggling young writer who formerly lived in luxury, but with the ruin of her father forced to make her own living. Her plight is discovered by the star and he immediately falls in love with her, and then poses as an assistant magazine editor in order to buy her stories. He buys a controlling interest in a metropolitan magazine so that he may publish the girl's story which this same magazine had previously refused. Of course this is but a bare outline of the story proper, but other complications enter and compel the interest of the spectator. A fine cast assists the star which includes Nigel Barrie, Mildred Harris, Sylvia Ashton and Guy Oliver. A Sennett comedy entitled "Be Reasonable" and a smashing chapter of Eddie Polo's serial play "The Secret Four" are the other numbers on the bill for today.

Mae Marsh in "Nobody's Kid" will be the feature attraction for Sunday evening. Max Linder, the celebrated French comedian, will also appear Sunday in his comedy-dramatic hit entitled "Seven Years Bad Luck."

Betty Compson, who achieved a triumph in "At the End of the World" and "The Little Minister," is coming to the local playhouse on Monday and Tuesday in "Law and the Woman." This photoplay has been selected as a perfect medium for the expression of Miss Compson's charm and talent. It is an adaption of Clyde Fitch's popular stage success, "The Woman in the Case." The role assumed by the star enables her to prove that she is rapidly forging to the front as a gifted emotional actress.

The plot concerns the faithful wife of Julian Rolfe, who saves him from the death penalty on his conviction of the murder of his ward, Phil Long, in the apartment of Clara Foster, a professional adventuress, of which crime he is innocent. By assuming the character of a woman of the underworld, the wife succeeds in wringing a confession from Clara, who proves to be the real criminal. Will Carleton, Cleo Ridgeley and Casson Ferguson support the star. An added feature for Monday will be Harold Lloyed in his laugh fest, "High and Dizzy." Mr. Lloyed is one of the screen's most popular comedians, especially with the women folk, who like the clean brand of fun he dispenses.

Loses Sight Of Police Work In This City

ness of the department, taking officers out on liquor cases and for special duties of the department. We do not furnish the chief of the police department with an auto, neither do we furnish the police inspector with one.

We have three motor cycle officers and it is my personal opinion that we could easily dispense with the Ford touring car in the interest of economy.

Percy W. Wheeler, Mayor.
City of Leominster

Our police department has one auto, which is a large touring car, and is used by the chief, inspector, and members of the police force under direction of the chief. This car is used for general purposes connected with the police department .

Henry F. Sawtelle, Mayor.
City of Melrose

We have a touring car which is used for all police purposes except ambulance work. We also have a regulation motor ambulance and patrol. These two pieces of apparatus are the only pieces of motor equipment used by the police department.

Angier L. Goodwin, Mayor.

Next week we hope to give the systems of other cities of the state in the same class as Peabody. At this writing replies have not been received.

Looking over the above list of cities it will be seen that none of them even approach Peabody in the matter of police equipment. They are probably spending one dollar for this line of work where Peabody is spending five.

In this city we have a police patrol, an ambulance, a big touring car for the chief and another for the inspector. And on top of all we are maintaining a shed-roof building, miscalled a municipal garage, and under which high sounding name it is able to care for four machines of the police department, employing three men for the purpose, each of whom gets paid some $35 per week, working on an eight-hour shift.

The writer wishes to be fair to all concerned and if any statement made here is wrong it will be gladly rectified. What we are endeavoring to get at is the truth. Where that truth will lead us will be determined later on. And it may be said that that truth concerns every man, woman and child of the community, for there is wide spread poverty today such as the city has never seen in the past.

In later issues we will continue the inquiry into the auto cost to the entire city. And it is safe to say that common sense methods can be introduced that will save to the tax payers ten or fifteen thousand dollars each year, in the cost of automobiles, their up-keep and care. This is a very conservative estimate and if there be any who may take exceptions let him prove the contrary.

Every tendency of the times should caution us about establishing a system in our city government that enables a few to draw upon the wealth created by others and that such systems become the more dangerous as they develop. That this power is being abused in many of our cities no one will deny. Whether Peabody is one of these cities each may decide for himself. And if there is extravagance and waste, these must be eliminated by those officials who see the wrong in our institutions and who will never be satisfied until such wrongs are righted.

Joe O'Connor Will Report To Norfolk

Joe O'Connor of the famous O'Connor ball players, leaves next week with young Hap Ward to report to Norfolk, Va., team for spring practice. He is a clever pitcher and outfielder with a batting eye that made him a prime favorite with the Salem team the last two years. He is a war veteran, having enlisted in the Fifth Marines, and attracted much attention in army baseball. Ward is an infielder. Joe is the son of Dennis O'Connor of South street.

Dr. Van Ness On Slovakia

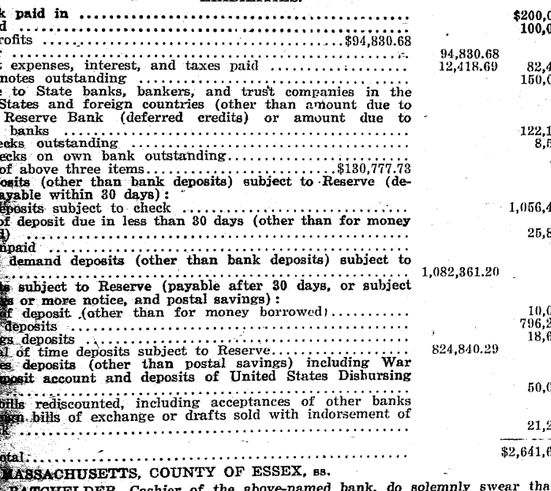
"Czecho-Slovakia, the Keynote to the European Muddle," will be the subject of a lecture by Rev. Dr. Thomas Van Ness of Boston at the Unitarian parish vestry on next Wednesday evening, March 22. Dr. Van Ness recently gave a discourse on Germany that gave his audience much more hopeful information as to the future conduct of the Rhinelanders. Dr. Van Ness is a delightful speaker and is assured of a large audience. The public is invited.

PERSONALS

Mrs. A. P. Ames has entered the Massachusetts General hospital for observation. X-ray pictures will be taken to determine cause of her malady.

Miss Edith Brooks is ill with an abscess on her face at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Barnaby, Gardner street.

Mrs. Francis Donnell entertained her whist club last Wednesday.



Mrs. Nathan Poor of Emerson street will entertain the Monday night whist club.

The many Peabody friends of Philip Currier were sorry to hear of his death at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. H. Paton, 9 Staples street, Melrose, on Monday of this week.

The minstrel show given by members of the Universalist Sunday school will be repeated at the Marblehead Universalist church vestry on Monday evening, March 13.

ST. THERESA COURT

St. Theresa Court, M. C. O. F., will hold a public whist party in their hall in the O'Shea building next Tuesday evening, to which the public is invited.

This convenient service in no way interferes with your present range connections and is so arranged that it may be used independently or with the coal range attachment.

ST. JOHN'S SCHOOL FIRE ALARM CAUSED ANGUISH TO MOTHERS

It was a most regrettable incident and one that should never have happened, in view of the fire of some years ago which claimed the lives of 20 children in the parochial school.

The fire engineers should take immediate steps to equip the horses with rubber footpads to prevent them from slipping while hauling the ponderous ladder truck. Eye witnesses observed the horses slipping quite badly as they made the corners yesterday noontime, while responding to box alarms.

The plant of the Ulrock Leather Co. near Blackburn's stable was gutted by fire early today, giving the firemen a hard tussle to wipe out the flames among the scrap leather.

Two grass fires, one off Liberty street and another in West Peabody, rounded out a busy day for the firemen yesterday.

A carload of hay consigned to M. W. Ellis was wrecked by fire in the freight yard late last Tuesday evening.

Permanent Fireman Arthur Flynn, who has the sobriquet of being the adonis of the local department, is able to get out with the aid of a cane. He injured his knee in the fire some weeks ago at 9 Lowell street, and has been off duty ever since.

A tramp or some boys probably had something to do with setting fire to a haystack in Poor's field which caused an alarm from box 29 at 12.45. Some excited person later rang in the alarm from box 12 for the same fire.

More Bouts In Couple Weeks By Peabody A.C.

Peabody's initial boxing show given in City Hall last Tuesday evening by the Peabody A. C. went over big. The bouts were all worth while and disclosed several likely ring champions who will be heard from. Young McHugh was the big star of the evening, sharing honors with Kid Brown. A big crowd of fight fans saw the card and got their money's worth. President John H. McNamara and officers of the club delivered the goods. Their next show is eagerly awaited.

Kid Magavero in the 118 novice class carried off the first prize and is going to be heard from. Leo Barry, who has beaten young Delano and Henry Ford, was an outstanding feature in the bouts, and Johnnie Judge, who resembles battling Nelson, put up nine rounds of hard fighting only to lose on a close decision.

The Peabody A. C. has fitted up a fine gymnasium on Sherman street and invites any Peabody boy to make use of it. The officers of the club who have helped to promote the organization are Louis Glass, Albert Brown and John F. A. Feeney.

Another boxing mill will be staged in City Hall in a couple of weeks, and a still greater crowd of fight fans will be on hand.

A.O.H. Scores In "My Irish Rose"

"My Irish Rose" a dainty three-act comedy presented last evening in City Hall before a capacity house under the auspices of Division 11, A. O. H., was the best play ever given by the local division. The parts were well taken and the show was given with the finese of a professional performance. The leading female role, that of Rose Creigan, the wild Irish rose, was assumed by Miss Helen E. Cannon of Lynn, who captivated the audience from her first entrance. Miss Cannon is a dramatic reader of exceptional ability and has acquired fame in plays around Greater Boston, but last evening was her initial appearance in this city and she won instant favor. Frank F. Sonigan, impersonating Maurice Fitzgerald, a rich young artist, who inherited a title and a fortune, was excellent in the part, and as Rose's sweetheart and later as her husband displayed more than ordinary ability as an actor. His solo, "My Wild Irish Rose," at the close of Act 1 was one of the gems of the show.

The parts of James C. Walsh as Colum McCormock, Rose's uncle; Mrs. Annie Kenneally as her Aunt Mary Ann; Tom Kavanaugh as Terry, her brother; Miss Phoebe O'Connor as the Widow Hannigan, and John J. O'Brien as Michael Pepperdine, an eminent Dublin barrister, and an old friend of the Fitzgerald family, were particularly well taken. Miss Frances Conroy as "Pegeen" Burke, a servant in the McCormack home, and Edward Sullivan as Shawn McGilly, a farm hand, created much amusement throughout the play. Minor parts were capably taken by Miss Esther Cannon, Lena Armstrong and John "Cy" McCarthy.

Between the acts the following specialties were introduced which were greatly enjoyed: Readings by little Mary Fitzpatrick; an Irish jig by Jennie Fahey and Charles Crowley, and a four-hand reel by Mary and Agnes Callan, Mary Collins and Dorothy Doyle. The play was under the direction of Frank F. Sonigan.

The agitation for a separate precinct in West Peabody has again made its yearly appearance, but does not seem to be meeting with the general endorsement of the residents of that section.

WILL THERE BE A COAL STRIKE?

We believe that on April 1, the Anthracite coal miners will strike to enforce their demands in relation to a new working schedule.

Owing to the attitude of the operators on this question we cannot see anything but a long struggle, lasting possibly four or five months.

We think it good judgment for you to lay in at least one-half of your next season's requirements for the following reasons:

1st. A coal strike of even a comparatively short duration would cause a serious shortage in the fall.

2nd. A shortage later would make it necessary to resort to the coal rationing plan which we all know is a poor substitute for a full coal bin.

3rd. We anticipate an enormous demand for coal upon the termination of the strike and coal shipped under these conditions cannot be expected to be as well prepared as normally.

4th. We do not look for any reduction in freight rates which would materially lower the price of coal to the consumer before the early part of 1923.

The present cash price for coal is $15.00 per ton.

to departmental heads with a view to seeing where a saving might be effected. It is hinted that some resignations are in the making.

The Mayor cut out nearly $100,000 in the estimates submitted by City Engineer Frank Emerson. Sanborn street and some others which have been voted accepted will probably see nothing done this year. Sanborn street should be laid out this year.

Mayor Shea and Rep. McVann appeared at the hearing at the State House in opposition to the bill which would take away revenue from cities and towns from intangible personal property. No one appeared in favor of the bill which will probably be given leave to withdraw.

Firemen Save Korn Lea. Plant

Fire in the scrap leather plant of the Sollaway Leather Co. in the building next to the Korn Leather Co. Walnut street gave the firemen a hard battle this morning to prevent the flames from eating their way into the big Korn plant. A water screen was put into operation and this alone stopped the spread of the fire. The Sollaway plant was badly gutted. Councillor James T. Sullivan has a leather business in the same building. The alarm was sounded at 10.10.

MISSION

The annual all-day missionary meeting of the Woman's Association of South church was held on Tuesday, March 14, in the parlors of the church with a good attendance. The morning session began at 10.45, Miss M. L. Dodge leading in the devotional exercises. Mrs. C. S. Badger, field secretary of the Woman's Board of Home Missions, spoke of the work in Massachusetts.

Dinner was served at 12.30 and in the afternoon session Miss Bessie Crowell, formerly missionary to India, led the devotions, followed by Mrs. Otis Cary of the mission field in Japan, who spoke most inspiringly. Miss Elizabeth Gourley sang with her usual sweetness.

S. G. C. CLUB

The S. G. C. Club of South church, Miss F. P. Gay, president, enjoyed a club supper in the church parlors Monday evening, March 13. Thirteen members were present and four guests, mothers of members. These were Mrs. Annie Redman, Mrs. Bert Fifield, Mrs. Herbert Gardner and Mrs. O. R. Goodwin. Mrs. Redman was pronounced senior mother and Mrs. Fifield junior raspberry. After the supper was cleared away, the evening was spent in planning church activities and in playing games.

MINSTREL SHOW

Last Wednesday evening, about 30 young people of the Universalist Sunday school gave their minstrel show at the Essex sanitorium. A large gathering attended and the performance was greatly appreciaated. Perley Bodge, superintendent of the school, has directed the minstrel show and Wednesday he was at the piano and Gordon Randall with the drums. In the near future this show will be given in the Universalist parish house of the Marblehead society.

If It Could Be Done.

It is not the man who can turn off nature's tap who is wanted, but the man who can turn it on. Too much rain is preferable to too little or none at all. An invention for producing rain when and where required would mean fabulous wealth to the world. It would create new empires in the Sahara and the vast salt wastes of western America, and it would make the center of Australia as fertile as Tasmania.

Lowell Street

Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Whidden have sent postcards this week from the West Indies. They sail today for the island of Trinidad, famous for its asphalt. They are expected to arrive home about April 1, after a month's visit in the south.

Mrs. Ruth Wentworth substituted at the Center school this week in place of Miss Laura Whitney.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bent will celebrate their tenth wedding anniversary tomorrow.

Mrs. Yale, mother of Dr. Yale, has had a serious operation performed on her finger.

Miss Alice Woodman of King street is spending the week in Utica, N. Y.

James J. Donovan has sold the lot of land at the corner of Lowell and Thorndike streets to Mrs. Josephine Sanborn, daughter of the late Walter K. Bigelow of Salem. It is reported that Mrs. Sanborn will erect a residence thereon that will be a substantial addition to Lowell street real estate.

Miss Marie Lawton will spend a few months at Hillsboro, N. H.

Mrs. John Chaplin (nee Shirley Ingraham) became the mother of a boy last Sunday at the J. B. Thomas hospital. Mr. Chaplin arrived Sunday afnoon from his home at Briston, Conn., to welcome the stranger and has been staying with his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ingraham.

A Boston paper of yesterday carried a two-column picture of Ray E. Porter, taken at St. Petersburg, Fla., showing him in his golf togs holding a championship cup which he had just won in a tournament. It would seem that Ray is in mid-season form and is burning up the southern courses and the prediction is made that he will "go big" in the state amateur meet this summer.

Pres. C. W. Barnes of the local Chamber of Commerce is in receipt of a letter from "Lew" Budy, who conducted the recent expansion campaign for that organization, and who made many friends during his stay in the city. Mr. Buddy evidently retains a deep interest in any Chamber with which he has been associated, and has promised to visit Peabody in the near future. His last campaign was staged at Morgantown, W. Va., where he secured 600 members from a population of 12,000.

Miss Grace Harlow of high school faculty is arranging for a party of her pupils to make a six day tour of the presidential range territory this summer. Richard B. Mackintosh will act as director and guide. The trip will be from Peabody to Pinkham Notch by automobile, where headquarters will be at the Pinkham Notch hut. The hike over the mountains will start from this point and will occupy four days with arrangements being made to reach an Appalachian club hut each evening. Return on the sixth day will be also by machine.

In placing on the market the B. F. Southwick estate there becomes available for purchase one of the showplaces of Peabody. It is understood that the sale will be made under severe restrictions, and that the property will not be sold for the highest offer without some consideration being given to the ultimate intent of the purchaser as regards its use.

Cards were received in Peabody Monday announcing the marriage last Saturday at Newton of Miss Edith Martha Tyler, Smith '22, and Jacob Poor Estey, Amherst '18, of Brattleboro, Vt. The groom is the son of Col. and Mrs. Joseph Gray Estey, the latter (nee Miss Mattie Poor) daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Leverett Poor, former residents of Peabody, when the husband was identified with his brothers in one of the largest pioneer leather industries of days gone by.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Dalrymple of Haverhill are happy over the arrival of another son in their family. Mrs. Dalrymple is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Hall of this city.

Mrs. Edmund Dixon of Clement avenue has recovered from a seige of the grippe.

L. M. McLean, formerly employed at the A. C. Lawrence Co., is here on a visit from St. John's, N. B.

Charles H. Smart is entertaining his brother from Concord, N. H.

A son was born at the Thomas hospital on Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Connors (nee Alice Roche).

WHIST PARTY AND FOOD SALE

A whist party and food sale will be held next Tuesday afternoon at 2.15 in I. O. O. F. hall under the auspices of the Unitarian Society.

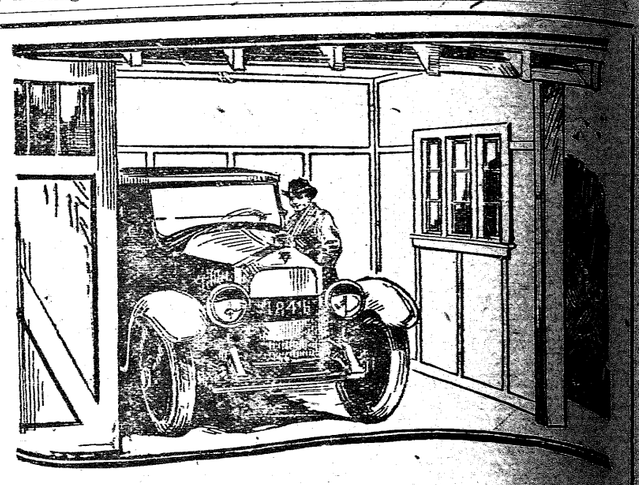
FOURTH DEGREE



The members of Father Gabriel Drulettes assembly, fourth degree, Knights of Columbus, will meet in Knights of Columbus hall, Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. Arrangements will be made for all candidates and members who desire to participate in the initiation of the fourth degree, and who wish to attend the banquet which is to be held in Boston on April 30, 1922. William B. Larkin, a good speaker, will address the members.

MEETING OF W. R. C.

The W. R. C. will meet next Tuesday afternoon in the G. A. R. hall to sew. Supper will be served to the members only, after which the regular meeting will be held.

Elks Cheer Up Parker Hill Boys

Peabody Lodge of Elks put up a new record at the Parker Hill hospital last Wednesday night when they staged an entertainment that kept the 500 disabled war veterans clamoring for encores and forced the show to go overtime. It was a new stunt at the hospital, for every man remained glued to his seat eager to applaud the American Legion show cast which presented their minstrel show under the auspices of the Peabody Elks. A dozen or more autos conveyed the players and members. The committee in charge was Edward Quirk and Charles Crump, and each deserves the commendation of every Elk.

Seal Your Garage Walls

You can quickly and easily seal your garage walls with Beaver Board. All that you need is a saw, a hammer and a few nails. The finished result will be a perfectly sealed room—one easy to keep clean and warm in summer and winter.

You really should have a pleasant place where you can work on your car. And you can make your garage pleasant any Saturday afternoon.

We can supply you with the genuine Beaver Board. If you will stop in any day and tell us the size of your garage we will have the material delivered so that you can finish the job in an afternoon.

You can't expect Beaver Board results unless this trade-mark is on the back of the board you buy.

Gaslight Co's Peabody Office Will Be Opened Here April 1

In its effort to give better gas service to the citizens of Peabody, the Salem Gaslight Co. will open its new office in this city on April 1 at 65 Main street, with Milton H. Locke the resident manager

Mr Locke comes here from New London, Conn., where he had been in th employ of the gas company for several years, and is thus familiar with the important duties of his office. He is a former Salem man, having been born in that city and is married. He was chosen as the new manager out of a large number of applicants for the position, and his long service in the gas business won him the preference. He will become a resident of Peabody.

The gas company will display a complete line of gas appliances in its local show windows and will carry a large stock of everything needed by the consumer of gas. Bills will be paid at the local office and all complaints and requests for more service will be received by Manager Locke.

The gas company will receive Peabody citizens on its opening day here next week Saturday, when the public is invited to inspect the company's Peabody office and meet Manager Locke.

MILTON H. LOCKE, Manager

Sewer Bunk Called Off

The announced hearing on the sewer problem effecting Peabody, set for tonight in Salem, was called off yesterday by Rep. Bates of Salem, who has let it be known that some Peabody citizen is strangely interested in pushin the hearings. Rep. Bates called up Mayor Shea yesterday saying it was not possible to hold the hearing. Peabody is eager to have Salem show its hand. It is probable that the identity of the Peabody man who appears to be urging Salem to take Peabody by the throat will be made known.

The W. R. C. will hold a rummage sale in the Universalist vestry tomorrow afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock.

$35 TAX RATE LOOKS CERTAIN

A $35 tax rate appears the ultimate figure which the citizens of Peabody will be called on to pay this year following the introduction of the budget by Mayor Shea before the City Council last night. This will be an increase of $7.90. The total amount of the budget is $822,535.89, or $33,000 less than the first budget of last year.

Over $100,000 has been cut in the City Engineer's department from his original estimate, but most of this saving has been added to the school department. The additional sum of $5000 is allowed for the hospital, making the subsidy $10,000. West Peabody is allowed $325 for street light extension. It is going to cost the city $4450 to hold its elections this year, an increase of $1775 over the cost of 1921.

The bonded indebtedness due to the new school construction alone adds $5 to the tax rate.

Mayor Shea started his administration with the bonded charges amounting to $1,600,000, and last year this was reduced by $216,000 in interest and maturing bonds. The extra pay for school teachers, firemen and city employes added to the burden of taxes last year. It is costing Peabody $67.50 for each pupil in the public schools. Mayor Shea declares that no Mayor could prevent the tax rate from being increased last year or this, owing to the bonded indebtedness for the schools. Receipts from the state and other sources this year are not expected to exceed $300,000 or $100,000 less than last year.

The budget was referred to the finance committee and a motion by Councillor Barry requires the auditor to submit the expenditures of every department last year so that the Council may see where the reduction has been placed. Some of the Councillors last night expressed their doubts that the new budget included enough money to run most of the departments longer than a few months.

In its first opportunity to cut the budget, the Council voted to refer back to Mayor Shea an ordinance he sent in last night raising the pay of Military Aid Commissioner Fyfe to $2000 to permit him giving his whole time to the work of assisting the war veterans.

A letter from the Mayor quoted Richard Flynn head of the state aid as complimenting the work of Mr. Fyfe and urging that more salary be paid him. The salary for similar work in Lynn and Beverly is $1500. The Mayor will be asked to fix a lesser amount.

The City Council voted to allow the city engineer to have the use of $3000 with which to repair the old pump at the pumping station, which broke down a week ago. This work will be done without advertising for bids, it being an emergency.

Purchase of additional Bushby land near the high school at a cost of $6500 was favored by the Council on recommendation of Mayor Shea last night, and this sum will be appropriated at the next meeting of the Council. It appears that through some blunder a concrete walk was laid on the right of way owned by the Bushby estate.

Miss Coleman Will Be Bride Of Dr. Bugler

The engagement was announced this week of Miss M. Esther Coleman and Dr. Andrew P. Bugler both of this city. Miss Coleman is the daughter of Mrs. and the late Philip H. Coleman, Selectman for many years and one of Peabody's best known and highly respected citizens. She is a graduate of St. John's High School, class of 1908 and is an accomplished pianist. Dr. Bugler is a graduate of Tuft's Dental College, 1910 and has been a resident of this city for the past seven years. He is a world war veteran, having enlisted in the Medical Corps and was commissioned a first lieutenant. Since coming to Peabody he has built up a pleasing dental practice. He is a trustee of the Peabody Institute.

City Autos To Be Curtailed

Mayor Shea has issued orders to curtail the number of automobiles used by various departments with a view to eliminating expense. At least two are slated to go out of use in the City Engineer's department. It is possible that some of the higher priced cars now fed by the tax payers' money will be disposed of. It is going to be possible no longer for certain city officials to call up the city garage late at night and have a special taxicab service at the expense of the citizens. The placing of the garage under the jurisdiction of the police department will find a stricter economy installed. If the Mayor has his way, and he says he will have it, Peabody will support less joy riding this year.

New Concerns Anxious To Locate Plants Here

(By ENERGY)

Several new concerns would like to locate in Peabody. We welcome such concerns and ask them to bring their friends. We care not whether they make leather or home brew so long as they are within the law. There are several available factories. Right now such as are available present too much floor space. Two years ago there was not floor space enough to go around. Such is the world.

* * *

The plant formerly occupied by the Peabody Leather Co. is a plant second to none. I do not presume insurance companies will pay anything to place insurance there, but the rate is so low as compared with ordinary structures that big money is saved on that item only. Just at this time there is no leather concern with ambition enough to take on a plant of this kind. But when conditions are better, I am sure that any plants of size in Peabody will be wanted. The Howard Clock Co. has an option on this plant. From all I can glean they have not decided what will be done. They do not need to occupy all the floor space, so by dividing it up, small concerns would be attracted there.

Then the Armstrong Leather Co.'s factory on Walnut street is idle, and presumably will be sold. If so, another attractive factory. The building running parallel to Walnut street is one of the landmarks of the leather business in Peabody. Built by Brown and Caller in the '70s, it was an imposing factory for those days. Compared with the structures of today, it does not look the money. Brown and Stanley succeeded Brown and Caller, and Colonel Armstrong took it over in the '90s and added to the floor space, making it a modern factory. Until the Colonel retired from this concern, a healthy business was done there. The present concern have gradually curtailed because of business conditions. I hope and trust when times are better that the business will continue, for Mr. Bangs, the manager, is the kind the city cannot afford to lose. Calf leather and specialties has been the business since the advent of the Armstrong Leather Co., first under Colonel Armstrong and later under Mr. Bangs.

The Peabody Leather Co. came to Peabody some eight years ago from Milwaukee. Pflister Vogel Co., one of the largest leather concerns in the U. S., conceived the idea that Peabody would be the logical place to make pan-cake soles and other imitations of sole leather. They had as good equipment for this work as the country afforded. During the war this offal brought prices beyond any guess. Today and for two years back it has not been worth the trouble of hauling away. Such is leather.

With labor high, and everything in sole leather low, this cheap article had few friends. Consequently it appeared better to quit, keep at least part of the profits made during the war, and go west. I presume this business will be done in Milwaukee, and I cannot fathom why they ever came to Peabody. So this plant is for sale, and can be purchased for at least 75 per cent. of the cost of erection. Somebody will use it, and others later will wonder why they did not wake up.

Leather conditions are often times puzzling. Not long ago calf leather had the call over all others. Today conditions have reversed, and side leather steps in and gets the business. It is not difficult to figure why. The public are demanding cheaper shoes and cheaper shoes they are getting. Side leather can be produced at prices which will warrant the shoe manufacturer selling shoes at big reductions. A calfskin has four shanks, two flanks and one head as most of us have, (the head). Side leather has one flank, two shanks and part of a head (as some of us have). I do not include the forward flank, for good tanners today make this part of the hide, fine leather. The waste in cutting is in favor of the side leather. With the dope process shoes made from side-leather will fool many into believing they are wearing calf shoes. Now only the age of the critter makes the difference. There are many things in life better for age. I will not attempt to specify what they are, but I have heard of articles way down in the dark cellar, covered with cobwebs, that was prized highly, very highly. It may not be so with leather, but I have never seen any proof offered to object.

The Richard Young Co. are building an office building on the vacant lot at the corner of English and Union streets. This plant is kept in the best of condition. If we could dig up some more concerns of this kind Peabody would profit by them. If any one does business, the Richard Young Co. can be reckoned on to be there.

The Amerikaf Co. on Walnut street is succeeded by the Morris Co. I understand the same parties will continue there, and that the change is only in name.

Insurance rates will be higher in those sections where so many fires have occurred of late. Whether this means the factories are included I do not know. Leather factory losses have been small in the last ten years in Peabody.

Boxing Bouts Next Thursday In City Hall

Peabody's next boxing show will be held next week Thursday night in City Hall under the direction of the Peabody Athletic Club, and another top notch bill is in the making by the Bleachery triumvirate. There will be plenty of action as at the first show and instead of 1200 people the sign "SRO" may be posted, for the advance sale of tickets insures a record crowd.

Leo Barry in the bantam class at 108 will be one of the big cards again with Johnny Judge, the Battling Nelson of Essex County, and Louis McHugh, groomed for the big mill. A half dozen new faces will be seen under the spotlight, judging from the requests for application blanks, and some new white hopes may be started on their ring career.

President John H. McNamara, who heads the Bleachery club, declares nothing is being spared to procure the best show ever staged for amateur boxers, and that the coming bill is bound to excell the debut of the club's activities.

Kid Brown, who is being heralded as the coming New England champion in the 112 class, is looking over the field for a capable rival. He is carded for the St. Joseph T. A. S. boxing tourney Monday night.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY
CHARLES H. EGLEE

THE BUSINESS SITUATION

The reviews of the month all seem to carry a feeling of confidence and some display considerable optimism. The varying opinions depending upon whether one views the future as depending upon the deep, fundamental forces of progress, or whether one sees only the surface currents of our disturbed readjustment. Both of these factors should be considered.

We are slowly but surely growing into a better condition of financial balance. The value of exchange is gradually drawing toward its old standard. On March 1 the English pound sterling reached its highest figure since the war $4.44 3-8, March 18 it sold at $4.40 3-8 a strong contrast with the rate of $3.19 a year ago. All the foreign exchange rates except Central Europe are rising, showing an increasing confidence and stability.

The price of farm products is much stronger. The farmer will receive for this year's crop better returns and this will give him more money with which to buy the things he needs. We cannot have any permanent prosperity until the farmer can exchange his bushel of wheat or his cattle and hogs for as much as he did before the war. Not as much money but as much clothing or shoes or tools or fertilizer. All prices went up against the farmer, while his produce sold lower and lower, his wheat sold in January at $1.01½ a bushel; during the war it reached $2.70. But May wheat is selling at $1.47½ and almost touched $1.50. Corn has gone from the low point of 65 cents to 80 cents. Hogs are quoted 14 cents as against the low point of ten cents or a little less. Cotton sold for ten cents and is now about 17 cents. The farmer will have more money next fall and will need a great deal he couldn't afford to buy during the past two years. He ought to be a good customer if prices are right.

The nation believes in its own coming prosperity. This is shown in the prices of railroad stocks and other securities; the market is good particularly the bond market. Last week ended with a fine show of financial cheerfulness, all the stocks showing advances over the previous week. The people are investing their savings in the industries of their country; they are letting their money go out to pay wages somewhere, for this is exactly what invested money does; it pays wages, somewhere to somebody and is the best cure known for unemployment. Almost all this investment is in small lots; showing that the people,—the ordinary common people,—have been more thrifty than was supposed. The average savings bank deposit in the New York Savings Banks on January 1st was $663 higher than it has ever been and this in the face of much unemployment. The people will buy when the prices are right.

The iron and steel market is generally considered a good barometer of the national business and that market was hit hardest both in price of material and wages than any other; the steel worker was obliged to take a greater reduction in wages and his earnings are nearer to pre-war wages than any other worker in the land. The same with the product, but business is improving; bars, plates and beams are selling now at $31.36 a ton, just one-half of the war time price. The people need steel and will buy when the price is right.

There are difficulties in the way of right prices because our readjustment is so uneven. Three great industries must reduce wages before the cost of living will come down and prices are low enough to tempt the people to buy and also tempt the foreigner to buy. He needs many things and when exchange rates are adjusted the prices must be right also. Our export trade is very dull at present. These three industries are, first, Mining; coal which is so necessary to every factory and home is too high and miner's wages which were advanced higher than most and fully equal to the highest, have not been reduced at all; second,—Railroad wages and rates that are at the root of all the prosperity of the nation; third,—the Building Trades for the people are not housed in a proper manner at proper rents. Building must be cheaper.

These three are important and hold back prosperity. One other handicap is the present soldier bonus proposition which advocates the loaning of an indefinite sum of money by the banks at a low rate of interest. The banks are not in condition to do this. The Controller of the Currency says—"The amount of past due notes now held by the National and State Banks is unbelievable to the people. It is entirely too much and will take five years to work out. If the banks were to demand payment of this paper it would break about one-half of the people of the country." We do not yet realize the handicap under which business is laboring. We are making real progress but the better the people understand that each of us is an important part of the whole and that each of us must work, save and make his own sacrifice for the good of all of us, the sooner will the war confusion be over and real prosperity begin. Meantime the leather industry is in very bad condition. Not only in this locality but all over the country. Our coming prosperity depends upon a readjustment in this country as well as in our export trade.

The Druggist Tried It On Himself

A Well Known Pharmacist Thought He Would See What Cerizane Was Good For And It Cured His Cold

Mr. E. W. Keyes has been for thirty-five years a resident of Auburndale, Massachusetts, where he is a well-known druggist. Suddenly, through exposure, he found himself coughing severely; a dry, hard cough, with the customary sore throat and hoarseness. He feared he might have pneumonia. He was pretty well acquainted with the different cough medicines in his store, but he says, "I knew the reputation of Cerizane, and I knew that the Winsol goods had been made for years, with the first thought being quality, so when I suddenly found myself in such bad shape, I took down a bottle of Cerizane, and took a few doses. Its effect was very agreeable indeed, and I speedily felt improvement. Before a bottle was taken my cough had stopped, my temperature had become normal and I was fully on the road to recovery. I do not hesitate to recommend Cerizane Cough Balsam to my customers."

What Mr. Keyes says about Cerizane is true. It has been made for ninety-five years by the Wilson family of Boston. It has helped millions and hurt none. It contains no chloroform, narcotics or other harmful drugs.

Cerizane may be had of any druggist.

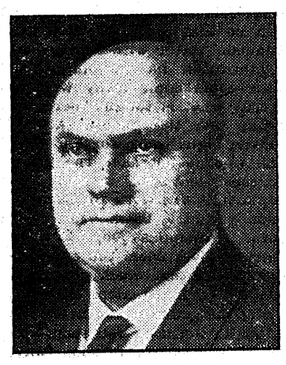
ALLEN BLOCK, PEABODY SQUARE



Sheriff Wells Defends County Control of Jails

Salem, Mass., March 15.
Editor, Peabody Enterprise:

Considerable has been said both in the newspapers and by speakers in public about the benefits that state control of the county penal institutions would bring about, and very little has been said in reply. I, therefore, wish to say a few words, and point out a few misstatements and a few reasons why state control would not benefit the public.

The principal benefits claimed by those in favor are economy, segregation, classification, and education of prisoners. The last three years have been severe ones for the county institutions because of the extreme low number of inmates in them, and no doubt if the condition were to continue the prisoners could be maintained for less by bringing them all together in larger institutions. In 1920, the average daily population in the Salem jail and house of correction was 49.7, and the cost reached the highest for many years, i. e., $720 per capita. In 1921, there was a daily average of 87.6 in the same institution, and the cost for maintaining them was $453.19 each, from which $14.41 each was paid to the wives of men serving time for non-support, and should be deducted from the $453.19, making the net cost for maintaining each prisoner $438.78. This reduction was brought about mostly because of the larger number of prisoners, as the overhead expense, such as salaries of officers, heat, light, etc., is no more for 125 prisoners than for 49.7. We now have 125 prisoners in the Salem jail and house of correction, and I see no prospects of there being any reduction, as the number has consistently increased since I took charge on January 5, 1921, when there were 64 inmates. In my estimates for the year 1922, I figured on an average population of 120, and figured the cost at $346.66 each, as the cost of subsistence supplies and clothing was only $103 last year, and this is practically what it costs to keep a prisoner after the overhead expense has been taken care of.

I believe that it is better to keep prisoners in smaller rather than in larger bodies, and I speak, not from theory, but from an experience of more than thirty years in dealing with that class of people. Then again, there are many reasons why prisoners should not be sent to far away prisons. For instance, many are committed to the county institutions for want of furnishing bail promptly, and in a day or two their friends arrange for bail, and it is necessary for them to go where the prisoner is confined to give the bail, so that he may be released. Or, many times a man is committed to jail for not paying a fine that the court has imposed, and in a few days his fine is forthcoming, and must be paid where he is confined. In either case it would be a hardship if he had been sent to a distant part of the state, and the cost to the state, as well as the prisoner, would be more. Many prisoners' cases in the lower courts are continued from one to ten days for one reason or another, and they are committed to jail to await trial, and when the day of trial comes the police have to come to the jail, and take the prisoners back to court for trial. What would be the effect if we had no jail, and the prisoner had to be taken to Boston? Of course, this would not be as bad for Essex County as it would be for some others, but it would be a long way to go from Newburyport or Haverhill to Boston and get a man back in time for trial in the police court in the morning. So it would seem as if we must keep jails in the counties where the courts are held. In 1921 over three thousand visits were made to the inmates of the Salem jail by their friends and families, and it is acknowledged by all who have had experience that the influence of the family, if they are good, is the best thing to reform transgressors. Of the 1100 prisoners committed to Salem jail and house of correction in 1921, 909 came from Essex County. What would have been the result if the prisoners had been sent to far-away prisoners where their folks could not have visited them? Number of prisoners discharged from jail part of prison 362, who served an average of 14.1 days in jail.

ARTHUR G. WELLS,
Sheriff of Essex County.

Salem Rotary Beats Peabody At Candlepins

Salem Rotarians took the first leg of another bowling series from the Peabody Rotarians Tuesday afternoon at the Victor alleys, winning all three strings and the total. It was Salem's day with Bursaw, Ross Goddard and John Tudbury, the three high rollers. Peabody got in one honor, however, that of capturing the highest individual string with Don Roby in the stellar role with 292. George Barnaby was off form and had to be satisfied with 246. Rogers Crehore took several shots at the end pin, hitting the old boy square on the nose but the other nine stood up and laughed. Peabody is full of fight and declares Pres. Hooper and his cohorts must travel faster next week to hold their lead. The score:

U. S. COLLECTOR THANKS PAPERS

To the Editor:

I want to express my appreciation for the co-operation shown by the newspapers of the state in the recent income tax drive.

The assistance of the press in bringing the attention of taxpayers to this obligation was reflected in the desire of the public to make complete and accurate returns of income.

The support of the newspapers in the big, serious problems of our government is very gratifying to those who have such matters in charge, and in the present instance the generous use and display of publicity matter from this office was a source of deep satisfaction to me.

Sincerely,
MALCOLM E. NICHOLS,
Collector.

THE COMMUNITY HOUSE

The Peabody Community House is an institution that does much for the young people of this city. With quarters ample for all demands, it is a power for the community which merits the constant consideration of the public. The recent drive netted enough money to carry through this season. After that something must be done to finance it so that the good work can be continued. After witnessing what this organization has accomplished, no visitor could come away without feeling that what is taught there, the gymnasium and the general atmosphere is the right thing for our boys and girls who do not have the privileges of those better off in life. The few people who will work for such an institution get little thanks for their endeavors. A thankless job, but when accomplished gives them the satisfaction of knowing that much good has come from it. The greatest of these, charity, is the greatest characteristic for the public welfare, and such welfare must be cared for in some way, or the community suffers. Having a home established, it seems to us such work as has been done there should be promoted. We hope and trust it will. It requires the "some ones" to do the work and so far they have not been found wanting.

FIRES

Peabody has had an epidemic of fires the last few months which we believe has not been equalled in number ever before. In value they have amounted to comparatively little. But it may be hinted that personal property can better be sold by fire than by business ways. We assume many fires are set for financial benefit. The authorities find it difficult to prove incendiary fires. Insurance companies who pay the bills, have a way to get back this money by raising the rates of those who have no fires. It is a case of paying the fiddler without dancing. No doubt, this way is within the law, therefore no one can complain. There has always been ways of stopping everything that is a menace to the public. In the case of fires, some way can be worked out whereby suspicious fires should be traced to the cause. The state handle this matter now, but it seems to us they have not ways adequate to accomplish much we believe that local authorities could do far better. But it matters not how it is done, it should be done so as to be more effective than is the case today. We have been fortunate that some of these fires did not spread to adjoining property. Thanks to an efficient fire department the blaze has been confined to a small area. Our fire department has a knack of "getting there" and too much praise cannot be accorded them. But if these fires continue, some way must be devised to get evidence which will jail the offenders. It has been done before, it can be done again. All good citizens are interested in seeing less fires in Peabody.

TAX RATES

When one examines the tax rates of Massachusetts, yes, New England, New York and New Jersey, he will find that all cities have increased their rates 50 per cent. in most cases. But a few of us are old enough to remember taxing conditions after the civil war closed. In those days there were different conditions because few people had money. That war did not make riches as did the world war. Therefore there was not that spirit of extravagance that has been witnessed the last few years, extravagance practiced by the U. S. government, the state, the county and lastly the cities. Why all fell into this rut is difficult to answer. It is enough to say they fell. So we in Peabody are in the same boat with our neighbors, and it is up to us to remedy it. Our main arteries are in first class shape. Our cross streets as a rule are as poor as the others are good. The same can be said of sidewalks. Under present conditions little can be done to improve matters. There were many citizens who believed that the process of building so many streets at the high cost then prevailing, was not businesslike. Being done there is little that can be said to change it, so we must go about the business of getting back, the best way possible. It cannot be done by continuing in the same way. Economy is the process. If all the departments are top heavy, rebuild them. It must tread on toes, but it is a coldblooded business proposition and regardless of feelings, it must be done. Such is what we face, and for several years there can be no change. Any department heads who do not agree with this method of retrenchment should resign and his successor accepting the position should accept it knowing what is required.

WORTH OF AUTOS

How much are automobiles worth today? Many tell the assessors they cannot get an offer for their old machine. They are not quite as bad as washboards as to quantity, but fast getting there.

ROUND ABOUT

They tell us that Roger H. Smith will not have any more grass fires by his own setting. He decided a driveway would stop the fire, but alas, it hurdled this space and the department had their hands full to keep it away from the buildings. Roger refuses to play with fire again.

The macadam streets throughout the city look to be in good condition. There is several years more wear on them. Many thought Andover street was built cheaply, and it was, compared with other roads near Peabody square, but with all the travel on Andover street, the dressing stands up well.

What a conglomeration of stores on Walnut street. Instead of there being 23 fires there each month, it would be far better to have one good one and clean up the mess of shacks on the northerly side of this thoroughfare. We mean between Central and Wallis streets with a few exceptions.

We note Pickering and Murphy Coal Co.'s have a large stock of coal, no doubt expecting a coal strike later. Some say a strike is the only way to iron wage differences in the coal regions, and even with the high prices paid, it does not make up the difference in price. From $7 to $16 a ton for coal is some jump, and the quality was far better at the low price. There is something decidedly wrong with coal prices and the public are patient sufferers.

Frank Randall, the barber, wished himself in Florida again this winter, and he intends to go next year, so he says, and his intentions are to build a bungalow there. There are too many checker players in that section to keep him away. After meeting all comers last year without a defeat, he figures new talent must be imported to get a win.

There are not nearly as many northerners there this year as last. Many people with plenty of money prefer to change their base frequently, and this year Europe has many who formerly visited Florida. The biggest attraction in that section is an island 40 miles off shore governed by England where prohibition has as much chance as a Chinaman to be Mayor of Peabody. Think of taking an aeroplane for this paradise and returning all inside of an hour with pockets and stomach bulged out like the toothache.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, now of Melrose and formerly a life long resident of Peabody, is seriously ill with pneumonia at the home of her daughter in Malden. The Wilson family lived in the house now owned by the city next to the Central fire station. Her father was one of the old-time tanners with his tannery on Foster street opposite Green & Hayes.

West Peabody has a club which is flourishing. To be sure their quarters are in the old blacksmith shop formerly occupied by Jesse Smith, but it is only the beginning of an organization which may be a factor in that section. There is always room for a club of this kind, and when the management fills the bill, the rest is easy. We hear there is a challenge out for a series of games with members of the Peabody Club.

An article in the Boston Post Tuesday morning told of Captain Donald McKay who addressed several audiences in this vicinity. He is accused of being an imposter by claiming to have been a member of the Royal police in Canada. Being a fluent speaker, one who carried his audience through the Canadian wilds with so much truism, it is difficult to think of his being an imposter. Strange things happen each day in the year.

Several new concerns are looking for space in Peabody. The trouble is they want small space, the factories now idle being beyond their pocketbooks. The announcement that the Howard Clock Co. had purchased the Peabody Leather Co.'s plant on Howley street is premature. They have an option only. This plant could be sub-divided to accommodate at least three thriving concerns.

They are saying that Bill Ducey, one of the oldest call men in the Peabody fire department, is modestly accepting praise for the condition of the Hose 2 fire station as divulged from the official inspection made by Mayor Shea last Saturday. Of course, Driver John Ellis is primarily responsible for the excellent condition of this station, but Veteran Ducey is quite willing the honors should go to Driver Ellis, so long as they come to his particular fire station.

A. C. Kilgour of Lexington, representative of the General Electric Co. offices in Boston, put Peabody down in his note book last Friday morning as being progressive. He was chatting with Manager Warren D. King of the Electric Light plant when a dangerous fire occurred on Walnut street that gave the firemen a great opportunity to show their prowess at fighting fires. They saved the Korn Leather plant adjoining the scene of the blaze while Mr. Kilgour looked on and praised their efforts.

* * *

Arriving back at Manager King's office a hurry call was sounded for the ambulance to convey Lineman Edward M. Rollins to the hospital for treatment for an injured back caused while helping to erect a new pole. Rollins went under the X-ray machine lenses and the plates were developed instanter while Mr. Kilgour looked on and gave the hospital credit for rapid service in emergency. Arriving back at City Hall a copy of the Peabody Enterprise was handed Mr. Kilgour with an account of the Walnut street fire which he had witnessed but a short half hour before. He left Peabody, agreed that Peabody is progressive.

YOUR HAND

How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm.

THE HANDS

WHEN the hands hang limply at the side, and are heavy, thick, and fat, you may deduce therefrom, generally, that the intellect of the possessor will be likewise heavy and "fat." All is density, and there is no use trying to raise the possessor of such a hand out of the depths of materialism. When you read his or her hand, says one authority, "if you attempt a keen analysis, he will blankly stare at you. No use trying to lift him out of his trough of materialism. It can't be done. He wants to know his brother's name, whether he is married, how many children, how long he will live, whether he will be rich, and you cannot lift him above this plane."

Last, we have the cautious person who enters your room with an air of investigation and with the hands carried behind the back, where they are clasped. This person is timid and well meaning, but suspicious of the value and merits and standing of palmistry. You must deal gently with him; he is open to conviction, but must be led and cannot be driven.

Thomas Block—Peabody Square

YOUR neighbor who has acquired a home through the assistance of the Peabody Cooperative Bank will tell you how easy it is to become a home owner.

The advantage of a Cooperative Bank mortgage over other mortgages is that while payments are made it cannot be foreclosed and the bank will always be found ready to assist a borrower to tide over financial trouble.

Coming Events

The following dates have been listed with the Coming Events Bureau of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce. These events are listed not for the purpose of advertising, but to serve the people of Peabody so that conflict in dates may be avoided. Secretaries of organizations have been requested to schedule their events at the Chamber of Commerce, for the good both of their organization and others, and the Chamber depends largely upon the courtesy of these officers to make the bureau give the services for which it was designed. Societies planning a public event should call the Chamber of Commerce, telephone 60, find out if the date in mind has already been arranged for by some other organization, then by the telephone, or preferably by letter, let the Chamber know when the event is to take place.

Parcel 3. A certain parcel of land constituting an island situated in said Peabody and Lynnfield, containing about 4 acres and 72 square rods, bounded on all sides by the waters of said Suntaug Lake.

Attention is hereby called to Sections 74 and 75 of Chapter 131 of the General Laws, which read:

"Whenever such preserve has been established or a close season has been established upon a territory by an order as above provided, no person, except as provided in section seventy-two, shall molest, hunt, pursue, take or kill any bird or quadruped within the said territory, or disturb or injure any nest, eggs or young, or remove the eggs or young from the nest. Violations of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than two months, or both.

The entrance of any person with a firearm or any device adapted for killing or injuring birds or quadrupeds or with a trap or snare upon any territory established as a preserve or upon which a close season has been established, shall be prima facie evidence of a violation of the provisions of the preceding section."

The Director of the Division of Fisheries and Game may authorize in writing any warden or deputy appointed to enforce the provisions of Sections 69 to 75 inclusive or the owner or occupant of any land within any such territory or any other responsible person to hunt, pursue, trap, snare or kill within the said territory and under the direction of the director any quadrupeds or birds which he may consider harmful to birds and game or to agriculture.

Attention of the public is further called to Section 12, Chapter 130 of the General Laws, which provides a punishment of not more than six months' imprisonment or fine of not more than two hundred dollars for any person who wilfully and maliciously injures any property or any posted notices on the reservation.

The greatest enemy to works of art in any form is damp. Avoid damp at all costs. Dust should never be allowed to accumulate behind pictures—should damp get there the dust will retain it for a considerable period. Insects and flies should not be allowed the liberty of rooms containing oil paintings, the spots they make upon the paint being most difficult to remove after standing.

33 x 4½ "	67.00	42.85	36%
33 x 5 "	81.50	52.15	36%

HOW the cost of building quality tires has been brought down to the lowest level in history was explained by H. S. Firestone, President of the Company, to the stockholders at the annual meeting on December 15, 1921.

1. All inventories and commitments at or below the market.

2. Increased manufacturing efficiency and volume production reduced factory overhead 58%.

3. Selling costs reduced 38%.

Mr. Firestone stated, "This reduction in prices is made possible by our unusually advantageous buying facilities, and the enthusiasm, loyalty and determination of our 100% stockholding organization.

"Due credit must be given to Firestone dealers who are selling Firestone tires on a smaller margin of profit. This brings every Firestone saving direct to the car-owner."

The saving through first cost plus the saving through high mileage doubles Firestone economy and is daily adding new fame to the Firestone principle of service—

Rev. Robert Bakeman was the speaker at the South Lynnfield Grange last evening.

Rehearsals are being held for the minstrel show which is to be held at the Second Congregational church next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. The show is to be given under the direction of W. E. Weld, who will also be one of the end men. Roland Janvier will be the other end man. Wright Gregson will act as interlocutor and a number of local jokes will be exchanged as well as some fine musical numbers. Children are requested to attend Tuesday night.

Miss Evelyn Brown chaperoned a party of girls in her Sunday school class last Saturday afternoon. They visited the museum at Salem.

Harold Hyde and family have moved to Maple street. They have been living in Beverly.

Harry Hewitt was hit by Densten Co.'s truck last week. He was riding on a bicycle, which was smashed. Harry escaped injury.

Mrs. Hannah Brown spent Tuesday with Mrs. Gates at Danvers. Mrs. Brown has been sick for the past 11 weeks, but is steadily gaining strength.

John LeBell, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Ouellette of Rockdale avenue, has gone to Presque Isle, Me.

A number of young people from South Peabody attended a private skating party at the Salem rink Tuesday evening.

Prospects of a playground on the Bushby field are fast disappearing, as the property has been sold to Cashman of County street.

Mrs. Edmund McLean of Exeter, N. H., visited Mrs. Jonathan Brown Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Goodwin of Beacon boulevard have a little daughter, born Wednesday.

Friends of Mrs. Hiram Bryant of County street will be glad to know that she is improving and able to be about the house again.

Miss Madeline Foley, who has been employed in the office of Cobb, Bates & Yerxa for the past year, has accepted a similar position with Almy, Bigelow & Washburn, Salem.

The Ship Rock Sewing Club met with Mrs. Georgia Raddin, Lynnfield street, Tuesday evening, and a delightful evening was spent. A letter from Freda James was read. She is a member of the club and is in Philadelphia at the present time. A bountiful supper was served by the hostess. The club will meet with Mrs. Tedford next Tuesday evening.

The Men's Club held their monthly meeting Wednesday evening at the Second Congregational church. A supper was served under the direction of the following members: F. L. Newhall, Langdon Newhall, Dr. J. F. Jordan, Russell Walker and James Norwood. Warren D. King gave an interesting talk which was followed by a general discussion on community affairs.

A large attendance was present at the spring sale and entertainment given at the Lake Shore Park church Wednesday evening. A fine entertainment was presented. Six young people gave a comedy sketch in one act entitled "Hiring a Confidential Clerk," with Mrs. Jennie Court taking the leading part. Miss Miriam Lovett, a young miss, delighted all with her readings. A musical trio entertained with several selections on cello, violin and piano, also a mixed quartet from Peabody Grange.

A food sale was held at Keith's store Wednesday afternoon in aid of the welfare committee. A substantial sum was received for the hot lunches.

The Philathea class are planning a varied entertainment for next Wednesday evening at the Lake Shore Park church. They have been fortunate in securing some outside talent which has not been heard before at this church: Mrs. Lucy Densmore, soprano soloist from Lynn; Miss Eleanor Foster, novelty singing act; Miss Gertrude Simpson, pianist; Miss Dorothy Densmore, reader; Miss Maude Fales, pianist. Mrs. Dorothy Carpenter will also supply a reader. This program ought to please a large audience. Ice cream, tonic and candy will be on sale.

William Whitteredge, Jr., of Lynn street was struck by a motor cycle and side car, operated by Fred Ayles, Saturday evening, near his home. He was rushed to Thomas hospital where it was found that his jaw was fractured in three places, also his thigh was fractured. He is still at the hospital in a semi-conscious condition, and his name is on the dangerous list.

Cooking Class Scores Success At Peabody H. S.

One of the most interesting subjects in the course of study at the high school is the domestic science, under the supervision of Miss Katherine Duggan.

The large cooking room is divided into six small kitchens, each kitchen containing a white enamel sink, a table, and a gas stove. There are four girls in each kitchen and the girls work in pairs. Each girl wears a white apron and cap. Leading from the cooking room is a small dining room, where the girls will eventually be taught to serve at table and also be taught table etiquette.

At the beginning of the period the girls are instructed as to what they are to do and given the recipe and instructions for what they are to cook. Occasionally, the instructor demonstrates what they are to do, and other times they follow the instructions of the recipe.

When the food is cooked the girls are allowed to eat it. They are cooking the foods used at different meals, and are now cooking breakfast dishes. When they have cooked enough varieties of food they will serve breakfast in the dining room.

The mothers of the girls are also very much interested in the course, and Miss Duggan has received numerous letters from them, telling of the success the girls have had following out the instructions at home. The classes have had the pleasure of receiving a few visitors, who have expressed their approval of the course.

High School Notes

"Pep," the high school paper, was issued Wednesday. This is an undergraduate number.

A senior class meeting was held in room one Wednesday noon.

AMERICAN LEGION

Post 153, American Legion, will hold another of its afternoon lectures on Sunday, when the Hon. Lewis R. Sullivan, formerly of the governor's council, will talk on capital punishment. Mr. Sullivan is well known as a wonderful talker and knows his subject, as he has witnessed executions in this state and other states, and wasn't very favorably impressed with the sights. Mr. Sullivan should have a large audience at this lecture. The officers of the Post hope that a large percentage of the ex-service men and their friends will be present.

Empire Stock Will Present Play 'Cornered'

"Cornered," Dodson Mitchell's great play, in which Madge Kennedy played all last season at the Astor theatre, New York, will be the special attraction at the Empire theatre, Salem, with the Popular Players all of next week. In securing "Cornered" for production here, Manager Rafter is presenting one of the latest Broadway releases and the greatest dual role that has been seen in years.

"Cornered" is the story of two sisters, one of whom has sunken to the dregs, while the other has been climbing upward until she has reached a prominent place in the social world. The society sister is one of a party of slummers who make a visit to Chinatown, and there, in a restaurant, the other sister is discovered. From this point the weird story starts that keeps twisting and twinging the lives of the two sisters. The sister of the dregs is finally brought to the home of the rich sister and there comes one of the most dramatic incidents that has been written in years, a turn in the story that is too good to be spoiled in the telling.

In "Cornered" Miss Kingsley, the popular leading woman, has one of the greatest opportunities of her career. On her shoulders fall the task of representing the two sisters of the story. To miss this great New York success is to miss one of the greatest dramatic entertainments that this city has been offered in years.

RAILROAD PHOTOS NOW IN DEMAND

Peabody Enterprise:—

How many readers remember the little old locomotive and cars we used to see rolling on the railroad? What a contrast they were to the monster engines and steel cars of today!

Some of the lovers of the old time rolling stock have formed a society to preserve old amrotypes, daguerrotypes, photographs, lithographs, time tables and anything that pertains to transportation in the old days. Have any of the readers of this article any photographs of old locomotives or cars laid away up in the attic? The Railway and Locomotive Historical Society wants to preserve these photographs and this material and will gladly welcome any contributions. Due credit will be given the donator and the Society will gladly pay any postage or express charges.

The Society will gladly welcome to its membership anyone who is interested in the subject of early transportation in any of its phases. The bulletins frequently issued by the Society contain much material of great interest and value and it is possible to obtain them without joining, but railroad men, whether young, middle age or retired are welcome as well as those not in railroad service but who are interested in the early railroad transportation of this country.

Further information can be obtained from Chas. E. Fisher, 152 Harvard Street, Suite 8, Brookline, or from John W. Merrill, Director, 40 Kilby Street, Boston.

Night School Closes Session

The evening school classes, with the exception of the class in citizenship, closed last Friday evening, after a 20-week term. The classes have been unusually large and well attended, and the work has reflected much credit on Miss Katherine Logan, supervisor, and her corps of teachers.

The following nations were represented in the schools: Armenia, Austria, Canada, Finland, Greece, Germany, Ireland, Italy, Lithuania, Spain, Turkey and the United States.

Appropriate exercises were held in all the schools, and certificates were awarded to 132 men and 15 women who attended the evening classes, and to 36 men who attended the factory classes.

Strand Theatre To Screen Film Starring Popular House Peters--- Rudolph Valentino Here Monday

The latest picture from the pen of Katherine Newlin Burt, whose previous story "Snowblind" was accorded a fine reception, is "The Man from Lost River," with House Peters as the starring player. Like her previous tales, Mrs. Burt's latest photoplay has the west for its setting. The story tells of the triumph of a strong foreman of a lumber camp over a weak but charming character who settles in the community. The heroine is at first dazzled over the glibness of the new arrival. And until a time of crisis, she is unaware of the sterling qualities that exist beneath the stern exterior of the man who can control men, but is helpless in the presence of women. House Peters, as the foreman, a real actor and not a poser, plays the part of the gang boss; the girl in the story is impersonated by Fritzi Brunette, and the other players in the cast are well known artists. Most of the scenes were taken on a government forest reservation. As the title indicates, it is a story of strong men and their work; of rushing waters, great timber and red-shirted lumber jacks. The backgrounds are really out of the ordinary as, in fact, is the production itself. One of the funny Toonerville Trolley comedies entitled "Toonerville Tactics" and Eddie Polo in a thrilling chapter of his serial play, "The Secret Four," are the other attractions for today.

Alice Terry, famed as one of the stars of the "Four Horsemen," will appear at the local playhouse Sunday evening in a Metro attraction, "Hearts Are Trumps." Supporting Miss Terry are to be seen Francela Billington, Winter Hall and Joseph Kilgour. Robert Herron in "Coincidence" is the second feature for Sunday evening.

Fighting on the fore top of a schooner with the vessel rolling and pitching and the mast swaying, is no pleasant job, according to Rodolph Valentino, playing the leading male role and Walter Long, the villainous captain of the hell-ship, in "Moran of the Lady Letty," a Paramount special feature, which will be the attraction for Monday and Tuesday.

The fight scenes were filmed aboard the ship San Francisco Bay. The two men were at least sixty feet above the deck. The fight started on the deck and continued up the rigging until they reached the fore top. From there they fought out to the end of a spar. After a final struggle the villain drops into the ocean. For this latter shot, a camera was lashed to another spar, and thus a close-up view of the knockout punch and the fall was obtained.

"Moran of the Lady Letty" is a George Melford production, who will be remembered as the director of "The Sheik." The cast is headed by Rudolph Valentino, Dorothy Dalton and Walter Long. It is one of the most successful Paramount pictures of the year and has been playing to packed houses everywhere. A comedy film and the News Weekly will be shown in addition to the feature.

Rebekahs Will Observe 34th Anniversary

Starlight Rebekah Lodge will celebrate its thirty-fourth anniversary next Monday evening. The lodge will have as its guests: Grand Master of the Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F. of Massachusetts William S. Barker and Grand Marshal Albert W. Bullock and ladies, President of the Rebekah Assembly of Massachusetts Mrs. Lillian A. Barrett, Vice President Mrs. Frances E. Douglass and the Marshal, Mrs. Mary J. Cloutman and escorts, Grand Patriarch of the Grand Encampment, I. O. O. F., of Massachusetts Frank T. Taylor and Marshal Frank L. Bennett and ladies, Department Commander of the Patriarch Militant, I. O. O. F., of Massachusetts Brig. Gen. Herbert B. Bond and Major L. C. Bruce, adj., and ladies, the Noble and Vice Grands of Union Rebekah Lodge of Salem, the Noble and Vice Grands of Friendship Rebekah Lodge of Beverly, the Noble and Vice Grands of Beulah Lodge of Lynn.

Mrs. Elsie Barker, past president of the Rebekah Assembly, and Past Grand Master Samuel K. Walker will be present with the guests, also Deputy President Mrs. Sadie A. Rainford and Marshal Mrs. Mabel A. Walker and escorts.

Misses Ratcliff and Wilson and Mr. Riddle of Peabody and Carl Beal of Beverly will furnish music for the evening. There will be dancing by Miss Irma Goodwin of Peabody.

Supper will be served at 6.30 before the work of the evening.

Odd Fellows and ladies are invited to the entertainment which follows a short meeting.

'Foolish Wives' At the Federal

Much heralded and widely acclaimed as a tremendous and opulently endowed photoplay, "Foolish Wives" will begin an engagement at the Federal theatre, Salem, Monday, and will continue for the entire week.

It is announced as an extravagant picturization of life and adventure at Monte Carlo, the world-famed institution of chance in which so much of romance, intrigue and tragedy is centered that it forms a fitting locality for the placing of a powerful drama.

Erich Von Stroheim, well known in the picture world as an actor who has so highly specialized the playing of villain roles that he has richly capitalized the applied expression, "the man you will love to hate," wrote the story, directed the production and acted the leading role. He impersonates a Russian adventurer, a parasite and ruthless, predatory human wolf, which through his playing reveals the character as one of the most despicable of beings.

His victims are the women drawn to the great pleasure center who are attracted by the polished manner and effrontery common to the continental arrogant noble. In fact, so bizarre and extreme are his methods and exquisite his depravities as portrayed by Von Stroheim that humor runs in hand with dismay as he is viewed in the picturing.

The supporting company is one of special excellence. Maude George and Mae Busch are seen in the roles of two adventuresses and Miss Dupont as the frivolous American wife. Others are Rudolph Christians, Dale Fuller, Caesare Gravina and Malveen Polo.

Richness of settings abound in the production, and they are said to be ample testament to the claim of its producers, the Universal Film Company, that more than $1,000,000 was spent in its making. There are some scenes in which great crowds appear in and about the famed Monte Carlo Casino that are said to be the most lavish ever pictured in a photoplay.

SALEM LAUNDRY

American Legion

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold a sale of home-cooked food on next Saturday. The Parke Snow Co., who have generously helped in the past, have again come to the fore and offered the use of their store for this sale. The Auxiliary claims to have the champion bread and cake makers within their ranks and they are out to demonstrate this fact on next Saturday. All donations will be received at the Parke Snow store after 9 a. m., but as there will not be any one there to receive them before that time, the members are requested not to send them earlier. The committee are endeavoring to get in touch with all members and friends in order to solicit a donation, but the time is so short, that they will be unable to reach all, consequently they would greatly appreciate it if any person who would like to help their cause, the cause of the disabled soldier, would send a donation to the Parke Snow store.

The members of the American Legion and Legion Auxiliary visited the Danvers hospital last Sunday. Two busses and six machines conveyed the party to and from the hospital. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Veta Brown, Mrs. Teresa Broderick, William Mahoney, Arthur Conroy, George Gillis, Matt Keefe and Thomas McLaughlin. They were accompanied by Miss Margaret Griffin. Rev. R. A. Bakeman gave a short, interesting address to the boys, and following this, boxes containing fruit, candy, homemade cakes and smokes were distributed to the boys.

Since the last visit of the Auxiliary, three of the service boys have been discharged, fully recovered, and a number of those still being cared for as patients are to be discharged shortly. All the boys told of being well treated and well cared for, and were loud in their praises of Dr. McDonald and his assistants.

Herbert Small, William F. Carlin, James Cronin and John Jackman donated their machines to carry some of the party.

Fourteen states already have refused financial assistance to the move for a George Washington and World War Memorial building in Washington, D. C., and 16 other states will follow suit, according to the American Legion's legislative committee. The Legion opposes construction of the elaborate memorial at a time when thousands of ex-service men are jobless and in need.

Department of Justice operatives and the American Legion rounding up bogus army uniform wearers in Chicago, picked up a self-admitted outstanding hero of the war. Investigation showed he had evaded registration for the draft. He was wearing, however, insignia of the 77th Division, stripes of a master sergeant, service and wound chevrons, marksmanship medals and American and foreign decorations.

New York will be the first state to give cash compensation to disabled, unemployed ex-service men. A fund of $1,000,000 will be appropriated by the legislature, Gov. Miller has assured the American Legion, fostering the bill. Only sick or wounded men who have been out of work for 30 days will benefit.

Citizenship clubs for the benefit of young people for the discussion of current issues of the day will be formed by the American Legion Auxiliary in 4,500 communities in every state. Local units of the Auxiliary will sponsor the community clubs.

* * *

A proposal that the Government issue a representative coin or a bill of small denomination bearing a typical American soldier's head has been made to the American Legion of Massachusetts. The coin in honor of the soldiers of '18 would be known as the "Doughboy Dollar."

Walnut St. Has New Dept. Store

The Peabody Novelty Department store, the leading emporium on Walnut street for the past ten years, will formally open its attractive new store at 66 Walnut street tomorrow. Its clerks are today putting in the final touches on the new stock and everything is made ready for the big event. The new store is opposite the Turner Tanning Machinery Co. plant and its appointments for a general store make it one of the best in the city.

Four partners, headed by John P. Souvaldzis, a war veteran and American citizen, are banded together in the new store. The other partners are N. Avdzilakis, S. Zachariou and Peter Eliopoulos, all well known residents of Peabody, and all are hustlers. They plan to make their store one of the best in Peabody.

Plans for an addition to their new store are already being made to permit of adding new departments. New showcases and fixtures, including drop lights, make the store ideal for its new business.

Mrs. Thomas F. Ryan of Plymouth is the guest of her sister, Miss Cora A. Penniman on Sutton street.

WAS GEORGE WASHINGTON BLED TO DEATH?

Doctors Disagree

Washington died from a complication of diseases which seem to have ended in what is now called Pneumonia. Good birth and a clean and vigorous outdoor life had made a fine specimen of manhood of "the Father of our Country." Physicians have long discussed the true reasons of Washington's death.

Senna and a few other cathartics have been used since ancient times. But during the earlier years of American history the doctors were in the habit of opening a vein and letting out blood in the treatment of fevers and every ill that led to fevers, such as indigestion, constipation, colds, nervousness, and, in fact, most of the ills of man. As it is known that Washington was freely bled by the doctors, there are many physicians who believe that he might have lived many years longer if he had received different treatment.

It is true that bleeding will quickly reduce a fever, but so will a strong cathartic. In fact, when the custom of bleeding passed, "the cathartic habit" rapidly took its place. Today the general use of powerful cathartics is doing many times more harm than bleeding ever did

Strangely enough there always have been pure and mild medicines that made the use of bleeding or cathartics almost unnecessary.

For example, consider Sanalt. It is a hundred years since Doctor Osgood of Boston commenced to give it to his patients. Doctor Osgood married into the Wilson family of druggists who compounded the Sanalt for him, and so practically one family has been making it for a hundred years.

Throughout all this time prominent physicians of New England have been prescribing Sanalt for impoverished blood or anemia, and for all that causes or is caused by poor blood, such as boils and other painful or disfiguring sores, indigestion and most forms of stomach trouble, constipation, torpid liver, kidney affections, and general debility.

Sanalt is a reconstructive tonic. It does not FORCE the bowels to act, but it stimulates and so strengthens the blood and all the organs that they, after short treatment, act naturally, vigorously and pleasantly.

A good description of what Sanalt will do is to be found in the following letter, written by Mrs. G. C. Bateson, who has spent all her life in Pawtucket, R. I. She resides at 114 Mineral Springs Ave.

"I had been slowly failing for two years. The doctor said it was general decline. I was weak, depressed and terribly nervous. The troubles that led up to this condition were indigestion and constipation resulting in poor blood, hemorrhoids, gas in stomach, backache, headaches and dizziness. I was close to a complete breakdown. The medicines I took, including cathartics, only seemed to make my troubles worse. When I was just about ready to give up, Druggist Gill suggested that I try Sanalt. He praised it very highly and said if I was not perfectly satisfied he would return my money.

"The result of two bottles of Sanalt was astonishing. To put it in a few words, they practically made me well. All my organs acted right, my aches and pains left me, my complexion improved and I am convinced that Sanalt the Sensible Tonic is a truly wonderful remedy."

Farmers' Day at Essex Aggie Proved Most Instructive Day

Over 1000 guests attended Farmers' day at the school on Thursday, March 16th. They found much to study and enjoy in the speaking program and the exhibits.

In the 30 ear class tested for germination, Andrew S. Longfellow of Groveland took the sweep-stakes prize. His corn germinated 100%, a record which he has held for three years. He also won the 10-ear class. Hazel Albertson of West Newbury made a very creditable showing. Elbridge Noyes of Newbury was the largest prize winner, having taken six prizes in four classes.

The girls of the homemaking department demonstrated some simple ways of making plackets, seams and the finishing of undergarments, which were greatly appreciated by many women of the county who attended the meeting.

Notes

On Farmers' day, Miss Ethel Browne, head of the sewing department, gave a very instructive and interesting talk on spring millinery, to an audience of over two hundred women.

At a recent meeting of the Athletic Association, it was voted to award 'varsity "E's" to the girls who have played on the basketball team during the season.

The basketball team of the girls' department will play Lawrence at Lawrence Y. W. C. A. on March 28th.

Seasonable Notes

Grape vines should be pruned at once. If this operation is delayed serious results may follow from bleeding, which attends late pruning.

The dormant lime sulphur spray in addition to destroying scale and disease often destroys egg clusters like tent caterpillar and tussock moth.

Farmers will secure good returns by testing their seed. A little work now may save great loss later. Write us if you need assistance along this line.

The practice of burning over grassland and lawns should be discouraged. It is very wasteful of plant food and is not attended by good results.

West Peabody

West Peabody has a real fire whistle when it is working properly. Howard Johnson says that he can hear the whistle plainly at the Essex Sanitarium, where he is a patient.

At the next Grange meeting, April 7th, the lecturer hopes to have a program of practical interest to everybody. West Peabody is essentially a farming community. It is a fact to be proud of. For many years West Peabody farmers have help feed the inhabitants of Peabody, Salem, Lynn, and Boston. The topic of the meeting will be: "What is the most profitable crop to be raised in West Peabody?" Papers will be read by various members who have made money on different crops. There will be other items of interest.

In order to accommodate the inspecting deputy, the dates for the Grange degrees have been changed to May 5th, first and second degrees; May 19th, third and fourth degrees. The May 19th program will be given on April 21st.

The Rev. Robert A. Bakeman, pastor of the South Peabody church, will speak at the West church next Sunday at 7 p. m. He will exchange pulpits with the Rev. Natt Scott, pastor of the West Congregational church. This is the first opportunity that West Peabody citizens have had to hear him. The W. P. Y. P. S. C. E cordially invites everybody to attend this service. Note the hour.

The members of the West Peabody Playground Association met with the playground commission at the City Hall Thursday evening. Plans for the coming year were discussed.

Anybody who would like to be visited by the Christian Endeavor chorus and orchestra may communicate with Mrs. Lewis A. Felt, chairman of the flower committee. Any person who does not attend church for the lack of transportation is invited to communicate with Everett E. White.

West Peabody has been for several years without a resident pastor, and the community has suffered as a consequence. It is with unusual interest that the citizens are looking forward to the occupancy of the parsonage by the Rev. Natt Scott and his bride sometime the first of April. Steps are being taken to improve the interior of the parsonage and the citizens are contributing generously to the fund for the installation of electric lights. Gus. L. Fisher will do the wiring at cost. Any contributions may be mailed or given to Mrs. Lewis Felt, or Mrs. William B. Moore.

Mrs. Valentine Evans has been ill with the grippe at the home of her parents on Goodale street the past week.

Miss Louise Small is confined to her home on Lowell street with illness.

Walter Southwick is ill at his home on Newbury street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Young are receiving congratulations over the birth of a son, John, born at the J. B. Thomas hospital, March 18, 1922.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kiley are receiving congratulations over the birth of a son.

The measles seem to be having their run with the children at the West school just at present. Among the unfortunate are Stewart Whitehouse, Robert Hadley, the Misses Constance Nichols, Dorothy Poor, Ruth Brooks, Ruth Leach, Phylis MacDonald and Blanche Martin.

Miss Lizzie Roberts is spending a few days with Mrs. Oscar Goodale on Goodale street.

The postponed drama, "Engaging Janet," will be held at the schoolhouse hall, Wednesday, March 29th, at 8 o'clock.

PEABODY HEBREW SCHOOL

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Peabody Hebrew school will hold a whist party and dance Monday evening, April 17, in Levine hall.

Pool licenses may be limited strictly to clubrooms this year, if the temper of the Council holds.

The Council voted 6 to 4 to suspend action on two applications last night and the committee will make an inspection of the places now used as poolrooms. Councillor Duggan declared the poolrooms breeding nests for corruption of our youths. Many will agree he is right.

Robert B. Tanch, for over 25 years a city laborer, was granted a pension by vote of the Council. Councillors McKeen and Craig were opposed to civil pensions.

Granite street residents will get water service extended if Mayor Shea includes more money in his budget.

The ordinance placing the garage under Chief Grady was carried 6 to 3. Messrs. Jones, Barry and Duggan voted against.

The vote sending back to the Mayor his recommendation to increase the salary of Commissioner Fyfe found Messrs. Jones, Cullen and Sullivan in favor of the increase.

Chief engineer P. J. Conroy of the pumping station explained the break of the old pump to the Council last night. It was his maiden speech and he appeared right at home. An attempt to heckle him fell flat.

Councillor Barnes plant manager at the L. B. Southwick Co. drew the name of his colleague Ernest Dodge for jury duty in Salem next month. John J. Dunney and Michael J. Sweeney 2d of 9 Harris street were also chosen as jurors.

The Council requested the City Engineer to submit a list of employes together with cost of salaries for last year. Another vote of the Council last night will give the people a chance to say if a purchasing agent may be appointed by the Mayor in 1923.

Councillor Barnes got in a motion to have James street renumbered. Councillor Craig asked to be a committee of one to wait upon the city engineer and hurry that official in erecting memorial signs to deceased veterans on streets named in their honor.

'MY IRISH ROSE' AT T. B. HOSPITAL

The drama committee of Division 11, A. O. H., are making arrangements to have their recent play, "My Irish Rose," presented at the Essex Sanitorium, Middleton, next Wednesday evening, and a rehearsal of the cast will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The play was one of the best ever given locally and the committee and members of the cast are to be commended on their thoughtfulness in repeating it for the benefit of the inmates of the sanitorium, many of whom are ex-soldiers. A meeting of the committee will be held this evening after church services to complete final arrangements. The music on Wednesday evening will be furnished by Edward Carbrey.

WHIST TO BENEFIT COMMUNITY HOUSE

A whist party and food sale will be held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, next Tuesday afternoon, the proceeds of which will be given to the Peabody Community House. Mrs. William Lambert and Mrs. Ralph Kelley are in charge of the affair, which promises to be one of the most enjoyable of the matinee whists held this season. Mrs. Grace Low will have direct charge of the food sale and Mrs. Gertrude Hanson will preside over the refreshments.

The list of patronesses: Mrs. George Millett, Mrs. John Meagher, Mrs. Lyman Osborn, Mrs. Clarence Barnes, Mrs. Daniel Conroy, Mrs. Daniel Poor, Mrs. Albert Galloupe, Mrs. Aaron Strauss, Mrs. J. Ben Palmer, Mrs. Howard Spaulding, Mrs. William Irving, Mrs. George Underwood, Mrs. Ernest Porter, Mrs. Charles Cassidy, Mrs. Newell Penniman, Mrs. Arthur Millea, Mrs. Felix Carr.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dullea are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son at the Thomas hospital.

Alden F. Quirk the popular singer better known as "Ollie", has entered the employ of Shulte's tobacco store in Town House Square, Salem.

Judge and Mrs. W. H. Fay leave Monday for a ten day trip to Washington, Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Francis Reardon, Jr., of Providence, were the week-end guests of Miss Louise Ellis of Franklin street. Mrs. Reardon was Miss Esther Gallagher formerly of this city.

BASEBALL COACH

Martin Donovan will again be chosen baseball coach for Peabody high at the meeting of the athletic advisory board of the Peabody high school tomorrow evening.

OF INTEREST TO BOND HOLDERS

The Warren National bank calls the attention of owners of bonds to the fact that after April 1st the present forms of ownership certificates cannot be filed with coupons, but the revised forms will be required by the government.

The bank has a supply of the new forms.

On and after April 1st, corporations owning bonds will not be required to fill out ownership certificates with their coupons.

IN MEMORIAM

In fond remembrance of Hildaguarde M. Cowan, who died at Centerville, N. B., March 16, 1921.

One bud the garden gave us—One pure and lovely girl.
He gave her to our keeping, to cherish, love and guide.
Just as the bud was opening to the glory of the day,
Down came our Heavenly Father and took our flower away.

FELTON BEFORE ROTARY CLUB

Establishment of a Bank of the United States in Europe would go a long ways to bringing about the better world business, declared William S. Felton of Salem before the members of the Peabody Rotary Club last Tuesday. He complimented the Co-operative banks as one of the best means of promoting thrift among the American people. His address had to do with the banking system in America and he gave a splendid talk. He is a former member of the Salem Rotary Club and ought to be back in the fold.

Peabody Rotarians who go to Hartford today for the New England convention of Rotary Clubs are George A. Blaney, George S. Curtis, Charles C. Hills, John W. Power and Frank W. Penniman. Harry Tetzlaff will accompany the delegates from Peabody. The Bond hotel will be the place of the convention. Gov. Lake will welcome the delegates and prominent Rotarians will be the speakers. Judge Robert W. Hill of Salem is being boomed for the next district governor.

* * *

Rep. McVann will be the speaker before the Rotary Club next Tuesday. A motion to change the by-laws which will allow the members to elect all of their officers will be introduced. Another important item of business for the members next Tuesday is to discuss the budget system for the ensuing year.

* * *

Raymond E. Porter will give a short talk on Rotary Clubs in the south.

TAKE WEIGHTS OF SCHOOL PUPILS

A new plan, namely that of weighing the children, has been recently introduced in the public schools of this city. The purpose of this movement is to keep the parents informed of the health of the child. This attempt will bring about the improvement of the health conditions among the school children. The benefits that will be derived from this practice are evident.

What is more essential to the happiness of a child than health and vigor? What is more essential to an alert mind than a healthy body? How can we have a sound body? By being carefully and properly nourished. It is to the undernourished that the parents of this city must give their particular attention.

The health record is to accompany the report of scholarship which is sent home every two months. On the back of this health card is a list of health regulations which should be carefully noted. These rules are not to be glanced over and casually set aside but to be studied so that the parents may teach the child to form the habit of healthy living. The success of this movement has met with much favor.

BOWLING TOURNAMENT

There always has been a dispute at this time of the bowling season as to who was Peabody's best bowler, and in order to produce the champ a ten-string tournament has been arranged and will start Monday, March 27, at Manning's alleys.

Next Friday afternoon the members of the Corps will conduct a whist party in the G. A. R. hall.

LOWELL STREET

On the occasion of the fifteenth birthday of Nathalie Lane, she was tendered an anniversary dinner at the home of Helen Tucker on Chestnut street. The party included a number of young friends of Miss Lane and the doctor and his wife acted as host and hostess.

Wellesley College has announced the academic honor of the senior and junior classes and among the students awarded the Durant scholarships are Miss Helen H. Chain as a senior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Chain, now of Melrose, and Miss Marguerita Forbes, as a junior, daughter of the former Marguerita Cassino, a Peabody girl and a Peabody high school graduate of '95.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Griffin of Franklin street attended a reunion of the Danvers high school class of 1882 held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Rowe at Winchester last Friday. The occasion marked the 40th anniversary of Mr. Griffin's graduation with that class.

Neighbors of William (Joe) Macdonald are inclined to think that the jury in the trial of his recent case were not over liberal in making their award. The ordeal that he went through during one of the hottest summers ever remembered and the suffering he was compelled to endure, seem little compensated for by the tender of an amount covering only his bare expenses. His case was a strange one and was ably presented by District Attorney Donnell.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Woodman and family of Newton Centre spent the week-end with the former's parents of King street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Hunt, together with the former's youngest son and Leonard, a student at Dummer academy, left the city early this week for a vacation in Bermuda.

Mrs. R. A. Macdonald is recovering at her home from an operation for the removal of an impacted wisdom tooth, performed late last week by Dr. H. I. Yale. The operation was a serious one, involving the removal of a portion of the jaw-bone. Mrs. Macdonald has suffered for a number of months from what was assured to be neuralgia until the X-ray disclosed the necessity of the operation.

Garrett Nagle of Basford's court is able to be out and about after recovering from his recent indisposition.

GARDEN LOTS

Applications for home garden lots will be received by the park commission after April 1. Many citizens will be glad to learn that the policy adopted several years ago of allotting plant space to citizens for the purpose of raising garden produce for their home use, will be continued again this season. There are about 200 lots available for gardens, each lot measuring approximately 50 by 100 feet. The lots are located in three different sections of the city as follows: Off Lynn street, at Perkins Park and off Lowell street.

CITY OF PEABODY

Office of the City Engineer
Peabody, Mass., March 24, 1922.

Sealed bids or proposals for the furnishing of road oil and tar products will be received at the Office of the City Engineer until 4:30 P. M., Friday April 7, 1922, and at that time and place will be publicly opened and read.

The City of Peabody reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

FRANK EMERSON,
City Engineer.

WILL THERE BE A COAL STRIKE?

We believe that on April 1, the Anthracite coal miners will strike to enforce their demands in relation to a new working schedule.

Owing to the attitude of the operators on this question we cannot see anything but a long struggle, lasting possibly four or five months.

We think it good judgment for you to lay in at least one-half of your next season's requirements for the following reasons:

1st. A coal strike of even a comparatively short duration would cause a serious shortage in the fall.

2nd. A shortage later would make it necessary to resort to the coal rationing plan which we all know is a poor substitute for a full coal bin.

3rd. We anticipate an enormous demand for coal upon the termination of the strike and coal shipped under these conditions cannot be expected to be as well prepared as normally.

4th. We do not look for any reduction in freight rates which would materially lower the price of coal to the consumer before the early part of 1923.

The present cash price for coal is $15.00 per ton.

May Festival To Have Many New Features

Plans for the annual May festival of the Peabody Community House are being formulated and it is safe to assume that this year's affair will be even more successful than any previously held. Mrs. Mabeth Lambert, under whose direction the affair will be given, has already appointed the chairmen of the various committees and each church in the city will be represented, as well as many of the local organizations. The following women have charge of the booths: South church—Mrs. S. Chase Tucker, chairman, flower booth. Universalist church—Mrs. Minot Crehore, cake table. Unitarian church—Miss Frances Porter, basket table. Episcopal church—Mrs. Harry Pyne, tea room. Baptist church—Miss Mabel King, pop corn table. St. John's church—Mrs. Charles Cassidy, miscellaneous table. Woman's Club—Mrs. Dora Russell, household table. Girl Scouts—Miss Amy Merrill, grab bag. Red Cross—Mrs. George Millett, ice cream booth. American Legion—Mrs. Frank Bomer, punch booth. Campfire—Mrs. Sadie Porter, candy booth.

Thursday afternoon was mothers' afternoon in the boys' department of the Community House. All the mothers of the boys in the afternoon classes were invited to see a short exhibition in the gymnasium and afterwards to visit the game and class rooms in the house.

Despite the coming of warm weather basketball continues to be as popular as ever. The Crescents, Orientals, Orioles, Elm Celtics and Dublin Dodgers are still going strong and making good showings. The first team defeated the Beverly Y. M. C. A. a week ago in a fast game and will play again at Beverly Saturday night. A smaller team made up of sub-freshmen will play in the afternoon at the Fire Chief's Auto Barely Averts Crash

Editor Enterprise:

Kindly allow me space in your columns for the following. Last Sunday about one o'clock p. m. I was a witness of what nearly proved to be a disastrous collision due to the reckless driving of the fire chief's auto car and the inefficiency of the traffic officer on duty in the square. A touring car bearing a New Hampshire number plate was coming down Central street from Danvers, travelling at a very low rate of speed, the driver obeying all rules and regulations of the road. Upon reaching the corner of Lowell and Central streets and without any warning (for no alarm had been sounded) he was met by the Chief's car which came racing down Lowell street at terrific speed. Nothing but a miracle and the clever handling of both machines prevented a collision. The traffic officer seeing the New Hampshire plate and evidently taking the occupants to be "farmers" proceeded to inquire as to their knowledge of fire regulations, never realizing that he, alone, was to blame for not stopping all traffic while the apparatus was passing. It is common talk and it appears to be about time to put a check on such unnecessary racing of the Chief's car which greatly endangers the public. The installation of a fire signal in the square such as other cities have would less endanger travel at our bad corners. It doesn't boost our city any to have it carried out of the state, that in Peabody, some times the fire alarm blows and some times it doesn't.

GRANGE DEGREE TEAM

The ladies' degree team of Peabody Grange put on the floor work at the East Lynn Improvement Association hall last night as a preliminary to instituting a new Grange in that district. A delegation of 40 went from Peabody to witness the floor work. Danvers and Beverly sent a large number. Mrs. Carl Ricker was the degree master.

PEABODY TO WITNESS HOT FIGHT FOR MAYOR

There is every indication that the Peabody voters will find a number of new candidates for the Mayoralty at the next city primaries, and already some of the office seekers are making hay despite the final spurt of Old Boreas with his April 1 snow.

While no official declaration is yet announced by the several men said to be seeking the toga of Mayor Shea, it is a known fact that activity in behalf of various men mentioned is being waged in their interests and not all of the action is confined to supporters.

Rev. Robert A. Bakeman is said to be shying at the Mayoralty fight. Former Councillor Walter H. Brown is being urged to jump in. City Auditor William F. Goggin is being hailed as Mayoralty timber, and Councillor Henry Duggan, who heads the anti-Shea machine at City Hall, is said to be in earnest.

Last, but not least, is Mayor Shea himself, who will be a candidate for re-election. His friends point to his 1922 budget as proof that he has done his utmost to keep the tax rate down. So good a job has he appeared to have done with the pruning knife that the City Council will waste no long hours cutting if the departments are to function at all.

Ex-Councillor Walter H. Brown, who represented Ward 6 in the city government, is said to be the dark horse in the making. His duties as deputy sheriff give him a splendid op-

Peabody Leather Plants Protest Duty On Hides--- Patent Finish Has Call

(By ENERGY)

The duty on hides is one of the big barometers of the leather business. There is raised in this country about 50 percent of the consumption. The other 50 percent must come from foreign countries and with a duty will cost duty extra. It may be such hides can be sold duty added and then compete with domestic stock. With extra freight rates this does not seem possible.

* * *

The Shoe and Leather Reporter says: —"The attempt to make it appear that American hides and skins are neglected while imported hides and skins are being tanned in large quantities, will not fool the office boy in any establishment connected with our industry. The shrinkage in the imports of foreign hides and skins is shown by the official reports of the U. S. department of commerce. There is no antagonism between foreign and domestic hides and skins. The notion that domestic horsehides are unable to compete with imported goatskins is preposterous nonsense. There is such a thing as colt kid, but that is made from imported raw material not obtainable at any price in this market."

They continue by saying "The folly of this attempt to create sympathy for the proposed tariff on 15 percent on cattle hides by printing twaddle about goatskins, horse hides and calfskins, it may be exclaimed that the new revenue law as recently reported out of the finance committee of the Senate, while taxing hides, leaves goatskins, calfskins and horsehides still on the free list."

* * *

When one looks over the situation which applies to duties on everything we import, it appears plain that politics enter into it to the extent that all will be governed by the pressure brought to bear. Our representatives in Congress are governed by the section they come from, and regardless of whether a tariff on hides will help or hurt the industry in general, they will vote as is the feelings of a majority of their constituents. Our country is so big, interests in one section are opposite those in another. Placing a duty on hides and not on other kinds of skins appears to me as being wrong. Any duty will handicap the tanner so as to produce cheap leather, for prices of raw material largely governs the cost of leather. Large leather interests are planning to keep the duty off of hides, but they are confronted by the packing interests and a merry fight is on.

Styles of shoes for women this summer point to low cuts, and with high cuts of colors to match their stockings. I presume the style will continue to show their stockings, and all are used to it by this time. It is presumed the rest of the body except the chest will be covered, so we are thankful for even that. Some one is making what he calls a Russian shoe or boot which sells for $32.00 for two. I have not seen any of these boots in the local store windows, and if one should appear, it strikes me a committee of downcast husbands should club together and purchase any or all of such shoes before the wives "lamp" them. There is little said in the trade papers as to what men will wear this summer. After the $32.00 shoe, he will no doubt take anything offered, and get trusted at that. High shoes will be his best bet, for he could get along without stockings, or use the tops only. Pretty tough on us men.

Business is dull. The leather business duller. The tanner dullest. He cannot seem to accustom himself to the business of the last two years. His pocketbook is growing as thin as the Russian peasants. He is hoping. Hoping that somebody will come along who wants leather and in quantity. The price must be right so that the new dollar will be worth more than the old one. It's nothing new for him to want business. During war times his factory was not large enough, but alas now, space to let. We have tried to be optimistic, and I continue that way, but today there is darkness, and what will happen all can guess.

Market reports tell us that patent leather continues in good demand. I imagine much of this leather is going abroad. But for this demand, there would be a big curtailment in beamhouse work. I am told the National Calfskin Co. will run but three days each week in the beamhouse, which means later in the departments following. Specialties such as white and colored ooze are in demand, but most staple lines are quiet. Sheep leather is especially so, and when a few months ago there appeared to be a start in this line, it has slacked off. After such a depression as we are experiencing, prices lag. If Congress places a duty on hides, it means higher cost leather. Some one has suggested we tan our hides in Canada, in order to sell the leather. Business is bad enough without making it more so by a duty on hides, but it is evident the senators care little for leather even if they do wear shoes. They are cheap compared with rents in Washington, no matter what happens.

Empire Players Should Go Big In 'Over The Hill'

One of the great epoch making dramas of many years is the wonderful dramatization of Will Carleton's famous poems which has at last reached the speaking stage and which is the powerful vehicle chosen for presentation by the popular players at the Empire theatre all of next week.

Founded upon the famous poems by Will Carleton, this simple story of the devotion of a mother for her children in spite of the trials and tribulations to which they subject her, is one of the most appealing and lovable stories that has ever been dramatized. The spoke version of the famous poems will be staged here under the direction of director Al Luttringer and the settings will be unusual even for an Empire theatre production and patrons of this popular playhouse know what that will mean as the Empire stage productions are always a standard and widely and favorably known and commented upon wherever stock productions are presented.

"Over The Hill" has always relied for its great strength with the public upon the simple theme and plain story of a mother and her family whom she rears and protects. There is no suggestion of massive effects, no crowds—nothing but the simple, thrilling and powerful story that touches the hearts of all humanity and brings everyone to realize the love and affection with which a mother's memory should always be revered. "Over The Hill" is a play with a message, the type of play that sends a young man home to write that love letter to his mother, or to carry her a bunch of violets, or to send her a larger check than usual, or to rush in upon her with a hug and a kiss and an appreciation which she longs for. It is a play that should be seen by every one regardless of sex, creed or class, it is impressive, its assault upon the emotions is sweeping and it comes close to the heartstrings of anyone that has a heart.

Anticipating unusaully large audiences the management suggests the desirability of patrons procuring their seats well in advance to avoid disappointment.

Punch First Made in East Indies.

Punch, it is said, came from the East Indies, and the name is claimed to be derived from the Sanskrit word meaning "five," on account of its five ingredients—rum, tea, sugar, lemon and hot water.

Joseph E. Noyes Will Direct Peabody Rotary Club May 1

Joseph E. Noyes, superintendent of the Thayer-Foss Co. leather plant, will become the next president of the Peabody Rotary Club, taking office the first meeting in May. His nomination, unopposed, occurred at the general meeting this week. He is held in popular esteem by the Rotarians and during his membership has been among the most active workers to promote the good of the organization in Peabody. He is a graduate of Tufts College and enjoys an enviable reputation among the leather trade as an expert in production of patent leather. He is married and resides on Lowell street beyond Proctor's Crossing; where his estate commands a wonderful view of the surrounding country. He was one of the club's delegates to the Poland Springs, Me., conclave last fall and met many of the Rotarians.

JUDGE ROBERT W. HILL
New District Governor

George A. Blaney was nominated for vice-president. John W. Power was nominated for treasurer and Rogers Crehore, secretary, to succeed Don G. Roby, who is to change his place of business outside the city. The latter will retain his Rotary membership here for the balance of the year.

George S. Curtis and Albert P. Ames were nominated directors, and these two, together with the abovenamed officers and past president, will comprise the new board of directors. The local club looks forward to a program of work which will merit the co-operation of all the members. Boys work will be a big feature, as last year.

Peabody Rotarians are pleased at the choice of Judge Robert W. Hill of Salem for the next district governor of the New England clubs. The conference at Hartford last week gave him an uncontested nomination, and his election will be made at the Los Angeles convention in June.

Peabody High School

The Spanish pupils under the supervision of Miss Broadbine have organized a Spanish club. A meeting was held Monday noon, and the following officers were elected: President, Frank Dennis; vice-president, Evelyn Hall; secretary, Florence Hollingsworth; treasurer, Theresa Doherty. A Spanish club is a new feature at the high school and this one promises to be a success.

Students taking French have received a number of letters from France and are finding them very interesting. They are learning much about athletics and the social life of France.

The senior class held a meeting on March 22 to make plans for the class play, select the class photographer, and decide on the size and color of the class pictures. Mr. Moody of Salem was chosen for the photographer. A vote was taken to decide whether anyone, not a member of the class, should be invited to the banquet, and it was decided in the negative. A committee was appointed to choose and help to conduct the play, "Line's Busy," a two-act comedy, was chosen by the committee, and will be directed by Miss Wollohan and Miss Bierne. It will be held in City Hall, probably during the middle of May. The exact date has not yet been decided upon. Dancing will follow.

Miss Mary Barry substituted for Miss Towne one day this week.

The friends of Miss Dorothy Tumulty are sorry to hear that she will be unable to attend school for quite a while in order to recuperate from her recent illness.

There are several cases of chicken pox and measles in the sub-freshman class.

How a Cough Remedy Raffled an Automobile

Mr. Patrick J. Kane is a well known railroad man of New London, Connecticut, and Master of a lodge which gives sick benefits to its members. On account of the great amount of illness among the members, the funds in the Treasury ran very low, and it became necessary to get money. It was decided to raffle an automobile. Then the members of the lodge started out to sell tickets. They talked every minute that they had from their duties and were very successful, but it was a great strain upon their voices. The big wind-up was made at the Stafford, Connecticut, Fair. There several of the members talked almost continuously for three days. At night they were thoroughly worn out, hoarse, and almost speechless, with the exception of Mr. Kane, who used his throat just as much as any of the rest, if not more, but kept his voice clear and himself free from fatigue. When his co-workers asked how he did it, he put his hand in his pocket and brought out a bottle of Cerizane.

"There," he said, "a few drops of that once in a while kept me fit." So the boys of the lodge say that Cerizane deserves much of the credit for the successful raffling of the automobile.

Mr. Kane has used this remedy before and recommended it to many others. He says that for any form of coughs and colds, and any such affliction as cold in the head, hoarseness, sore throat, pain in the chest, there is nothing so good as Cerizane.

This is an old remedy that has been made for nearly a hundred years, by the Wilsons of Boston. It is absolutely free from chloroform, narcotics, or other harmful drugs. Any reliable druggist will sell it to you.

BAKEMAN URGES EX-SERVICE MEN TO JOIN LEGION

Editor of the Enterprise:

When an organization sends out a call for a wide-open meeting for the discussion of its shortcomings it means business. This is the kind of meeting the "American Legion" held last Monday night. And anyone who came away from it with the idea that the boys do not mean business must have been asleep.

It was a fine meeting. There was plenty of criticism and quite a number of men told frankly why they didn't belong. In reply, Commander Leo Sullivan pledged his administration to see that the rules of the organization were lived up to without fear or favor.

It was brought out in the discussion that less than ten per cent. of the men eligible in Peabody are active members of the "Legion." This is not right, whatever be the cause. The "American Legion" ought to be one of the strongest organizations in any community. It has mighty possibilities for good. It is the most really democratic association that we have except the schools. In our selective draft men were picked from all nationalities and creeds and regardless of their material resources. It is bound together by the ties of a great conflict for the ideals on which this country was founded. These men need to be kept together to see that in times of peace the principles of freedom and democracy for which they enlisted are not forgotten. And they need to keep together to see to it that in our scramble for business and prosperity their comrades who may have sown the seeds of disability in the great struggle are not lost sight of.

It strikes me that those of us who are not eligible for membership in the "Legion" will be doing our community a real service if we urge any ex-service men whom we know to tie up to the local organization. The boys have played it fair and invited open criticism. Let's stop "knocking" them from the outside and pitch in and help. For though many of them are out of jobs just now they are the same boys we cheered and cried over as they went away to war four years ago.

Frank Croughwell Fine Example of Determination

Frank J. Croughwell age 26, whose death this week brought deep sorrow to his family and many friends was a sterling example of human pluck and determination to make the best of himself. Despite a physical handicap he cultivated a smile that radiated his good nature and kindliness and this, coupled with his high purpose of succeeding in life, made him a worthy example to be emulated. Clean in his habits, well spoken always, a gentleman among his friends, his personal attributes were many. His preparation for the work of a dairyman gained at the Essex Agricultural School had made him an expert and into his business of milk and dairy products he was actuated by honesty of purpose. He is the first of the Peabody Lodge of Elks to pass to the beyond and the lodge in its exemplification of brotherly love loses a valued member.

FALL SCHEDULE OF P. H. S. FOOTBALL

The football schedule of the Peabody high school team has been completed except for the arranging of two games, one with Gloucester and the other with Winthrop, both of which will be played away from home. With the completion of arrangements for these two games, dates for which have yet to be set, the schedule will be presented to the next meeting of the North Shore League.

The schedule as arranged by Faculty Manager Henry A. King calls for five games at home, three of which will be league games. The star contest will of course be played with the Charleston (South Carolina) team in Peabody November 4, and the Salem game October 21st, is also expected to attract the usual large attendance.

The Thanksgiving day game will be played at Haverhill.

The schedule as arranged follows:

Saturday, Sept. 30—Peabody at Chelsea.

Saturday, Oct. 7—Peabody at Marblehead.

Saturday, Oct. 14—Lynn English at Peabody.

Saturday, Oct. 21—Salem at Peabody.

Saturday, Oct. 28—Revere at Peabody.

Saturday, Nov. 4—Charleston (S. C.) at Peabody.

Saturday, Nov. 11—Swampscott at Peabody.

Saturday, Nov. 18—Peabody at Beverly.

Saturday, Nov. 25—Peabody at Lynn Classical.

Thursday, Nov. 30—Peabody at Haverhill.

It is expected to arrange the Gloucester and Winthrop games so that one will be played prior to Sept. 30 and the other after Nov. 30.

BAY STATE MAYORS KEEP EXPENSES LOW ON MUNICIPAL AUTOS

Editor Enterprise:—

This enquiry, into the rise and growth of taxation in Peabody, is undertaken in good faith and is aimed at no individual official or at any particular department. The writer realizes that we have efficient and well meaning officials in all departments and that some of these have given a lifetime of service to the city. Take the chief of police, for instance, and where is there a better and more experienced chief officer. I think the people realize that in him they have a careful and practical police head and one who has helped many an unfortunate to get a new start and become a better citizen.

An inquiry like this, to run its full scope, should embrace every department of the city. This is needed today more than ever for there is no current theory that satisfactory explains the advance of taxation, as wages fall and the struggle for a living becomes more intense. It is becoming increasingly difficult for the common people to live and pay their bills. And it is becoming more clearly evident all the time, that whatever is taken in taxation reduces the proportion of his product going to the worker, with which to buy the actual necessaries of life.

Those who would make a study of the development of society will become impressed with the change that growth brings. In the small community each individual knows his neighbor and matters of government come under the common eye. A small community can freely govern itself, but as the village grows to be a town, and the town becomes a city, a new system of government takes its rise. Matters formerly well understood soon pass out of control of the people and, at times, beyond their scrutiny.

Gradually the old time ideas are lost and new habits of thought take precedence over the old. Functions take on added importance. And each department adds to its functions. With the paved street comes the policeman, who now wears a glittering uniform and shining buttons. And all the time the cost of government mounts.

It is in this way that the taxes increase. Of course there are many things now enjoyed by the citizens which were denied to the primitive community. The people have an abundant supply of pure water. They have fire protection, a better school system, an ample police system, sewers, public parks and many other things that the richest would not have dreamt of two hundred years ago and which the people of backward settlements are denied of today. These things must be paid for and all citizens willingly share the burden. The poor man who has six children has the best the community can give him in the matter of education.

Society thus becomes more intricate, complex, and costly. But it is well worth all we pay for it, so far and so long as economy is followed in the matter of expenditures. All that the people ask is that the same economy which the individual official would use in his personal expenses be continued in his official life. In other words a system of administration must not be allowed to grow up that bears too heavily upon the people, even though such a system may assume large proportions unknown to the head of the department at the time, and before he is aware of its magnitude.

It is with this viewpoint in mind that we approach the expense of the auto equipment of the city. If there is a saving to be made here we naturally expect that such will be made. And we have confidence enough in the heads of departments to believe that, once they become convinced a saving is possible it will be made as opportunity presents.

Recently mention was made of the police equipment and its up-keep. A comparison was made with that of other cities. Here are a few more cities to compare with. All are in the same class as Peabody, or richer and with a larger population, with perhaps one or two exceptions.

City of Northampton

We have no auto equipment for the police department. The captain uses his own car and gets an allowance for its up-keep. We maintain an ambulance but same is not related to the work of the police dept.

HARRY E. BICKNELL, Mayor.

City of Chicopee

The police department has a combination ambulance and patrol car, also a touring car used for the chief and special work and two motor cycle cars to cover outlying districts of the city.

JOSEPH M. GRISE, Mayor.

City of Westfield

The police department has a Reo with a special patrol body. The department also has a motorcycle for the use of a mounted officer. The local hospital owns its own ambulance. I am personally of the opinion that it would be more economical to operate a Ford or a Dodge, which is a lighter car, and that the service would be just as satisfactory.

GEORGE W. SEARLE, Mayor.

City of Fitchburg

We have a Cadillac combination patrol and ambulance. We have no car for the chief or for the inspector but the patrol is frequently pressed into service by both these officers.

JOHN B. FELLOWS, Mayor.

City of Beverly

We keep an ambulance and a patrol auto for anything outside the needs of the ambulance. This machine also does for the chief of police.

FRANK D. TUTTLE, Mayor.

City of Taunton

We have a touring car for use of the officials of the police department and for general work, and an auto for police ambulance in addition.

LEO M. COUGHLIN, Mayor.

City of Waltham

The city of Waltham maintains two cars in the police department; a patrol auto which is also fitted as an ambulance and a touring car which is used for general work.

GEO. B. BEAL, Mayor.

According to the above reports from these cities there is none with the system of Peabody. These are the only cities information has been asked from except in the case of Haverhill which is about three times larger and richer than this city. Haverhill does not have an auto for the inspector although it does have one for the city Marshal.

Peabody maintains an ambulance, a patrol auto, a car for the chief and another for the inspector of police. If the city is paying for the up-keep of all these it is safe to say that the expense of this department, so far as the auto branch is concerned, is at least twice as heavy as that of any of the cities quoted above, as well as those mentioned last week.

Further inquiry into the system of city automobiles, used by those officials who have the use of them, will show that the problem cannot be considered except as a whole. That the police department require the use of machines is evident and that other departments also require the use of certain machines will also become evident as we make a study of the work of each and their relation to the whole. But while so much is granted it must also be granted that there are too many machines now in use and that the burden of carrying these is becoming heavier. What can be done to improve conditions will become apparent as we proceed in our inquiry.

CITY AUTOS

When Peabody became a city, changes in departments as to operation were many. Where once a few horses took officials whereever wanted, and the automobile came in and today every department has one or more of them. The only city board that walks is the assessors, and as these men have few friends because of being assessors, nobody cares how far they walk. Many cities twice the size of Peabody have less autos than has Peabody. We are auto bound. It costs $1 on the tax rate to have a garage, while repairs mount up to large sums. One, and we believe the best, reason why economy should be practiced in this branch of the city government is the ever increasing tax rate. If all of us could have high class cars it would be a pleasure. But private pocketbooks will not allow it and the public pocketbook of Peabody will not allow it any longer. The time has arrived when our municipal cars should be standardized, and they should be of the Ford variety, or some other low cost make. Repairs, tires, gasolene, in fact, all that goes to make an auto can be purchased at a big saving. We must look at this economy as with all others throughout the city as needed. With an interest account of $86,000 annually, and the many other costs that our city is heir to, we can do but one thing, economize. In every direction, yes, and particularly in automobiles which can be dispensed with in several departments. It is a plain business proposition. Many will tell you a city cannot be run as is a business, and we answer Peabody must be run that way for the next few years whether we like it or not. There is a limit to the tax rate.

THE SEWER PROBLEM

The sewer controversy between Salem and Peabody has developed to the extent of the Legislature taking the matter in hand, and a committee from that body will listen to the arguments from both sides. The meeting that was to be held last week was postponed but another is booked in the near future. Peabody wishes to be fair. The propaganda that has been spread broadcast by the Salem Evening News has given but one side of the controversy. No one believes or claims that Peabody sewers are perfect. With the many tanneries emptying their waste matter into the sewer, some must be there of the solid variety which tends to clog. But with the careful supervision practiced by the engineering department of Peabody, the percentage is small. To offset this amount Salem we believe empties a corresponding amount. We could go farther and claim more, from the evidence that has been accumulated. It is well known that Peabody tanners have spent thousands of dollars that the solids from their plant would not reach the sewer. An inspection of these plants would convince the unbiased that such is the case. Again engineers employed by the city of Salem some two years ago reported that Salem was lax in the care of the sewer. Other evidence will bring out the truth of the matter. Therefore, we believe that the committee from the Legislature after weighing the evidence pro and con will tell all concerned that cooperation will serve to give better service and that the need of separate sewers at present is unwarranted. The Enterprise wishes to be fair to all concerned. We would not hesitate to criticise Peabody should it be shown this city is at fault. But we cannot see from any angle that either municipality can be blamed more than the other, therefore an adjustment of the difficulties should be made in fairness to all concerned.

A NEW STADIUM

A new stadium is the dream of the young athletes and many citizens. It is a dream that should come true, and the cost, contrary to the opinion of many citizens would be small and could be paid for in a few years from the receipts of baseball and football games. Haverhill has been through the stadium process and came out a winner financially in a short period of years. An inclosed field for baseball and football will make money especially where high school games are played. The interest in our high school athletes has been proven time and again, by the loyal support given the teams. The receipts in an inclosed field would double over the games played at Perkins' park. We have this year the football games with Charleston, S. C., the Salem games both baseball and football, and with proper management a sum should be netted that would go a long way toward paying for a stadium. Most city improvements mean only an outlay. A stadium means paying the interest on the money expended and paying a part of the principal. In other words it is a business proposition which many public spirited citizens would join in and contribute to. It would not take big brains to finance this proposition. The city proposes to purchase the Bushby property adjoining the High school and feel that a stadium should rest for the future. A stadium can be financed this year we believe. It is not a wild cat scheme but one where an investor can be protected and get a fair interest on his money. Let us get together and start the baseball and football rolling toward an inclosed field to be called a stadium, or any other name that may be selected.

NEW ENGLAND FIRST

If New England manufacturers are meeting with keener competition and perhaps losing their hold upon some of the markets which they have long enjoyed in other parts of the country, there is little excuse except inertia for failing to take full advantage of the tremendous market right here in New England; yet, wherever one goes through the retail stores of New England he will find the shelves loaded down with merchandise brought into New England. These imported products are generally no better in style, quality, or workmanship than the New England manufactured product. Local chambers of commerce and other types of commercial organizations with their respective membership of business men can do much throughout New England to improve business conditions by supporting the efforts of the State Chamber to stimulate the general public interest in goods "Made in New England." This is not an effort to have the consumer discriminate against non-New England goods, but to secure for the home-made article a fair chance by conscious effort on the buyer's part. If the New England made article is not as good nor as serviceable as the buyer demands, it has no claim for consideration. New England products as a class possess superior quality and merit and are produced by the highest type of skilled workers in the country, so that they have a splendid reputation and deserve prior consideration. If the merchants, salespeople, and manufacturers of New England co-operate in this educational campaign, the public will no doubt be found receptive to the suggestion.—Suggested.

ROUND ABOUT.

Spring is here and if you do not believe it visit the Salem Golf Club or the Homestead Club any afternoon and see Peabody golfers either hit the ball or not. If not there is a book provided which tells them what to say at such a time. And you will note the women are out, for since being able to vote some claim to be as husky as their better halfs.

The trees on the principal streets of the city are fast being depleted and it will be but a few years when Main street will be entirely shorn of them.

* * *

Macadam streets are sure death to trees, but other ways a blessing. It did cost three shines a week, but now one or less will do.

* * *

Real estate and second hand autos are a drug on the market. A sure sign of hard times. What a difference between the price of second hand machines today and three years ago, when they brought almost as much as new ones.

* * *

Soon the Peabody High school boys will be out for baseball practice. If they can muster as good a team as last year the other fellows will step some to win. There are many likely boys coming along who will do, so says coach Marty Donovan. With a new stadium they will be in the swim.

* * *

We gave our readers an editorial on fires last week, and we cannot refrain from repeating that something is wrong in Denmark and elsewhere. If our alien inhabitants are careless, they should take a lesson in safety first. Those claiming American citizenship could not possibly have fires with the idea of benefitting thereby.

* * *

That epidemic did not gain serious headway here. Bad colds confined many at home, but the doctors were happy, as all went well.

That planking between the rails of the South Reading branch as well as on the Lawrence branch on Central street appears to be an antiquated way of covering that space. Particularly where the electric cars pass over there is always an uneven place that is near dangerous. There must be something better than planks for these places. Let's have it.

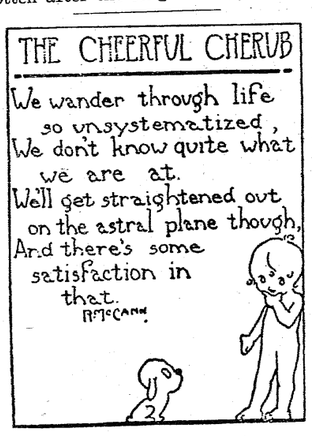
We saw recently in one of the local stores, a customer purchase 25 pounds of sugar and four yeast cakes. After much thought, we wondered whether he was going to preserve fruit or himself. The storekeeper minded his own business and delivered the goods. Why not?

* * *

Ray Porter is hitting that golf ball a mile a second. After his trip south, he can play the golf game with any of them, and the fellow who gives him a beating will know he had a contender. We look for Ray gathering in many prizes this summer.

* * *



Here is the way golf courses are patronized by enthusiasts. A new course was made outside of Boston recently and the scheme was to solicit members. But when that time came the club had a membership large enough without any solicitation. This shows how the game is growing, and at the rate now on, farms will be at a premium.

An Enterprise reporter visited the weekly meeting of the Rotary club on Tuesday. It was a happy family. There was a spirit of get together which showed why Rotary clubs are making their mark in the world. It appeared to me true democracy and plenty of it. They sung "Sweet Adeline" with variations, and other songs which carried one "Back To Old Verginny". The eats were the best, and one could see how some of the members were fat and good natured. A good organization which has and will do much for Peabody without a brass band accompaniment.

The Peabody postmastership has been forgotten as have the candidates evidently. Now that the treaties have passed in the Senate, they may find time to give attention to Peabody. Some one has said the present P. M. is satisfied. It must be that Peabody is considered important to give so much time to the postmastership, and that Postmaster Dullea may be content to continue. There has been considerable feeling expressed against one of the candidates, but all is forgotten after the long wait.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel

HARRIETT

HARRIETT, by all right of significance, should belong to Ireland since it means "home rule." But in reality, it has its origin in old Norse mythology where there was a porter of Valhall called Heimdall, who watched the further end of the rainbow bridge Bifrost to guard the Assir from the giants. His name is explained by translating the "heim" as home. It was through this Heimdall that all the Henrys and Harrys came to be.

The feminine of the name was invented in the Fifteenth century. It is thought to have originated in France since Henriet Stuart appears in the House of Stuart d'Aubigne in 1586, and there were a number of Henriettes to match the Henris of the court of Catherine de Medici. England received the name from the daughter of Henry IV, Henriette Marie, whom the prayerbook calls Queen Mary, though her godchildren were all called Henrietta. The queen's name was given the French pronunciation, which is Hawyot, and that became a separate proper name. Harriett is also pronounced in that manner by those who are excessively given to propriety.

In England Henrietta is as great a favorite as Harriet. Another spelling of the latter is Harriot. Hattie, Hetty, and Etta are diminutives. Henriette is purely French and Henrietta and Jette are Teutonic. Italy has an Enrighetta which is the equivalent of Harriett. Spain has evolved the musical Enriqueta.

—The moonstone is Harriett's talismanic gem. Through some mystic connection with India and her sacred colors, it is said that Harriett's color is yellow. If she wears this and a moonstone, she will have good fortune and attract the love of men. Monday is her lucky day and 4 her lucky number.

ASSESSORS NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 29, Chapter 59, General Laws, all persons, firms and corporations, domestic or foreign, subject to taxation in the city of Peabody are hereby notified and required to bring into the assessors of said City on or before true lists. In case of residents a true list of all their polls and personal estate not exempt from taxation, of which they were possessed on the first day of April in the current year, and in case of non-residents and foreign corporations a true list of all their personal estate in said city not exempt from taxation, and all persons, firms and corporations, domestic or foreign, are herby notified and required to include and set forth in said lists their real estate subject to taxation in said city, which lists must be verified by oath as required by section 31 of Chapter 59, General Laws.

Under the provisions of Sections 29 and 30, Chapter 59, General Laws, the above-mentioned lists must be in form prescribed by the Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation of the Commonwealth. These blank forms may be had at the Assessors' office, or will be mailed to any address upon application.

Section 34, Chapter 59, General Laws. A mortgagor or mortgagee of real estate may bring into the assessors of the town where it lies, within the time prescribed by the notice under section twenty-nine, a sworn statement of the amount secured thereon or on each separate parcel thereof, with the name and residence of every holder of an interest therein as mortgagor or mortgagee. If such property is situated in two or more places, or if a recorded mortgage includes two or more estates or parts of an estate as security for one sum, such statement shall include an estimate of the interest of the mortgagee in each estate or part thereof. The assessors shall, from such statement or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate interests of the mortgagor or mortgagee respectively in said estates, and shall assess the same accordingly. If, in any year, such statement is not brought in, the tax for that year on such real estate shall not be invalid merely for the reason that the interest of the mortgagee therein has not been assessed to him.

In accordance with Section 29 aforesaid, all persons, except corporations making returns to the Commissioner of Insurance as required by section 38, Chapter 176, General Laws, are hereby required to bring in to the assessors on or before the 15th day of May next, true lists of all real and personal estate held by them, respectively, for literary, temperance, benevolent, charitable, or scientific purposes on the first day of April, in the current year, or at the election of such corporation on the last day of its fiscal year last preceding said April first, together with statements of the amounts of all receipts and expenditures for said purposes during the year last preceding said days; such lists and statements to be in accordance with blanks furnished by the Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation.

To all persons interested in the trusts under the will of ANNIE CORRIGAN late of Peabody in said County, deceased, for the benefit of John Francis Keenan, Hugh J. Keenan (named therein as Hugh Lewis Keenan) and Elizabeth Keenan; and to John Corrigan named as one of the trustees in said will.

WHEREAS, three petitions have been presented to said Court by Katherine M. Keenan (named in said will as Catherine V. Keenan) of Peabody in the County of Essex praying that she may be appointed sole trustee under the will of said deceased, which has been proven in said Court,—and that she may be exempt from giving surety upon her bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem in said County of Essex, on the seventeenth day of April A. D. 1922, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Peabody Enterprise a newspaper published in said Peabody, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, a copy hereof to each person interested in said trust, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-seventh day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

HORACE H. ATHERTON, JR.,
(M-31-A-7-14) Register.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court within and for the County of Essex: RESPECTFULLY libels and represents MARIA A. MANOLAKIS, of Peabody in said county, that she was lawfully married to George S. Manolakis, now of parts unknown, at Peabody, on the seventh day of May A. D., 1921; and thereafterwards your libellant and the said George S. Manolakis lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth, to wit, at 5 Union Street, Peabody, Mass., that your libellant has always been faithful to her marriage vows and obligations, but the said George S. Manolakis being wholly regardless of the same, at Peabody on May 8th, 1921, and at divers other times was cruel and abusive to your libellant; and that the said libellee being of sufficient ability, grossly and cruelly refused and neglected to provide suitable maintenance for her, your libellant.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said George S. Manolakis.

Dated this twenty-ninth day of March A. D., 1922.

her
Maria A. (x) Manolakis.

E. A. Hershenson,
Witness to mark.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
ESSEX, ss. Superior Court, March 29, 1922.

Upon the foregoing libel, ordered, that the said libellant give notice to said GEORGE S. MANOLAKIS by causing an attested copy of her said libel, and of this order thereon, to be published in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper printed in Peabody in the county of Essex, once a week, for three weeks successively, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the return day of this Court, at Salem, within the county of Essex, on the first Monday of May next, and by mailing, forthwith, by registered letter to the libellee at his last known place of residence, an attested copy of said libel and of this order thereon; that he may appear at said Salem within six months from said first Monday of May and show cause, if any he has, why the prayer of said libel should not be granted.

Attest, A. N. FROST, Clerk.

The foregoing is a true copy of said libel and of the order thereon.

Attest,
A. N. FROST, Clerk.

When Playing is Hard Work

Well Known Musician says something of his Profession

"To the people in the audience, the making of music looks like rather lazy labor. Very few people except the musicians themselves realize the long hours of practice, the confinement, the strain on eyes and nerves, and the general physical exertion that place musicians among the hardest of workers."

Thus writes Mr. J. W. Damas, a musician who is well known in orchestra and vaudeville circles, and whose home address is 241 Crystal Ave., New London, Conn.

Mr. Damas continues: — "Close application to my professional duties had resulted in putting my stomach in very bad shape. My food did not digest; I was constipated; I had spells of dizziness and headache, and what worried me most, I could not eat and was getting thin. I weighed only 140 pounds, which is much too little for one of my height. A friend gave me a few doses of Sanalt to try. The effect was so good that I bought a bottle. Before the first bottle was empty my appetite had returned and I had gained seven pounds. My complexion was better and the headaches and dizziness had stopped. I am now on my second bottle of Sanalt and gaining in weight and strength every day."

Sanalt the Sensible Tonic has been made for nearly a hundred years. It is one of the famous "Winsol" line of family remedies. Any wide-awake druggist will sell you Sanalt.

With more than 200,000 of its total of 700,000 jobless veterans of the world war placed in positions the first day, with Gov. Louis Hart of Washington defying the 47 other state heads to beat him in finding places for them and with Louisiana reporting 100 per cent. employment, the American Legion's campaign to give every ex-service man a job opened optimistically, national officers of the Legion state.

In order that no loophole may remain unfilled, Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant of the Legion, has extended the time for the campaign indefinitely. Word from Texas Legion officers was received at headquarters stating that the posts there had set 15 days as the limit. Cumberland, Md., was the first city to report unemployment ranks filled and was followed closely by Port Angeles, Wash., the farthest western Legion post.

A straw vote of civilians and world war veterans held by a St. Paul, Minn., newspaper gave count of 3 1-2 to 1 in favor of adjusted compensation legislation. A count of 2518 ex-service men's ballots showed three out of every four had voted for a general bonus to all ex-service men.

Ex-service men are being sought by the American Legion of Seattle, Wash., to take over farms on the Yakima Indian reservation, renewal of leases of which has been refused former Japanese tenants by the state. Preference is being given disabled and maimed soldiers.

"Spring clean-up days" are being observed throughout the country as a part of the American Legion's campaign to give jobs to all unemployed ex-service men. "Have an ex-soldier do it" has brought out old-time kitchen police whose knowledge of barrack cleaning hasn't been forgotten.

A Chicago man was given six months in jail following his exposure by the American Legion as a fake soldier. A Croix de Guerre, marksmanship medal and overseas service chevrons on his uniform had been bought in a pawn shop, he said.

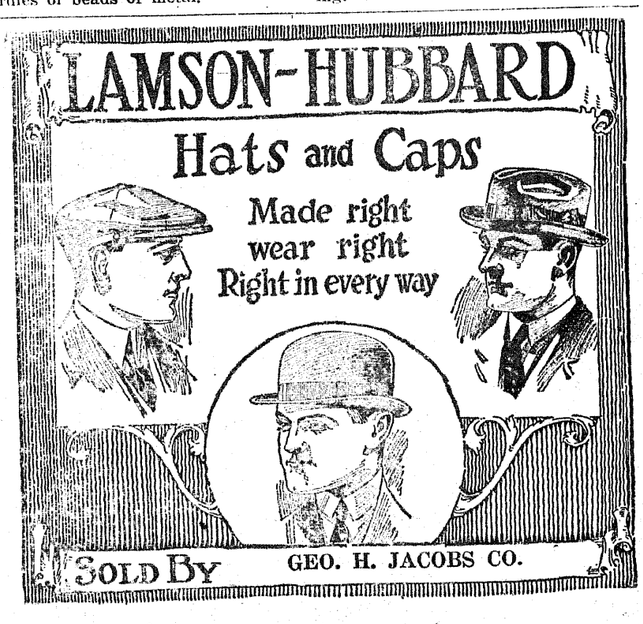
Dramatic Club Wins Plaudits In So. Peabody

The South Peabody Dramatic Club presented a minstrel show Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at the South Peabody and the general report was "the best ever". The programme was divided into two parts. The first part consisted of chorus singing and solos as follows:—

Overture, "Leave Me With a Smile", by the chorus; song, "The Rose, My Love and You", Jonathan Brown; song novelty, "Gin-Gin-Ginny Shore", Lucy Peabody; duet, "Tuck Me To Sleep", Eva Broughton and Evelyn Brown; end song, "Sunny Tennessee", Roland Janvier; Southern lullaby, "I Want My Mammy", Grace Larrabee; song, "Granny", Edward Larrabee; song, "Dear Old Dixie Land", Lottie Brown; comic ditty, "Any Old Place", Billy Weld; ballad, "I Dream of Your Smile", Louise Poeton. The finale was an act by Messrs. Weld, Janvier and Gregson called "The Practical Joke".

At this time ice cream was sold and the stage was arranged for the second part of the programme. A sketch called "The Happy Pair" was played by Miss Louise Poeton and Wright Gregson and showed dramatic ability on both parts. Miss Lottie Brown and Miss Grace Larrabee sang a novelty song of mother goose melodies and were dressed as small children. Miss Marion Newhall and Roland Janvier gave a comic sketch "The Prim Miss Perkins" which caused much laughter. Edward Larrabee was next on the programme with a black-face act, including songs and jokes. The last was a comedy act showing domestic life and was called "Poison". The wife was Miss Lottie Brown, the husband, Grafton Broughton, and Jake, a servant was played by Billy Weld. It would be hard to say which was the best number as they all showed the training which they have had for the past two weeks. The entertainment lasted fully three hours and a large audience was present each evening.

FOR WEAR EVERYWHERE



This smart day-time dress of smooth-faced wool suiting is of the sort approved by fashion for wear everywhere that suits are worn. Its lines are graceful and simple, revealing the development of draped effects in skirts. It adopts the vogue of picturesque sleeves, lined with silk in a contrasting color, and of handsome girdles of beads or metal.

Mae Murray In Peacock Alley Strand's Headliner Monday--- Film Now Gripping Boston

A joyous leap away from the conventional run of motion pictures is found in Bert Lytell's new picture "The Right That Failed" which will be the main attraction on the bill the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. The author, J. P. Marquard, whose story first appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, has got away from the stereotyped plot and developed a set of characters new to the screen. It is good, clean, wholesome fun, with plenty of bristling action and suspense.

Mr. Lytell is seen as Johnny Duffy, a "highbrow" prize fighter, who, ashamed of his profession, pays court to a prominent society girl at an exclusive summer resort. It is a subtle portrait of a roughneck who is a gentleman under the skin. The reason Jimmy Duffy arrived at this summer resort in the first place was to allow his injured right hand a chance to heal. Circumstances force him to use it to advantage far too soon in protection of the young lady's honor, and as a result he is forced to seek other fields of endeavor. One of the Ben Turpin comedies entitled "She Sighed By The Seaside" and a smashing chapter of Eddie Polo's "The Secret Four" are the other numbers listed for showing today.

Viola Dana, the popular star who held a good portion of the limelight during the recent opening of the State theatre in Boston, will top the double feature bill for Sunday evening when she will be presented in her comedy drama "Home Stuff." "Squire Phin," an adaption of the play by Holma Day, and starring Macklyn Arbuckle, will be the second feature for Sunday.

"Peacock Alley," starring Mae Murray, which will be the extraordinary feature the Strand will offer for next Monday and Tuesday, is one of the most delightful pictures of the season. It is a ravishing, dazzling Mae Murray presentation with all that magnificence and splendor which have marked this star's previous offerings on the screen. It is gorgeously costumed and excellently directed, the story running smoothly throughout the entire eight parts.

"Peacock Alley" pictures the romance of a famed Parisian dancer who falls in love with a small town American youth and then finds that his parents will not accept her because she has been a dancer. The couple leave Paris and come to New York, but troubles come thick and fast upon the two who, for a while, find life a rather drab affair. As the dancer in this colorful production Miss Murray scores with the finest bit of acting she has ever done. She is ably supported by Monte Blue, as the young husband, and this popular favorite brings to the screen all of the genius for which he is noted. All in all, it is a notable achievement and Manager Chet Bent claims it is one of the best pictures ever shown here in town. The News Weekly and a Prizma prologue will be the other attractions for Monday and Tuesday.

West Peabody

After several weeks of hard work the comedy "Just a Little Mistake" is ready for presentation at the Schoolhouse Hall, next Tuesday evening. Under the able direction of Mrs. A. J. Phillips the best in the cast has been brought out, and the audience will certainly be pleased with the results she has obtained.

The majority of the cast are the "stars of a few years ago" and they will be at their best Tuesday night. The new West Peabody orchestra will play between the acts.

Another pleasing feature of the evening will be vocal selections by Miss Dorothy Bixby, of Lynn; her sister Miss Mildred Bixby, will be the accompanist. Ice cream and all kinds of delicious home cooking will be on sale. The Ladies of the West Church will buy a rug for the parsonage with the proceeds.

A free stereopticon lecture will be given at the West Church, Sunday at 6.30 by the W. P. Y. P. S. C. E., to which everybody is cordially invited. The subject of the lecture is, "In the Heart of the Hills", and shows some of the beautiful scenery in the Appalachian Mountains of North Carolina.

Can a living be made in West Peabody? That question will be answered at the Grange meeting, Friday night, April 7. Papers will be read by various members telling the crop they have made money on. Some good speakers will be present. Past Master of the State Grange, Leslie R. Smith, has promised to come here in the near future.

William B. Moore has been very active in interesting West Peabody children in poultry raising. Under the auspices of the Grange, and the cooperation of the parents, pupils, and West School teachers, he has started several children in the contest. The Grange is offering money prizes to the winners, also a "feed", and exhibition, next Fall. Several poultry raisers have shown community spirit by donating settings of eggs to be used by the children. This is a practical contest and it will be of real benefit to the participants. Children and parents interested are invited to communicate with Mr. Moore.

Two unknown men had a narrow escape from drowning when they drove their car into the Dishful Pond, at 3 o'clock last Sunday morning. Olaf Monson rescued both car and men by hauling them out with a pair of horses.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gelott are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year at the Junior Christian Endeavor meeting last Sunday: President, Sheldon Bishop; Vice President, Nancy Mackie; Secretary, Bertha Lame; Treasurer, Muriel MacDonald; Chairman Social Committee, Miss Blanche Martin; Chairman Lookout Committee, Miss Irene Durkee; Chairman Flower Committee; Miss Alice MacDonald.

PEABODY GRANGE

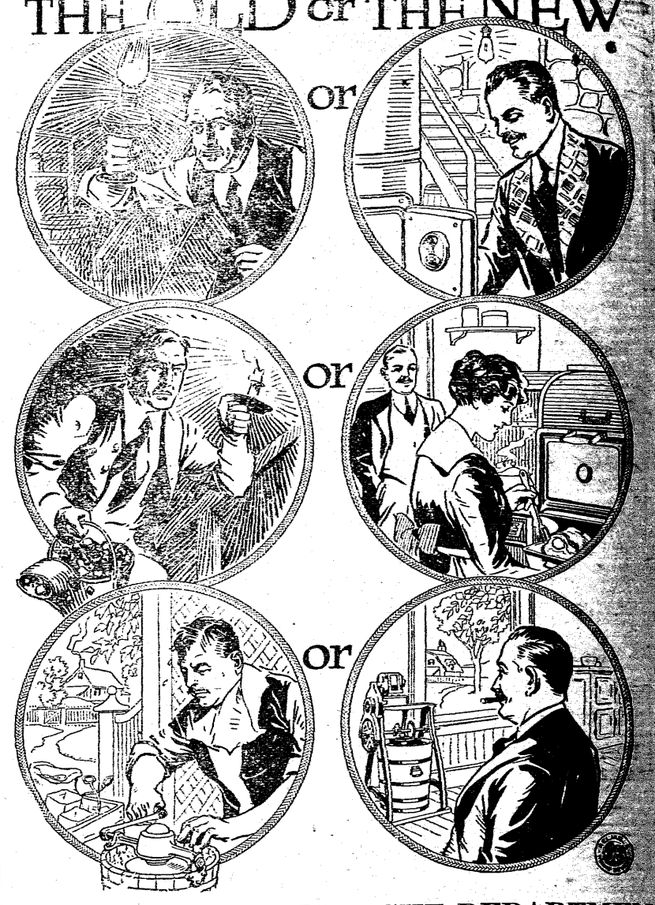
The Peabody Grange will hold a special meeting tomorrow evening in Odd Fellows Hall at 8 p. m. for the purpose of appointing investigating committees on applications for membership.

The Men's Degree Team will meet at 7 p. m. Rehearsal for the First Degree will follow the special meeting.

THE A. S. CLUB

The A. S. Club of Forest street met at the home of Violet Maunula, Wednesday evening. A rehearsal was had for the coming entertainment and refreshments were served. At their sewing bee last Friday evening they were busy sewing costumes for their entertainment.

Miss Natalie Lane gave a birthday dinner in honor of Miss Helen Tucker last Tuesday evening at her home on Parsons street.



FACTORY ROLLERS CELEBRATE END OF WINTER SPORT

The banquet held in Moose hall Monday night by the members of the Victor Inter-Factory bowling league was attended by 110 and a very pleasing entertainment was rendered by several members. Sidney Altshuler son of Capt. Altshuler, Korn Leather Co. gave a violin solo receiving several encores. Gus Erickerson in his comedy sketch was very funny. He also gave some excellent selections on the saxaphone and piano; Charles Enos, made a big hit with several whistling solos; Sammy Boyle and "Bill" Toomey of Salem with songs and short stories and Arthur Conroy piano soloist preceded the speaking and the awarding of prizes.

"Bob" Feeley was toastmaster and there was something doing every minute. Among the speech makers were Henry D'Entremont "Monte" Lawless and Charles (Chippy) Caden.

William Reed, organist, is supplying at the Universalist church in Salem.

Roland Johnson of Osborne street has recovered from a severe attack of the measles.

SCHOOL DAYS

FACTORY LEAGUE

The Victor Inter-Factory Bowling League finished a glorious season by having a banquet last Wednesday evening at Odd eFllows' hall. A feeling of good fellowship was in the air and everybody had an enjoyable time. In the obsence of Chairman Hay, Captain "Monte" Lawless acted as master of ceremonies. John Thomas was pianist and selections were rendered by Messrs. John O'Keefe and Charlie Boyle, the comedian; Master Altshuler, a promising young violinist, rendered several solos, which were good.

CITY HALL NOTES

There is a report that some member of the City Council may introduce a motion to cut off the pay of the Councillors.

—*—

From a standpoint of fair play, Vincent P. O'Keefe is entitled to civil service as the head of the city electrician department quite as much as all other department heads were when they were clothed with this protection and not made the target of politics and personal grudges of which we see too much evidence in city hall. An ordinance changed from that of Supt. of fire alarms automatically deprived him of the civil service and his discovery of the omission as set forth in these pages some weeks ago made it perfectly natural for him to seek redress. As he stated he was willing to have the voters use the referendum measure on him on his record. Some of the house members who were urged to oppose the bill refused to get into Peabody politics.

—*—

Apropos of the City Electrician, we wonder why Ward 2 and 3 residents get the bell alarm from Hose 2 before the headquarters whistle blows.

—*—

Opposition to increasing the salary of Commissioner Andrew Fyfe, in charge of military aid for war veterans, is known to be largely the result of a personal grudge and it is held quite probable that the City Council with more data in hand will reward this official. The people who "knock" Fyfe the hardest are those who could not work him and the city treasury. The statement that Lynn paid only $1500 for the work that Fyfe is doing was a falsehood for Lynn pays its Commissioner $1500, one inspector $1750, one clerk $1092.50, still another clerk $800. Salem pays $1140 for an agent, an inspector and a clerk. Mayor Tuttle of Beverly has refused to Ok any more soldiers relief bills until an inspector at $1560 is put on the job to crowd off the grafters and men who make their living out of "politics". Commissioner Fyfe may be heard before the Council next week.

ESSEX AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL

State Convention at "Essex Aggie"

The Mass. State Department of Education have accepted the invitation of the Trustees of the School to hold the next annual summer convention of the Massachusetts Vocational Agricultural teachers at Hathorne. The dates selected are August 1st to 4th. State wide Committees have been selected to study various phases of the work and are now assembling material for their reports. The inspection of the work of the School and of the students who are employed on the School farm and also on the farms throughout the county will be a feature of this Convention.

This School is the largest one of its kind in New England and is naturally looked to for ideas and results. The entire staff of the School will be assigned to various committees and they will assist in an effort to make this one of the most valuable meetings of its sort which has been held in the State.

Nutrition Work of the Extension Service Dept.

Under the direction of the Home Demonstration Agent, North Haverhill and West Newbury are carrying on adult nutrition projects and studying "Food for the Family." South Peabody wishes to organize for the same kind of work.

North Andover has adopted the "Nutrition Work for Children" as a part of the regular school curriculum. The Superintendent has asked all of the teachers to consider this work as the regular hygiene program. The Home Demonstration Agent meets with all of the teachers once a month and plans the work with them. In this way, all of the schools in the town are reached.

Death of Graduate

The death of Frank J. Croughwell, Class of 1916, on March 27th casts a sadness over the School. He was a splendid student and since graduation has made a marked success of agricultural work. During the past year he has developed an up-to-date dairy and general farm at West Peabody and his progress was being watched with great interest by his many friends.

Seasonal Notes

Make a hot bed, or at least, a cold frame. It will lengthen your gardening season and enjoyment of the same. Storm windows carefully employed will give excellent results.

A few beets planted closely in a frame will furnish several cuttings of delicious tender greens.

Force a few hills of rhubarb by sash or other protection. The product, on which you may gain ten or more days, will be greatly appreciated on the home table.

Water-glass your eggs while eggs are cheap. Purchase infertile April eggs from nearby poultry raisers to put down.

Break up your broody hens promptly if you wish to keep them in laying condition.

Feed the baby chicken five times a day in small amounts for the first week. Give them plenty of milk and water to drink, if you want them to grow.

If the chickens have log weakness, give them more exercise, less feed and a good run on the outside of the brooder house.

Shut off the lights April first but don't change your method of feeding or your layers will moult.

All final pruning of fruit trees and bush fruits is now in order.

Heavy pruning of the rose bushes will return profit in the form of large, long-stemmed blooms.

Prefer Privacy.

"Is there anything else I can do for you, sir?" asked the solicitous waiter who was hovering around a corpulent old gentleman. "Yes," said the corpulent old gentleman. "You can take your eyes off me for about 20 minutes. I never could stand to be watched when I'm eating spaghetti."—Houston Post.

Forty-three per cent of Ohio's ex-service men are putting their state bonus money in the bank, a poll of American Legion members at Canton shows.

DESMOND TOPS BOWLING STARS

The bowling tournament at Manning's alleys got under way Monday night, and has been drawing large crowds every evening. The bowlers have not reached any high totals so far, but many high scores are looked for by the fans. The scores of the matches to date:

Monday—Desmond 986, Kiernan 951.
Monday—Holleran 902, Raymond 897.
Tuesday—Nelson 998, Bagley 923.
Tuesday—Steed 982, Chenery 948.
Wednesday—Bernstein 920, Kiernan 905.
Wednesday—Desmond 981, Holland 947.

Raise 'em The FUL-O-PEP Way

The Ful-O-Pep Way of Feeding chicks has changed the old expensive "grain feeding way" and has proven to poultry raisers that the old method of grain feeding is all wrong. The Ful-O-Pep Way of feeding instead of only 1 pound of gain to each 4 pounds of feed, which is the basis of figuring cost of production arrived at by experiment stations covering several years experiments with grain feeding. Why continue to feed this old expensive way when The Ful-O-Pep Way will give you the same gains with only half the feed?

Gives You 1 Pound of Gain at Cost of 2 Pounds of Feed

FUL-O-PEP GROWING MASH

Costs Less Per Pound of Gain Made Than Any Other Feed

The Ful-O-Pep Way consists of feeding Ful-O-Pep Growing Mash from the very start—continuously keeping it before your birds all the time. Ful-O-Pep Growing Mash, because of the high feeding value of its Oatmeal, fish and bone contents goes twice as far as grain feeds—every ounce is digested by chicks' delicate digestive organs—there is no waste and when compared with results cost only half as much in pounds of feed consumed for gains in pounds of meat produced. Furthermore, your losses from bowel and digestive troubles that arise from feeding hard indigestible grains, will be very much less and your flock will be of even growth and development. Give The Ful-O-Pep Way a trial this season—it will reduce your feed costs and materially increase your profits.

portunity to line up voters and if he elects to stand a candidate it is reasonable to presume that he will have to be reckoned with. None of the candidates above mentioned is said to be in sympathy with the Shea administration and of the number most are avowed enemies of the present Mayor, despite the fact that some have in the past tasted of his assistance in divers ways.

So it seems certain that Peabody's next city election will see a wild scramble for votes. The anti-Shea machine which is openly defying the Mayor in his effort to keep to strict economy in the interests of the taxpayers are the most active in the early lineup of political strength. The sting of defeat at the last election is still smarting in the hearts of the malcontents and personal interests are way ahead of conscientious service.

Mayor Shea has no spokesman in the City Council, a thing which pleases the machine in opposition, and as a result Peabody's ship of state is frequently at the mercy of tropical tempests. The alleged statement that the machine is determined to bring the Mayor to his knees shows how eager the desire is to thwart any constructive work in the Mayor's office.

Mayor Shea is not running City Hall as the city charter allows the chief magistrate to, in the interests of all citizens. Some of the city officials do not speak to him and behind his back they are nailing him to the limit. It's a fine situation and one the voters will probably hear more of in the near future. The fact that Mayor Shea was elected by such an overwhelming majority counts for nothing with the forces lined up against him.

May Festival

Beverly Y. M. C. A. and a pool tournament will also be played.

Anyone wishing to take the remaining six lessons in the millinery class may do so. The class meets on Monday evenings at 7 o'clock.

There will be a rummage sale at the Community House gymnasium Saturday afternoon, April 8th, at 2 o'clock.

The children are busy rehearsing for the May festival, which promises to be bigger and better than ever.

Vandals, presumably misguided boys, carried away several bricks of ice cream from City Hall corridor last Tuesday afternoon while the Community House whist was in session. A loaf of cake was also purloined.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Ella Waite of Salem has been appointed organist at the Universalist church to succeed Mrs. Henry Buxton.

John W. Henderson and family of Clement avenue are to remove to Middleton.

Miss Helen Crean, graduate of Burdett College, has recently accepted a position through the Burdett Employment Department with the Consolidated Electric Lamp Co. of Danvers.

Mrs. L. P. P. Osborne entertained a bridge whist party at her home on Lowell street last Tuesday evening.

Miss Margaret Lane of 74 Franklin street, graduated from Lynn Burdett College and was placed by the school as stenographer with the Richard Young Company, Peabody.

Miss Miriam Knapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Knapp of Sutton street is convalescing from a second attack of the measles.

Dr. and Mrs. Millett, parents of Mrs. Norman Crane spent the week-end in Peabody. Mrs. Crane returned with her parents to Attleboro for a week's visit.

Walter Southwick son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Southwick of Newbury street is ill with scarlet fever.

Dr. Henry M. Fox has leased a house at Juniper Point, Salem Willows, and removed there this week with Mrs. Fox and their daughter, Nancy.

Thomas A. Cawley has accepted a position as salesman for the Maurice E. Horan Co., upholsterers of Boston.

Mrs. John E. Hayes has been ill at her home on Washington street with pleurisy.

Lloyd Goodwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Goodwin, is ill with the measles.

Carl Rafey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rafey of Pierpont street, is ill with scarlet fever.

Charles Randall, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Perley Randall of Clement avenue, returned home from the hospital this week, following a serious operation.

Miss Helen B. Potter, Endicott street, is slowly recovering from a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism. She was able to receive her many friends on Sunday, the 26th, her 17th birthday. She was generously remembered with useful gifts, fruit and flowers.

Boxing Mill Saw 19 Bouts-- Several Ko's

Phil Flanagan, a Malden boy, in the 147 class, was the big noise at the second amateur boxing tournament in City Hall last night under the auspices of the Peabody Athletic Association, but Tony Vincenzo, a Peabody lad, put up a clever battle before a series of left hooks put him hors du combat and the referee awarded the bout to the Malden scrapper.

Leo Barry, a local favorite, captured the 108 class decision, giving the fight fans another pleasing exhibition of his Jim Corbett boxing with much of the science that made that erstwhile champion the idol of America, twenty years ago. Barry won the decision over Gus Thurlo of Chelsea. In the 126-pound class Carroll Walsh of this city lost to Chester Oakes of Dorchester, largely due to a few lucky punches. Walter Mills of Dorchester, who shaped up like a veteran, got the number of George Konas of Peabody after a gruelling mill. This was in the 135-pound class.

There were 19 bouts staged and a show of three hours kept the fans glued to their seats often in the wildest of excitement yelling, to their favorite in the ring. There were several KOS that added zest to the tourney. It was another successful mill that deserved a larger house than the one which greeted the show last night.

Jerry Moore, official referee, directed the bouts, with Patrick Nolan of Peabody the timekeeper.

Two of the final bouts went four rounds when the judges disagreed. This gave Barry a chance to win over his rival, and also Flanagan.

Carroll Walsh, another local boy, got the biggest hand last night because he put up the best boxing in his elimination bout and also in the final which saw him lose. He has all the earmarks of becoming a battling Nelson.

Tony Vincenzo, also of Peabody, whose bald head makes him look older than he is, also gave the fans their money's worth and only Flanagan's superior science made him a loser of the first prize in the final bout.

The mill was run off with precision and there were no ill features, evidently the management being alert to keep the sport on a high plane.

VAUDEVILLE AT FIREMEN'S SHOW

Among the fight fans were many prominent citizens. Another tourney will be staged in a couple of weeks.

One of the leading post-lenten activities will be the 30th annual concert and ball of the Relief Association of the Peabody fire department scheduled for the Tuesday evening after Easter and the night before the holiday. The committee in charge have completed arrangements for an elaborate program which will undoubtedly be the best even presented by the local association. Eight big vaudeville acts from the B. F. Keith circuit will provide a first class show and it is specifically stated in the contract that no act will be sent that has ever been seen in Peabody before. Dancing,

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
Essex, ss. PROBATE COURT.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of MARGARET T. SWEENEY late of Peabody in said County, deceased.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for probate, by Mary E. Murphy who prays that letters of administration with the will annexed may be issued to her, or some other suitable person, the executrix named in said will having deceased.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Salem in said County of Essex, on the seventeenth day of April A. D. 1922, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Peabody Enterprise a newspaper published in Peabody the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing, post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this thirtieth day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

Lowell Street

Miss Gertrude Lawton entertained the Eight O'clock Whist Club at her home on Tuesday evening.

Miss Katherine Underwood of Emerson street is home from Vassar College, New York, for her Easter vacation.

Mrs. John Chaplin (nee Shirley Ingraham) and son have returned from the J. B. Thomas hospital to her parents' home.

Mrs. William Grant is making a brief visit with her brother, Dr. Henry I. Yale, at his home on Chestnut street.

Alvah O. Moore is slowly recovering at his home from the illness with which he was stricken the latter part of last week.

James A. Roome of Proctor's Crossing is housed by a painful case of pleurisy.

That some municipalities are as hard hit as Peabody is attested by a resident of a near-by city whose tax rate for 1921 was at the rate of $35.20 per thousand, and where the valuation is so high that this man is assessed $1850 upon a lot that cost $1300, with the real estate taxed on a similar valuation.

William, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lambert, is suffering with abscesses in both ears.

Charles H. Symonds of Emerson street returned Wednesday from an extended business trip to Connecticut.

Mr. and Mrs. George Potter of Melrose were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Roome of upper Lowell street.

Elliott L. Macdonald, president and general manager of the L. B. Southwick Co., has appeared with a new Cadillac limousine, purchased this week.

The condition of Mrs. Lester Spicer (nee Ruth Lord) who has been ill at the J. B. Thomas hospital for the past ten days continues to show steady improvement.

The Center school was closed last Wednesday, the day being observed as visiting day by the teaching staff.

Daniel Conwell of Forest street, an ex-service man, who was gassed during the late war, is in the Naval hospital at Chelsea, where he recently underwent an operation.

Dist. Atty. S. H. Donnell returned this week from a hurried trip to Washington, D. C., where he appeared before the income tax department in the interest of a local client.

Mary, the youngest child of Dr. and Mrs. Henry I. Yale, is recovering from a serious illness of several weeks' standing.

Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Osborne, is confined to her home on upper Lowell street by an attack of bronchitis.

Mrs. Frances Pomeroy, former matron of the J. B. Thomas hospital, has recently assumed charge of the Mass. General hospital in Boston.

Elmer B. Thomas and family have returned east after a three months' sojourn at Pasadena, Cal.

WOMAN'S CLUB

The annual meeting of the Woman's Club will be held in Peabody Institute hall, Friday, April 7, at 3 o'clock. Miss Janet Hersey will read "The Sunshine Girl." Refreshments will be omitted.

WILL THERE BE A COAL STRIKE?

We believe that on April 1, the Anthracite coal miners will strike to enforce their demands in relation to a new working schedule.

Owing to the attitude of the operators on this question we cannot see anything but a long struggle, lasting possibly four or five months.

We think it good judgment for you to lay in at least one-half of your next season's requirements for the following reasons:

1st. A coal strike of even a comparatively short duration would cause a serious shortage in the fall.

2nd. A shortage later would make it necessary to resort to the coal rationing plan which we all know is a poor substitute for a full coal bin.

3rd. We anticipate an enormous demand for coal upon the termination of the strike and coal shipped under these conditions cannot be expected to be as well prepared as normally.

4th. We do not look for any reduction in freight rates which would materially lower the price of coal to the consumer before the early part of 1923.

The present cash price for coal is $15.00 per ton.

SEARLE NEW POSTMASTER FOR PEABODY

(Special)

Peabody Enterprise,

I have this day recommended for appointment as Postmaster for the city of Peabody, William F. Searle.

Signed,
ROBERT S. MALONEY,
Congressman.

Congressman Maloney's first choice for the postmastership of Peabody was Angus J. MacDonald, chairman of the Republican City Committee, who from the announcement of the Lawrence man's candidacy for the nomination did all he could to further the Maloney interests.

It was his sense of gratitude that prompted the congressman to make a stiff fight to get the civil service commission to call for a new examination of aspirants for the berth in Peabody, and it was only a few days ago that the civil service board reiterated its stand that the examinations having been held the appointment must be made from among the three highest candidates, who were William F. Searle, Postmaster Dullea and Harold G. Childs.

Chamber Calls Mass Meeting

A mass meeting of men who signed membership cards in, the Peabody Chamber of Commerce is set for next Monday night at the rooms of the Chamber, when the future welfare of the organization will be the keynote of discussion. A representative of the American City Bureau of New York, under whose auspices the drive for membership was held last November, is expected to be present. A definite announcement as to the future of the Chamber may be made as a result of this meeting. It can be staed that the Chamber will nct cease to function even though a curtailment in its present overhead is decided necessary.

END DRIVE FOR JEWISH RELIEF

The Jew relief committee handling the campaign for funds in Peabody will conclude their work tomorrow night and expect to report a substanial amount from this city. Checks may be sent to the Warren National bank or handed to Chairman E. A. Hershenson, or M. P. Stone of the committee. The money is to be sent to starving children in Poland, Russia, Hungary and Slovakia.

GOODALE DRIVES OFF WRONG CAR

All Fords looked alike to Oscar Goodell of West Peabody last night, for when he got home from a business trip down town he found he had taken somebody's else Henry and left his own. He had visited the fish store of Andrew Talbot on Lowell street, and it was the latter's Ford he had driven home. He had to make a quick trip back to the center of the city. Next time he is going to identify his Ford by his own number.

PEABODY DEFENDS SELF DEMANDING THAT SALEM HANDLE SEWER BETTER

Salem through its eminent counsellor, M. L. Sullivan, pleaded for a divorce from Peabody last night in the present joint sewerage relations and pledged itself willing to pay "alimony" to the extent of the $150,000 which Peabody paid back in 1904 to enter the Salem trunk sewer. The plea to sever domestic relations was made in Ames Memorial hall, Salem, before the joint committee of the legislature on municipal finance, with Senator William C. Moulton, three times Mayor of Pittsfield, as the presiding chairman. The hearing lasted three hours.

It was the sequel to an afternoon's personally conducted tour of the Peabody leather, glue and hair plants, and a jaunt along the North brook that is alleged to carry off industrial sewerage into the North River at Salem.

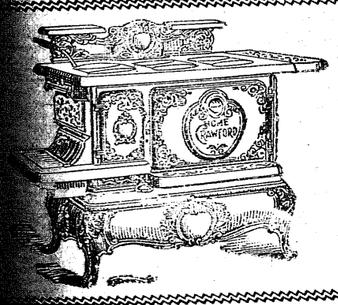
When the hearing adjourned it was apparent to the unbiased mind that Salem had indulged in much oratory and gone short on facts, and Peabody, by quoting the recommendation of the State Board of Health, had proved that Salem's facilities at its outfall station were inadequate, and that the Witch City had failed to carry out any of the expert sugestions which would have clarified the muddle some years ago.

Peabody's investment of $150,000, made when the joint sewer contract was entered into, is worth $400,000 today, and this fact apparently made some impression on the committee which frequently interrogated Salem on this point.

Peabody through its counsel, Judge Horace P. Farnham, went on record as eager to co-operate with Salem, even intimating that it courted an official investigation which would lead to an abatement of the present back flooding of the Salem sewer causing the trouble in Peabody.

Salem had its case noticeably weakened by one of its own citizens, Daniel J. Long, who declared that Salem leather plants had waste pipes protruding from their second story windows emptying filth into the North Brook, thereby adding to the sludge matter from which offensive odors disturbed the serenity of North Salem, the district in which Mr. Long resides. Cries of "sit down" hurled at Mr. Long by the Salem delegation failed to shut off this damaging evidence.

Peabody made no attempt to deny industrial waste from Peabody plants got into the brook It admitted the stench was something to be done away with, but it cinched its argument of facts by calling for a fair conference and investigation which would provide a remedy satisfactory to both parties.



Among the spectators were Senator Albert Wadleigh of Merrimac, who

Fred Stone of "Tip Top" Fame Strand Headliner Tonight

Fred Stone in "The Duke of Chimney Butte" and "The Leather Pushers"—Round Two—will be the two principal attractions on the bill the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. In "The Duke of Chimney Butte," Mr. Stone has a role to which he can give the full scope of his extraordinary talents. He displays his remarkable horsemanship, his skill at shooting and roping and at the same time does some mighty clever acting. A delightful touch of romance keeps interest sustained at high pitch throughout. Opposite the star appears Viola Vale, one of the real beauties of the screen. Many people here in Peabody saw Mr. Stone in "Tip Top" when it played at the Colonial in Boston, and they will be surprised at this famous comedian's work in the movies.

"The Leather Pushers," starring Reginald Denny, adapted from the popular stories by H. C. Witwer, divides honors with the feature. This series of two-reelers, each chapter complete in itself, has taken the whole country by storm. It is packing them in all over the United States. It is novel entertainment, being the story of a young college man who tries to recoup the family fortune via the prize ring. A Sennet comedy and Eddie Polo in an exciting chapter of his serial play "The Secret Four" will be shown in addition to the other features mentioned above, making up an exceptionally big show for the money.

Bert Lytell in "The Man Who," an adaption of the Saturday Evening Post story of the same name by Lloyd Osborne, will top the bill for Sunday evening. Munroe Salisbury in "The Barbarian" will be the second feature for the Sunday concert.

"No Woman Knows," the Universal-Jewel special feature, will be the feature attraction on Monday and Tuesday. It is adapted from the famous story "Fannie Herself," by Edna Ferber, and directed by Tod Browning, the man who made "Outside the Law." It is a special attraction in every sense of the word. The story is that of a typical American family, owning a small store and living in a western town. Sacrificing everything for a gifted son so that his musical talents may be developed, the middle class atmosphere of petty economics and frugal living is presented by the little family in an amazingly realistic manner, the details of which provide the picture with the humorous touch needed to lighten the emotional and dramatic climaxes which follow each other in rapid succession.

"Fanny Herself," the girl of the story, is portrayed by Mabel Julienne Scott, and the villain of the story is done in masterly fashion by polished Stuart Holmes, who has been in the villain business for a number of years. "No Woman Knows" is considered one of the screen's greatest masterpieces, and a forward step for the entire industry. A comedy film and the News Weekly will be shown in addition.

Kathleen Myers

One of the new faces in the "movies"—Miss Kathleen Myers—promises to prove of much interest to the patrons of the moving picture theaters. Miss Myers is the daughter of a very successful steel manufacturer. She is said to possess marked ability.

Peabody Elks In New Home

Peabody Lodge of Elks will dedicate its new club home in the Solly block on Main street next Monday evening, with installation of officers headed by Dr. Lawrence K. Kelley as the new Exalted Ruler. It will be a gala event for the Antler herd and the program will prove interesting.

Dr. John F. Leonard, Past Exalted Ruler of Haverhill Lodge, will represent the district deputy and a delegation of Haverhill Lodge members will come here for the purpose of installing the new officers.

Exalted Ruler Kelley has a large number of new applications for membership of the local Elks and with the new club home given over entirely to the Elks the order should grow rapidly here.

Frank Conroy, prominent member of Boston lodge, will be among the guests Monday night. He delivered the memorial day exercises here for the Elks and he is to be tendered a pleasing reception.

PERSONAL

Raymond E. Porter of the E. H. Porter Co. is in Keene, N. H., today on a business trip.

William J. Young and wife of Lynn street, the former a member of the Lynn Rotary Club, are to attend the international convention of Rotary Clubs in Los Angeles next June.

The condition of J. Howard Fallon who was superintendent of the Bleachery for 30 years or more, is much improved. He is with his son in California, and able to get about and enjoy himself.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

Miss Olivia Nelson was given a miscellaneous shower at the home of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Nelson, 16 Summer street, last Monday evening. About fifty-five friends attended and Miss Nelson was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts, including a refrigerator and a supply of fine table linens. Mrs. Katherine Higgins made the presentation speech and a pleasant evening was spent. Miss Nelson will become the bride of Frank Harrigan of Medford on Easter Sunday.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

THE REAL CONQUERORS

IT IS not the general who takes a city and leaves behind him a name for military sagacity, who is the real conqueror in life, but the unknown private, who fights a single-handed battle with self and finally triumphs.

It is this lowly warrior who has the most to overcome. He goes to battle in silence, conscious of the overwhelming odds arrayed against him.

There are no shrieking shells or roaring cannon to announce his coming—no bugle calls nor throbbing drums.

Often he fights side by side with thousands who utter not a sound.

Once he awakes to some defect of character which threatens his ruin, he girds his armor and faces the foe.

And if by valiant fighting he succeeds in saving himself, he comes forth from the fray a real conqueror.

His name is unpublished in the press, but it is sung among the angels!

He has overcome and to him will be given the reward promised in the Scriptures.

Passion, pride, selfishness, avarice, disobedience and forgetfulness of the Golden Rule are among the enemies that men fight alone.

They are in every corner of the earth, in our own homes, in our own hearts.

From them come our repinings and tears, our fears and failures.

To overcome these sulking foes ought to be our paramount purpose, for, "what doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

In the world's news today you may read pathetic stories of men and women who have fallen from high estates through failure to conquer themselves.

Married pairs have broken their troth; bank clerks have pilfered, and all manner of men and women have blighted their lives and the lives of their families, simply because of forgetfulness of duty in a moment of weakness, when they were unable to control an evil spirit.

They lacked the power to conquer self, and in their impotence they deserted the front line of brave fighters, slunk back in dismay to the rear, humiliated and routed, lost in the whirl of Time and remembered no more.

GOOD FOOD FOR EVERY DAY

A GOOD chowder for a chilly day is the following:

Onion Chowder.

Cook two cupfuls of finely minced onion in six tablespoonfuls of butter for thirty minutes, or until the onion is soft and yellow, not browned. Add eight potatoes, pared and sliced, one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of sage, marjoram and other herbs, one quart of water. Cook until the potatoes are tender; add three cupfuls of milk and one cupful of cream. Let come to a boil and serve with pilot crackers.

Round of Beef, Italian Style.

Take a slice of beef from the bottom of the round, about three inches thick. With a sharp, pointed knife make a number of incisions through it and insert in each a slice of bacon, sprinkled with chopped onion and parsley; roll into a tight roll. At least six rolls should be thus inserted. Tie a string around the meat; chop some bacon, with onion and parsley and thyme and sweet marjoram to taste and spread the mixture in the bottom of a stewpan. Brown the meat on both sides and place over the bacon mixture in the saucepan. Pour over one quart of sifted tomato pulp and let stew slowly until the meat is done.

Old-Fashioned Hard Gingerbread.

Take one cupful each of molasses, sugar and shortening, and one cupful of boiling water. Sift two tablespoonfuls each of ginger and soda with one cupful of flour and add to the mixture. Mix well; add flour to make a stiff dough. Place in a cool place and the next day roll out and cut in squares one-half inch thick and bake.

Mrs. Frank H. Sanger is confined to her home with a recurrence of a nervous condition, to which she is periodically subject.

Gertrude, daughter of Councillor and Mrs. Frances L. Poor, who has been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Elmer M. Poor, at the latter's home at Proctor's Crossing, is convalescing from an attack of measles.

Donald Roby, who resigned as secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce to accept a similar position in Wakefield, reports that he is meeting with every encouragement in his new undertaking.

J. Henry Higgins of Fay avenue is confined to his home with illness.

Elliott L. Macdonald, president of the L. B. Southwick Co., and Councillor David Craig were members of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce who attended the Mass. State Chamber banquet at the Copley-Plaza last Wednesday evening. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was the orator of the evening.

Mrs. James Roome, who has been confined to her home for the past few weeks, is reported to show some improvement.

Miss Caroline Merrill on Monday quietly observed her 92d birthday at the home of her nephew, Frank C. Merrill, on Thorndike street. She received a number of visitors who called to extend their felicitations and left with the conviction that time has dealt but lightly with Miss Merrill.

Elizabeth Ingraham spent the weekend with her cousin in Reading.

Mrs. Justin Trask substituted at the Peabody high last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Macalister (nee Madeline Barnes) are receiving congratulations upon the birth Sunday at the J. B. Thomas hospital of a second daughter, Phyllis.

Nathan H .Poor Co. have posted notices to the effect that their tannery will operate for the present on part time only, stagnation of business causing many others to slow down materially.

The condition of Councillor Francis L. Poor is reported so far improved that he is able to be up and about the hospital at Parker Hill, where he is undergoing treatment. It will be one year on the last day of April since he was stricken with pneumonia.

John Learoyd, Jr., and Chandler Foster were among the local alumni of Dartmouth College who attended a meeting in Salem Tuesday called for the purpose of organizing an Essex County association of the graduates of their alma mater.

When the Paris "Figaro" published a cartoon against the payment of the expenses of the United States Army of Occupation, the American Legion in France registered a healthy kick. The picture showed a doughboy pushing aside Marianne as the latter is about to take a plate of gold from Germany.

Every Chamber of Commerce in the State of Washington has voted in favor of the American Legion's plan for adjusted compensation.

When John A. Isham of Boise, Idaho, discovered that Oscar Weymire, his old bunkmate in the army, had not paid his American Legion dues he decided to visit Weymire. The latter was trapping 300 miles away, but Isham made the trip by foot, horse and skates and brought in the dues.

The strength that won the Argonne and St. Mihiel is being used to guard New York against payroll and bank messenger robberies. The American Legion is furnishing ex-soldiers who go heavily armed with the men and women who carry huge sums through the business sections.

Hundreds of ex-gobs who raked mines out of the North Sea during the world war went to re-enlist, but in Prohibition Commissioner Haynes' "hooch Navy." Four submarine chasers are being put in commission at Baltimore, Md., and when completed will form a navy that will wage war on rum runners.

A discovery that Harvard, Neb., didn't have a way of getting the latest news on the weather, crops and current events caused an old navy radio operator to get busy. Now the American Legion is issuing "hot off the wire" news to the Harvard citizenry.

"If the Legion wants the flag taken down they can hire a couple of steeple jacks and take it down," was the answer the board of commissioners made to the Littleton, Col., American Legion post when it protested the improper care being given the flag on the court house. Nothing loth, a couple of old mast climbers turned the trick.

Their own hero's death from old war wounds has caused a Des Moines, Iowa, family to send a request to the American Legion for an ex-service man for adoption.

War wounds and nervousness laid to a shell shock is believed responsible for the act of Ralph W. Harrison of Maplewood, N. J., who committed suicide by shooting himself with the army revolver he had carried in France.

The American Legion rifle team of Golden, Col., composed entirely of men whose rifles played a part in the world war battles, has issued a challenge to any rifle team in the United States, the scores to be telegraphed to each team at the end of each range.

When a carnival pitched its tents on his hotel property and an appeal to the authorities prover of no avail, Charles E. Young, Sr., St. Augustine, Fla., used the old sea method of showing distress and hung the American flag on his hostelry upside down. The American Legion protested the act and Young publicly apologized.

The Chicago, Ill., board of aldermen has voted to send a delegation of five of its members to Washington to help in the fight for the American Legion's bill for adjusted compensation.

Alexander Lochwitzky, a former Russian count and a major in the American Legion, asking that a job be found for him 'doing anything." He speaks eight languages fluently. Everything he had was lost in the San Antonio flood.

Because the ex-soldier doesn't speak German and the man he named does, Rep. Edward Voigt of the 2nd Wisconsin district refused the request of the American Legion that Clyde Ellis, world war veteran, be appointed postmaster at Elkhart Lake, Wis., Rep. Voight has informed citizens who favored Ellis.

When a tornado struck Corinth, Miss., the Mayor called on the American Legion post to furnish an armed patrol to prevent pillaging. For hours after the catastrophe the ex-service men were on the job in the stricken areas.

* * *

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis flatly refused to become an honorary member of the American Legion when the honor was offered him following his speech before the Mobile, Ala., post. "No man who has not the title of a world war veteran should be permitted a place on the roll of the Legion," he said. "I would give almost anything I have for that title."

Declares City Autos Are Making Taxrate Higher

Editor Enterprise:

Turning our searchlight once more upon the auto system of the city we would ask those in a position to give information as to the number of machines now in use apart from those of the police department, and the cost of upkeep of these.

Is it a fact that the city engineer has a machine and that the superintendent of the electric light system has another? Also does the city provide one for the city almoner or board of health official and one for the district nurse? Does the city pay a certain amount for the use of a machine for the superintendent of streets?

If the city of Peabody is standing the expense of a machine for each of these officials, it is carrying a burden that can be lightened. We know that the fire chief has a big auto, as this is seen at a considerable distance because of its paint. Moreover, everybody knows what this machine is for, as the lettering as well as the flaring red paint makes the fact well known.

Eliminating this big machine of the fire chief, we have some seven autos in use by the officials if our count is correct. These come under the head of touring cars or pleasure cars. They include the two machines of this class now used by the police department. They do not include the trucks that are in use by the several departments, all of which are probably necessary on the work of these departments.

It is said by some that the superintendent of streets has his own machine, but that the city allows so much for its use. This makes little difference, as the upkeep of the machines is the main thing to be considered by all concerned.

Now as far as the writer understands, there are several different types of cars in use. These include Fords, Buicks, and at least one Cole.

There are many tax-payers who would like to have some information about the cost of upkeep of these several different cars. They also want to know why so many machines should be in use in such a small and struggling city as this. They would also ask why it is necessary to buy and operate machines which all owners of automobiles know to be exceedingly expensive to maintain and keep in running condition.

There are cars owned by private citizens, of the same type as may be seen in use by this city, which cannot be operated under an expense of at least $1500 or more per year. A heavy car in daily use can exceed this amount in running expenses. None but a millionaire can afford to operate such expensive cars.

The writer would ask some of the officials, who use cars at the expense of the people, to give something like approximate figures as to cost of their cars last year. Did any of these cars cost the taxpayers more than $1500 last year? Did any one car cost the people $1600 last year? We want an answer to this, if it is possible for any official to answer. This means cost of upkeep, new tires, gasoline, repairs, and other costs that add so much to the present top-heavy tax rate.

These big cars are very expensive. Some of them not only cost twice or three times as much as Fords, but the expense of keeping them in running condition for one year often foots up to an amount that would be sufficient to buy four Fords. For instance, if it cost $1600 to operate any particular car last year, the expense for that car alone was enough to buy four Fords.

Peabody can dispense with four or five of its pleasure cars and those kept in service should be Fords. This is the only car to buy and the cheapest car to run. One tire for a big car costs as much as three tires for the Ford. The parts for the Ford may be bought in any common hardware store or in the ten-cent stores.

Automobiles are the most expensive means of travel. Nothing compares to them so far as travel on land goes. So true is this that even the rich are coming to realize it and many of these are now buying Fords as a means of thrift.

In what is said here about the number of cars in the service of the city, no reference is made to trucks. Trucks are needed by many departments, such as the highway, health, cemetery, shade tree and other departments. These should also be Fords. Any experienced automobile driver will admit this.

The writer would also ask the pow-

Traffic Cop Defended By Eye Witness

PATROLMAN JAMES MURPHY

Patrolman James Murphy, who ranks as one of the cleverest officers under Chief Grady, takes exceptions to the article appearing in last week's Enterprise which intimated that he as the traffic officer was remiss in his duties some days previous when a New Hampshire touring car barely averted a crash with the fire chief's auto.

According to Officer Murphy, the touring car made no attempt to stop when it saw the speeding fire chief's car, and there is an unwritten law that autos should come to a halt or get to one side and halt on the approach of fire apparatus. The speed of the fire chief's auto at the time is not the question at issue. It had the right of way. Whether it was observing the Mayor's order that no fire apparatus should exceed 15 miles an hour through Peabody Square is not the concern of Officer Murphy. He was standing near Manning's corner and the chief's car was in the square when it was first seen. That a bell alarm should be placed at Manning's corner to warn the traffic cops of the immediate approach of the fire apparatus is proved in this instance, and it might be done at a small expense, and would save lives and thus warrant its expense.

Patrolman James McMahon was at his dinner hour when the incident occurred. He is the first traffic officer and a good one. Murphy, who was covering in McMahon's absence, is equally a good traffic cop. He told the driver of the New Hampshire car that he should have halted his machine when the fire auto appeared. After all the facts are known, it would appear that Officer Murphy was on the job; that the driver of the fire chief's car was exceeding the 15-mile limit, and the New Hampshire car driver erred in not coming to a sudden stop when the chief's car hove in sight.

OUR STREETS

When Peabody macadamized the main arteries of the city, it was a job which gave the city a name well known, particularly among owners of automobiles. Peabody square, Main, Foster, Chestnut and Central streets have a road bed which is the best construction. Andover, Walnut, North-end and Lynn streets have a cheaper construction. Already these streets show the wear, and particularly Lynn street is fast coming to repair. This thoroughfare may be patched up this year so as to pass muster. But unless considerable is put there a new road bed will be the answer. Andover street has stood the wear far better than most people predicted. Apparently a light job so far as foundation is concerned, it does not show as does Lynn street. Intervening streets have had little attention for years. Ordinary repairing has kept them passable, but at this time of year some are unsafe for travel. Sidewalks on these streets are far from being acceptable to house owners. With the present condition of the city treasury, there is but one answer to their condition. With no money available, they will stay as they are until such time as the money is forthcoming. Not very welcome news but what else can be done? Streets in West Peabody are far better than those in the center of the city. Even this time of year when it is expected country roads would be uneven, such is not the case on some, at least of the West Peabody thoroughfares. So we must wait as did Micawber. By the time there is money to repair them, those macadam roads will need looking after. The world war placed many corporations and individuals in tight places and so with many cities.

OUR PASSENGER SERVICE

For many years Peabody has had cause to complain of the passenger service to Boston. Trains are few and far between to the big city. The railroad has always claimed trains that have been taken off did not pay. Particularly at this time, the service is such that unless one chooses to take the early morning train, he must journey in the electrics to Salem, where trains run at frequent intervals. The geographical position of Peabody is unfortunate. We are on branch lines and two miles from nowhere. Danvers has much better service to Boston for the reason the Danvers and Georgetown branch affords facilities. Peabody is a good customer for the Boston & Maine on the freight end. There is no doubt we hand the road more money each year than any of our neighbors, and so it would seem this should count to give Peabody better passenger service. But the powers that be do not figure that way, and so we are allowed to suffer. There have been times when by a concerted effort better conditions have been attained. Then without keeping up the fight, matters settled back again, so that finally those interested gave up the battle. It was a case of a few fighting for many with no thanks thrown in. So we will continue to have a few trains in the morning and at night. We believe better train service would mean more commuters, thus attracting this class to take up their residence in our city.

TAX AUTOMOBILES

Whoever was instrumental in passing the present Massachusetts tax law, evidently did not figure out that automobiles were to be such a factor in taxable personal propery. Ownership April first is the taxable time for real and personal estate. Nothing was taken into account that such property owned March 31, not April first, and again owned April second could not legally be taxed. So when automobiles came in, the practice of selling their machines in the fall or spring, purchasing later in April or May, has become a habit. In many cases, no doubt, the amount of the tax was not considered. In other cases it is considered, and between them both, the cities and towns are losing much taxable property. One answer might be the machines are somewhere, which is true. But many get lost in the shuffle. It could be laid at the doors of assessors, if not found, but it does not alter the fact a loss in taxes occurs. Massachusetts should have a law which would not allow the opportunity to dodge taxes. In New Hampshire no automobile license can be obtained without first showing a receipted tax bill. Thus all pay the tax on their machine. Small cities and towns lose most by the present law. Most second hand machines are sold to dealers, and those dealers hold forth in the large cities.

CONFIDENCE DESTROYED

The public servant charged with inspection of foods has a sacred trust to which he obligates himself when he accepts an appointment and it is difficult to find excuse for any deviation from the hard and fast rule of keeping his oath of office to the very letter. When it becomes possible to deviate then it should be apparent that the usefulness of any such food inspector is at an end in his special duty and the decent thing would be to resign his post. A plea of guilty as recently made by such an official in the local court when charged with violating a regulation of his department was a confession of deplorable weakness that in most any municipality would automatically oust him from office. There does not appear to be any extenuating circumstance to mitigate this penalty, for public confidence has been shaken and the protection of our food supply is far too great a stake to be bartered with by excuses in his behalf.

ROUND ABOUT

Peabody with all its dull business, can point with satisfaction to the improvements taking place at the Danvers Bleachery. The dyehouse is being cleared for new machinery and a general housecleaning. The office building and storehouse is to have a second story added, and work has already begun on the northerly end. A new power plant, new in every respect, and up-to-date electric equipment, the latest and best in this section.

* * *

For years this corporation clung to old ideas, satisfied that way was the best. Now with the Naumkeag Steam Cotton Co. as boss, the latest is their idea of doing business. With this spirit, Peabody is bound to benefit both by added employment and taxes. Not this year however, but by April first next year all will be well, if present plans mature.

A copy of the telephone almanac reached my desk this week with the compliments of the N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co. It is a sizable booklet with all of the best information generally found in similar publications. Needless to say it contains interesting data about the progress of telephony.

* * *

The mammoth A. C. Lawrence Leather Co.'s plant appears like a holiday. Without the patent leather, there would be little to talk about there. From their standpoint there is little in the direct future to warrant better business.

* * *

There has been considerable rumblings as to who is who in the fire department. Some say there are too many bosses which means no boss at all. With paid firemen some one should be the boss.

* * *

Peabody will take pride in the coming graduation of Miss Emily Nichols next June at Wellesley College, who at the age of 21 will become one of the youngest graduates at that popular girls' university. Miss Nichols is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nichols, formerly of this city, and now of Biddeford, Me., and left many girl friends here who will be glad to know of her excellence in studies. She graduated from the Biddeford high school at the age of 17.

That fire in the rear of the Levin block was another where smoke was more than fire. Only by cutting holes in the roof could the firemen live to get the water into the building. They say a cigarette set this fire. Cigarettes have much to answer for in the next world.

There appears to be something stirring in the real estate market. At least two blocks on Peabody square have been looked over with the idea of purchasing.

* * *

The new ash collector ought to do good work. He looks ahead to a dull summer and figures part of a loaf is better than loafing. There are many others too numerous to mention, who might follow his example and not wait for the ship to come in without a breeze.

* * *

The recent storm was a blessing to our water system. Few know that not for years have we had so little water in the supply basins as this year. We need several more storms of the same kind, even if the golfers are disappointed.

* * *

It would be strange for Peabody if the usual Saturday night fire did not occur. Someone said the firemen do not attempt to go to bed that night. Why Saturday night for so many fires?

* * *

House building this year in Peabody has been below normal. We need houses, also the money to build them. The question arises, is it foolhardy or wise to build with high prices of stock and labor? Yes, if they are reduced, no if conditions in the building line remain, the same. Take your choice.

Unsteady employment has proved a stimulus for saving money, strange though that may seem, for the Warren Five Cents Savings Bank in its last publication announces a gain of 33 per cent in depositors for the year ending February 15. The gain in dollars was a quarter of a million which must give Doc Gloom a terrific wallop. The bank declares the need of thrift and economy has sent many new depositors to their counters.

* * *

A talk with George Vaughn white sole king this week by an Enterprise reporter, finds this busy manufacturer the same as ever. He has been a busy man in Peabody for 30 years and still going strong. In fact, he says he enjoys work. That is the secret of this life, to enjoy whatever you are given to do. Mr. Vaughn is the only manufacturer in this section if not in the country of white sole leather. He started the business when others said it could not prosper and by that everlasting stick to it he has a business which is a winner.

George D. Morse, blacking manufacturer, just back from a second tour of the world's war area in Europe, brings a message that France is ungrateful to America and her people go so far to show their contempt as to hiss at pictures of American soldiers when screened at the moving picture houses. Americans are robbed of their money in Paris, being deemed just prey for the greedy landlords and others. It's the old story of ingratitude, according to the Peabody man. He found the German people cordial and anxious to be friends with the American travelers who visit their country. The military alone in Germany is unfriendly. Mr. Morse is to address the Peabody Rotary Club in the near future.

The two hearings on the sewer controversy afforded ample room for all concerned, and oratory flowed like the sewer. If the truth counts we believe Peabody has little to worry about. That poor north river has been more abused than France in the late war. It was smelly when South Danvers was a baby, and no improvement has been reported since. Some things are doomed to hard luck, rivers as well as individuals.

JACK'S HIND FOOT

YOUNG JACK RABBIT had been told by his mother not to venture out. "There is going to be a storm," said Mrs. Rabbit, "and the snow will be deep and the wind anything but gentle, so snuggle down in your bed and go to sleep.

But Jack Rabbit was hungry, very hungry, indeed, for he had seen some turnips being carried into Mr. Man's barn, and though he did not dare go in then, he did look about and find a nice convenient hole where he could go in later and have a feast.

And that was just what he had planned to do that night after all the family were asleep. He intended to run up to the farm again and creep out softly and have all the turnips he could eat for once in his life.

Mr. Dog would be sound asleep, and he would not be nosing about looking for poor little hungry rabbits at that hour, and Mr. Horse never bothered anyone, and now his mother was spoiling it all by saying it was going to snow and the wind would blow. It was too bad; that was all there was about it.

Jack Rabbit thought all this and more, too, and the first thing he knew, instead of being sleepy he was wide awake and hungrier than ever.

He got out of his nice warm bed and peeked out of the door. It wasn't snowing and even if the wind was blowing there was the moon. "Mother does not know everything, and this time she surely is mistaken," thought Jack.

He did not notice the clouds scudding across the face of the moon, for his mind was on those turnips up in Mr. Man's barn.

He took long leaps and jumps and soon Jack was crossing the field, running toward the barn.

"Oh, dear," cried Jack as he stopped in the snow a minute, for there was snow on the ground that had been there a long time, but the thing that made him cry out was a heavy gust of wind that blew his long ears about and lifted a handful of dry snow which struck Jack right in his eyes.

The moon was nowhere to be seen now and as Jack Rabbit hopped along he saw that snow was coming down very fast. It was no use turning back now, so he kept right on hopping toward the barn.

He was pretty cold and tired when he got to the convenient hole in the side of the barn, and when he was in where it was nice and warm once more, Jack waited a minute before running over to the turnips which he saw on the floor in one corner of the barn.

"There is Mrs. Hen and her chicks," thought Jack. "She was sensible to come in here instead of staying in the poultry house this cold night, and then she is safer here from Mr. Fox than with the other poultry."

Jack's ears went up straight for he heard a sound outside, although it was faint. "What's that?" he thought, sitting very still and his whiskers trembling as he listened.

"I guess I better run right home," said Jack Rabbit, hurrying toward the convenient hole through which he had entered, but when he reached it he changed his mind quickly, for Mr. Fox's nose was poked through and Jack Rabbit turned to run.

Then he remembered his hind feet, and with a mighty hard kick Jack struck Mr. Fox right in the face, which made him see stars and sent him running home sure some terrible creature was hidden in Mr. Man's barn.

But Mrs. Hen was wide awake, for she was aware Mr. Fox was about before Jack had seen him, and now she was clucking her thanks at Jack as he sat trembling behind a barrel.

Jack Rabbit was a hero and did not know it, for Mrs. Hen told him he had saved her and her children also from that bad Mr. Fox.

By and by when it was all quiet again in the barn Jack crept to the turnips and ate his fill and then he ran off home again, for it had stopped snowing and the moon was out.

THE BUSY MAN

Don't go to him who always has
But if you want your favor done,
Just ask the busy man.
The man with leisure never has
A moment he can spare,
He's always "putting off" until
His friends are in despair.
But he whose every waking hour
Is crowded full of work,
Forgets the art of wasting time—
He cannot stop to shirk.
So when you want a favor done
And want it right away,
Go to the man who constantly
Works twenty-four hours a day..
He'll find a moment, sure, somewhere,
That has no other use,
And fix you while the idle man
Is framing an excuse.

MICKIE SAYS—

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
Essex, ss. PROBATE COURT.

To all persons interested in any of the estate of MARGARET MODEE, late of Peabody in said County (wife of Adolph Modee) deceased, intestate.

WHEREAS, Adolph Modee formerly of Lynn in the County of Essex, now of Norfolk, in the County of Norfolk, has presented to said Court a petition, representing that he as the husband of said deceased is interested in the property of said deceased in this Commonwealth, that the whole of the property of said deceased remaining after the payment of debts, and charges of administration does not exceed in value the sum of five thousand dollars; and praying that the value of the property remaining after the payment of debts, and charges of administration may be determined by said Court, according to law.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Haverhill, in said County of Essex, on the twenty-fourth day of April A. D. 1922, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to each person interested who can be found within the Commonwealth, fourteen days, at least, before said Court; and if any one cannot be so found, by publishing the same in the Peabody Enterprise a newspaper published in Peabody, once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Peabody Enterprise a newspaper published in Peabody the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, post-paid, a copy hereof to his last known address seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this third day of April in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court within and for the County of Essex:

RESPECTFULLY libels and represents MARIA A. MANOLAKIS, of Peabody in said county, that she was lawfully married to George S. Manolakis, now of parts unknown, at Peabody, on the seventh day of May A. D., 1921; and thereafterwards your libellant and the said George S. Manolakis lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth, to wit, at 5 Union Street, Peabody, Mass., that your libellant has always been faithful to her marriage vows and obligations, but the said George S. Manolakis being wholly regardless of the same, at Peabody on May 8th, 1921, and at divers other times was cruel and abusive to your libellant; and that the said libellee being of sufficient ability, grossly and cruelly refused and neglected to provide suitable maintenance for her, your libellant.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said George S. Manolakis.

Dated this twenty-ninth day of March A. D., 1922.

her
Maria A. (x) Manolakis.

E. A. Hershenson,
Witness to mark.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS

ESSEX, ss. Superior Court, March 29, 1922.

Upon the foregoing libel, ordered, that the said libellant give notice to said GEORGE S. MANOLAKIS by causing an attested copy of her said libel, and of this order thereon, to be published in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper printed in Peabody in the county of Essex, once a week, for three weeks successively, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the return day of this Court, at Salem, within the county of Essex, on the first Monday of May next, and by mailing, forthwith, by registered letter to the libellee at his last known place of residence, an attested copy of said libel and of this order thereon: that he may appear at said Salem within six months from said first Monday of May and show cause, if any he has, why the prayer of said libel should not be granted.

Attest, A. N. FROST, Clerk.

The foregoing is a true copy of said libel and of the order thereon.

Attest,
A. N. FROST, Clerk.

SAVE - install ARCOLA this month — NOW

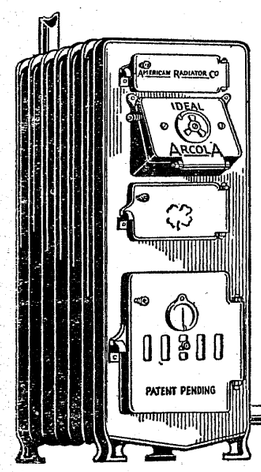
TODAY, do this one little thing that costs nothing. Pick up the telephone, call your Steamfitter or Plumber and say: "What is the price of ARCOLA with an American Radiator in each room in my house, installed NOW?"

Remember to say, "installed NOW." The NOW is important. The diagram at the top of the page shows why.

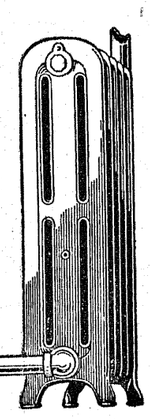
The crowd waits until it is cold in the Fall before installing heating equipment; then everybody wants his ARCOLA installed at the same time. You save yourself time, worry and money if you order in the Spring. ARCOLA costs less this month, NOW, than ever before in its history.



Your Steamfitter is waiting for that Telephone Call

Don't hesitate for fear of wasting your Steamfitter's time. He has much more time NOW than he will have next Fall when the rush season starts in. He is waiting for your telephone call; waiting to show you these three great ARCOLA advantages:

1. ARCOLA, installed in one room, is connected by pipes to an American Radiator in every other room. No more cold rooms; no spotty heat.
2. ARCOLA gives the same healthful radiator warmth that florists have in their greenhouses. Dry hot air is bad for flowers and families too.
3. ARCOLA does pay for itself in the fuel it saves. Thousands of owners have proved it.



AMERICAN RADIATOR COMPANY
IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators for every heating need

129-131 Federal Street
Boston, Mass.

This is ARCOLA—a boiler and radiator combined. It is so handsome that you can install it in the living room—or in the kitchen, or down cellar if you prefer.

An American Radiator like this stands in every room, connected with ARCOLA. ARCOLA can heat the kitchen tank, too, supplying hot water for family use.

FREE A beautiful ARCOLA book will be mailed to you if you will send your name to the address above; and remember—your Steamfitter's estimate costs you nothing. Make that telephone call today, NOW.

THE LIGHT-BEARER

YOU cannot be the sun,
But you can carry light
To those whose paths must run
Through ways of night.

You cannot be a star
That lights the heavenly way,
But where dark shadows are
At close of day.

E'en as the star anon
Leads to the morning clear,
So too may you lead on
To realms of cheer.

Leather Production Bound To Increase In Near Future

(By ENERGY)

I have visited many factories this week and the story is a sad one from a business point. There is no kick to business anywhere. The story is that business is quiet. In a big plant like the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. but for patent leather, little is doing. I have never been able to understand why patent leather, which at the best is faddy, should at this particular time be in such a demand. Other patent leather tanners tell me what leather that is selling is at a low price, which they cannot meet. But even at that, it would seem that there will be an avalanche of patent leather shoes on the market this year. As for the real thing in looks, I think all admit this leather has the call. But the wearing qualities as compared with other leather is not there, not that leather may wear, but it cannot be dressed well after a time. For dress up shoes, where one watches his step and uses his handkerchief frequently, all is well, so why ramble further.

The Shoes and Leather Reporter tells us that style in shoes today is in a state of anarchy. They go on to explain that shoe retailers proclaim that from now on they will purchase shoes for immediate wants only. If this works out, the shoe manufacturer cannot figure for the future with any certainty, therefore the tanner cannot sell in quantities. Should this new way of buying shoes come in, I see but one remedy. There are hundreds of shoe stores today who run their own chain of stores. It is logical. Should more be forced into it, it seems to me the public will benefit.

A tanner must know in time what is wanted for shoes. He cannot jump from one color or finish to another every day or week. To make a dollar he must manufacture a line of leather large enough to realize a profit. To-day colors and finishes change with the sun, and thus the tanner rushes around his plant frantically exclaiming to his foremen a new leather must be made or no business. Such a condition cannot be. The trade cannot and will not stand for it. It will drive more to sell their shoes direct, and as some shoe factories have sold shoes at the plant, so others may do. With automobiles why will not such a business work out to be profitable? Food for thought.

The Shoe and Leather Reporter says this week: "This anarchistic shoe style condition has almost paralyzed operations at many of the upper leather tanneries. The tanners have no possible way of knowing in advance what kind of leather will be wanted. This is deplorable in view of the general demand for shoes at reasonable prices. Of late certain tannages and colors were demanded over night only for the rage to pass to something else before half the tanners had even started to produce the new leather."

Again they say: "Rapidly changing shoe styles make economy and mass production impossible. There is urgent need of stabilization in our industry. We are an army without leaders or discipline. What are the joint committees of our national organizations going to do about it?"

History tells us that high prices of commodities are always followed by low ones. Then again low prices are followed by high ones. The middle is only reached by steady business for a long period. What puzzles many who are studying conditions today is why the stock market continues bullish, in the face of conditions. The stock market has been the barometer to gauge the future of business. Is it possible this market is going higher on supposition, or have they some knowledge of big things which the public will acquire later? If steel is selling at advanced prices, if Bethlehem steel stock has reflected the demand by a raise of 30 points on the common stock, if corn has advanced 25 cents a bushel, such happenings mean something. It must mean the farmers are more prosperous, and being so will purchase commodities in larger quantities. It means that the pubilc are not carrying anything but what will meet their immediate wants. When they commence to buy, but one thing can happen. The demand will be large enough to boost prices. So I am a believer that although the leather business is flatter today than any time in the last 10 years, other business is showing an increase. Leather must follow.

When one visits the leather factories in Peabody he sees practically new faces from even 10 years ago. The world moves on and the yesterdays make one think changes are fast and sure. It would be rather personal to mention the names of those who have grown old in the business, but the few could easily be placed in the Hall of Fame, as being successful representatives of one of the largest industries in our country. Many of the young men come and go, and the small percentage of those who stick through thick and thin are justly commended whether they like it or not. Probably one of the longest if not the longest lived concerns in the business was Nelson and Merrill, who did business under that name without a change for 45 years. George Clerk was a finisher of sheep leather longer than that time, but as an individual. Such concerns weathered many panics as bad as the present one, but came out with flying colors. There was far more danger then than now, because the six months it took to make the leather added to the difficulties.

Peabody High School

About fifteen of the boys in Miss Loud's class in mechanical drawing are making diagrams of the different switchboards for the fire alarms in the building, for reference at the office.

Miss Alice Partridge of Room 4 has been absent this week on account of illness.

"Mose" Harris returned to school this week.

We are glad to see Miss Loud back at school after a week's absence on account of illness.

The Seniors have begun rehearsals for the play "Line Busy" and it promises to be very good. The cast contains nineteen girls and five boys. Lottie Brown, Dorothy Brown, Marea Johnson, Elizabeth Moore, Grafton Broughton and William Glencross have the leading parts.

The school was inspected by the Peabody Woman's Club last week.

Examinations come next Tuesday and Wednesday, with double periods and three exams a day.

The special chorus number for graduation, for which the Seniors are rehearsing every Friday, is advancing rapidly.

Today is visiting day at the high school.

The friends of Miss Helen Potter are glad to know that she is recovering from her recent illness.

Three members of the Spanish Club will give a short sketch before the members at the next meeting.

We are glad to see Lincoln Reid with us again, after his recent absence.

Don't forget the sophomore class meeting Monday noon, April 10, in Room 4.

STARLIGHT REBEKAH LODGE

Starlight Rebekah Lodge will initiate candidates at the regular meeting on Monday evening.

FOOD SALE

The Woman's Association of the South church will hold a food sale in the church parlors on Saturday, April 8, from 2.30 to 5 p. m.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

"AND THE GREATEST OF THESE IS ——"

Last week one of the mechanics in a leather factory said to me: "Mr. Eglee, I wish you would write a "Little Talk" that would show people how much time and money we are losing in hating each other. We used to consider 'each of us is necessary to the other,'—now we hate everybody that does not think and act as we want them to."

This is true. It is one of the legacies of the war. Germany sowed the seeds of hatred all through the civilized and half civilized nations of Europe, and we, in this country, learned some of this hatred; some of this war made suspicion of each other and of distrust in our fellow men.

Until this feeling is rooted out of the hearts of the people we never will get back that contentment of living which we ought to have. Right here in old New England there are communities, or cities, where only a little spark is needed to raise the flame of revolt against law and order.

I wonder if the majority of our New England people know the reason of this? Do they see under the surface of the morning newspaper into the forces that are at work? We are a nation of workers. We have been and we will be a nation of prosperous workers. Work is our salvation. Work is a blessing because while we work we are creating something. Whether we work with our bodies or our brains we are creators made in the image and likeness of the Great Creator. That is what work is,—creating something,—and the more we create the happier and more prosperous we are.

But today there are ideas and forces at work that rob us of our creative power, saying to us 'You must not work more than so many hours, or days; you must not produce more than so much." Limiting a man's capacity; stopping a man's creative power and setting up warfare; for other forces are stirred up to say, "You must work as many hours as you are told and you must do more work." And here, between these two forces, the worker,—the creator,—is in danger of being crushed.

So long as the Trade Union teaches men that work is a curse,—so long as the worker is taught that he is a slave and not a free man,—so long as every unionist who earns wages is aught to look upon the employer as a dishonest capitalist,—just so long will there be hatred and distrust among men.

There never was a time in all the history of the world when so much is being done—by laws, by the community, by the employer, to make it possible for the laboring man to be efficient, to earn more money, to live better,—than is being done today. At the same time there never was such a strong effort brought to bear upon the public and upon the employer, to cripple his efforts and make his management more difficult, by sowing seeds of dissension between him and the wage earners in his factory.

There has always been injustice and wrong between man and man, yet through the progress of many years this has gradually been bettered. We have always had class prejudice and class complaint, but only quite recently has this been made the basis of an organized business run for the profits of a few. Our industrial leaders and our public generally have been misled; we have innocently supposed that the wrongs of the worker were to be redressed by well planned methods of collective bargaining, elected leaders, and combined action, whereas the worker himself (and the general public also) realizes today that he is being exploited by an organization used for the purpose of keeping him discontented and the public fearful and disturbed.

As I go about the factories I am shocked at times by the bitter ideas of young men, who ought to be full of hope and ambition and faith in the future. They do not realize, and half the people in Peabody, or in the United States, do not realize that the biggest part of capital is not money,—it is brains,—and for that reason no one can distribute capital, because they cannot distribute brains. Capital cannot be counted out in dollars and cents. It is something that cannot be used at all without thinking brains. Every man who will use his brain to think constructively and in a way to make a better man of himself, is adding capital to his life.

A few manufacturers in this locality have joined together under the motto and standard at the head of this page and are trying to conduct their factories in accordance with these principles. These are difficult principles to live up to. Many mistakes are being made. But it is something to have made a start, even if the going is not easy.

The people should know this. The people in this section should know that methods are being worked out that some day may bring about a union of manufacturers, foremen and workers, who can, and will, live and work in harmony. Meantime, every agitator, every man who preaches hate, fear, suspicion and distrust, and leads his fellow men to believe in these things, is holding back the time when we can work together man to man in Co-operation, in giving Service, with Justice.

City Autos Make Tax Rate High

ers that happen to be at City Hall to give us some information as to the method of purchasing gasoline for all these machines. Are the officials buying gasoline at retail or wholesale rates?

There are many of us who believe that there is always a strong tendency on the part of those who have cars at their command, to make use of these on any and all pretexts. The call of the country on a fine pleasant day, or the cool breeze of the ocean, is rather better than stifling in a dingy office.

Probably there are some who think that the use of a high speed auto means efficiency on the part of the official. The writer as well as many another tax-payer, who have made a study of the effect of free autos, hold no such weak and simple notion. The possession of a machine is an incentive, not to efficiency, but to inefficiency, and the general complaint in all our cities at present, over the joy riding custom of city officials, confirms this in the minds of all thinking people.

Viewing the whole question of city ownership of autos it is becoming quite evident to many that there is waste going on that can be prevented. Peabody is a small city and one may walk from one end to the other in two hours. From the Salem line to the So. Middleton paper mills is something like eight miles and a good man can walk that distance in a very short time.

Further than this, nine-tenths of our people probably live within fifteen minutes' falk from City Hall. This being the case, why all the automobiles? Why not let the officials walk as well as the poor tax-payer, who we always have with us, and who must grow still poorer in the future, with such a system of lavishness and magnificence, wherein each of these city officials appear to outshine the others in the elegance and splendor of their auto equipage.

In this as well as in many other matters, that cause intolerable taxes to the rich as well as to the poor, we do not want a mere reform. A reform, or any attempt at reform, would be the same as applying a plaster to a lamp post. Nothing short of the surgeon's knife will do. Only by scrapping every machine, except one, will we ever get back to common-sense methods in dealing with officials, who never knew what it meant to sit down to anything but a first-class dinner.

There is need of just one machine of the pleasure type in this city. This should be a Ford, and it should be kept in front of City Hall, or close by, so that any particular official, who wanted to use a machine in a hurry, would have it close at hand.

We have a police patrol, an ambulance, a fire auto for the chief, and trucks for each department. These are all that are really necessary and far more than our fathers or grandfathers would ever permit, even the best intentioned officials to maintain. The men of a generation ago never had such a cumbersome, costly, and wasteful system of doing a city's business.

Teaching the Bishop.

After evensong, the good bishop took his ease in the country rectory's garden and diverted himself with the company of the rector's little daughter. She asked him many questions, and finally demanded, as bedtime came: "What makes it get dark?" "Can't you," said the bishop, "tell me?" "Oh, yes, I can," she answered, nodding a sage head. "God shuts His eyes."—London Morning Post.

Hearty Eaters Appreciate It

Mrs. Kane Says Sanalt Stopped Great Suffering From Indigestion. Helped Her Children Too

I am a very hearty eater and usually enjoy my meals. My husband says he likes to see me eat, and is willing to get anything the children and I want."

So writes Mrs. P. J. Kane of 14 Darrow Street, New London, Conn., wife of a popular railroad man of that city. Mrs. Kane continues:

But several months ago I became very bilious. I suffered terribly from gas in the stomach. Laxative medicines gave me no relief, but made me sick and nervous. I lost my appetite, or, I guess I was afraid to eat, for the food hurt me so after each meal. I was in pain all the time; everything seemed to be going wrong.

'Then a friend suggested that I try 'Sanalt the Sensible Tonic,' as she called it. In two days after commencing to take Sanalt, I was wonderfully changed for the better. It braced me right up and made all my organs act in a healthy way. My stomach trouble soon passed away and by the time I had taken three bottles of Sanalt I could eat as heartily and enjoy my food as well as ever in my life.

"Since then I have given Sanalt to my boy and girl, with good results, and my husband has been cured of bad headaches, that he has had ever since he was a boy."

The majority of druggists sell Sanalt.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

KIND OF INTEREST

ASK the man of affairs what he is interested in and he will probably tell you:

"Everything."

He is interested in everything, and he ought to be.

But he also is especially interested in some one thing, which is why he is a man of affairs.

A very important editor is so absorbed in the study of the world and what is going on in it, that in worktime or playtime he is engaged in its study.

But he is especially interested in men and women. And specializing in this specialty he is interested in what they like to read.

He is so deeply interested in this, that he never meets a man or woman that he does not find out, in some fashion or other, what it is that attracts their attention in newspapers and magazines.

The results of the several hundred thousand questions he has asked are carefully put away in his brain, and when he gets out a number of the publication he directs, it is always bought and read by a very large number of people.

To have a live personal interest in all created things is necessary to every well-educated and active man.

If you sat at a dinner next to John D. Rockefeller you could get few rises out of him by discussing the theory of relativity. But if you began to talk of how to give away money intelligently, which is his special interest just now, you would probably hear something of much value.

Golf, music and many other things are fine interests to have, but the one interest you need most of all concerns your business or your profession.

If that is paramount, and you give it enough intelligent thought, you will prosper. If you "scatter" too much you will not.

TO REMAIN ANOTHER YEAR

Rev. J. M. Cubie has accepted a call to remain another year as pastor of the Church of the Nazarene. Mr. Cubie is a young man of great ability and preaches the bible without fear or favor.

Ancient Sundials.

The Greeks were extraordinary adepts at sundialing, as were also the Egyptians and the Arabians, and one specially interesting thing about these ancient dials is that it is always possible to tell, approximately, where they were made. Every sundial, to be accurate, has to be made for the latitude of the place where it is to be set up. Thus, a sundial discovered at Pompeii in 1762 was one designed for the latitude of Memphis, and from this it has been deduced that it was made by an Egyptian craftsman, possibly in the school of Alexandria.

Remarkable Plant.

There are several plants whose flower petals or leaves close or show disturbance when touched by the hand or when suddenly jarred. One of these, a mimosa, may be seen at the Botanical garden in New York. Ordinarily its leaves stand out firmly; but when touched the stems droop and the opposite leaves fold over the stem upon each other. The odor of chloroform causes them to regain their normal position.

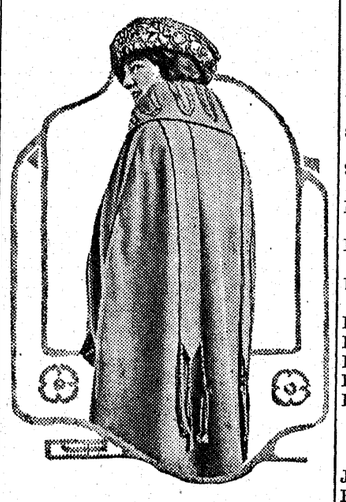
NEW IN SUITS

If clothes could speak the slip-over dress might truthfully boast: "I came, I saw, I conquered," for it made a complete triumph last summer. It was a long step in the direction of comfort for wear in warm weather. And now enters its near-of-kin in suits, traveling in the same direction. This new arrival is a two-piece affair in which a sleeveless coat is worn with a skirt to match and a blouse, usually of crepe or other silk, made in one with the skirt. The dress is complete in itself and can be worn without the coat. But some women object to going coatless on the streets, and this suit fits their needs. The model pictured is of poiret twill with beige-colored blouse of crepe de chine. Silk embroidery in navy and beige finishes the edges of the coat and adorns the narrow cuffs.



FOR THE 'TEENS

It is not difficult to solve the problem of dress for little girls in these days of specializing. Resourceful designers devote their time to putting materials into styles that are appropriate for the little miss and pleasing to her as well. They craftily take their cues from the "grown-up" modes, modifying them to suit the younger generation, as in the case of the pretty cape-wrap shown here.

This wrap for girls in their "teens" is a cape to which sleeves have been gracefully added. It is made of lightweight velours and has a full ripple back with a decoration of stitching in two rows around it. It has a large collar which is ingeniously arranged to draw up around the neck by means of a heavy silk cord that is threaded through large eyelets worked in silk like that of the stitching. The cord and eyelets are very decorative.

COATS RESEMBLE CAPES

One must look twice at many a spring wrap to determine whether it is a cape, pure and simple, or a more complex wrap. The more like a cape it looks the better its chances of winning approval from the fashionables. The cape has always stood women in good stead, nevertheless it will not hold her allegiance season after season without modifications, and we have them in the cape-wrap.

For general wear the spring offers, among others, the graceful wrap shown here. It is made of tricotine and has a large collar trimmed with applied loops of silk braid. At the back, loose, pendant panels of the cloth are finished with silk cords ending in slender tassels. Something between a sleeve and a slit at each side of the front allows freedom for the hands and arms. Altogether this is a smart and practical wrap for general wear and is developed in several coatings and colors.

ESSEX AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL

The "Green and White," the annual senior publication, has been received from the printer. The book contains pictures of the athletic teams, together with a complete record of all games, and other short sketches, which are of value to those interested in athletics at this school. A special feture of the book this year has been an accumulation of interesting notes concerning many of the alumni and there is also a complete directory of the class of 1921. Stories and humorous notes depicting some phases of school life make up the balance of the book.

The special course open to high school graduates is proving very popular. This course provides an intensive training in all the subjects which a home-maker should know. Practically all women are home makers in one way or another, and in these days of specialization, no woman has a right to attempt a "job" of any kind without special training for the work. This special free course at Essex gives an opportunity for young women who have graduated from an academic school, to supplement that education, with the special knowledge which makes for better homes and happier families.

Student Projects

Already 65 sudents in the agricultural department have been released, to take up their summer projects on farms. In some cases, they are owners of the projects, and in other cases they are working on progressive up-to-date farms, gardens and other agricultural establishments under direction of competent managers. In addition to this supervision they are visited frequently by their regular project instructors. This form of practical vocational training is gaining in favor rapidly.

The students of the homemaking department are enjoying their regular spring vacation of one week. They will return on April 10th for the spring term. This will be followed by the summer project term, similar to that of the agricultural department.

Doings of "Aggie" Men

Archie L. Pierce of Wenham is now superintendent of the farm of W. Austin Smith, Mt. Pleasant, Peabody. This is a large productive farm which emphasizes fruit growing. The extensive young orchards of apple and peach are now just coming into bearing. Mr. Pierce takes charge on April 1st. As foreman of the Hale farm in Rowley, Mr. Pierce showed one of the best managed farms that came to the attention of the writer last year.

The management of the school feels very proud to announce the selection of this man as the second superintendent to be placed during the past month.

Scale Insects

The various forms of bark and fruit scale are troublesome pests on farms and gardens. They are rather inconspicuous but do a tremendous amount of damage, not only to the fruit trees but to the various flowering shrubs, as Japan flowering quince, ornamental poplars and many others. The school will be glad to identify specimens and suggest methods of treatment and control.

It is time to "watch out" for the bud moth in the apple trees. This tiny worm feeds in the opening fruit and flower buds, causing complete destruction of both if not checked. Add arsenate of lead to your delayed dormant spray—4 lbs. to 100 gallon of spray, or use it separately, spraying first when flower clusters first appear and again before blossoms open.

Seasonable Notes

The fertilizing of grass lands and mowings with commercial fertilizers or home-mixed fertilizers should be completed at once. Early applications assist the grass to make a thick, heavy bottom growth. We are dependent upon the early spring rains to properly dissolve and carry the fertilizers to the grass roots.

Fruit men should examine their orchards with great care now to note the injury caused by mice and rabbits. Later injury may result from work of the woodchuck. Wounds which extend to the sapwood should be painted immediately with linseed oil paint, or better still, covered with grafting wax. Coning of the soil about the trunk assists the tree greatly. If the injury extends around the trunk, bridge grafting should be resorted to.

The care of lawns at this time of the year is of great importance. Commercial fertilizers or applications of raw materials like wood ashes, ground bone and nitrate of soda, give better results and cause the lawn to take on a splendid, vigorous growth. Lawns may be patched by sowing grass seed over the damaged spots. Grass seed can be well applied mixed with soil. Careful rolling of the lawn will put it in splendid condition for later results.

The mulching on strawberry beds and ornamental borders should be removed with great care. Examination day by day will show when the new growth indicates this removal.

Why not plant a new asparagus bed this spring? Fifty to one hundred plants should give ample supply for a small household. A bed once established and properly cared for is good for 20 years.

West Peabody

Arthur and Edward Moore are ill at their home on Lowell street with the measles. Their sister Elizabeth is also ill, with the grippe.

Mrs. Lewis Felt is confined to her home on Broad street with a severe cold.

Miss Susan Danforth is ill at her home on Lowell street with a case of tonsilitis.

Miss Esther Leach is ill at her home on Winona street with the measles.

Mrs. Charles Young and son John has returned to her home on Lowell street, after a two weeks' stay at the Thomas hospital.

A. J. Phillips is enjoying a few days rest from his business, in New York, at his home, Elmcroft Farm.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. White of Pleasantville, New York, formerly of West Peabody, will be pleased to know that their children, Marianna and Harrison, are recovering from minor operations performed recently.

West Peabody Grangers will have the pleasure of hearing an illustrated lecture by Albert W. Lombard, assistant director, department of fairs, of the state department of agriculture, at the meeting Friday, April 7. Mr. Lombard visits all of the fairs held in the state each fall and he will have some interesting stories to tell of his experiences. Different members will read papers telling of crops that have made money for them. Other granges are invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Leon Danforth and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Danforth of Providence, R. I., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Danforth of Lowell street. They are now motoring to New York state, where they will make their home in the near future.

Miss Alice Leach is confined to her home with the measles.

Master Robert Meakim is ill at his home with the measles.

The drama, "Just a Little Mistake," was postponed until May 9, on account of so much sickness throughout the town.

PEABODY SUBMITTED FACTS SALEM RELIED ON ORATORY

represents Peabody, and Senator Trefry of Marblehead, who has part of the Salem district. Their presence held an important significance.

Many of the Peabody manufacturers were present or had their engineers on hand. Mayor Shea, City Engineer Emerson and Engineer Frank Barber of Boston were present.

Chairman Moulton announced that each side would be allowed one hour and 15 minutes for rebuttal. Salem exceeded its time and Peabody did not require all of the time allowed for its case.

Atty. James J. Ronan opened Salem case by relating his personal investigation last August, and securing injunctions against 11 Peabody manufacturers, restraining them from emptying waste into the North Brook. He declared Salem had shown a fair sense of patience, but that the time had come when action was necessary to safeguard health and comfort of North Salem residents. He declared that 85 per cent. of the trouble was caused by Peabody opening the by-pass on Howley street and letting the industrial waste into the brook. He charged Peabody plants with having secret outlets which could be opened into the brook, and he introduced photos taken last summer which were taken of some Peabody plants. He admitted that the bad condition of some months ago had been improved by Peabody plants. He charged the city of Peabody had for its real motive in opening the by-pass the saving of money, and by this incident it was cheating Salem out of revenue. He charged Peabody with making a common dump out of the Salem sewer and that the chemical waste caused obstruction growth to block the main sewer.

Questioned by Rep. Newhall, former Mayor of Lynn, Atty. Ronan said that the statute which allowed Peabody to enter the sewer contract with Salem had no teeth in it, and that redress from the courts had not been sought for that reason.

In substance, Atty. Ronan declared that Peabody should pay the penalty for its misconduct brought about by Peabody plants whom Peabody didn't dare to make toe the scratch. He declared Salem was well enough equipped in its sewer plant to take care of ordinary sewer outfall, but that the industrial waste from Peabody was to blame for the backflooding. He replied to Rep. Newhall that he had never seen any written contract existing between Peabody and Salem, although he said that he would have exacted one. Rep. Newhall wanted to know if that was the way Salem did business. Atty. Ronan said the statute was the only contract, to which Rep. Newhall asked if sometimes statues were not unconstitutional. Rep. Newhall also asked if Salem had tried to have a friendly agreement with Peabody and the answer was "No."

The first laugh of the evening's hearing came when Rep. Kidder of Cambridge asked Atty. Ronan if Salem really intends to give back $150,000 to Peabody if the latter city would have its own sewer, and the Salem attorney replied: "Yes, willingly, and so would you if you lived here." Chairman Moulton rapped for order.

Peter Griffin, John J. McGrath, Dr. McDermott, all of the Salem health department, qualified as experts on the odors from the North River, declaring a nuisance existed dangerous to public health. Mayor Sullivan of Salem said he was convinced Peabody and Salem should sever their domestic relations, for the present conditions of the sewer was enough to destroy confidence and that to handle Peabody's sewer Salem needed a subway and not merely a sewer.

Councillor Pierce of Salem declared the plant of Swift & Co. on Bridge street was painted red one night and the next morning it had turned grey, due he alleged to the chemicals in the North Brook adjacent. Postmaster Sheedy told of swimming off Ropes' Point one day and diving under the water said he found himself in sewer sludge. Ex-Councillor Broadhead said he was responsible for the bills before the committee. Ross Goddard of the Salem Chamber of Commerce told of Salem digging out 18,000 tons of sludge matter from the dam in the North Brook built by the Bay State railway.

Daniel J. Long, above referred to, said that Salem failed to pump when it should and he had a suggestion which would provide a remedy, and that was for Danvers, Beverly, Salem and Peabody to establish a joint sewer filtration beds. He paid his respects to hot-air politicians before he sat down.

City Solicitor Farnham of Peabody charged Salem with much loose talk and he set forth facts dwelling on the recommendations of the state board of health which Salem had so long ignored. He suggested that Salem appoint an engineer, Peabody another and the third engineer be Chairman Goodenough of the State Board of Health to investigate and report their findings. He charged the pumping station in Salem could only handle one half its real load and that by a deeper well and additional pumps the back flooding could be done away with.

He asked why Salem had ignored the expert recommendations made some years ago. He defended the opening of the bypass as needed when Salem failed to handle the sewer in its main trunk. He presented the committee with copies of the recommendations made which had never been adopted by Salem. He believed the committee should report "ought not to pass" on both bills before them or to recommend an unbiased investigation in which Peabody was willing to stand its fair proportion of expense.

Councillor David Craig of Peabody charged Postmaster Sheedy with getting away with something when he tried to upset the laws of physics in saying that he found fresh water under salt water when it was known that salt water was the heavier. Mr. Craig tore several holes in Salem's arguments.

Councillor Duggan of Peabody said the bills ought to be before the committee on public health. He declared that the North River stench would still exist if Peabody stopped using the joint sewer and that doubtless much of the odor was from some of the 30 buckeye leather plants in Salem. He believed some of the bad conditions off Ropes Point was due to sewer waste from Danvers river. He charged North Salem residents with being strikebreakers in Peabody last March and ended his plea by hoping the committee would recommend the state board of health solve the present muddle between Salem and Peabody.

In rebuttal Atty. Sullivan of Salem said the stench was so strong from the North River in Salem due, of course, to Peabody's misconduct that the sheriff of Salem jail feared the iron bars would rot and let the prisoners escape. He charged Peabody with emptying its by-products that could not be used into the Salem sewer.

There were plenty of seats in the hall, the crowd numbering about 350 men. One woman sat through the hearing.

PEABODY GRANGE

Last evening the Peabody Grange exemplified the first and second degrees on a large class. The first degree was by the officers and the second by the men's degree team.

The ways and means committee of Peabody Grange held a very successful whist party March 30 with 15 tables.

YOUR TEETH

By Rea Proctor McGee, D.D.S., M.D., Editor "Oral Hygiene"

THE HUMAN MACHINE

Have you ever considered what a remarkable machine you are?

Think of the wonderful mechanism of your hand, your wrist, your arm! Think of the powerful muscles, the slender tendons, the rigid bones, delicate nerves, the efficiently distributed arteries and veins. All of these and the rest of your marvelous body do their work at your slightest thought.

In addition to all of this, your bodily machine repairs nearly all of its own injuries, takes care of its own growth and renews its worn-out cells. Nature makes a complete effort to provide you with a perfect means to carry on your business and to enjoy the pleasures of life.

In order for your body to do these things it must have fuel in the shape of food, and it is up to your mouth to receive and prepare this fuel. If your food is of the very purest and most appetizing variety, carefully prepared and tastefully served, it would seem that that would be all that is necessary.

But if that same pure food is placed in an infected mouth and is then thoroughly corrupted, by having mixed with it many types of bacteria and of the poisons resulting from bacteria, would it not seem that the damage to your system would be very serious?

The condition known as neuritis, from which many people who use their hands in highly trained work, such as telegraphers, typists, pianists—frequently suffer, is caused by overwork and infection. The overwork reduces the vitality and resistance of the nerves and their sheaths, and infection in the great majority of cases comes from abscesses about the teeth.

This is only one of the many painful and serious derangements of your body machine that can come from diseases in the mouth.

If you owned a fine piece of machinery that got out of order, you would call in first a good general machinist—and then men especially skilled in the various parts of the machine that required especial training to understand properly.

Why not be as careful of your own body? The mechanical principles upon which you are built and by which you live are just as true as those upon which you run your automobile.

But as your body is the most complicated machine with which you will ever come in contact, it requires a very high order of intelligence in the "garage man" to diagnose your troubles.

But no diagnosis is considered complete these days without the advice of that specialist upon the mouth—the dentist.

HOLTEN LODGE

Holten Lodge of Odd Fellows will assemble Sunday at 9.30 to parade to the South Peabody church, where Rev. Robert Bakeman will preach a special sermon.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
ESSEX, ss. PROBATE COURT.

To all persons interested in the estate of ANDREW J. TALBOT late of Peabody in said County, deceased.

WHEREAS, Daniel C. Manning the administrator of the estate of said deceased, has presented for allowance, the first and final account of his administration upon the estate of said deceased.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Haverhill in said County, on the twenty-fourth day of April A. D. 1922, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be allowed.

And said administrator is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to all persons interested in the estate fourteen days at least before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Peabody Enterprise a newspaper published in Peabody the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, post-paid, a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this sixth day of April in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

HORACE H. ATHERTON, JR., Register.

(A-7-14-21)

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court within and for the County of Essex:

RESPECTFULLY libels and represents JOHN A. BARNES, 2nd of Salem in said county, that he was lawfully married to Margaret Theriault Barnes, now of Canton, Maine, at Caribou, Maine, on the twenty-fourth day of May A. D., 1914; and afterwards your libellant and the said Margaret Theriault Barnes lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth, to wit, at Salem, Middleton, and Peabody, Massachusetts; that your libellant has always been faithful to his marriage vows and obligations, but the said Margaret Theriault Barnes being wholly regardless of the same, at said Peabody, on or about the first day of May, 1918, without just cause wilfully and utterly deserted your libellant, which desertion has continued from such time to the date hereof, being more than three consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Margaret Theriault Barnes.

Dated this eleventh day of March A. D., 1922.

JOHN A. BARNES, 2d.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
ESSEX, ss. Superior Court, April 4, 1922.

Upon the foregoing libel, ordered, that the said libellant give notice to said MARGARET THERIAULT BARNES by causing an attested copy of his said libel, and of this order thereon, to be published in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper printed in Peabody in the county of Essex, once a week, for three weeks successively, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the return day of this Court, at Salem, within the county of Essex, on the first Monday of June next, and by mailing, forthwith, by registered letter to the libellee at Canton, Maine, an attested copy of said libel and of this order thereon: that she may appear at said Salem within one month from said first Monday of June and show cause, if any she has, why the prayer of said libel should not be granted.

Attest, A. N. FROST, Clerk.

The foregoing is a true copy of said libel and of the order thereon.

Attest, A. N. FROST, Clerk.

WILL THERE BE A LONG COAL STRIKE?

Owing to the attitude of the operators on this question we cannot see anything but a long struggle, lasting possibly four or five months.

We think it good judgment for you to lay in at least one half of your next season's requirements for the following reasons:

1st. A coal strike of even a comparatively short duration would cause a serious shortage in the fall.

2nd. A shortage later would make it necessary to resort to the coal rationing plan which we all know is a poor substitute for a full coal bin.

3rd. We anticipate an enormous demand for coal upon the termination of the strike and coal shipped under these conditions cannot be expected to be as well prepared as normally.

4th. We do not look for any reduction in freight rates which would materially lower the price of coal to the consumer before the early part of 1923.

The present cash price for coal is $15.00 per ton.

Quirk Predicts Tax Rate of $42

Jere J. Quirk, for five years chairman of the Board of Assessors, declares that the tax rate for 1922 in this city will be not less than $42. He says this figure is arrived at from a careful perusal of the budget which Mayor Shea has submitted to the City Council. Loss of revenue from intangible taxes and greatly reduced stock valuation in the Peabody factories will, he avers, send the tax rate to one of the highest peaks in Massachusetts this year.

He also announces a challenge to Chairman Patrick J. Sheehy of the Assessors to a public debate in refutation of the statement in another newspaper recently that the present assessors had found glaring inequalities of valuation assessment during the regime of Mr. Quirk as head of the board.

He declares he will disapprove the charge before any committee of unbiased citizens, the City Council or on the public platform, and for fear that some might think he was seeking political ammunition, he adds that he is not a candidate for any public office either in Peabody or at the state house.

Former Assessor Quirk also declares that if the present board of assessors causes abatement of taxes on a certain mercantile building in Peabody Square that he will take the stump in Peabody Square and give the taxpayers a sensation such as they have not heard for many a long day.

He says he is prepared to defend the acts of his administration as principal assessor.

Rotary To Hear Stadium Talk

ROBERT H. MITCHELL

Robert H. Mitchell of Haverhill, one of the county commissioners, will be the speaker at the Peabody Rotary Club next Tuesday noon. His subject will be a stadium for Peabody and he will tell the story of the Haverhill stadium which he built in that city some few years ago.

Mr. Mitchell was on the installing suite at Peabody lodge of Elks last Monday night, being a member of the Haverhill lodge and well known throughout the county in fraternal and building circles. Representatives of the school board and faculty management of athletics in the high school will be invited to the luncheon.

Installation of new officers for the club will be held on April 25, when Joseph E. Noyes, superintendent of the Thayer-Foss Leather Co., will become the new president. Judge Robert W. Hill, the next district governor, will be invited to install the officers.

Plans for a boys' work week next month are underway and the co-operation of the clergymen and businessmen is being sought to promote the program.

Council Blocks Order To Cut Salaries 10 Per Cent

An order introduced by Councillor David Craig to reduce salaries of all city officials and employes 10 per cent was strangled last night when objection was made to a suspension of rules for its adoption. Councillor Duggan made the objection, and later when Mr. Craig moved to have his order advertised, Mr. Duggan rose to a point of order on the grounds that the Council must first change ordinances and the chair sustained his point.

The list as read by Mr. Craig did not include the teachers, firemen or police and Mr. Dugan made this a point of criticism in his objection. Mr. Craig replied he would include them if Duggan would vote with him.

The budget as submitted by Mayor Shea was reported on last night by the finance committee and a late session saw its adoption of all items except the city engineer's department. Mr. Craig voted against all salary appropriations.

Chairman Barry of the finance committee declared that he was convinced that the budget was far inadequate to meet the needs of departments and that the committee had nothing to do but to approve the amounts.

According to Councillor McKeen the bonded indebtedness of the city adds but $4 more to the tax rate. Under the last year of the Donnel regime the city paid back $126,000 in maturing bonds and interest. This year the city must pay $203,381 in bonds and interest or $77,381 more than in 1920. It is said the amount given in Mayor Shea's budget to meet bonds is $18,000 short of what it should be.

Peabody pool rooms may be less a hotbed of vice this year as a result of the conference between the committee on licenses and Chief Grady of the police force, for the latter is to submit a list of objectionable places to the Council and some licenses may not be renewed. The Council voted a license for six tables on Main street over Ware's market. Messrs. Craig and Duggan dissented. Duggan pleaded in vain for the Council to refuse to grant any pool licenses this year.

Brown Out For U. S. Champion

Harry (Kid) Brown, champion 112-pound amateur boxer of Peabody, hopes to be proclaimed the national champion in his class in Boston Monday night when he will meet five aspirants for the honors at the Boston Arena. A big delegation of fight fans from this city will attend.

Maloney To Be Publisher

The Enterprise is reliably informed today that Congressman Robert S. Maloney is to become the president of a leading daily newspaper in Lawrence and will be a candidate for Mayor of his home city following his announcement that he will decline to run for a renomination for congress from the seventh district. His announcement that he will not seek the C. O. P. nomination for congress will be in the near future. Frank P. Bennett of Saugus and William Butler of Lawrence will probably become candidates.

Prominent County Elks Honor Peabody Lodge At Installation

Peabody lodge of Elks dedicated its new home next to the Strand theatre last Monday night with installation of its new officers, headed by Dr. Lawrence K. Kelley as the new Exalted Ruler. Over 250 witnessed the pleasing ceremony. The presence of four past District Deputies together with the present representative of the Grand Lodge of Elks was unique in the history of Elkdom and reflected no little credit on Dr. Kelley, whose friends from his native city, Haverhill, came here in large numbers. Dr. John B. Leonard, P. E. R. of Haverhill lodge was the installing officer.

DR. HENRY I. YALE, Sec.
Who is the real father of the Peabody Elks Lodge.

His suite comprised past district deputies, Arthur T. Jacobs and John F. Carter of Haverhill, S. John Connolly of Beverly and Carletton Newman of Dover, N. H. The present District Deputy Dr. William D. McPhee of Haverhill was also in attendance. Other dignitaries on the suite were Past Exalted Rulers Leo Garknow of Lawrence, Arthur Roussu of Haverhill, James Gibney of Marlboro, Richard Robinson of Lowell, B. B. Brown of Lawrence, Exalted Ruler Joseph Kelley of Beverly, James Donnelly of Lowell, Robert Mitchell (county commissioner) of Haverhill, Edward C. J. Ryan, Victor Gallison, Charles S. Bagley, Alphonse Bouchard, James Hearn, Winifred Eastman, all of Haverhill, Arthur Keefe of Lawrence, Fred Anglin, William Mansman of Marlboro, J. Joseph McKeone of Beverly, Edward Kneeland and Frank Conroy of Boston, and William P. Dunne of Bronx, N. Y. It was one of the largest suites ever to function at an Elks lodge installation.

The new lodge home which is in the McManus block occupies the entire second floor and is equipped with a card room, reading room, kitchen and a storage room off the main hall. Peabody Elks are much pleased with the layout and it is safe to say the local order will quickly take its rightful place as a fraternal society in advancing the community spirit of Peabody.

Much progress is looked for under Dr. Kelley, who has thrown his best efforts to building up the local order.

The retiring Exalted Ruler, Joseph A. Ryan, to whom goes the honor of being the first presiding officer, deserves much credit for his year's administration. He will represent the lodge at the national convention in Atlantic City next June.

Other officers installed were: Esteemed Leading Knight, Thomas F. Barrett; Esteemed Loyal Knight, Charles G. Crump; Esteemed Lecturing Knight, M. Edward Quirk; secretary, Dr. Henry I. Yale; trustee for three years, John E. Hayes; Tyler, George H. Gill; inside guard, Frank E. Bomer; and esquire, Harold G. Dunney, who should make a great name for himself in his new office. As marshal of the lodge the new esquire will bring back into play his war service training, which won him a commission. The big outstanding

"This Miracle—Rebirth"
by J. K. W.

When Winter's icy breath
Muttered the cold word "Death".
Far seemed the dream of Spring—
A half forgotten thing.
But, lo! as in an hour,
The sky opes likes a flower,
Rosy and blue with dawn,
Its chilly mists withdrawn;
And where bare boughs were seen
Hover soft clouds of green.
Spurning the withered leaves,
The flowers start in sheaves,
And o'er old Winter's tomb
Break into wondrous bloom
While birds with joyous cries
Wing to the shining skies
This miracle, re—birth,
Thrills once again the earth,
By resurrection stirred.
Roused by the holy word:
I will arise!

Your banker will tell you—install ARCOLA NOW

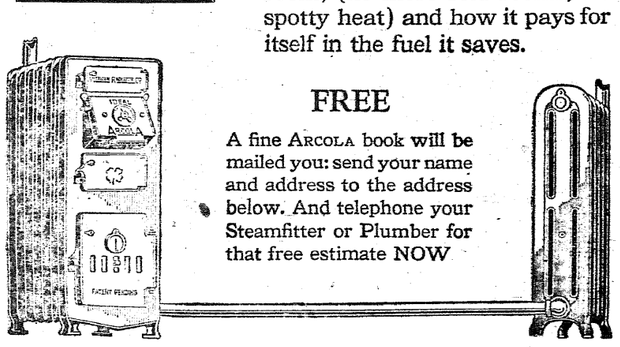
HE makes his money by foresight—by buying his investments near the bottom price, not at the top.

ARCOLA is an investment that costs less this month, NOW, than ever before in its history. It can be installed more quickly and easily NOW; your Steamfitter or Plumber has more time.

Do this one little thing that costs nothing. Pick up the telephone;

Call your Steamfitter or Plumber

He can tell you (so can your banker) that the house warmed with radiators rents for more and sells for more than a house heated with a furnace or stoves.



He can tell you how ARCOLA distributes its warmth to an American Radiator in every room; (no more cold rooms; no spotty heat) and how it pays for itself in the fuel it saves.

ARCOLA
Saves this Banker One-Third of his Coal

"WE have had in service now for one year an Ideal ARCOLA and are very much pleased with it. . . . It requires very little care and does not burn more than two-thirds as much coal as ordinary stoves would to heat the same space."

RAWLINSON IN "MILLIONAIRE" STRAND HEADLINER SATURDAY

No performance will be given at the and today out of respect for Good Friday. For Saturday the feature attraction will be Herbert Rawlinson in "The Millionaire." "The Millionaire" is the story of a twenty-five dollar a week bookkeeper who inherits eighty million dollars. A Black Hand gang had killed an old admirer of his mother's and he is named in the will as the only heir. The same gang of crooks demand a tribute of money from him, telling him he will meet the same fate as befell his benefactor unless he complys with their demands. Aside from the thrills of the story the humor of the different situations into which his sudden wealth plunges him make the production doubly interesting. Mr. Rawlinson is supported by an all-star cast. A Toonerville Trolley comedy entitled "The Skipper Strikes It Rich" and the last episode but one of Eddie Polo in "The Secret Four' will be the other numbers on the bill for tomorrow.

Mary Miles Minter in "Moonlight and Honeysuckle," adapted from the play of the same name, will be the main attraction on the double bill for Sunday evening. Owen Moore in "A Divorce of Convenience" will be the second number on the bill for Sunday evening.

For Easter Monday and Tuesday the Strand will offer a special program at regular prices. The big attraction will be the Paramount production, "Three Live Ghosts," starring Anna Q. Nillson and Norman Kerry. This is an adaption of the popular play by Frederick Isham, which graced a Broadway theatre for many months, and was among the most favorably talked of dramas of 1921, and the screen version seems bound to accomplish the same result during 1922. The plot concerns three buddies of the late war who are reported "missing." They are actually prisoners in Germany, but reported on the lists as dead. They make their escape from the prison camp and reach London on Armistice Day. Of the three, one is an American, another a Cockney, while the third is a shell-shocked English nobleman, who does not remember who he was before the war. This last member has a playful habit of kleptomania and much of the comedy of the picture depends upon his ability to walk off with articles, with innocent intent. The scenes of the production were actually taken in London by the Paramount company sent there especially to make this picture. Anyone who attends motion pictures to be entertained, regardless of their especial preference in the nature of an offering, will be bound to enjoy "Three Live Ghosts."

"The Glorious Fool," the second feature for Monday, is from the story by Mary Roberts Rinehart. It stars Helene Chadwick and Richard Dix, who will be remembered as the principals in "Dangerous Curve Ahead." The locale of the story is a private hospital and to those who may doubt that anything funny is to be found in such a place this picture is recommended. The News Weekly will round out the bill.

Manager Chet Bent announces that the Strand has just signed a new contract with the Paramount company for their entire output during the coming year. This assures Peabody of the best pictures made.

PERSONALS

Warren D. King, manager of the electric light plant, attended the electrical engineers monthly meeting in Boston Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Helen Shattuck, who has been seriously ill at the Thomas hospital, is improving.

Charles Altchler, who has been spending the winter in Florida, arrived home Monday.

Maurice Maney, the newly appointed building inspector for the city of Boston, is an uncle of Maurice Maney, the lunch cart man of this city.

Engineer Elmer Pratt of the electric light plant, is still on the sick list, and Edward Rollins, a lineman of the same department, is still nursing an injury to his leg.

William F. Searle, the newly named postmaster for Peabody, returned yesterday to Washington, where he will wind up his newspaper work for Essex County newspapers. He hopes to take his new office here by May 1. He has a house in view in Ward 5.

Edgar McKeen, one of the foremen in the electric light plant, has returned to duty following a brief illness.

Eben King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren D. King, has been given a signal honor in being chosen house leader for his S. N. fraternity at the University of Maine during his junior year. Generally a senior is given the title. Eben is playing on the varsity team and the Maine club plays Harvard April 28 at Cambridge.

Andrew Paton of Melrose was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Woodbury on Osborne street.

William Spence, lineman in the electric light plant, has resumed his labors, following an attack of the grippe.

Haverhill Shoe Shop Rush May Give Peabody Boom

(By ENERGY)

We are still in the throes of dull business. I have talked with many tanners this week, and they say their life is not worth living. But the hopes of something better by early fall keeps them up.

* * *

Shoe manufacturers are purchasing sheep leather for a nickel a foot. There has in the past been plenty of this leather sold at that figure and the poorest at three cents. Perhaps I am not competent to figure sheep leather, but skins which measure 100 feet to the dozen can be purchased for $2 a foot we assume. During the war five cents a foot was charged for finishing but now I am going to assume such skins can be finished for two cents a foot. Before the war much money was made finishing for one and one-half cents a foot. These skins finished and sold cost four and one-half cents a foot.

Years back a profit of 25 cents a dozen was considered fair. Why not today? It is indeed difficult to come back to pre-war conditions. It appears difficult for many tanners to cut corners and strive for business such as they did years ago. They will tell you there is no business, and yet reports come in of many sales of leather, but—the prices way down. The fellow who sells the leather in my opinion has adjusted his business so that he can sell at the cut prices.

* * *

I heard a story recently that came so direct I do not hesitate to believe it. One of the largest shoe concerns in New England had their salesmen on the road trying to sell shoes. He was trying, but unable to meet the prices of a big western competitor. This western concern offered shoes at 50 cents a pair under his price. He came home with his hands up. Later this N. E. concern was absorbed by the western corporation. They immediately proceeded to show the N. E. superintendent how to make that shoe for 75 cents a pair less. Thus the shoes were sold at a profit of 25 cents a pair, all done by superior brain work. This story applies to the leather business today. Some bright minds are planning to do business and make a profit. They are accomplishing it by beating their competitors by manipulation. They are cutting the corners no matter how many. It must be done to win out.

Raw material continues low, even lower than two months ago. New York city calfskins sold the lowest recently, and to tell what sheepskins sell for would make the sheep weep. Somebody is buying these skins. That somebody or his relations some day will make some money on such ventures. No one knows when, but now is the time when to gamble on the future means much. There is no question but what conditions are gradually improving. The question arises is the leather business in poorer condition than most of the others. I am told all business is rotten, as they put it. But the papers keep telling us of improvement in some lines and I for one believe them. Can it be that the stock market, the steel industry, the corn prices mean little? All of these show that improvement is there. The stock market has always, so far as I know, reflected conditions and reflected them truly. Is there something going on to induce the public to establish confidence, and is it a put up job only? I cannot believe it. There is some reason for bonds and stocks to go higher. Any way, I believe it to be improvement, do you?

We tanners in U. S. claim to make the best leather. It is a claim which the Germans might object to. This nation which put the world on its end, if it has any, is liable to continue that game in the leather business. If there is no duty on finished leather, they will send their product here and offer it at prices that will make our tanners weep more than ever. Then the quality will give us plenty to shoot at, for many tanners admit their leather is better than ours. We also know that labor there is way under ours in price, and as for production or skill the leather shows what is done there. To my mind this is one of the great problems facing the tanner today. Quality and price will attract any shoe manufacturer, and as for local pride there is no such thing with a buyer of leather. If any possessed this pride, he would be relegated to the junk pile.

Thus with a solid army of dangerous problems facing the tanner, he is on the defensive, as were the armies of England and France in the early stages of the World war. Reinforcements may arrive to save the day, in fact I believe they are on the way in the shape of conditions founded on solid foundations which are building slow but sure. With all the pessimism, all admit we are not going to hades for some time.

* * *

The world after all is small. When a prominent tanner tells his life history to an appreciative audience, tells them of starting from a foreign country, a boy, obtains his first employment in a neighboring tanning center, and points out at that meeting the man who gave him his first job, this after 25 years, indeed it is difficult to hide one's self. Such is the story of Peter Weeden of Danvers and Harry Thayer, his first employer.

* * *

William J. Ryan of Haverhill, general secretary-treasurer, reports that 85 per cent. of the 18,000 members of the Shoe Workers' Protective Union are now employed, and that spring activity in the shoe industry and its allied trades shows a marked improvement over that of 12 months ago. Manufacturers also report that the peak of the Easter trade has been reached with no decrease in production. It was predicted that the present business conditions are likely to continue well into the summer months.

Durkee Named Fire Warden For West Peabody

The long controversy over a deputy fire warden was settled last week by the appointment of Arthur T. Durkee, Goodale street, by the Mayor, with the approval of Fire Warden Callahan, and the state forestry service. There has been some friction between the parties handling forest fires in West Peabody. West Peabody citizens are asked to co-operate with Deputy Durkee in protecting property from fire. In case of fire call Peabody 769-J. No citizens will receive pay for fighting forest fires unless they are ordered to work by the deputy.

PEABODY FIRST

Trading is the mother of existence. Carried on since man existed, it goes to make or break a community. The greatest example of successful trading is the story of John D. Rockefeller. Recently a new church was erected in New York city, sponsored by his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr. He told his audience that he was proud of the fact his father had made his money in one business. Most men who become rich, extend their exertions to many things beside the business where they became successful. But John D. Rockefeller has staid in the oil business. His hand is felt in all enterprises pertaining to this business. So in Peabody, we have merchants who have spent their life trading with its residents. Others come and go, many not having the capacity to be successful. Then we have pedlars who offer commodities for less than do storekeepers for they have no rents to pay. But the pedlar comes and goes at his pleasure and the housekeeper must deperd on the store for many articles. Some people shop in Boston and believe they have saved money by purchasing for few cents a yard less. Never mind what the car fare and lunch amounts to. If New York was a journey which could be covered in one day, no doubt they would go there. All outside buying hurts the local store. It keeps such stores from becoming larger. It keeps them from carrying larger stocks. If all of us traded in Peabody, it would help all indirectly. Salem, Lynn and Boston have attractive stores where bargains offered tempt the woman of the household. But how many times you hear of this article and that article which could be purchased in Peabody as cheaply as in the larger cities. Local pride is the one big asset of any community. Many of us may have it, but not enough to buy at home. Let us think it over. Let us figure that fifteen of the twenty-four hours are spent in Peabody at least, and being so we owe Peabody our efforts to further its progress.

THE SEWER QUESTION

The hearing held recently added little to Salem's ammunition as to the right and wrong of the sewer question. Looking at the results of that hearing, it appears to us that the testimony given by a resident of Salem who has the reputation of being honest, but always ready to voice his sentiments, should bear weight as to the omissions of his own city in the sewer muddle. The committee from both branches of the Legislature, are men most of whom have no interest in the controversy. They came to Peabody and Salem as a jury, ready to give a verdict as the testimony was offered. We do not believe they were influenced by oratory, but had to be shown before rendering a decision. Peabody has admitted they are not perfect. They do say, however, that if the outlet is kept clear, there would not be the trouble which has occurred so many times at Grove street in the last 10 years or more. That the main trouble is at the pumping station at Salem Willows appears to be indisputable. If the sewerage is taken care of at that point, then if trouble occurs there would be a reasonable ground to believe the fault elsewhere. So we believe that a thorough investigation of that plant should be made, not only today but what has happened there in years past. Those who have looked into the matter contend when that fault is remedied there would be little else to talk about. The rest they say provided the trunk line in Salem is kept clean, is easy. Any one who has followed the Peabody way of cleaning their part of the sewer will say we are doing our work to keep Salem's trunk line free from obstructions.

THE BANK TAX

Every National bank in Massachusetts is calling on the local assessors for an abatement of their tax levied on bank stock. Peabody has the Warren bank, and the local assessors received a letter setting forth the tax on bank shares is illegal, quoting a federal law to that effect. Assessors throughout the state are governed by the tax commissioner, who issues forms for the assessors to use, and the state laws in many cases add a fine of $100.00 if they are not conformed to. Thus the tax commissioner sends several forms to be used for the assessment of bank shares. A list of the shareholders is one of these forms, which must be sent to the commissioner at the statehouse Boston. A suit must settle this point of law, whether the state is correct in assessing shareholders, or whether they have erred in so doing. One thing certain, local assessors have only to obey orders. Several cities already are preparing to fight their case, and it seems to be a ship without a rudder. It appears to many that the state should fight this case, and one decision would settle the points at law. Bank shares have been assessed in the present manner for many years. They will be assessed this year as well, and some time later the high courts will decide who is right. Should the banks win their cases, millions of dollars collected on these shares will revert back to the banks. It is a glorious muddle.

Easter Lore the World Over

Superstitions innumerable have clung around Easter since the days of Beland Woden. One of the quaintest of these—that the sun dances in the heavens every Easter morning—is found in England, Ireland, and Brittany. Suckling alludes to this belief in the often quoted lines:

No sun upon an Eastern morn
Was half so fair a sight.

The origin of the Easter egg is told in the following legends: A bird sang a sorrowful lay over Christ's tomb and as a reward for its devotion its eggs were ever after of bright colors. Another story is of an exile who in prison received a decorated Easter egg which said: "Hope in God." He recognized the handwriting of his wife, and, managing to communicate with her, regained his freedom.

Thirty days hath September
Every person can remember,
But the dates when Easters come,
Puzzle even scholars some!

Egg rolling on Easter day used to be practiced with the idea that the farm lands over which the eggs were rolled would be sure to yield abundantly at harvest time.

At Easter let your clothes be new,
Or else be sure, you will it rue.
—Poor Richard's Almanac.

It is bad luck to paint a cross on Easter eggs, and good luck to paint flowers on them.

If the sun shines on Easter, it will shine on Whit Sunday.

It is a good omen to have your babe baptized on Easter day.

To cry on Easter is a sign that you will have a sad Fourth of July.

Unlucky Engagement Day.

If you see a star fall on Easter night, you will lose your lover.

If you get engaged on Easter Sunday, you will not be married.

It is lucky to receive the unexpected gift of an Easter egg.

It is a lucky thing for you if a friend happens to bring an infant for the first time into your house on Easter morning.

To put a garment wrong side out on Easter morning is a bad omen.

In some countries, the children believe that the rabbits lay beautifully colored eggs at Easter. This connection between the hare and Easter originates in the hare's connection with the moon, of which the hare has been from ancient times a symbol, together with the fact that Easter is to a certain extent a lunar holiday. A few of the reasons of the hare being identified with the moon are: The hare is a nocturnal animal and comes out at night to feed. The female carries her young for a month. Hare and moon were believed to have the power of changing their sex; the new moon was masculine, the waning moon was feminine. The young of the hare are born with their eyes open, while rabbits are born blind; hence the belief that the hare never closed its eyes, and therefore was considered to resemble the moon, who is called the "open-eyed watcher of the skies at night."

Popular French Belief.

An Easter superstition of French origin says that the young girl who wishes to live long, marry the man of her choice, and prosper, must never wear any other flower than the jonquil or violet on that day. These only bring good luck.

The maiden who wishes to know if her lover is faithful should rise early on Easter morning and eat an apple. Meantime she will say:

As Eve in her thrift for knowledge ate,
So I, too, wish to know my fate.

If the seeds are even, he will prove faithful; if there is an odd number, alas!

The usage of interchanging eggs at Easter has also been referred for its origin to the egg games of the Romans, which they celebrated at the time of our Easter, when they ran races in an egg-shaped rings, and the victor received eggs as a prize. These games were instituted in honor of Castor and Pollux, who came forth from an egg, deposited by Leda, after Jupiter had visited her in the shape of a swan.

The one who gets a golden egg
Will plenty have and never beg.
The one who gets an egg of blue
Will find a sweetheart fond and true.
The one who gets an egg of green
Will jealous be and not serene.
The one who gets an egg of black
Bad luck and troubles ne'er will lack.
The one who gets an egg of white
In life shall find supreme delight.
The one who gets an egg of red
Will many tears of sorrow shed.
Who gets an egg of purple shade
Will die a bachelor or maid.
A silver egg will bring much joy
And happiness without alloy.
A lucky one the egg of pink,
The owner ne'er see danger's brink.
The one who gets an egg of brown
Will have an establishment in town.
The one who speckled egg obtains
Will go through life by country lanes.
A striped egg bodes care and strife,
A sullen man or scolding wife.
The one who gets an egg of plaid,
His heart is good but luck is bad.

ROUND ABOUT

Spring is here for a time anyway. Perhaps some can remember when we had two feet of snow the 15th day of April. It does not matter when, but we had it. There appears to be little to worry about this year in the weather line. In the woods, however, there is plenty of snow which no doubt will be there well into May.

* * *

Birds of all kinds are plentiful this week. Perhaps other years were the same, but this year because of the early spring weather they have arrived in large numbers and variety.

* * *

There is stored at Spring and Brown's ponds in houses, over 30,000 tons of ice. The owners are Frank E. Newhall, Mrs. Elizabeth Batchelder, George Putnam of Danvers and the North Shore Ice Co. of Lynn. We read the price has been cut 10 cents a hundred pounds, which is little enough. The cost of harvesting ice this year was far less than the few years previous. Ice melts faster than the owners.

* * *

Have you ever visited Elginwood Park situated in West Peabody? It is owned by Lynn residents, and it is a place of beauty. The park borders on the shores of Crystal Lake, and everything about the place shows thrift. It is particularly adapted for spring and fall recreation.

* * *

When one visits the country and has a longing for the calm and peaceful life there, West Peabody offers everything in that line. Gradually new houses appear there, and in the years to come, this section of Peabody will be taken up by those who want a country home.

* * *

There have been many improvements in South Peabody as well. Many new houses are seen, particularly in Lake Shore Park. This spot makes a delightful spot for a home, and there are many available lots for sale. The houses there as a rule are modern, built by those which we might term the middle class, and all look well, houses and inhabitants.

* * *

Overlea, which was a spot where dry goods boxes made houses, is now far different. There are several houses there which cost $5000 to build, and one not initiated would hardly believe what a pleasing spot it is in summer.

* * *

So as one journeys about Peabody he will judge rightly when he says we are improving our living facilities. We hope those who have had the courage to build at today's prices will win by it. Certainly, labor and materials hold their prices.

* * *

Homestead Club golfers are getting busy. With the large number from Peabody who hit the pill, it will be the proper spot to do business if the present dullness continues. Out in the open is what made the Indians husky, why not we fellows who succeeded them?

* * *

With the Elks in new and commodious quarters, another association is destined to become one of the leaders in our social life. The more of such organizations the better for all of us. Dr. Kelley steers the Elk's ship this year, vice Joseph Ryan, a past steerer.

* * *

We noted one automobile driver pass through Peabody square this week who paid no attention to the traffic post at the head of Foster street. A court case to such drivers would be little enough penalty for this disregard.

* * *

We are told the street sweeper which used to perambulate Peabody square and vicinity does a poor job collecting the dirt. If so, no wonder we have dust storms frequently, even this time of year. The horse conveyed sweeper may be obsolete, but for this work it is an improvement over a machine with so much mechanism as to be out of order frequently.

* * *

It has been said the dull times will take away many autos from those unable to keep them. Judging from the string on Andover street last Sunday, somebody is wrong.

* * *

Postmaster D. J. Dullea is a firm believer in the old adage, "Nothing succeeds like success," and he is consistent in this belief because of the success which he is achieving in the sale of Treasury Savings Certificates. He is a busy man these days, for in addition to the usual routine work of his post office he has found time to interest many of our citizens in making investment in this new security which is being offered by the U. S. Treasury Department to assist in financing the many millions of dollars invested in war savings stamps during 1918, which mature on January 1st next.

Brass and Bronze.

Brass is an alloy of zinc and copper, bronze of tin and copper. Brass consists of about 30 per cent of zinc and the remainder of copper. Bronze consists of copper and tin in various proportions, according to the use to be made of it. For coins or tokens the proportions are 95 per cent copper and 5 per cent tin. A slight addition of other substances, such as phosphorus, zinc, or aluminum, produces other alloys known as phosphor-bronze, bearing metal and aluminum bronze.

SPIRIT OF EASTER

THE Ambition of Every American should be to own his home, and every home owner becomes a better citizen.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court within and for the County of Essex:

RESPECTFULLY libels and represents JOHN A. BARNES, 2nd of Salem in said county, that he was lawfully married to Margaret Theriault Barnes, now of Canton, Maine, at Caribou, Maine, on the twenty-fourth day of May A. D., 1914; and afterwards your libellant and the said Margaret Theriault Barnes lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth, to wit, at Salem, Middleton, and Peabody, Massachusetts; that your libellant has always been faithful to his marriage vows and obligations, but the said Margaret Theriault Barnes being wholly regardless of the same, at said Peabody, on or about the first day of May, 1918, without just cause wilfully and utterly deserted your libellant, which desertion has continued from such time to the date hereof, being more than three consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Margaret Theriault Barnes.

Dated this eleventh day of March A. D., 1922.
JOHN A. BARNES, 2d.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
ESSEX, ss. Superior Court, April 4, 1922.

Upon the foregoing libel, ordered, that the said libellant give notice to said MARGARET THERIAULT BARNES by causing an attested copy of his said libel, and of this order thereon, to be published in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper printed in Peabody in the county of Essex, once a week, for three weeks successively, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the return day of this Court, at Salem, within the county of Essex, on the first Monday of June next, and by mailing, forthwith, by registered letter to the libellee at Canton, Maine, an attested copy of said libel and of this order thereon: that she may appear at said Salem within one month from said first Monday of June and show cause, if any she has, why the prayer of said libel should not be granted.

Attest, A. N. FROST, Clerk.

The foregoing is a true copy of said libel and of the order thereon.
Attest, A. N. FROST, Clerk.

POPULAR SWEATERS

In the bright lexicon of youth is written the sweater, and a sweaterless wardrobe is not to be imagined—either for young or old. The tuxedo or sweater-coat is deservedly the most popular style, made of wool or of silk yarn like that one pictured here. It is shown in many colors and in black or white. Collar and cuff sets of checked silk or plain linen are fashionable with the quieter colors.

Funeral service for Mrs. Sadie Keith was held at the Second Congregational church Friday afternoon, Rev. Robert Bakeman officiating. The church was filled with relatives and friends, as well as members of the Rebekah lodge, who performed their services. Mrs. Margaret Millea Henry of Salem sang two appropriate selections. The floral tributes were beautiful. Burial was at Cedar Grove cemetery, where committal exercises were held by the Rebekahs. The deepest sympathy is expressed to the family of the deceased in their hour of trouble.

More than 150 members of Starlight Rebekah Lodge, Holten Lodge and Cantons attended Sunday morning service at the Second Congregational church. They were accompanied by a drum corps from Beverly. The men marched from the lodge room. Miss Margaret Bakeman of Melrose sang a solo and Miss Agnes Jordan played a violin solo. The pulpit was decorated with spring blossoms and a fine sermon on "Friendship" was given by the pastor.

The feast committee of Peabody Grange met with Mrs. Ray Newhall of Lynn street Monday evening. Plans were made for a supper to be held next Thursday in connection with the third and fourth degrees. A fine supper of salads and cold meats will be served in the banquet hall at 6.30.

John Eade of Winnegance avenue has installed a radio set and concerts are enjoyed every evening.

Gordon Carney and Kenneth Cook, both of County street, are ill with the measles.

The Men's Club of the Second Congregational church will hold their meeting and supper next Thursday evening instead of Wednesday, the holiday.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carpenter at the Thomas hospital last Thursday.

Mrs. Effie Soucy of Carleton street is suffering with Quincy sore throat.

Franklin Whitteredge of Lynn street was struck by an auto while alighting from an electric car last Saturday night. He had been to the hospital to visit his brother, who was also injured about three weeks ago. The occupants of the auto took him to Thomas hospital, where he remained until Monday for observation.

Miss Eunice Hetherington of Lynn street was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. T. R. Burns of Medford over the week-end. She also attended sessions of the Methodist conference at Malden.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cronin will move to Gloversville, N. Y., next week. They are both earnest workers at the Lake Shore Park church and will be missed.

The Neighborhood Club will hold a public whist party next Tuesday evening in Davis hall.

Mrs. Emily Newhall of Lynn street has been sick for the past two weeks.

The new pastor of the Lake Shore Park church will conduct the prayer meeting this evening.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Second Congregational church held their meeting on Wednesday. The ladies served at the parsonage in the afternoon. Supper was served at 7 o'clock under the direction of the following committee: Mrs. Carrie Swan, chairman; Mrs. Fred Foley, Mrs. Inez Griffin, Miss Edythe Wiggin, Mrs. Agnes Ripley and Miss Agnes Jordan.

The Sewso Club met with Mrs. Annie Annis Monday evening. Next Monday a business meeting will be held at the home of Miss Evelyn Brown and every member is requested to be present.

Services at Lake Shore Park church: Morning service, sermon by Rev. Ralph Templin, pastor. Sunday school at noon. Easter concert by the children at 7 o'clock.

Miss Hazel Eade of Winnegance avenue is sick with measles.

Mrs. Fred Savage of County street is in a Boston hospital for treatment.

A splendid program was enjoyed by the gathering, including vocal solos by Mrs. Forsythe; violin solos by Howard Bacon; readings by a pupil of Mrs. Sadie Atkins; piano solos by Miss Dorothy Rainford; Mrs. Sadie Rainford presented Rev. and Mrs. Harry Hill with a purse of money in behalf of their friends, and wished them Godspeed in their new pastorate at Maplewood.

A reception to the past and present pastors of the Lake Shore Park church was held Wednesday evening. The church was prettily decorated with pink and green crepe paper and peach blossoms. In the receiving line were the following members of the church: S. M. Gould, trustee; Mrs. Sadie Rainford, superintendent of the Sunday school; Mrs. Elizabeth Hetherington, president of the Ladies' Aid; Forest Peckham of the Epworth League; Miss Gladys Kennedy, guardian of the Camp Fire Girls; James Cronin, representing the Boy Scouts. Rev. and Mrs. Harry Hill and Rev. Ralph Templin completed the receiving line. Mrs. Templin was unable to be present.

Miss Eunice Hetherington had charge of the guest book, and her class of girls served refreshments of ice cream and cake.

Rev. Ralph Templin, the new pastor, comes from a family of ministers. His father and four brothers ministers. For the past two years he has been the pastor of a church at South Weymouth.

A meeting of the Mother-Teacher Association was held Tuesday evening and was largely attended. Mrs. Carl Newhall, vice president, presided in the absence of the president, Joseph M. Gilmore. The following program was enjoyed: Reading, Miss Madeline Foley; piano solos, Miss Celia Twiss; violin solos, Miss Agnes Jordan; cornet solos, Karl Ricker. The speaker of the evening was Rev. Robert Bakeman, who is a member of the school committee. Mr. Bakeman is a very humorous as well as interesting speaker and held the closest attention of his audience, as he told the story of his first seven years of school life, illustrating the way in which the mind of a child is misunderstood. His subject was announced as "Diamonds," and he compared the average boy and girl, growing from their rough form to be polished and with proper training would shine and radiate everywhere. A business meeting followed with a report of the child welfare committee stating that a nutrition class had been formed for the mothers and Monday afternoon of each week a class will be held under the direction of Miss White. The program for the meeting in May will be given by the children.

Postmaster Wm. F. Searle Hopes To Take Office May 1

William F. Searle, the new postmaster, enjoys a wide acquaintance in both the newspaper and political fields, in each of which he has had an unusually successful career.

As a newspaper man he first saw service on the Salem News, for which paper he has worked in various capacities from reporter to city editor at different periods during the past 30 odd years. He was later city editor of the Lynn Morning News, which was destroyed in the Lynn fire, and afterwards filled the same position for the Lynn News, established by Robin Damon, publisher of the Salem Evening News. When Mr. Damon later established the Salem Sunday News, Mr. Searle was made city editor of that publication.

He was a feature writer on the Cincinnati Times-Star at one time and also on the old Boston Journal when it was conducted by the late Stephen O'Meara. Since the fall of 1920 he has represented a group of Essex County daily papers at Washington, besides doing feature work for other publications.

He has also had some success as a magazine writer, and has written several plays, two of which, "A Rural Cinderella" and "The Eternal Conflict," were given runs of a week each at the Empire theatre in Salem and in other New England cities. He has recently completed a motion picture play of the Salem witchcraft period, which is now in the hands of a New York play broker.

In the political field Mr. Searle first gained experience by reporting the old-time caucuses and conventions. In 1900 he conducted the late Major A. P. Gardner's successful campaign for the Peabody delegates to the convention which sent the Hamilton man to congress for the first time, and was active in all the succeeding Gardner campaigns, as well as that of Congressman Lufkin.

Much of his political service was in the capacity of publicity man, and among those who profited by his efforts were James F. Ingraham, member of the governor's council; S. Howard Donnell, district attorney of Essex County; Councillor E. G. Frothingham of Haverhill, Clerk of Courts Archie N. Frost, former District Attorney Louis S. Cox, now judge of the superior court; Congressman Robert S. Maloney of the Seventh district, Governor Eben S. Draper, and others. He was also identified with others not so successful, the most prominent being the campaign of the late Hon. A. H. Goetting of Springfield, for whom he conducted the state publicity work in the colonel's quest for the Republican nomination for lieutenant-governor, in which he finished a close second.

He has been a director of the Essex County Republican Club for the past 15 years, one time vice president, and for seven years its secretary. In 1920, following a lively campaign in which he was publicity director, he attended the Republican national convention at Chicago as the guest of the successful delegate candidates in the Sixth district, Col. Wm. H. Root of Haverhill and Capt. George von L. Meyer of Hamilton.

Mr. Searle is a native of Akron, Ohio, from whence he came with his father to Peabody when five years of age. After attending the Center school for a time, his father moved to Salem, and the boy finished his education there. Following his marriage to Miss Harriet E., daughter of the late George Foan, a well-known Peabody leather manufacturer, he resided in Peabody for about eight years and then moved to Danvers, returning to Peabody in 1915 and purchasing a residence in Gardner Park, where he lived until going to Washington as a newspaper correspondent in 1920. He has one son, Philip E., who was for five years assistant secretary and stenographer to Senator Lodge up to his illness last fall.

Keiths Acts For Firemen's Ball Tuesday

With eight vaudeville acts from the Keith's circuit as the big feature of the evening's program, the Peabody firemen are sure to score another big success at their 30th annual concert and ball in City Hall next Tuesday evening. The acts to be sent here are entirely new for Peabody and will prove a high class entertainment from 8 to 10 o'clock.

The sale of tickets insures a record breaking house and the Relief Association, for whose benefit the annual event is held, are bound to receive a substantial sum to aid the work of the organization.

Chief Jesse F. Barrett will be floor director and he will have a long list of aides to insure every guest being well taken care of. The Waverly orchestra will furnish music.

Experience Always of Value.

Some men leap to success, while others achieve it through steady advancement. Those who leap, however, miss experiences that those who advance by slower stages may gain. Experience is a very valuable background for permanent success.

THE JOB

"To have and to hold a steady job. To know this job is at a living wage. To earn even a little and yet spend a little less. To be able to save something for the future. To be sure that as long as I am faithful in good work my job is secure. To be relieved of the fear of sickness. To know that if I am taken away my family is not left destitute. To do my work under decent working conditions."

This is the ambition and the desire of every wage earner. No more, no less. One other condition he hopes for and that is to be able to advance in his job to a better position. How are these conditions being met? How is it possible during these days of unemployment,—of constantly reduced production and the laying off of men, —to meet any one of these conditions?

We are not meeting them. It is not possible to meet them during this period of readjustment; but, this very condition is forcing the attention of the public to the question of "The Job" and employers all over the country are studying the situation and using their brains to correct its apparent evils. Who will do this except the employer? Can the worker himself? He cannot, because he has no opportunity to study the facts. Will the Trade Unions? We look around us and see that the Trade Unions are not studying the facts; they are fighting the employer and striking against the well being of the public. Such action is futile,— entirely useless,—for no mass action of force can stop the working of the Economic Law, which is "the greatest good to the greatest number."

It is perfectly easy to show in the simplest manner to any ordinary school boy that working capital is nothing but labor that has been stored up,—saved labor, applied to some gift of nature. What we call capital and what we call labor are both accomplishing the same result. They do the same thing; namely, produce something for the people to use. Capital is not only the best friend of labor, it is the only friend of labor. It brings together brain labor and body labor; extends the power of labor; multiplies the usefulness of labor; competes with itself and bids up the price of labor.

Are the workers studying this at all? Look around you in Peabody and see how many there are who will read the last paragraph and have any other thought but to laugh at it and perhaps to scorn it. How many workers are studying the reasons why their jobs do not meet the conditions they wish for?

Well, the manufacturers are studying the question. They wish steady jobs for their operatives because their factory can then run steadily. They are studying seasonal sales and trying to manufacture so that the sales will be steady all the year. This means intelligent management. Some day the worker will give thanks because his employer is an intelligent manager. Some day the worker will elect as officers of his Trade Union men who are intelligent managers. Why? Just because he wants a steady job.

And when the job is steady the wages will be steady. They are not steady today because too much time is taken up in useless fighting. No way has been provided of sitting down around a table and calmly talking the matter over in a sane and sober manner. Some day the public will get tired of being forced to pay the cost of fighting. Perhaps some day the employer or the public may even go so far as to guarantee the worker his job or protect him in his job, but, rest assured if the public or the employer does this it will mean that the worker on his part must guarantee faithful, earnest work and it will not be at a uniform flat wage but at the value of each individual man's capacity.

The right to leave his job is the right of every man or body of men. It is a right of every free man. But no man can leave his job and keep it too. No man can say "I won't work and no one else can have my job" because if he leaves it, it is no longer "my job" but is open to any other man who wishes it. We cannot eat our cake and have it at the same time.

There are three movements now going on among a small group of leather manufacturers in this locality which are intended to bring about the conditions so much desired by the wage earner. First,—the mechanical perfection of the factory, improved machinery, more economical processes, less waste. Mechanical engineers are studying these things and making improvements that in time will be of benefit to worker and employer alike.

Second,—proper methods of cost-keeping and accounting, with scientific planning of factory processes and a rearrangement of methods that will result in a saving of time to the worker and in consequence more opportunity for him to earn more. At the same time saving expense that is so necessary in meeting foreign competition. Experts are studying this also.

Third,—proper relations between the worker and the employer in their common work of producing leather for the use of the people; the elimination of friction and disputes; a means of co-operating, with justice and a square deal among men, and in service to the public.

The great difficulty in this effort is the fact that many of the workers do not understand; they are not patient enough to await results, and, just now, are being swept away by this wave of unrest and disturbance we see all over the country. This month and next will be a period to try all the courage we have,—employer and worker alike. This is the time to stand steady, say little, and think clearly, and turn our backs upon every man who preaches hate and fear.

Milk Dealers May Be Aided By New Plan

Of interest to Peabody milkmen is the announcement that substantial progress in shaping up a plan by which farmers of New England can market milk more economically was recorded this week at the meeting of the "Pooling Plan" committee selected by the New England Milk Producers' Association to study the possibilities of such a project. It is expected that the association will be called together in a special session next month to hear the report of the committee. If favorable action is then taken, the organization of dairymen on the new basis can be started immediately. It will take some months to get any such plan into operation after it has been approved.

"BABY MINE" AT THE EMPIRE

After a week of rest during which time the theatre was closed in deference to the Lenten period, the Luttringer Players will resume stock productions on Monday with a performance of "Baby Mine" continuing in the same bill for the remainder of the week. Margaret Mayo's well-known and highly successful farce is in three acts. It is a play that sends thousands into hysterics in New York, Boston and London with laughter.

"Baby Mine" is in every way in keeping with the high standard set by the popular stock company during their stay in Salem. The play is called by some of the most severe critics, "The laugh of the century." There was never anything just like it, and those who have seen it say there is nothing just as good. It was constructed with just one object in view—to amuse, to make the heart bubble with merriment, to chase away the frowns, to give new meaning to the joy of living.

The entire story might be told here, but that would be anticipating and spoil some of the surprises that crop out in every line and situation in the play. One of the critics in the Middle West said of the play: "If you need a change from the old grind, try an evening with Margaret Mayo's baby yell and you will find it better than three weeks in a sanitarium." It fairly bristles with ideas that are ingenious and clever and its incidents follow each other like shots from a Lewis gun.

The members of the company took to its atmosphere as readily as if they had rehearsed it for weeks. John Rowe, Mr. Laveau, Miss Hanson, Miss Kingsley and Al Luttringer chased each other through its many hilarious scenes with so much joy at the rehearsals, that Mr. Luttringer had to remind them that they were actors and not the audience. All the favorites are well cast and eager for the first performance.

Eight Months of Nervous Misery

Mrs. Adams Tells how Less than One Bottle of Sanalt Ended the Nervousness by Removing the Causes.

"I had been suffering terribly from nervousness for more than eight months. It was caused by bad condition of my stomach, which came so gradually that almost before I realized it I was suffering from intense headaches and spells of dizziness that were simply terrible. My kidneys and liver were both badly affected and I suffered intensely from backache." Thus says Mrs. Carl Adams, whose home is at 456 Main St., Gardner, Mass. She adds:—

"I have not yet finished my first bottle of Sanalt, but it has wonderfully improved my condition. The nervousness has almost gone, my stomach has been greatly helped, kidneys and liver are acting much better, and already I am convinced that Sanalt is true to name as 'Sanalt the Sensible Tonic.'

"I purchased Sanalt through the recommendation of Druggist Leathe, of Gardner, who said that if I was not satisfied with results he would return my money."

Sanalt has been used by the physicians of New England for nearly a hundred years. Most reconstructive tonics are constipating. Sanalt regulates blood, bowls, stomach and liver all at the same time.

Enterprising druggists all sell Sanalt.

Spring is a serious season for "sweet sixteen"—and the other "teens"

Young people plunge into the outdoor pleasures of spring with all the strength they have — and lose their health in doing it.

The confinement in school, the "home work" and the heavy eating of winter leave the organs of our boys and girls overloaded with poisonous waste that should have been carried off through the digestive tract, the pores, and in other ways. Violent exercise in the warm days of spring helps to send this poison through the blood into the entire system. This is followed by headache and many other aches, boils and pimples, constipation, dizziness, fever and then a general break down. This is a mighty serious matter for those who are passing through the change from childhood to manhood and womanhood.

The systems of your children should have a thorough, yet gentle, cleansing every spring

You can accomplish this safely, pleasantly and surely with

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court within and for the County of Essex:

RESPECTFULLY libels and represents MARIA A. MANOLAKIS, of Peabody in said County, that she was lawfully married to George S. Manolakis, now of parts unknown, at Peabody, on the seventh day of May A. D. 1917, and thereafterwards your libellant and said George S. Manolakis lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth, to wit, at 5 Union Street, Peabody, Mass.; that your libellant has always been faithful to her marriage vows and obligations, but that said George S. Manolakis being wholly regardless of the same, at Peabody on May 5th, 1921, and at divers other times was cruel and abusive to your libellant; and that the said libellee being of sufficient ability, grossly and cruelly refused and neglected to provide suitable maintenance for her, your libellant.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a decree from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said George S. Manolakis.

Dated this twenty-ninth day of March A. D. 1922.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart MacDonald and daughter have moved to Salem, where they are making their home.

Mrs. Wilbur Moulton spent Tuesday with her daughter, Mrs. Richard Stocker on Lowell street.

The many friends of Walter Southwick will be pleased to hear that his condition is improved, after his long sickness.

Alonzo Small spent Monday with his son Perley on Lowell street.

Raymond Nichols of Pine street is convalescing at the Lynn hospital, after an attack of acute appendicitis.

A small grass fire started Monday morning about nine o'clock between the summer residence of Walter Southwick and the home of John MacDonald on Goodale street. A call for help was made because the flames were threatening Mr. MacDonald's home. The fire was quickly extinguished.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the West Peabody Grange met in the schoolhouse hall Wednesday afternoon.

The millinery class met Thursday afternoon at the West school at two o'clock.

The dressmaking class met Monday afternoon at the West school. The next meeting will be next Monday.

David Corley injured one of his eyes while working at the former "degreasing plant" and was taken to the Thomas hospital.

Miss Evelina Martin is enjoying a two weeks' vacation from college at her home on Pine street.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Natt Scott will be pleased to hear that they are now occupying their new home, the parsonage, on West street.

Charles MacDonald has purchased a Ford touring car.

Interesting demonstrations of how the Gloucester fishermen catch fish will be given by E. K. Burnham of the Consumers Fish Co. of Gloucester, at the Grange meeting next week Friday. A bird expert will give a lecture about birds. Prizes will be awarded to the school children who write the best essay about birds. Our country would be a barren waste in a few years if it were not for our good friends, the birds. The Grange extends to you this opportunity to become better acquainted with the birds. The meeting will be in charge of Miss Bessie C. Taylor.

Senior Christian Endeavor at 6.30 p. m Evening worship at 7.30 p. m. There will be no Easter concert, as so many children are ill. Everyone is cordially invited to attend these services.

The mid-week prayer meeting will be Thursday at the usual hour in the ladies' parlor.

CITY HALL NOTES

The two Davids in Peabody's City Council, Messrs. Barry and Craig, are recognized as two of the ablest members on the floor. Barry is not an ally of King Nicotine. Craig likes a good cigar and knows when he picks one. Last week during the inspection of the sewer problems cigars were plentiful, and when they were passed out, Messrs. Craig and Sullivan matched to see which would draw the cigar which had been handed to Councillor Barry. When the final match had been made, the Andover street man is said to have had one to the good.

ESSEX AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL

The school has developed a fine herd of dairy animals and is now producing 160 quarts of milk per day. All of the work in the barn and dairy room is performed by the students. The poultry division is hatching a large number of chicks and the laying hens are holding a record for production. The students will work in this division. The fruit and grounds divisions will employ students in carrying out all of their work.

Special emphasis will be given to operating the school farm this year with regular students of the school. This is a plan which was instituted several years ago and will be carried out more completely this year than ever before. From fifteen to twenty young men, members of all of the four classes, will remain and work in the various divisions.

The vegetable garden division uses the largest number of students and these will be mostly first year students. The frames are now well filled with vegetable plants, such as lettuce, cabbage, beets, tomatoes, peppers and celery. The students are now digging and sorting a fine crop of asparagus plants. It will thus be seen that the students have an exceptional opportunity to get practical experience in all of the different operations connected with a large modern farm.

The enrollment for the summer clubs for boys and girls is nearly completed and the returns seem to indicate a promising summer for club work in Essex County.

Homemaking Department

The homemaking department reopened April 10th after a week of vacation. The beautiful location in which the school is situated makes these spring days very attractive for the students, and they are entering upon this last term of the year with enthusiasm and interest. Already many of the girls have planned their summer projects, which are a required part of the year's work.

Rhubarb

Soon we shall have rhubarb, fresh and plentiful. It is the first product from the home garden, and should be used to vary the family diet. Cooked with raisins it has a very pleasant taste both as sauce and in a pie, and requires less sugar. Grated pineapple and rhubarb make a pleasant combination for a pie, and a little rhubarb with your conserve makes the other fruits go farther. It is easy to can, and will keep all winter cut in small pieces, placed in a jar, covered with cold water and sealed. Teach your family to enjoy rhubarb by making it pleasant to the taste, and serve in various ways.

Seasonable Notes

Try "Spitfire" for a dazzling scarlet climbing nasturtium.

Plant an asparagus bed now and enjoy results for a score of years.

An unusual number of citizens are asking for bulletins, books and advice on these various agricultural problems.

Grafting of apples and pears can yet be successfully carried out. The prime essential is to have dormant scions, of last year's growth.

Iris, phlox, larkspur and other perennials may now be divided and reset in the hardy border. If planted at once will not interfere with full blooming this season.

Gardeners should hurry now to sow spinach, beets, carrots, lettuce, chard, kohl rabi and smooth peas. The vigorous root growth which a plant makes now in a cool soil well fits the plant to push when the warmer weather comes.

Home mixing of fertilizer on Essex County farms will be more commonly practiced this year than in any former year. By this method the farmer buys the raw materials and mixes without handling or paying freight on any filler.

Nitrate of soda is a great stimulant of plant growth. It is very useful in the vegetable garden with such crops as lettuce, spinach and other leafy crops. It is equally useful in the small fruit plantation. A young orchard tree may be greatly stimulated by the application of about one pound over a circle of five or six feet. This material may be obtained of your hardware or fertilizer dealer.

DOMINANT STYLES

The tuxedo and the slip-on are the two dominating styles in sweaters, each of them made in many variations of color, weave and material. A handsome tuxedo, knitted of wool yarn, appears above in a sweater that reveals the effective use of a fancy weave in the body of the garment and the employment of contrasting color.

Peabody Elks Dedicate New Home In City

feature last Monday night was the reading of 25 new applications for membership.

Dr. Henry I. Yale the dentist who is Secretary of the lodge is the real father of the Antler herd in this city. He took the initiative in securing the list of charter members and was one of the three petitioners to apply for the dispensation. Esteemed Leading Knight, Thomas F. Barrett and Frank W. Penniman were the other petitioners.

Peabody High School

The senior girls had a meeting in Room 1 Monday noon, with Miss Elizabeth Gourley presiding, to decide on the graduation dress. It was suggested that the girls wear white middy blouses and skirts, with white sport shoes. The girls have decided, however, to wear simple white muslin or organdy dresses and white shoes and stockings.

The sophomores are planning for a party in the assembly hall the first week of June. The girls will put on the sketch, "Honest Peggy," and the boys will take charge of the other half of the program.

Rehearsals for Memorial Day exercises in the City Hall have begun. A review of the war work of Peabody will be given with Marea Johnson as Columbia, William Ratcliffe as General Sutton, Raymond Burlingham as Gideon Foster, Joseph Harrigan as a messenger boy, Willis Moore as a Civil war hero, Elbridge Tarbox as Abraham Lincoln, Raymond Grady as a World war veteran, Catherine Canniff as a Civil war girl, Marguerite Smith as a Red Cross nurse, and Rose Salkowitz as the American flag. "Peace" will be represented by Elizabeth Gourley in a solo, accompanied by a quartet from the high school.

A meeting of the Spanish Club was held Monday and it was decided to hold two meetings a month, a short one not less than fifteen minutes and a long one not less than thirty minutes. The amount of dues to be paid by the members was also decided. The Spanish Club meetings are conducted in Spanish. Plans are being made for another sketch to be presented at the next meeting.

The advanced pupils in the Spanish class have received the addresses of their Spanish correspondents and a few have already written. The correspondents are principally in South America.

Examinations were held Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, with double periods and three exams a day.

Miss Mary Barry substituted for Mr. Higgins of Room 16 this week.

Ruth Bradstreet of Room 11 is absent on account of illness.

BLOCKS CUT IN CITY SALARY

The Council voted to purchase at a cost of $6500 and the City Solicitor was authorizde to draw up the papers.

Thomas F. Doyle, the expressman, who was injured when a firekit struck his wagon on Central street, filed notice of a claim for damages.

The Council by a vote of 6 to 3 adopted the legislative act giving City Electrician O'Keefe civil service. Messrs. Barnes, Duggan and McKeen dissented.

By vote of the Council the city auditor will submit a list of the bonds held by the electric light sinking fund commission together with their earning capacity.

City Engineer Emerson sent to the Council last night a list of his employes and amount of wages. The list showed it costs the city $80,170.90 to maintain this department. A copy of the letter was ordered sent to Mayor Shea.

After some debate in which Military Aid Commissioner Fyfe was ably defended for his good work, the Council voted to increase his salary to $1500. Mayor Shea had sent in an ordinance covering the matter that drew criticism from Chairman Duggan of the ordinance committee who believed his committee should be acquainted with the ordinance first. Dugan hinted that the city clerk might attend to the duties of Fyfe's office or some other city employe who had ample time. Councillor Cullen declared Mr. Fyfe had saved the city much money by frowning on padded payrolls.

Chautauqua Here Next Year

Peabody may stage a chautauqua in 1923 if the plans which got their start this week at the Peabody Rotary Club avail and there is every reason to believe that enough citizens will sponsor the undertaking. A week's program of educational value, including a seven days' entertainment to take care of the children, will be afforded.

J. Ray Riley of White Plains, N. Y., special representative of the Swarthmore College Chautauqua Association, addressed the Rotary Club members last Tuesday, outlining the program, and he received assurances of support to bring the chautauqua here in 1923. He is now interviewing various public spirited men and women to act as guarantors of the affair, as is customary, and within a few days should secure the needed 30 signers to insure the big event for Peabody.

Mayor Shea heads the list of endorsers. Several of the local clergymen, including Rev. Thomas P. McGinn of St. John's church, will doubtless lend their moral support to the affair.

The Rotary Club opposed the bringing of the chautauqua here this summer, owing to the plans of the reception to the Charleston, S. C., football delegation, and also the need of rallying to the support of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce.

The Swarthmore people have put on their chautauqua in Danvers for the past two years with great success. A sale of 600 season tickets for the week at three dollars each will pay the expense of bringing to Peabody some of the best known platform speakers in the country. It ought to be a real service to Peabody.

GREEKS WILL HAVE BIG PROCESSION

An Easter procession by hundreds of Greeks of this city is set for 9 o'clock tonight, starting from the Greek church on English street. The parade will be to City Hall and return by way of Main street. A large mound of flowers will be carried by four men typifying Christ, and at the service later at the church the flowers will be distributed as palms. The procession will be led by Spence's band, the Greek priest and carol singers.

LEO GUILD

The calendar committee of Leo Guild have been busy the past week completing the social calendar for the year and have arranged an unusually interesting program of activities to be presented on an average of once a month. The first social to be held since the recent installation of officers will be Monday evening in K. of C. hall when Miss Helen T. Lynch of Boston will give an instructive demonstration on "How to buy and how to wear clothes properly." Every member of Leo Guild should avail herself of the opportunity of hearing Miss Lynch, who is a professional in the art of dressing properly. Living models will display the beautiful wearing apparel which she will bring with her. The hostesses for Monday night are Mrs. Alice Fennessey, chairman, Mrs. John E. Keefe, Mrs. Michael F. Mulcahy, Mrs. Frank L. Conway. Members are assured of a delightful evening and are urged to bring friends.

NEW BUILDINGS FOR WALNUT ST.

Walnut street is soon to be rid of some of the small wooden structures which have been regarded as fire hazards, and in their places will be erected two-story brick structures. Yesterday the office of William F. Carlin sold for the Morse Blacking Co. a parcel of land on the westerly side of the canal, to James Aleferis of Lynn, who will immediately start the erection of a two-story brick building, the first floor of which will contain three stores, and the upper floor to be used as a hall.

The land is now occupied as a coffee house, and the building belongs to Louis and Charles Spelietis. The same office has sold a similar parcel of land on the easterly side of the canal to Charles Fillis, who will proceed to replace the wooden buildings with a brick building, that will have three stores on the first floor. This land is now occupied by wooden buildings owned by Nettie M. Fellows.

A third parcel sold by Mr. Carlin for the Morse Blacking Co. was that now occupied by the blacksmith shop on Wallis street, which was sold to Thomas F. Fitzpatrick and Peter Doucette, present owners. The Morse Blacking Co. will start the erection of a two-story brick building to replace the present wooden factory building now used.

Other real estate sales by Mr. Carlin recently were: a two-family house, Lenox road, Gardner Park, for Anthony Mellow, to Bessie R. Brannagan and Augustus Meade; a cottage house, 54 Clement aenue, for John Henderson to Newton E. Johnson; a cottage house and shop, 101 Lynn street, for Alice M. Buoker, to Delbert Crosby; a cottage house, 62 Glendale avenue, Lake Shore Park, for Patrick J. Cunningham, to Frank Ashton of Lynn ;a two-tenement house, 27 Fulton street, for Ellis Mellow, to Costas Lygomenis ;a parcel of land on Lowell street for James J. Donovan to Josephine Sanborn of Salem, who will erect a new home on the site in the near future, and a parcel of land on Savoy road, Salem, for Harry E. Keith, Columbus avenue, Salem, to Bertha Dodge of Salem.

NEW FOSTER HOUSE

Mrs. Margaret Hocter, who has successfully conducted lodging houses in Peabody, has leased the New Foster House and will conduct a public dining room in connection. She has recently given up a lease of the Savoy apartment on Main street and will confine her efforts to the Peabody House over Edgerly's market and the New Foster House.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. John Woodbury of Sawyer street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, born April 11th.

Alvah Moore, manager of the Munroe & Arnold express, who has been confined to his home for three weeks by illness, is showing improvement.

Miss Calleset Driscoll of Fay avenue is confined to her home with a severe illness.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. George H. Howes entertained the ministers' wives at the Universalist parsonage, in honor of Mrs. Edward Towle, who leaves Peabody next week.

The Misses Miriam Hayes and Marie Curtis are home from Trinity College, Washington, for the Easter vacation. Councillor George Eagan is still on the sick list.

"DOOD MORNIN'."

EACH morning when the sun comes up
To tint the east with red;
When birds sing sweet the day to greet
In branches overhead,
'Tis then I fully realize
I'm rich beyond compare,
For sweet and clear a voice I hear:
"Dood mornin', pop! You dere?"

The cares of day may vest the night
With visions dark and strange;
And through my sleep dark phantoms creep
And dismal doubtings range.
But when the morning sunlight breaks—
Then farewell doubt and care,
For sweet and clear a voice I hear:
"Dood mornin', pop! You dere?"

The day dawns bright and hope revives.
The tasks it brings to me
Seem to be small if but the call
Comes fraught with childish glee.
And light of heart I face the day,
For on its morning air
Comes sweet music my ears to greet:
"Dood mornin', pop! You dere?"

When life is done, its task laid down;
When comes eternity;
I humbly pray the judgment day
Will bring one boon to me.
One boon I ask of Thee, dear Lord—
That in that city fair
My ears shall hear that greeting clear:
"Dood mornin', pop! You dere?"

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court within and for the County of Essex: RESPECTFULLY libels and represents LILLIAN M. VILES, of Peabody in said county, that she was lawfully married to Frederick J. Viles, now of parts unknown, at Lynn, on the seventh day of November A. D., 1914; and thereafterwards your libellant and the said Frederick J. Viles lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth, to wit, at Lynn and Peabody, that your libellant has always been faithful to her marriage vows and obligations, but the said Frederick J. Viles being wholly regardless of the same, at Peabody on the sixteenth (16th) day of May, 1916 without just cause wilfully and utterly deserted your libellant, which desertion has continued from such time to the date hereof, being more than three (3) consecutive years prior to the filing of this libel.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Frederick J. Viles. And your libellant represents that there has been born of said marriage a son, Gilbert E. Viles, now aged seven (7) years, and prays that the care and custody of said minor child be decreed to your libellant.

Dated this eleventh day of March A. D., 1922.

LILLIAN M. VILES.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
ESSEX, ss. Superior Court, April 13, 1922.

Upon the foregoing libel, ordered, that the said libellant give notice to said FREDERICK J. VILES by causing an attested copy of her said libel, and of this order thereon, to be published in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper printed in Peabody in the county of Essex, once a week, for three weeks successively, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the return day of this Court, at Salem, within the county of Essex, on the first Monday of June next, and by mailing, forthwith, by registered letter to the libellee at his last known place of residence an attested copy of said libel and of this order thereon: that he may appear at said Salem within six months from said first Monday of June and show cause, if any he has, why the prayer of said libel should not be granted.

Attest, A. N. FROST, Clerk.

The foregoing is a true copy of said libel and of the order thereon.

Attest, A. N. FROST, Clerk.

FINN PRESENTS HIS VIEWS ON HOW CITY COULD SAVE MONEY

Editor Enterprise:

Under the present system of society it becomes increasingly difficult for the common people to get a living and pay their way. All the time the number of unemployed increases. Poverty assumes larger proportions as the years go by and wealth increases. The increase of wealth does not aid the poor. Today as never before the problem of the cities is becoming one which concerns itself with finding work for the mass.

The uncertainty of a livelihood reaches all classes except the rich or well to do. Each individual strives to find a place for himself and once in that place he endeavors to hold it and never let go. If he is pushed out of his accustomed place he is in danger of going under foot in the struggle. Once he is down he is trampled under the iron heel of the competitive system.

Now it is because of the inability of men to find work and a decent wage that so many cast their eyes to government positions. It makes little difference whether it is the city, state, or nation, the position is fought for by men who are urged on by the desire to make themselves secure. Witness the unseemly scramble whenever a postmaster is to be appointed. There are as many candidates as there are for mayor, when the time for city election rolls around.

It is because of this struggle for bread, which goes on in a society where only the strongest and most cunning can live and attain a social position for themselves, that men look to government positions as a means of making a living. They are driven to it and often in spite of themselves. If there was general intelligence, patriotism, and virtue, we would have a far different system. We would have a system in which there would be work for all, able and willing to work, and the full and complete reward of his labor to each.

There are many tax-payers in this city who would like to know the reason for a superintendent of the electric system and a city electrician. One man is sufficient here.

There are many tax-payers too who would like to know why it is necessary to have a tax collector and a treasurer,

Dr. Yale's Son Hit By Auto Will Recover

Arthur Yale five year old son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry I. Yale of Chestnut street who was knocked down by an automobile on Lowell street late yesterday afternoon passed a comfortable night at the J. B. Thomas hospital and his recovery is assured. He received a scalp wound but escaped broken bones. The accident happened near Linehan's court.

The lad was struck by a Ford Sedan owned by Fred A. Chilton of Brookline who is Boston manager for the Richard Young Leather Co. and his chauffeur Clavis E. Chevalier also of Brookline was at the wheel. The car was stopped within three feet after hitting the boy who was sent headlong to the pavement away from the wheels of the machine. A tree is said to have concealed the view of the boy as he stepped into the street.

The infant daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Yale is ill with the measles.

Miss McManus To Wed Tuesday

The marriage of Miss Beatrice M. McManus of this city and John Henry Lyons of Danvers will take place next Tuesday evening at St. John's church. The marriage date, April 25, is the silver wedding anniversary of the parents of the bride-to-be, Mr. and Mrs. James B. McManus of Holten street, who were married at St. John's church April 25, 1897.

MARTY DONOVAN DISCHARGED AS ATHLETIC COACH

Coach Martin J. Donovan in charge of Peabody high school athletics since the fall of 1920, will receive today notice of his discharge and steps will be taken to supplant him perhaps by tomorrow for the first game here with Beverly. The Advisory Board held a meeting yesterday afternoon at which they unanimously voted to break with the Salem coach who is one of the best known semi-pro ball players and a former diamond star at Brown College.

Donovan's failure to produce the high school team on Emerson Park on Patriot's Day, last Wednesday, for a scheduled game with the alumni and his threats to disqualify any school player who dared to disregard his orders was his undoing. His failure to appear on the playing field constituted a violation of the contract which stipulated that he must personally direct the players at every game. The alumni game was scheduled weeks ago for the opening card of the season.

Coach Donovan not only ordered his players not to show up for the Patriot's Day game but he also is said to have instructed the schoolboy managers to report to him the name of any player who dared to go to the Park.

The alumni team under Buster Childs were on hand to play the scheduled game. Not a single high school player appeared on the field. Donovan had declared he would refuse to let any player figure in any game if he disregarded his mandate.

The Advisory Board members were

Peabody Will Have Semi-Pro. Baseball Team

Peabody will have a fast semi-pro ball team this season with the opening game set for April 30 at Emerson Park. This was decided at a meeting of baseball fans at the Peabody Rubber Co.'s sporting goods store on Walnut street yesterday. Such stars as Eddie and Joe O'Conor, young Hap Ward of Lynnfield, Bill Meade, Hubbie Lawrence and other local favorites will be in the lineup. The battery will be McDonald and Foley of Boston college. Plans for a twi-light league were discussed but it was deemed inadvisable to form such a league this season.

Miss Nora McCarthy, who has substituted at the school a number of times, was married Wednesday of this week. Miss McCarthy is a graduate of the class of '16.

Helen Potter of Room 4 made a short visit to school Tuesday noon. Miss Potter has been ill with rheumatic fever for the past eight weeks, and her friends will be glad to know that she is able to be about again.

The Sophomores held a meeting Friday noon, to make plans for a social to be held on June 9.

Miss Helen Maguire of the class of '20 was a visitor at the high school Tuesday. Miss Maguire has been attending Boston University of Liberal Arts for the past two years.

We are glad to see Miss Agnes Cody, who was absent from school last week on account of illness, with us again.

Ruth Bradstreet of Room 11 has discontinued her studies at school.

The friends of Miss Dorothy Tumulty, of the sub-freshman class, are pleased to hear that she has recovered sufficiently from her recent illness to return to her studies at school.

Costas Anasoulis of Room 1 was absent this week.

The Peabody Press Company has volunteered to furnish all the tickets for the baseball games this spring free of charge. A new system of selling the tickets is being arranged, whereby each ticket may be accounted for when the returns are made.

Charles Murray of the sub-freshman class has left school.

Miss Florence Collins has obtained a position with the M. P. Stone Company after school hours.

Henry Cassidy of Room 27 has given up his studies at the school.

We are glad to see Mr. Higgins with us again after being absent for a week on account of illness.

The committee of history teachers held a meeting Thursday afternoon, with Miss Towne presiding, to complete the plans for the Memorial Day exercises in City Hall. Miss Sullivan, the music instructor, plans to have a chorus of 250 pupils from the grade schools and a double quartet from the high school.

Miss Ida Keniston is working for the Hamblet & Hayes Hardware Company afternoons.

Miss Logan, with the help of Miss Sullivan, is planning for Memorial Day exercises in the Assembly hall.

The seniors are holding rehearsals for their coming play, "Lone's Busy," about three times a week, under the supervision of the Misses Bierne and Wollahan.

The Nineteenth of April was observed as a holiday in the schools this week.

The juniors have ordered their class rings.

A meeting of the Spanish Club was held in Room 17 Tuesday noon.

Miss Mary Barry substituted for Miss Towne this week.

Candidates for the baseball team this season are: Robert Hayes, student manager; Newell Bodge, assistant student manager; Stephen Kowalski, John Connolly, John V. Munroe, Walter Gray, Wendell Wiley, Roger Doherty, Bernard Ginsberg, Theodore Manning, Frank Dennis, Edward Twiss, Walter Boisclair, Albert Thibodeau, Leo Levasseur, Barnett Weinstein, James Russell, Joseph McHugh, Augustus Martinack, Daniel Donovan, Joseph A. Murphy, Raymond Viles, Francis Kilderry, Louis Guilmet, Raymond Burlingham Bertram Pitman, Frank Wilson, Arthur Johnson, John Sweeney, Thomas Gilmore, Arthur Maguire, George Morrison, Raymond Coombs, Paul MacGregor, Leo Buckley, Peter Panageotopoulos, William Dee, William Crean, captain.

Boy Scouts Will Present Comedy

"The Scoutmaster," a comedy in three acts, is to be presented by Troop 2 next Wednesday and Thursday evenings at the Universalist church vestry. A show of two hours with plenty of fun and even thrills is in the making. A cast of 26 boys will take part. The leading parts are to be taken by Raymond Viles, Newhall Bodge, John V. Munroe, Willis Moore, Wendall Wiley, Daniel Wiggin, Jerome Aldrich, Elmer Wiley, Wilbur Jackman, Gordon Randall and Edward Holleran. A five-piece orchestra of Boy Scouts will furnish music. Home-made candy will be on sale.

PERSONAL

Arthur F. Poole, president of the Warren Five Cents Savings bank, and daughter, Miss Mary Poole, leave today for a week's trip to Washington, D. C.

John O. Ballentine left yesterday for the week-end at Jackson, N. H., where he will fish in the mountain stream closeby the Ballentine bungalow.

Miss Rachel Jeffers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Jeffers, is ill at her home on Holten street.

Vose E. Cross of Clement avenue was a high school classmate in Waterville, Me., of Congressman Nelson, the latest Maine citizen to be elected to congress.

Holten lodge of Odd Fellows sent a large delegation to Gloucester Patriots' Day to witness degree work by the lodge in that city.

CORNELIUS J. LYNCH

The funeral of Cornelius J. Lynch, an old and highly respected citizen of Ward Four, whose death occurred at the Salem hospital last Saturday night, following an operation, was held from his late home, 110 Tremont street, on Tuesday morning. Solemn high mass was celebrated at St. John's church at 9.30 by the pastor, Rev. T. P. McGinn, assisted by two former Peabody boys, Rev. Timothy Woods as deacon and Rev. Joseph Broderick as sub-deacon. Rev. William Shaughnessy acted as master of ceremonies. Burial was in the family lot in St. Mary's cemetery, where Rev. Fr. McGinn read the committal service at the grave. The funeral was in charge of Undertaker John H. Meade. Besides an aged widow, Mr. Lynch leaves one daughter, Sister Magdalene of the Order of Notre Dame.

South Peabody

The Sewso Club met with Miss Evelyn Brown Monday evening. Mrs. Stella Newhall will entertain the members next week.

A. C. Morse of Belfast, Me., is visiting his son, Harry Morse, of Maple street.

Charles Hardy, better known as "Buster," of Portsmouth, N. H., has been spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. Wilber Smith, Lynn street.

Mrs. Nellie Foley of Waltham and Mrs. Elizabeth Peirce of Atlantic were guests of Rev. and Mrs. Robert Bakeman over the week-end.

Richard B. Draper, the South Peabody coal dealer, was married Sunday afternoon to Armeda Brennan of Lynn by Rev. Robert Bakeman. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. George Draper. Mr. and Mrs. Draper have gone to Maine on their honeymoon and on their return will reside at 42 Lynn street.

Frederick Foley of Water Works road has purchased a new automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eade and family of Winnegance avenue visited Concord and Lexington on the holiday.

Mrs. Maud Nickles of Winnegance avenue has had an attack of appendicitis and her two children are sick with the measles.

Charles W. Parker and family of Tucker's court have all been sick with grip for the past week.

Rev. Robert Bakeman suggests the organization of a South Peabody Community Club to help look after the playgrounds and other community activities. He hopes that a meeting will be held soon to formulate plans.

Mrs. John Tedford of Lynnfield street has had tonsilitis for the past week.

Mrs. Fred Savage of County street is seriously ill at a Boston hospital, where she underwent an operation for a tumor last week.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lake Shore Park church met with Mrs. Lillian Winslow yesterday afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. Harry Hill moved to their new parsonage at Maplewood yesterday.

The Ship Rock Sewing Club met with Mrs. Sadie Morse, Maple street, last night. A splendid supper was served and a social time followed.

Mrs. Hill, wife of the past minister of the Lake Shore Park church, entertained about 30 members of the Sunday school at her home Saturday afternoon. The boys and girls spent the afternoon in games and a dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Hill.

The thanks of the community is due Mr. Cashman, who purchased the Bushby field, and has allowed the playground commissioners to have about four acres without any charge, except for interest. It is hoped that the people will appreciate this act and will give Mr. Cashman a square deal on the rest of the land that is planted.

A four-act drama entitled "The Heart of a Hero" will be given at the Second Congregational church next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. The South Peabody Dramatic Club, under the direction of W. E. Weld, are to give the play and Miss Lottie Brown and Grafton Broughton are to play the leading parts. The children are requested to go Tuesday evening, thus giving the older folks plenty of good seats for Wednesday evening. This plan has worked to the best advantage at previous dramas. Ice cream will be on sale and the committee in charge will also have a cake table.

Miss Alice Bunce, county demonstration agent, will give the first lesson on nutrition this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the South school. Her subject will be "Diet for Children," and all mothers of the community are urged to be present.

Capt. Charles Holbrook and family of Somerville visited Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morse on Sunday. Capt. Holbrook was a sea captain during the World war and was captured by a German submarine and held as prisoner for many days. He has written several articles about the experiences encountered at that time.

William Whitteredge, Jr., is still at the Thomas hospital and is reported as comfortable.

Rev. Ralph Templin, pastor of Lake Shore Park church, will conduct the prayer meeting this evening and services will be held at the usual time on Sunday.

A fine community spirit was shown on the holiday when 83 residents of South Peabody started on a hike at about 5.30 in the morning. Breakfast was cooked on the hill near Angus Reid's house. About seven miles was covered by the party and they arrived home in time for dinner. There seemed to be no age limit adopted, as old and young tramped together and all reported a good time.

PERSONAL

Patrick Callahan of 15 Northend street returned home from the J. B. Thomas hospital yesterday, where he has been confined for the past two months since he fell on the icy sidewalk at the corner of Oak and Foster streets, and sustained a compound fracture of the left leg.

A son was born April 18 to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Skinner.

Rev. I. F. Lusk and family have removed to Newton.

MAY FESTIVAL

One of the pleasing features of the Community House May festival to be held in City Hall on Wednesday, May 3, will be the May pole dance which will be participated in by about 300 children. The afternoon may queen will be little Elizabeth Osborn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillips Osborn, and in the evening Miss Nancy Barnes, daughter of Councillor and Mrs. Clarence W. Barnes, will be crowned queen of the May.

ARE YOU AMONG THE UNEMPLOYED?

You may be, and not know it. Most folks are in the spring.

Let SANALT
PUT YOU ON THE JOB

BLOOD, stomach, bowels and kidneys are usually on half time in the winter. Pork and cabbage, pie and pudding and other heavy, fatty foods; lack of exercise, too much sleep and too little fresh air make the organs rebel, and they loaf on the job.

When the warm days of spring come, your insides go on strike and you're out of a job — and if you don't watch out in a little while you'll be too sick to work.

The winter waste, the decaying, poisonous matter that is left in your system must be removed. To do it you must take something to make your organs get busy. If you don't you'll have what the old-fashioned folks call "Spring Misery." Indigestion and its horrible pains. The wretchedness of constipation. Lazy liver and sluggish kidneys. Then the poison goes into the blood and comes out in boils and pimples. Headache, nervousness and "the blues" follow. Lastly, that utterly worthless, tired-out feeling that puts you on your back, sick in bed.

SANALT the Sensible Tonic will awaken all your organs and put them on a full time job — and do it, oh, so pleasantly! SANALT is one of the famous, hundred-year-old "Winsol" line of household remedies. Buy a bottle from your druggist. If not satisfied with results, get all your money back. Get the name right.

Buster Keaton At Strand Tonight
'Fool's Paradise' For Monday's Bill

James Oliver Curwood's story, "The Girl From Porcupine" and Buster Keaton in his newest comedy hit, "The Paleface," will divide the headline honors on the bill the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. Mr. Curwood's pictures need no introduction to photoplay fans who will recall to mind "The River's End" and other great pictures made under his supervision. "The Girl From Porcupine" is Curwood from start to finish and stars Faire Binney and William Collier, Jr. The scenes in this production were taken in Maine and the many beautiful shots show that in the future Maine will be used more often by producers of out-door dramas. It is not fair to tell the story, even briefly, and spoil the suspense which carries the interest throughout the picture, but it is fair to say that "The Girl From Porcupine" is on a par with any picture Mr. Curwood has ever released, which is guarantee that one may look forward with keen anticipation to an enjoyable evening.

"The Paleface," Mr. Keaton's new comedy, is an absolute riot of fun. From the time he is captured by Indians until they make him chief of the tribe, the picture will make the most hardened movie fan howl with delight. The final episode of Eddie Polo's serial play, "The Secret Four," will be the other feature for today.

"Fool's Paradise," Cecil B. DeMille's new triumph, will be presented at the Strand for three days, starting Sunday. The picture, which is an excellent example of Mr. DeMille's genius, is one of the most delightful screen dramas ever presented in this city. The theme is one of intense heart appeal and the various scenes which take one from France to Mexico and thence to colorful Siam are beautiful in the extreme. The ice ballet and the flight of the magic carpet are numbered among the most spectacular yet devised. The leading roles are portrayed by Dorothy Dalton, Mildred Harris, Conrad Nagle, Theodore Kosloff, John Davidson and Julia Faye.

The story itself deals with the love of an American soldier for a French dancer who later meets a girl in a Mexican cantina whose love he spurns. Through blindness which comes to him because of a silly act on the part of the latter girl, he marries her in the belief that she is the French girl. Later he recovers his sight, annuls the marriage and in his search for the French girl is led to Siam, where she proves her worthlessness and forces him to seek his former wife with whom he finds happiness.

The picture is one that will please every lover of the beautiful, lofty and artistic in the silent drama, and leaves little to be desired by the most blase picture fan.

HARRIGAN—NELSON

The marriage of Miss Olivia M. Nelson of this city and Francis J. Harrigan of Medford was solemnized at St. John's church on Easter Sunday night, Rev. Charles D. McInnis performing the ceremony. The bride wore a becoming gown of white canton crepe with tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Theckla Nelson, whose dress was of pale pink satin with a black lace picture hat. Her bouquet was of pink sweet peas. The best man was Joseph M. Harrigan, brother of the groom.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Margaret Nelson, 16 Summer street, where the many beautiful gifts received by the couple were on display. Mr. and Mrs. Harrigan have gone on an extended wedding trip and on their return will make their home in Somerville, where the groom, who is an electrical engineer, is in business.

THE EXPERIENCE OF A FAMOUS MALE NURSE

Mr. Geo. B. Jenkins, of 621 Putnam Ave., Cambridge, Mass., was for more than eighteen years a special nurse, attending to men who were sufferers of one or more great ills. Mr. Jenkins has been in attendance upon a number of very prominent men of the country. He has travelled with them and their physicians from coast to coast, and is therefore a man who has had a remarkably wide experience with doctors and medicines. He has for years been acquainted with the reputation of the Winsol line, and says:—

"In spite of my broad experience, I had not found remedies that suited my own ills until I became acquainted with the Winsol line. I have for years been a chronic sufferer from Bronchial Catarrh and Torpid Liver. For all my Liver ills I had found no relief until I commenced to take Sanalt. Cathartics merely aggravated the trouble, giving but temporary help. Sanalt put me in first-class shape in a general way, and I can say that Torpid Liver, Digestive Troubles and all allied ills have practically passed away from me, and I believe forever, after a thorough course of treatment with Sanalt, the Sensible Tonic."

All ambitious druggists sell Sanalt.

Ford Sedans Are In Better Finish For This Season

Many added conveniences and refinements are to be seen in the Ford enclosed cars now being displayed by the local authorized Ford dealers. The interior of both the coupe and sedan is now finished in an attractive shade of walnut brown broadcloth; and the seats are upholstered with a similar material threaded with chalked ebony-stripe. Heavy floor rugs give an added touch of comfort. Lifts, of a special design, minimize the effort of raising or lowering the windows. Door bumpers insure a tighter fitting, and new door grips, both inside and out, add to the rider's convenience.

The demand for Ford enclosed cars at the Rowe Motor Co. showrooms on Foster street has been unusually high during the past two months. Although production has been speeded up in the factory at Detroit, sales continue to exceed the output, making it necessary for purchasers in many parts of the country to wait for their cars.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hildreth, formerly of 9 Sutton street, have taken a house on Mason street in North Salem.

Mrs. James J. Barry of Washington street is recovering from injuries received when she fell coming out of St. John's church last Sunday morning.

Miss Alice Chamberlain spent the holiday with friends in Malden.

Angus J. MacDonald has re-entered the employ of the Rogers estate on Andover street, taking the position of Former Superintendent Charles Simpkins.

Charles M. Petraske of Chestnut street is enjoying a two weeks' visit as the guest of Atty. Frank Lawlor of Greenfield.

WANT GAMES

The Orientals of this city, who have just completed a successful season in basketball, are to be represented by a fast baseball team this season and would like to arrange games with any 15 to 16 1-2 year team. Challenges should be sent to James McCusker, 17 Highland Park.

Better Leather Machinery Being Produced For Trade By Turner Tanning Machine Co.

(By ENERGY)

I came, I saw, I concurred with the views of some others who have visited the Turner Tanning Machinery Co.'s plant. The tanning machinery at least from this plant is being improved materially. No doubt the others are striving in the same direction, and even if they are not, they are doomed to poor business.

* * *

Whether the United Shoe Machinery Co. has been instrumental in making this improvement, or this change had taken place previous to that time, it matters little. Having worked in tanning machinery for some years, I am going to call myself qualified to comment on what I saw there.

* * *

First it was an April day, with a mixture of showers and chilly weather. Perhaps it matters little what kind of a day it was, only I mention April to show my visit was recent. The atmosphere inside the plant was far better than outside, for I met Mr. Ramsdell, who is the boss thinker there. From his brain has eminated many an idea, which put in practice on leather-making machines, has been valuable. He is one good fellow to meet. I know, for I have met him before in Philadelphia and other sections of the globe. He has spent 30 years or more fussing about leather machinery, and therefore has the right to talk about what his experience has taught him.

* * *

I could go on and tell of his virtues, but I am supposed to talk about machines and not the man who helped to make them what they are. Therefore after a welcome fit for anybody, we proceeded to look them over. Naturally we started in the room where the Korrect Leather Measuring Machine is made. You note I use capitals, and that is because I consider this machine the equal if not the best one of its kind in the market. It was Mr. Ramsdell who put the K in Korrect. This machine is his invention and the royalties he has collected would make John D. Rockefeller smile. This machine has stood the test of time as well as wear. It will measure two-inch planks or bees wings. It is not perfect, but near enough to be a first cousin. Perhaps I should qualify. Some fellow who evidently knows more than I do say there is no such thing as 100 per cent. or perfect. It can't be done, he says. I take his word for it. That is the reason I say the Korrect machine is not perfect, no other reason.

* * *

I noted minor improvements since I was close to the business. The general make up is the same, however. The leather business may be dull, but let me tell you there were at least a dozen machines on the floor in process of construction and no one can convince me they are being manufactured to look at. There were the father, a whole-hide machine; then the oldest son for large skins; the young fellow, which measures fly paper and thus ended the procession.

* * *

But I saw there another machine made in Germany by the Turner Co., who have a large plant near Hamburg. To look at, it was a thing of beauty. The workmanship was the last word, and it would measure extremely accurate. The principle is different than the Korrect, and for fear I might get in all over I refrain from describing it. This I will say. Small pins in the feed-roll drop on the leather and register the measurement. The under roll is grooved to receive the pins. If every piece of leather was clean all would be well. But take leather with a five days' growth of beard on the flesh side, and shedding a bit, there appears nothing to stop the pins and grooves from getting pieces on them. If so, the measurement would be incorrect.

Therefore whoever built that machine had good intentions. Perhaps he figured with the help of a Gilette razor this trouble could be eliminated. But whatever he thought, he did not reckon on American-made leather being dirty. Perhaps German leather is clean. One thing sure the way their leather is bundled up would set some of our local tanners to thinking.

* * *

I must qualify my statement, dirty leather. I mean the flesh side contains particles which are constantly released by handling. That dirt is little, but enough to make this machine out of the question. It looks a winner, however, and would be with some way to rid the leather of shedding.

* * *

The cost to make that machine in Germany is $150. It could not be made here less than $400. Food for thought.

* * *

We visited other rooms and saw shaving machines and all their relatives. They all had a healthy look. In fact it struck me foreibly that they appeared much better than in the old days. They use a better quality paint for one thing. It is put on better, and like a house it adds 25 per cent. to the looks. The castings are cleaner, in fact a better machine to look at and I will bet a better one for the tanner.

* * *

So after the usual good-byes and thanks, whether you mean it or not, I came away satisfied the tanner will get many good things in the shape of machines in the future. Whether he will have enough money to buy them is another question. Should business perk up he will be there, however.

* * *

I will say that some one who knows leather should be connected with the machinery game. His head may be as thick as ivory when inventing is taken into the question, but his knowledge of what is required of a machine will earn his salary, and save the company who pays the inventors big money. Theory makes fools of some men, but adding experience and horse sense wins the battle.

Aleppo Band To Feature O.E.S. Dancing Party

The annual spring concert and ball of Salem Chapter No. 98, Order of the Eastern Star, to be held Monday evening, May 1, at the State Armory, Salem, promises to be the event of the season in Essex County.

Music will be furnished by the Aleppo Drum Corps of Boston—135 people in full costume will be a most interesting feature, as this is the first appearance of this famous shrine organization band east of Boston. The concert program will be from 8 to 9, with dancing from 9 to 12 midnight.

The decorations and favors will be most unique.

Tickets are in great demand, and many prominent people in state ond Masonic circles are to be present.

The refreshment room or grotto in the basement will be another novelty.

THE BUSINESS FUTURE

Peabody is vitally interested in the future of the leather business. We are doubly so because it forms all of the city's future. One cannot prophesy what would happen should the leather business go elsewhere, but such a change is not expected from any angle. General business throughout the country is showing a slow but sure improvement. Every newspaper tells us of the many signs pointing to better business. Traveling salesmen report it and trade papers who report conditions as they are and not what they should be, all tell us of improvement. Many business men cannot see any signs that point to better business. They have been the under dog so long, they are pessimists without a struggle. But in spite of the bad conditions in the leather business, and we acknowledge they are somewhat unhappy, with other business perking up, so will leather. There are factors in the leather business which tend to keep it back. The tariff on or off, keeps all guessing. If German made leather is allowed to come in to this country without a duty, it will be the hardest blow the trade has experienced for many moons, and our leather trade has received some punches. Such a condition means lower wages or no business. No American wants our wages on a par with those of Europe. If our leather is protected by a tariff it would help. Our foreign trade will suffer just the same, so what is the answer. Increased production for less money. We do not believe the American workmen will sit still and allow his bread and butter taken away by foreign competition. We believe he will meet that competition and the outcome will be prosperity, not of the war kind, but steady for those who deserve it.

REPAIRING STREETS

Riding through cities and towns reveals the fact there are many varieties of repairing streets. The exception might be the largest cities, where there is more money to do with. Smaller municipalities are governed by their pocketbooks. About Essex County can be seen streets from macadam to gravel in all stages of repair, from the new to some that are dangerous to traverse. Peabody today compares favorably with its surrounding neighbors, yes with any places in this section. Danvers is the other extreme. For years it has been customary in Danvers to repair their streets as cheaply as possible. The exception would be small stretches built last year. Salem has some good roads, notably Boston street. All streets must be watched and small repairs made when necessary. By this process years of life are added. We note the engineer's department is after the small defects, and Andover street has ben carefully gone over and the many holes, caused by wear and frost, filled in. No doubt, Lynn street will be treated likewise. If allowed to go without repairs, Andover and Lynn streets would need rebuilding within a year. If there are streets neglected this year, it will be because the city is short of funds. It may be provision has been made for repairs. Our main arteries are being seen to today. Most of our gravel roads with the exception of the small cross roads can be kept right at a small expense. Therefore with all the worries of keeping down city expenses, there will be little that need cause worry from street repairs for some years.

NEW POSTMASTER

William F. Searles will in a short time become postmaster of Peabody. The only opposition to his appointment came in the assumed fact that he was not a real resident of Peabody, although a legal one. Be that as it may, he has received the appointment, therefore is entitled to the support of Peabody citizens. No one doubts his ability to fill the position with honor to himself and good service to the patrons of the office. His all round experience with human nature has peculiarly fitted him for the position. Therefore we predict a successful administration for Postmaster Searles, and wish him well.

THE CHAUTAUQUA

This organization has announced its intention of coming to Peabody in 1923. Its appearance here will be a benefit to the young and old. We regret the fact that arrangements must be made this year for 1923, realizing that with business conditions as they are, many citizens hesitate to commit themselves to subscriptions at this time. Because of the visit from our Charleston friends, we could not welcome the Chautauqua this year. Therefore that we may have them another year, and knowing the good they will accomplish, we take this time to do what we can to further their coming. Speakers of national reputation provide entertainment for adults, while the children are given instruction in many ways which will be beneficial in the future.

ROUND ABOUT

Postmaster Searles will come on duty about May first. He is closing up his Washington affairs, and says to live there costs at least double what Peabody offers. He expects to purchase a home somewhere in Ward Five, a ward in some cities that means action.

* * *

We wonder if "Bill" still has that dog that retrieved golf balls. The dog could apparently smell them 100 yards away. No doubt we shall see the new postmaster on the Homestead links this summer, picking up golf ball and prizes.

* * *

Hothouse dandelions are in the market for a cent each. Wait until we get those natives with the bitter, which reminds one of hops. The best spring medicine they tell us.

* * *

The Danvers Bleachery are making fast progress on the new second story of the office building. In fact all the new work there and in the dye house is being pushed to the limit. We will have a big industry there, much larger than formerly. New machinery, new ideas in cotton bleaching and coloring.

* * *

There are at least five coal dealers in Peabody at the present time, and all have a stock of coal. The Pickering Co. lead the procession, the others getting a share of the business. The foreign population deal with their own as a rule.

* * *

I observed that General Francis H. Appleton was one of the committee responsible for the placing of the statue of Anna Hutchinson, victim of witchcraft, in the state house this last week. The statue was by Cyrus Dallin.

* * *

Mrs. Ella Gibson of Sutton street has recently unearthed a sample made in 1824 which she is soon to present to the Peabody Historical Society.

* * *

The "Welcome to Peabody" sign at the Lynnfield street entrance to the city was blown down from its position on a telegraph pole Monday of this week. The sign was erected by the Chamber of Commerce two years ago. Samuel T. Ritchings, well-known resident of Lynnfield street, took measures to preserve the sign until the Chamber could put it back in service.

Several real estate deals are reported this week. The Stockwells have purchased the Southwick estate on Lowell street, this property being next to the Haven Home for Aged Men. There is a lot available for building purposes, a barn and a large lot in the rear bordering the Lowell railroad track.

This property was owned by James Whidden, who built the house and barn in the seventies. The barn housed the fastest show horse of his day, Kitty Wink, who won against all comers when Washington street was a sleighing paradise. The Whiddens carried on a tinware business many years where the Hamblet Hardware Co. now does business.

We presume the Stockwell property on Main and Washington streets will be sold for business purposes. This corner is considered one of the most valuable pieces of land away from Peabody square. Called the Farley estate, because the Farleys lived there many years.

The Albert E. Southwick estate has been sold to an official of the Hygrade Tanning Co. who occupy and own the former Southwick sheepskin plant in the rear of Lowell street. This property was built by George Walton, an old-time butcher, and converted into a sheepskin factory by Horace and Lewis Southwick. These men became leaders in the sheepskin industry, Horace, the founder of the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co., and Lewis, the founder of the L. B. Southwick Co.

* * *

So according to the way property is changing, there are some who believe the world will thrive, and put out their good money on real estate. As we have intimated previously, other real estate deals are in the air, so to speak, and when 1922 has bid us adieu, new faces will handle the property.

* * *

Herbert Gardner, the harness maker, who has occupied the store in the Allen block for 30 years or more, tells us the harness business is fast going. Once was the time when he occupied the whole store and had all the business he could handle. But horses are fast being succeeded by auto trucks and harnesses going all the discard. Mr. Gardner above all others realizes what autos have done to change the riding conditions.

* * *

An auction sale of what was remaining at the Rogers estate on Andover street offered many bargains in antiques. Changes must come, but all will regret the departure of Mrs. Elizabeth Rogers, who claimed Peabody as her residence and who not only paid a large tax, but contributed to all charity.

* * *

Rev. I. F. Lusk, retiring pastor of the Methodist church, leaves many friends in Peabody who will always hold a warm spot in their hearts for him. He has been an earnest leader of his church, giving his best to further its interests and he can point to a record of accomplishment. The same kind of a testimonial may be given in behalf of Rev. Edward Towle who gives up his pastorate at the Unitarian church to take up residence in Hillsboro, N. H., where he will retire from the ministry. Rev. Mr. Towle has delivered many excellent sermons as the union services have proved, and he will carry with him the best wishes of many people who held him in high regard. Two able ministers are thus lost to Peabody.

The many barns about the city in a good state of preservation show what money was spent to build them. There was more hard wood finish in those barns than in the houses of today. In fact the barns of yesterday have made many a house of today.

* * *

County Commissioner Robert H. Mitchell, who built the stadium at Haverhill, gave an interesting talk before the Peabody Rotary Club last Tuesday noon and some suggestions as to how Peabody could enclose an athletic field and make it a paying investment. He had a plan of the stadium in his home city and some excellent views. He believes that properly encouraged boys who frequently leave school before finishing their courses would be kept in classes through their interest in athletics.

Advertisers Reaped Harvest In Dollar Day

Following a "dollar day" in Wakefield on March 11tht, the chairman of the Chamber of Commerce publicity committee, Gardner E. Campbell, analyzed for the retail trade committee the reports of 54 retail storekeepers who participated.

The analysis furnishes some valuable facts for local advertisers everywhere—and the facts are supported by the Wakefield merchants' own statements.

Here are some of the leading points:

Merchants who used newspaper space and offered DEFINITE bargains, WITH PRICES, did the biggest business by as high as 400 per cent.

Merchants who only put in their ads "Come and see our Dollar Day offerings," or like indefinite appeals, increased the day's business only 10 per cent. or not at all.

Storekeepers who advertised items and prices had hundreds of customers who came with clipped ads in their hands. Many children brought ads on which their mothers had marked articles desired.

In a certain line of trade, one merchant ran a 1-inch ad, "Dollar Day Bargains." He had only a normal day's trade. A competitor advertised in a 3-inch space, "We are ready for Dollar Day." He filled his windows with $1 articles and price cards, but did only 10 per cent. more business than usual. A third competitor used a 16-inch ad, full of items and prices, and increased his day's trade 60 per cent.

The 40 who advertised specified bargains and prices want another Dollar Day soon. The nine who did not, say it was not worth repeating.

Six of the dealers in dry goods, clothing and shoes broke all records for volume of trade for a single day, not excepting any Saturday before Christmas.

More than half profitably sold other goods as the result of the general shopping.

While three stores in a certain line could not handle the rush, even with extra clerks, a competitor with a larger and more modern store could have handled its trade at almost any time of the day with two clerks, and at times the store was empty.

The biggest users of newspaper space got the biggest trade, but in all cases the merchants who put a definite proposition before the readers 'cashed in" over those who misplaced confidence and judgment made them think a mere announcement would be sufficient.

Cactus Fences.

Have you ever seen the cactus fences in Mexico? The cactus there grows to a great height. One of them, the organ cactus, has a single straight stem, made up of parts, six-sided, several feet long, joined so as to make a trunk. The joints can hardly be seen at all. Some of the larger stems are six inches in diameter. The Mexicans plant these cactus plants side by side so as to form long and strong living fences.

POLISH RESIDENTS

The Polish residents of Peabody will hold a flower day on Saturday, April 22. The drive is being held in almost every city in the United States for the purpose of building a home and hospital for the Polish invalid World War veterans in Poland. Mayor W. A. Shea has given permission to carry out their drive in this city, and it is hoped that it will be successful.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court within and for the County of Essex:
RESPECTFULLY libels and represents LILLIAN M. VILES, of Peabody in said county, that she was lawfully married to Frederick J. Viles, now of parts unknown, at Lynn, on the seventh day of November A. D., 1914; and thereafterwards your libellant and the said Frederick J. Viles lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth, to wit, at Lynn and Peabody, that your libellant has always been faithful to her marriage vows and obligations, but the said Frederick J. Viles being wholly regardless of the same, at Peabody on the sixteenth (16th) day of May, 1916 without just cause wilfully and utterly deserted your libellant, which desertion has continued from such time to the date hereof, being more than three (3) consecutive years prior to the filing of this libel.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Frederick J. Viles. And your libellant represents that there has been born of said marriage a son, Gilbert E. Viles, now aged seven (7) years, and prays that the care and custody of said minor child be decreed to your libellant.

Dated this eleventh day of March A. D., 1922.
LILLIAN M. VILES.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
ESSEX, ss. Superior Court, April 13, 1922.

Upon the foregoing libel, ordered, that the said libellant give notice to said FREDERICK J. VILES by causing an attested copy of her said libel, and of this order thereon, to be published in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper printed in Peabody in the county of Essex, once a week, for three weeks successively, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the return day of this Court, at Salem, within the county of Essex, on the first Monday of June next, and by mailing, forthwith, by registered letter to the libellee at his last known place of residence an attested copy of said libel and of this order thereon; that he may appear at said Salem within six months from said first Monday of June and show cause, if any he has, why the prayer of said libel should not be granted.

Attest, A. N. FROST, Clerk.

The foregoing is a true copy of said libel and of the order thereon.

At a Probate Court holden at Lawrence in and for said County of Essex, on the tenth day of April in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

On the petition of BEATRICE KING of Peabody in said County by her father and next friend George H. King, praying that her name may be changed to that of Betty King public notice having been given, according to the order of Court, that all persons might appear and show cause, if any they had, why the same should not be granted, and it appearing that the reason given therefor is sufficient, and consistent with the public interest, and being satisfactory to the Court, and no objection being made.

It is decreed that her name be changed, as prayed for, to that of Betty King which name she shall hereafter bear, and which shall be her legal name, and that she give public notice of said change by publishing this decree once in each week for three successive weeks in the Peabody Enterprise a newspaper published in said Peabody and make return to this Court under oath that such notice has been given.

HARRY R. DOW,
(A-14-21-28) Judge of Probate Court.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court within and for the County of Essex:
RESPECTFULLY libels and represents JOHN A. BARNES, 2nd of Salem in said county, that he was lawfully married to Margaret Theriault Barnes, now of Canton, Maine, at Caribou, Maine, on the twenty-fourth day of May A. D., 1914; and afterwards your libellant and the said Margaret Theriault Barnes lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth, to wit, at Salem, Middleton, and Peabody, Massachusetts; that your libellant has always been faithful to his marriage vows and obligations, but the said Margaret Theriault Barnes being wholly regardless of the same, at said Peabody, on or about the first day of May, 1918, without just cause wilfully and utterly deserted your libellant, which desertion has continued from such time to the date hereof, being more than three consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Margaret Theriault Barnes.

Dated this eleventh day of March A. D., 1922.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior
Court within and for the County of Essex:
RESPECTFULLY libels and represents JOHN
BARNES, 2nd of Salem in said county, that he was lawfully married to Margaret Theriault Barnes, now of Canton, Maine, at Rumford, Maine, on the twenty-fourth day of May A. D., 1914; and afterwards your libellant and the said Margaret Theriault Barnes lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth, to wit, at Salem, Middleton, and Peabody, Massachusetts; that your libellant has always been faithful to his marriage vows and obligations, but the said Margaret Theriault Barnes being wholly regardless of the same, at said Peabody, on or about the first day of May, 1918, without just cause wilfully and utterly deserted your libellant, which desertion has continued from such time to the date hereof, being more than three consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Margaret Theriault Barnes.

Dated this eleventh day of March A. D., 1922.

JOHN A. BARNES, 2d.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
ESSEX, ss. Superior Court, April 4, 1922.

Upon the foregoing libel, ordered, that the said libellant give notice to said MARGARET THERIAULT BARNES by causing an attested copy of his said libel, and of this order thereof, to be published in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper printed in Peabody in the county of Essex, once a week, for three weeks successively, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the return day of this Court, at Salem, within the county of Essex, on the first Monday of June next, and by mailing, forthwith, by registered letter to the libellee at Canton, Maine, an attested copy of said libel and of this order thereon; that she may appear at said Salem within one month from said first Monday of June and show cause, if any she has, why the prayer of said libel should not be granted.

Attest, A. N. FROST, Clerk.

The foregoing is a true copy of said libel and of the order thereon.

Attest, A. N. FROST, Clerk.

'Shore Acres' To See Big House At The Empire

When James A. Hearne wrote "Shore Acres," next weeks's attraction at the Empire theatre, Salem, by the popular Luttringer Players, he succeeded in writing the nautical story ever written.

"Shore Acres" is a rural comedy melodrama as fresh and wholesome as the breezes that blow off the Maine coast where the story of the play takes place. It is a beautiful story of Maine coast folks with comedy that is richer than "Quincy Adams Sawyer" and a theme that is as human and quaint as "The Old Homestead."

The story is decidedly atmospheric and its location is laid on Frenchmen's Baymear, Bar Harbor, Maine.

The first act shows the Berry homestead in haying time, the second act the interior of the old farm house, and the third and fourth act takes place in the interior of the Berry lighthouse. The part of Nathaniel Berry, the old lighthouse keeper, that starred James A. Herne for upwards of forty years and made him world famous, this beautiful and lovable character of pleasant memory will be played by Fred Harvey. Mr. Luttringer, who directs all of his own productions and whose every promise and statement made during his tennancy of the Empire has been rigidly adhered to, promises that.

Mr. Harvey's portrayal of the honest, bluff, lovable old seafaring man will long be remembered by the loyal patrons of the Empire. The cast chosen for the presentation of "Shore Acres" will be largely augmented to meet the requirements of the play and special efforts will be made to give "Shore Acres" a production, in keeping with the high standard set by previous Empire presentations and that as a play it is worthy of.

The play will give every member of the cast excellent opportunities for the display of their histrionic talents, Miss Kingsley as the sweet but determined daughter, Mr. Luttringer as the young doctor with advanced ideas and opinions that have barely percolated into the small Maine community. Mr. Laveau as the narrow-minded and self-opinionated doctor; Mr. Whiteman whose world is his pocketbook; Mr. Baker who toils on his little farm, but ever looking forward to the better days, ever hopeful, but sure that they will eventually come. Mr. Rowe, who is a little hard of hearing, Mr. Farrara whose ideas are old along with the town, Miss Pitt a good mother and a good cook, Miss Hanson who helps Miss Lee, the children, fishermen, rural types, all go to fill the cast of the most beautiful rural comedy melodrama ever whitten, "Shore Acres."

RADCLIFFE COLLEGE

Graduates and former students of Radcliffe College in Peabody are "getting together" and planning to serve a cafe luncheon at the home of one of their number on Wednesday, May 10th. This is a part of their effort to help raise the endowment of $3,000,000 which is now well under way. After May 1st tickets may be procured from Miss Mercedes Torr, Mrs. Ralph F. Kelley, Miss Alice E. Teague, Miss Winifred Johnson, Miss Mary E. Poole, Miss Marion O'Keefe, Miss Doris Tucker and Miss Beatrice Keith.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY
CHARLES H. EGLEE

MUTUAL BENEFIT

We develop the habit of co-operation very slowly. For many years we have believed that the more we worked for ourselves alone, the more we fought for "our rights," the better and more prosperous we should be. So that today in trying to conduct our business in accordance with new and different ideas of "working together," we make mistakes and lose our faith because we have not yet learned how "to work together."

Some of the leather manufacturers who have grouped together under the standard of Justice, Service and Co-operation, are "working together" with the operatives in their factories, in a plan of mutual benefit which is teaching both employer and employee, in a simple manner, how easy it is to co-operate when each one really wishes to help the others. Eighteen factories located in Peabody and nearby towns have established the following method of helping one another in mutual benefit. The greater number follow this plan exactly; a few have higher insurance; a few are lower.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts sends an agent to the factory from its department of Savings Bank Insurance. The entire factory is called together and the plan of Mutual Benefit explained to them. They are asked if they are willing to have their employer deduct fifteen cents each week from their pay envelopes; if so, their employer will pay an equal amount into a Mutual Benefit Association which will give to each member twelve dollars every week that he is sick for ten weeks in every year, and, will give to his family $250 if he should die during the first year of his membership, $300 the second year, $400 the third year and $500 at his death after he has been a member for three years.

At this factory meeting each worker is given a circular letter explaining the plan. He (or she) is asked to talk the matter over with his (or her) family, and, after one week the agent of the Commonwealth returns to learn how many of the operatives like this sort of co-operation. In every factory from 75% to 90% of the workers have signed applications for membership in their own Mutual Benefit Association.

After this, the Association is formed by the contributing workers. They nominate their own officers; elect their own officers by secret ballot, using printed ballots furnished by the Commonwealth and marking the name of their favorite nominee with a cross exactly as in a city or state election. There is often considerable rivalry and some electioneering in this factory balloting.

The officers elected are a president, vice-president, treasurer, secretary and an assisting executive committee of three members in the smaller shops, or, five members when the employees number more than 100.

The activities are supervised by the agents of the Commonwealth in order that the receipts and disbursements are in accordance with the law, but in all the other matters the workers manage their own association entirely by their own officers; using their own judgment adopting their own by-laws (approved by the Commonwealth); handling their own money by their own checks drawn upon their own local bank, with their treasurer under proper bond for honesty and fidelity.

CHARLES H. EGLEE

It is strange that these Mutual Benefit Associations have not been set up in leather factories some time ago, as the Commonwealth of Massachusetts began to institute these Associations thirteen or fourteen years ago and in all that time not one of them has been a failure from financial causes. They have been given up because of the firm going out of business, but in good times and bad, these Benefit Associations have spread through Massachusetts until today thousands and thousands of working people are protected when they are sick and unable to earn wages, and their families are relieved if they should be taken away by death.

And so eighteen of our leather factories are helping each employee by working together. Each one putting into a common fund a little each week, for the good of everyone, and the manufacturer paying into the same fund an amount equal to the amount paid by the workers. It is a fine example of co-operation. It is good practice in the establishment of a method of "working together."

And the spirit of mutual benefit is beginning to extend in other directions. More than 1000 tons of coal were bought at wholesale last winter at reduced price and distributed to the homes of the workers. They saved more money than their insurance rates for the whole winter. They are talking of other activities for mutual benefit. We shall see some picnics and outings this summer, managed by these Mutual Benefit Associations.

This movement is a small example of a nation wide desire for a better feeling between the employer and the worker. The whole country is heartily sick and tired of warfare, strife, loss of wages, loss of production, all of which is added to the cost of living in every family in the land. Life is so much easier and we are so much happier when we learn to "work together."

This is the reason why I have been saying so much lately in these "Little Talks" about hate and fear, suspicion and distrust. We are all of us tired and sick of such feelings and of the men who teach and preach such things. We want plans and methods of living and of working in mutual benefit.

If any manufacturer or any group of working people wish information as to the manner of starting one of these Mutual Benefit Associations, the Peabody Enterprise will be glad to direct him, or them,—to the proper persons who will furnish such information without expense.

The Pipe Beautiful

WDC TRIANGLE
THE GENUINE BAKELITE

From a soldier in the A. E. F. Army of occupation, the manufacturers of the WDC Triangle Bakelite received this: "The Bakelite mouth piece has stood the test. It is much stronger than the amber mouth piece that the German meerschaum pipes have. Many Germans believe that it is a real amber stem. While the pipe has been scraped and scraped, nothing but the top of the bowl is worn out." We have nothing to add to this, except to say come into our store and take a look at the WDC Triangle Bakelite.

CLEAN UP WEEK for New England has been designated as April 30th to May 6th. During this week practically every city in New England will conduct a Clean Up and Paint Up Campaign, the winner of which will be awarded a silver loving cup. The winner will be determined upon the character of the methods used and the results obtained. Let's all get into this very worthy undertaking. There are some vacant lots and back yards in Peabody that are a detriment to the progress of this city. One of the principal avenues of PROGRESS is ATTRACTIVENESS. Community attractiveness comes as a result of community spirit. Let's imbibe freely of that "spirit" and clean up Peabody during the first week in May as it was never cleaned up before.

The Peabody Chamber has received a warning from the National Vigilance Committee regarding a concern whose business consists of leasing electric flash signs for window display. Any retailer approached on this subject is invited to call the Chamber for further information.

NEW POOL PARLORS

Over Twenty Peabody Veterans Served In 104th Inf. Overseas

"Dig out the old O. D. Shine up the hobnails, get on a train, ride in an auto, come by trolley, freight or on horseback. Walk if you have to but in any event be in Worcester on Friday, April 28, Apremont Day."

This is the message that is being broadcasted to every former member of the 104th U. S. Infantry, A. E. F., by the 104th Infantry Veterans' Association. Apremont Day, 1922, will mark the first reunion in Worcester, the third gathering of former members of the regiment since the war, the third anniversary of the demobilization of the command and the fourth anniversary of the decoration of the regimental colors at Coucq, France, by the French government with the Croix de Guerre, the first time such an honor was ever conferred on an American military organization by a foreign power.

Peabody had over 20 men in the 104th.

Because of these things and the enviable record made by the regiment in France, ranging from the battle of Apremont through Seicheprey, service on the sector northwest of Toul, Belleau Wood, Chateau Thierry, St. Mihiel and the Meuse Argonne, the 104th Veterans' Association is planning to make this year's gathering the best yet.

The 104th Infantry was organized at Camp Bartlett, Westfield, in August, 1917, and was composed of the old Second Infantry intact and major portions of the old Sixth and Eighth regiments. It left for France in September, 1917, served 18 months overseas, returned in April, 1919, and was demobilized four weeks later at Camp Devens. The first reunion took place in Springfield on April 28, Apremont Day, 1920. The second was held in Westfield last year, when a monument depicting the scene of the regimental decoration at Coucq, France, was dedicated on the Hampton Plains camp site, where the command was organized. This monument bears a tablet of bronze showing the decoration, and also bears in bronze the citation of the French government and a replica of the Croix de Guerre. This year Worcester, which furnished three companies of the 104th, has been selected for the annual reunion.

The new 104th Infantry will be mobilized to act as escort for the veterans. The Legion and Veterans of the foreign wars will add their bit. Worcester has raised a public fund of $3000 to provide entertainment. On the night before, Thursday evening, April 27, there will be reunions of every company of the regiment. These will range from simple smoke talks to elaborate banquets, but everybody will be there. There is to be a big military ball also.

Friday, April 28, there is to be a business meeting in the morning. Mess call will be sounded in the armory at noon. This will be followed by a short parade and there will be a public meeting on the common and Maj. Gen. William C. Hayes, the first commander, will present to Mayor Sullivan on behalf of the regiment a plaque depicting the decoration, this being a gift to the city. It will be similar to the plaque given by Marshal Foch on his recent visit to America and will be a replica of the bronze memorial dedicated last year in Westfield. It is from the studio of Bruce Wilder Saville, a Boston sculptor, who designed the Westfield memorial, which, by the way, is the only one of its kind erected in America.

LEO B. MURPHY
Peabody Veteran Who Won Commission With 104th Infantry

Speeches, but not too many, will follow. The guests will be Gen. Hayes, General Clarence R. Edwards, former Yankee Division commander, Governor Cox, Brig. Gen. Charles H. Cole, representing the State Department of the American Legion, and 500 school children who will sing the regimental and divisional songs and hymns.

Music? Sure. It will be given by the old 104th band, held intact as an organization since the war, led by Bandmaster Harry Roach and known as the most decorated band in the A. E. F., for it won that title by its heroic work under fire in the litter carrying section at Apremont.

'DULCY' BIG HIT

The spirit of spring and its freshness, and that of Easter, emanates from the Hollis Street theatre, Boston, for that gayest of comedies, "Dulcy," still reigns there. Throughout the four weeks that the play has been on view, it has not only drawn a series of large audiences, but what is more to the point it has sent them out of the theatre delighted.

"Dulcy" from the standpoint of the amount of pleasure that it affords is certainly good. However, to say that a play is good and that it is entertaining does not always mean anything, for tastes differ, and so do viewpoints, with the result that what pleases one may bore his neighbor. So in forcing the fact that his offering is commendable the theatrical manager feels he must point to the size of the audiences his play is drawing. The idea is that if the piece is popular, if there is a strong desire and demand to see it, then it must have values as an entertainment.

And so in regard to "Dulcy" stress is laid on the fact that it has been attracting larger audiences than any other strictly dramatic offering in Boston. Occasional bad weather and the Lenten season, which causes most theatrical managers to wear long faces, has not affected the attendance at the performances of "Dulcy" in the slightest, and the resultant fact is that "Dulcy" is hailed as one of the popular hits of the season.

What makes the piece so popular is its clean, fresh humor, its amusing characters and its interesting story that is told with many a novel twist and turn. In addition to this is Lynn Fontanne's portrayal of "Dulcy," which is one of the cleverest characterizations that the theatre has had in many a day. Miss Fontanne by her work in this play has established herself in the affections of the Boston public. The success of the play proves that the great public still prefers to have its entertainment in the theatre clean and humorous.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Sullivan of Wallis street entertained Mr. and Mrs. George J. Donahue of Silver Springs, Md., over the Easter holidays. Mrs. Donahue was formerly Helen M. Sullivan.

COACH MARTY DONOVAN GIVEN HIS DISCHARGE

indignant at the alleged arbitrary attitude of Coach Donovan and a meeting of the board was called for yesterday afternoon. Coach Donovan was notified officially of the meeting and instructed to attend. He saw fit to ignore the summons and remained away. The meeting was short and quick action resulted in the discharge of the Salem coach.

Trouble has been brewing for Coach Donovan ever since the football pilgrimage to Charleston, S. C., last fall, when 42 boys were sent to the southern city instead of 25, the number first agreed on. At the last minute additional boys not scheduled to make the trip were placed on board the train at the South station. The money raised by popular subscription fell short of the needed amount by nearly $800, and this sum was raised by prominent men who endorsed notes. This money is still to be paid. In addition bills contracted locally are unpaid.

Had the number of players been limited these unpaid bills would not be causing nightmares in certain quarters. Coach Donovan is known to have disregarded the wishes of the committee as to the number of players that should have gone south.

Among the Peabody citizens who accompanied the football team to Charleston it is an open secret that the failure to give the players enough food went far to handicap their real ability to display pep in the game, and Charleston won by a score of 7 to 6 when Peabody should have won easily.

It is said that Coach Donovan acted arbitrarily at Charleston, running the whole show without any suggestion from any of the advisory board members or Mayor Shea, who was in the party. Several incidents in which Coach Donovan was said to have expressed himself were reported on the return of the players from Charleston, and time failed to efface the rupture.

The fact that the school committee refused to create a job of physical director in the schools is said to have made Coach Donovan dissatisfied with his berth here and the advisory board members have let it be known that they were ignored on matters of public interest.

Coach Donovan's ability as a coach has been demonstrated. He may have erred at Charleston in his too strict policy of training table tactics, but even that is a question. As football leader he scored victories over his home city team, Salem, bringing Peabody through a winner in two glorious gridiron battles.

As a baseball player he is one of the best. As a coach, he has his supporters and critics as all have. Some say he has been too strict and failed to get the best work out of some of his men. In the main, his record has been highly complimentary, but his alleged indifference to the paramount duties of the advisory board are said to have been the real factors which have brought about the present situation.

His failure to present his players last Wednesday for a regularly scheduled game was the last straw. No coach is bigger than his advisory board.

City Could Save Declares Finn

together with an auditor. Does it take all three to handle and count the money? As far as many of us can see one official could do it all. At least one of these could be let go and his office closed, for the public good.

It is very likely that there are many places where a saving can be made in the taxes, but it is also very likely that some other method of running the city, other than the present, will have to be devised. The writer believes that Peabody will have to adopt a more scientific system, and that other cities will do the same in the near future.

J. H. FINN.

CITY HALL NOTES

Mayor Shea is not getting the co-operation that he is entitled to from city officials. It's a wide open secret now with some pertinent facts in the making for the tax-payers to digest. Mayor Shea may have some statement to make regarding this situation and in fairness to his regime he should let the tax-payers know the truth. As Mayor, he is entitled to have every bit of co-operation possible. If he isn't getting it, the citizens should have the facts.

The suggestion made by one of the Councillors that more co-operation with the Mayor would be given if the Mayor came before the Council has some real merit and Mayor Shea may take advantage of the opportunity.

Opposition to paying Commissioner of State Aid Andrew Fyfe a living wage is poorly taken in view of the known facts that his honesty in reviewing claims for public funds has saved the city many hundreds of dollars. It is too bad that the Council doesn't vote to give Mr. Fyfe a chance to give some facts he has in his possession. They are known, however, to many citizens and Fyfe emerges with rare credit for his ability to scorn grafting influences.

The storekeeper who pays more than the fee charged for a license puts himself in a strange plight. There are rumors abroad.

The garage muddle is apparently straightened out now that it is under the jurisdiction of Chief Grady, and it is pretty certain that the expense of running the garage will be materially lessened. The civil service examiners are said to be concerned in the Peabody garage.

Activity on the part of Chief Grady and his force has gone a long ways toward stopping the business of moonshine production in Peabody. Several places are under surveillance and sooner or late will be caught.

PERSONAL

Mrs. J. H. Kelley of 55 Lynn street will sail on the steamship Laconia, May 31, for England, where she will spend the summer visiting relatives.

Harold Holden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Holden of this city has gone to the New Hampshire state agricultural college at Durham to take an examination as cow tester. He is a candidate for a position with a large dairy association in southern New Hampshire. He is a senior at the Essex Agricultural school having proved one of the best students in that school and is also a graduate of Peabody high.

Miss Margaret Monahan of Northend street is suffering with Quincy sore throat.

Mrs. Jeremiah Sullivan of Dustin street is confined to her home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cronin of Gardner Park are the happy parents of a baby girl born Easter Sunday night at the Thomas hospital.

Fireman Fred Sherry and family have the deep sympathy of many friends in the death of their mother, which occurred Tuesday.

Peabody clubwomen who attended the state federation conference in Marblehead last Tuesday were Mrs. Mabel L. Williams, Mrs. Feronia Putnam, Mrs. Cephas Madison, Mrs. Nathan Poor, Mrs. Susan Ferguson, Mrs. Clarence Barnes and Mrs. N. W. Penniman.

Lowell Street

Mrs. Norman Crane is seriously ill at the J. B. Thomas hospital, where she submitted to a nasal operation last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Schultz of Asbury Grove spent Easter with their daughter, Mrs. Albert Roome.

Miss Ruth Farrington entertained a party of friends at her parents' summer residence at Hampton over the holiday.

A car driven by Mrs. J. F. Ingraham, Jr., was in a collision on State road, Swampscott, Wednesday evening, and was badly damaged. Mrs. Ingraham escaped with a bad shaking up, but Mrs. B. G. Hall, a passenger, was less fortunate, sustaining a scalp wound that necessitated several stitches to close. Elizabeth Ingraham and Mrs. Ingraham's young daughter, other passengers, escaped injury.

Dorothy Roome entertained 20 of her young friends at her home Wednesday evening.

Friendship Circle, King's Daughters and the Woman's Association of the South church will conduct their annual May breakfast in the church vestry on Monday morning, May 1, between the hours of 6 and 9.

Mrs. Mabeth Lambert, who is directing the affair of the May festival for the benefit of the Community House, is confined to her home by an abscess of the throat and rehearsals for the pageant have been taken over by Mrs. Dean, the dancing and gymnastic instructor at the house.

Funeral services for Malcolm Winchester, twenty-month old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Macdonald, were held at his late residence on upper Lowell street, Wednesday afternoon, and called forth a large gathering of friends and a wealth of beautiful floral tributes. The services were conducted by Rev. John Reid and were most impressive.

Ralph Basford returned Sunday night from a week-end fishing trip at Townsend, that netted him twenty speckled beauties.

President C. W. Barnes and Director F. W. Penniman attended the banquet and meeting of the Essex County Chambers of Commerce at the Salem Club last evening. The meeting was a get-together affair called by the state organization for a general discussion of Chamber activities.

Mrs. William P. Elwell is ill at her home on Franklin street.

Albert Robinson, superintendent of schools, is confined to his home on Chestnut street by a severe cold.

Mrs. Charles H. Symonds of Emerson street has been the victim of the epidemic of heavy colds now prevailing.

The sale by W. F. Carlin of the late B. F. Southwick property for occupancy is extremely gratifying to other residents of Lowell street and dispells any misgivings that the property might fall into the hands of unscrupulous owners who might exploit it to their own advantage and to the detriment of other real estate in that section.

Miss Alice Woodman of King street substituted at the high school Thursday.

Mrs. Daniel Poor is ill at her home on Lowell street.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed, given by Alice L. Montague to John H. Martin, dated August 1, 1921 and recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 2491, Page 145, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage deed and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction on the mortgaged premises, on MONDAY, the fifteenth day of May, 1922 at 10:00 o'clock (Standard Time) in the forenoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely:

The land in said Peabody, (in that part of said Peabody known as West Peabody) Essex County, Massachusetts, bounded and described as follows:

Commencing at a point in the southerly line of Southwick Avenue, which is eleven and 5-10 (11.5) feet easterly from the northeasterly corner of Lot 17 shown on a plan recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 2395, Page 296;

Thence running easterly by said Southwick Avenue, ninety-one and 5-10 (91.5) feet to a point in said line which is three (3) feet easterly from the dividing line between Lots 18 and 19 as shown on a plan of "Pinehurst", West Peabody Highlands, sub-division of J. Oscar Goodale land, W. H. Southwick, owner, H. A. Conant, C. E., dated October—1917 and recorded with said Registry of Deeds, Book 2395, Page 296;

Thence turning and running southerly on a line parallel with and at all points three (3) feet easterly from the dividing line between Lots 18 and 19, two hundred forty-one and 95-100 (241.95) feet to a point in the boundary line between said Lot 19 and land of Walter Martin, which point is three (3) feet easterly from the point of intersection of said boundary line of said Martin's land;

Thence turning and running westerly by said Martin's land sixty-seven and 3-10 (67.3) feet to a point in said Martin's boundary line which is thirty-five and 7-10 (35.7) feet easterly from the southeasterly corner of Lot 17;

Thence turning and running northwesterly but more northerly two hundred forty-one and 1-10 ft. to said Southwick Avenue and the point of beginning.

Meaning to convey the greater part of Lot 18 and a three (3) foot strip off the westerly side of Lot 19 as shown on said plan, and being all of Lot C shown on a sub-division plan of Lots 17, 18, and 19, recorded herewith.

Said premises will be sold subject to any and all unpaid taxes, tax liens, and assessments.

Terms: Three Hundred (300) Dollars at the time of sale and balance in ten (10) days.

Dated at Lynn, Mass., April 20, 1922.

Boxing Mill For Amateurs Monday Night

Peabody fight fans are promised another big boxing mill Monday night in City Hall, when the Peabody Athletic Association will present a galaxy of amateur stars in its third tournament. Chester Oakes of South Boston and Dick Flanagan, two of the winners in the last tourney, are entered in their respective classes. Matty Cotters of Lynn, who is making 'em all sit up in the 112-class, is also booked, and Johnny Turlo of Chelsea, another shaping lad, has sent in his entry.

Four Peabody Greek lads who have shown wonderful progress with the mitts are to make their appearance. There will be plenty of action and a big house should greet the entertainers, for this will probably be the last boxing mill in Peabody until the fall. Salem and Beverly will send some of their fistic stars. Nearly three hours of boxing is assured the fans.

WILL CHECK TAGS

A joint meeting of the Peabody High School Athletic Association and a committee from the Chamber of Commerce was held Monday night for the purpose of devising proper means of selling tags at the baseball and football games. A system suggested by John J. Gallagher and which was accepted allows no opportunity for the losing of any tickets or money. This system provides that each tag seller must sign for the number of tags taken and when making returns for same must have the money for tags sold, and must return all unsold tags. Each one signing for tags will be held personally responsible for the number taken.

PLEASING CONCERT

A pleasing concert was held at Moose hall Sunday evening, under the auspices of the Peabody Y. W. H. A., for the benefit of the starving people of Russia. A large crowd was present and a neat sum was realized. The club wishes to thank everyone who helped to make the affair a success.

GOLDEN WEDDING FOR PARENTS OF DR. GEO. EWING

Dr. George W. Ewing and family returned yesterday from a several days visit in Troy, N. Y. where they went to attend the golden wedding of Dr. Ewing's parents. It was the first complete family gathering in 23 years and five sons and one daughter came from various points to greet the parents on their happy anniversary of marriage. Both parents enjoy good health.

MISS CHURCH TO PLAY AT B. C. PARTY

The Boston College Club announces with pleasure that Miss Marjorie Church, whose exquisite artistry on the pianoforte has gained for her national recognition, has kindly consented to play some of her best known selections at the Boston College party to be held on the evening of May 5th in City Hall.

Miss Church, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Church, reside in this city, is the only American who has ever received a diploma from the Royal Academy of Music in Vienna where her musical education was received. The club has been particularly favored by Miss Church's generous offering of her services.

The plans for the party are now complete. Many features have been prepared which will make the evening unusually enjoyable. The applications for tickets from out of town is most gratifying to the members of the club. As has already been announced, the proceeds of the party will be used to aid the building fund of Boston College and for the establishing of a permanent scholarship at the college for a Peabody young man.

NOVELTY DANCE

The novelty dancing party to be held in K. of C. hall next Thursday evening promises to be one of the leading social events of the season. The affair is being directed by the members of the class of '18, S. J. H. S., who conducted one of the most successful dancing parties last year, and from the advance sale of tickets the party will eclipse the last. Ward's orchestra will play and novelty favors will be distributed. Pickering Paragraphs

When coal mining is resumed, every consumer's bin in the country will practically be empty and every householder will place his order with the dealer at about the same time. What will be the result? Your imagination will not require stretching very much to picture the greatest jam in history; orders in excess of supply, confusion, waiting, impatience. Do you imagine that buying will be under the most favorable conditions at such a time? The present price of Egg, Stove and Nut is $15.00 per ton; cash price $14.50.

Reception To New Pastor This Evening

Rev. J. West Thompson, the newly assigned pastor of the Methodist church, and wife will be tendered a reception tonight at the church vestry. Over three hundred parishioners and friends are expected to shake hands with the couple.

The new pastor comes to Peabody from Framingham, where he has held a pastorate for the past four years, leaving an enviable record. During his regime at Framingham a new church was erected and a men's class of 100 members organized that is a vital force for good in the community.

He was born in Stanton, Michigan, on Oct. 26, 1885, and is in his 37th year. After his public school training, he entered and graduated from the Nebraska Wesleyan College. Later he finished at the Boston University School of Theology, and later from Harvard Divinity school. He has served as pastor in Nebraska, Brooklyn, Portland, Oregon and in this state.

Mrs. Thompson is a native of Kansas. She graduated from Mt. Ida school for girls in Newton, this state, and for several years she was an advanced student of the violin under Prof. Hoffman of the Boston Symphony orchestra. She is now the head of the violin work at Mt. Ida school, giving the needed time from her home details.

The couple are blessed with three children, Margaret, aged four; Jeanne, aged two, and David, one year old. The new pastor and wife took possession of the parsonage on Sewall street this week. They are bound to make many friends in Peabody.

FRANK H. SANGER DRAWN AS JUROR

Frank H. Sanger, member of the N. H. Poor Leather Co., was drawn for criminal jury duty at Newburyport on May 15, his name being drawn by Councillor Jones.

City Clerk Refuses To Save Cash

A glaring instance of the lack of co-operation being shown Mayor William A. Shea is the refusal of City Clerk Edward J. Dowd to include several hundreds of dollars worth of printing in his office in the city contract recently advertised for bids. The request of Mayor Shea for all printing supplies needed by the city clerk brought back the answer that he had no printing to be included.

The Mayor is the only official under the city charter to approve of contracts which provides that all supplies over $200 must be advertised for competitive bids. The way to circumvent the law is to split a contract, which of course is a deliberate evasion of the statute and undoubtedly becomes a prime facia evidence of an attempt to laugh at the law and incidentally bleed the public treasury. A saving of a considerable sum of money would have been effected for the taxpayers of Peabody had the city clerk co-operated with Mayor Shea, as in former years.

A marked feeling of emnity has existed between the present city clerk and Mayor Shea ever since the deal was entered into whereby Dowd about to lose his job in the internal revenue

Peabody Still Without Coach

Peabody high school is still without an official coach following the meeting of the advisory board last night. No action looking to a successor to Martin J. Donovan was taken. It is understood that arrangements are being made to supply a baseball coach for the next two months and a professional will be hired for the football season.

CITY SEEKS TO BORROW $60,000 FOR SCHOOLS

Peabody's City Council last night voted to ask the legislature to allow the city to borrow $60,000 outside the debt limit to be applied to schoolhouse furniture and other expenses connected with the new schools. The Mayor's budget was finally passed with the elimination of $8325, leaving the total $814,210.89. The Council lobbed off $5000 from the sinking fund, $2000 from the J. B. Thomas hospital and in fixing the salary of Military Aid Commissioner Andrew Fyfe at $1500 from April 1, saved $325. City Solicitor Farnham will file a bill today to allow Peabody to borrow the money for school purposes.

Councillor David A. Barry, chairman of the finance committee, intelligently discussed the proposed bond issue and it was his plea largely that killed off opposition. In the discussion that followed it was brought out that City Auditor Goggin had reported $88,000 balance on school appropriations, while City Treasurer Foley had checked but $190. An examina-

A. C. L. Co. Calls For More Men

The A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. will open its second large beam house which it hopes to have in full operation by Monday with a crew of 60 men added to its payrolls. The beam house has been closed for the past two years, the plant operating but one beam cellar during that period. Old employes are to be given the first preference and a number of old faces will be welcomed back to the A. C. L. fold. The concern is turning out large quantities of patent leather for immediate shipment. The announcement that the second beam house is to be open again has been hailed with much satisfaction.

May Festival Looms Large

Over three hundred boys and girls will take part in the annual May festival to be held in City Hall next Wednesday afternoon and evening, when an elaborate program will be furnished for the benefit of the Peabody Community House.

One of the features of the evening's program will be a May Pole dance by students of the high school. At the afternoon session little Elizabeth Osborn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillips Osborn, will be crowned queen of the May, the crown being placed by Priscilla Crane, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Crane.

Nancy Barnes, daughter of Councillor and Mrs. Clarence W. Barnes, will be crowned queen of the May at the evening's program, the crown being placed on her head by Virginia Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Arnold.

The attendants for the May Queen in the evening will be Margaret Bath-elder, Dorothy Roome, Florence Holden, Elizabeth Lillis, Rose Lane, Pauline Lawton, Mildred Hayes and Doris Fisher. Frank and Edward Penniman, twin sons of Frank W. Penniman, will act as pages for the queen at the night performance.

Supper will be served at 6 by the ladies of the Episcopal church for the accommodation of mothers and children who will remain for the evening's program.

Potter's orhestra will furnish the music afternoon and evening. Members of the Peabody Rotary Club have assumed responsibility for the advertising expenses of the festival. Mrs. Mabeth Lambert will have general charge of the affair, assisted by a large committee.

The chairman of the various tables are: South church table (flowers), Mrs. Clara Tucker; Universalist church table (cake), Mrs. Minot Crehore; Unitarian church table (baskets and fortune telling), Mrs. George Low; Episcopal church table (tea room), Mrs. Vernon Duffey; Baptist church table (popcorn), Mrs. Harvey Risteen; Leo Guild table (miscellaneous), Mrs. Charles Cassidy; Campfire Girls table (candy), Mrs. Ernest Porter; Girl Scouts table (bread), Mrs. Amy Merrill; Red Cross table (dolls), Mrs. George Millett; American Legion table (punch), Mrs. Frank Bomer; Woman's Club table (housesold articles), Mrs. Dora Russell; Community House boys (shooting gallery), Carl Killam; Jewish ladies' table (ice cream).

Solo dancing specialties will be given by Marjorie Messer, Alice Duffee and Marguerite Maguire.

Chief Grady 38 Years In Police Dept.

Chief Michael H. Grady of the Peabody police will complete his 38th year as a member of the department. He has been chief since 1900.

He joined the department as a patrolman May 1, 1884, and in a few years was made captain in charge of the night force. He has an unrivalled record for continuous service, rarely being absent through illness in all of his years of duty. His friends look to see him hold down his job for many years to come. Chief Grady is one of the best known police heads in the state and is held in high esteem by members of the police chief's association and is always an attendant at their meetings.

CHIEF GRADY

Another record which he holds almost unrivalled is that of driving an automobile the slowest of any police head in the state. Twelve miles is generally his limit. He has no sympathy with fast speeders. Chief Grady is one of the charter members of Peabody Lodge of Elks, having demitted from Salem.

DEMOCRATS WILL BE INDEPENDENT

The Peabody Democratic Association, composed now of 50 men and women, will meet Monday night in A. O. H. hall for the purpose of perfecting a local organization. Officers will be chosen. The association is not pledged to any political candidate and announces that its object is to promote the welfare and enhance the happiness of its members; to quicken the spirit of American patriotism; to cultivate good fellowship and for the betterment of the city of Peabody and good government.

William Regan has returned to St. Anselm's College, after spending a two weeks' vacation with his aunt, Mrs. D. F. Linnehan of Highland Park.

Geo. S. Curtis Merchant Here For 34 Years

George S. Curtis, dean of Peabody druggists, will round out 34 years in business in this city May 1 and the event will be signalized by a birthday sale as announced elsewhere in these columns.

Born in Danvers, Mr. Curtis went into the drug business early in his career. For the first six years of his operating a store in Peabody, he was also engaged in wholesale druggist supplies in Boston. Later he gave up his Boston connections to give his entire time to the Peabody store, which grew by leaps and bounds in its business.

Mr. Curtis is a director in the Warren National bank, Peabody Rotary Club and also the United Fire Insurane Co. of Boston. He is a trustee of the J. B. Thomas hospital and the Warren Five Cents Savings bank. He served as trustee of the Peabody Institute and had one term on the school board. His drug store business in the O'Shea building is one of the largest in Essex County and has been built up by careful and honest service to his patrons.

Mayor Shea To Hurl First Ball For City Team

Peabody's new baseball team, the Peabody Independents, will formally open their season on Sunday afternoon at Perkins Park, when they will meet teh strong Joyce Bros. team from Lynn.

Manager Jack Devaney of the Peabody outfit has a strong team and is to make special efforts to have Peabody represented by a team that will meet any semi-pro team in the east. In meeting the Joyce Bros. team, under Charlie O'Shea, who is well known here, the Peabody boys expect they will have to bring out all their baseball ability, but feel confident of sending the Lynn outfit home with the short end of the score.

His Honor, Mayor William A. Shea, an ardent baseball fan, is taking a keen interest in Sunday's game and has promised to be present at the opening card and will start the season off by pitching the first ball.

Manager Devaney is now engaged in preparing a schedule of games for the season and during the coming week expects to have this ready for the public.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed, given by Alice L. Montague to John H. Martin, dated August 1, 1921 and recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 2491, Page 145, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage deed and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction on the mortgaged premises, on MONDAY, the fifteenth day of May, 1922 at 10:00 o'clock (Standard Time) in the forenoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely:

The land in said Peabody, (in that part of said Peabody known as West Peabody) Essex County, Massachusetts, bounded and described as follows:

Commencing at a point in the southerly line of Southwick Avenue, which is eleven and 5-10 (11.5) feet easterly from the northeasterly corner of Lot 17 shown on a plan recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 2395, Page 296;

Thence running easterly by said Southwick Avenue, ninety-one and 5-10 (91.5) feet to a point in said line which is three (3) feet easterly from the dividing line between Lots 18 and 19 as shown on a plan of "Pinehurst", West Peabody Highlands, sub-division of J. Oscar Goodale land, W. H. Southwick, owner, H. A. Conant, C. E., dated October—1917 and recorded with said Registry of Deeds, Book 2395, Page 296;

Thence turning and running southerly on a line parallel with and at all points three (3) feet easterly from the dividing line between Lots 18 and 19, two hundred forty-one and 95-100 (241.95) feet to a point in the boundary line between said Lot 19 and land of Walter Martin, which point is three (3) feet easterly from the point of intersection of said boundary line of said Martin's land;

Thence turning and running westerly by said Martin's land sixty-seven and 3-10 (67.3) feet to a point in said Martin's boundary line which is thirty-five and 7-10 (35.7) feet easterly from the southeasterly corner of Lot 17;

Thence turning and running northwesterly but more northerly two hundred forty-one and 1-10 ft. to said Southwick Avenue and the point of beginning.

Meaning to convey the greater part of Lot 18 and a three (3) foot strip off the westerly side of Lot 19 as shown on said plan, and being all of Lot C shown on a sub-division plan of Lots 17, 18, and 19, recorded herewith.

Said premises will be sold subject to any and all unpaid taxes, tax liens, and assessments.

Terms: Three Hundred (300) Dollars at the time of sale and balance in ten (10) days.

Your coal bills will tell you—install ARCOLA NOW!

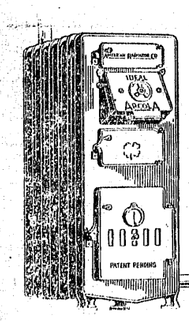
YEAR in and year out coal has always cost less in the spring. Your coal dealer knows it; your coal bills show it.

ARCOLA, too, costs less now, this month, than ever before in its history—much less than last fall. To take advantage of that low price—

Telephone your Steamfitter today

ARCOLA means an American Radiator in each room —no more cold rooms; no more spotty heat.

It means better health for the children, for it gives the same healthful radiator warmth that florists insist upon for their delicate flowers.



And it pays for itself in the fuel it saves.

ARCOLA Saved these Coal Dealers One-Third

"About a year ago we installed ARCOLA. Formerly we used two large stoves which required constant attention and gave us poor service. Today we have uniform heat and the saving of fuel was a revelation to us. We are not using as much coal by one-third."

Peabody High School

Mrs. Ella Beechey, matron, has been confined to her home on account of illness.

Miss Broadbine, Spanish teacher, was absent this week on account of illness. Miss Mary Barry substituted in her place.

Miss Ethelwyn Meagher of the class of '21 visited the school last week. She is attending school at Boston University.

Miss Doris Fisher, formerly of Swampscott high, has been enrolled in the sophomore class.

Elizabeth Moore of Room 10 was absent last week on account of illness.

Elizabeth McHugh of Room 4 is at the Fenway hospital, Boston, following an operation for appendicitis.

Miss Helen Chain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Chain, formerly of this city, is a member of the graduation class at Wellesley College, with the rank of Phi Beta Kappa.

Mary O'Neil of Room 10 is working afternoons in the office of the U. S. Tanned Pig Skin Co.

Report cards were issued today.

Miss Emily Nichols, formerly of this city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nichols of Biddeford, Me., and granddaughter of William F. Sawyer of this city, is a member of the graduating class of Wellesley College, with the rank of Phi Beta Kappa.

The walls in the corridors of the old building are being painted.

Miss Frances Russell, a graduate of Peabody high and now a teacher at Belmont high, visited school last week.

Friends of Miss Geraldine Peterson of the sub-freshman class are sorry to hear of the death of her father on Tuesday of this week.

Linda McCracken of the junior class and Marion Moffett of the freshman class were absent this week on account of illness.

Several of the pupils are contesting for the prize of a four-year scholarship given by the Firestone University for the best essay on the subject, "What Good Roads Have Done for My Community."

The regular bi-monthly vacation will be held next week.

Miss Broadbine of the faculty was welcomed back again after her recent illness.

Miss Helen Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor of Andover street, and a graduate of Peabody high school, has been elected dietitian in one of the new hospitals in Providence. Miss Taylor received her training at the Providence hospital, after graduating from the University of Maine.

The new granolithic walk around the school and at the entrance has been completed. The grading in front of the school is nearly finished and the lawns are being seeded. The athletic field in the rear of the school promises to be one of the best in this vicinity when ready for use.

Rose Leckar was absent this week on account of illness.

There were special exercises held in the Assembly hall this morning under the supervision of Miss Sullivan, who had charge of the chorus, and Mr. Crowley, who directed the orchestra. The orchestra has been rehearsing faithfully for the last two months and is a credit to the school and to Mr. Crowley who has worked hard to make it so.

Miss Catherine Ellis, a graduate of the high school, and at present a student at the Boston University, visited school last week.

Morris Sogoloff of Room 27 has returned to school after being absent on account of the illness of his sister.

Arthur O'Connell of the sub-freshman class has been ill this week.

Warren Mullen has been ill at his home.

Empire Players Bound To Score Big In 'The Brat'

When "The Brat" is played by the Popular Stock Co. at the Empire theatre, Salem, the coming week, you will see enacted a story of the ennobling influences of love. A play that makes the tears trickle down the cheek from back of the eye and then finds them dried by a smile. The central figure is a waif of the city's slums who has never known any name but that of "The Brat."

To make out a precarious existence she plays in the chorus of a cheap musical show but the pittance she receives in wages is not enough to clothe her in even the half decent style of the other girls. "Fired" for being shabby she faces the world desperate, a masher insults her on the street, she slaps his face and is haled to the night court on an outrageous charge falsely made by the man she rebuffed.

In the court a celebrated author salvages her from the human wrecks waiting justice for their misdemeanors. He takes her to his home to study her as the heroine of a forthcoming novel. Love is kindled and fanned to flame, but jealousy stalks in its wake. By reason of her simple faith the odd little "brat" triumphs after heart burning sacrifies.

WHY THE DOCTORS SEND RICH FOLKS to the SPRINGS in the SPRING

A well-known physician said: "I send my rich patients to the fashionable American springs or the European spas (as they call springs over there) because it is the only way I can get them to give themselves the necessary Spring Cleaning.

"As they are not really sick, I cannot get them to take medicine faithfully or to change their diet.

"When Spring comes nearly every person is loaded up with poisonous waste matter that has been produced by the heavy meats, pastry and cooked vegetables of Winter foods, the lack of exercise, insufficient bathing, heavy, airtight clothing, and other contributing causes.

"Unless this poisonous matter is removed from the blood, stomach, bowels and other organs in the Spring, there will be that tired and worthless feeling, gassy stomach, constipation, dizziness, nervousness and the generally run-down condition that may keep one miserable all Summer, and perhaps end in fatal illness.

"My rich patients drink the spring waters by the gallon because it is fashionable. Thus they are flushed, washed out, cleansed. And as the waters carry salts and other needed chemicals they are taking medicine and don't know it.

"People in moderate circumstances get the same result by taking a good reconstructive medicine (such as Sanalt the Sensible Spring Tonic) and using ordinary common sense in their manner of living."

For a hundred years the doctors of New England have prescribed Sanalt the Sensible Tonic through all seasons, but especially in the Spring, as a reconstructive and cleanser. Sanalt purifies the blood, restores digestive power, regulates the bowels and stimulates the liver and kidneys to natural action. Thus it removes all waste matter, thoroughly cleanses the system and reduces temperature.

SANALT THE SENSIBLE TONIC in this way restores vigor, clears the complexion and relieves nervousness. By ending flatulence it relieves the heart of pressure from the bloated stomach and thus stops heartburn, palpitation and other so-called heart troubles.

Sanalt the Sensible Tonic is one of the reliable old "WINSOL" line of household remedies. It is guaranteed. If not satisfactory your money will be returned. All obliging druggists sell SANALT.

Leather Manufacturers Laughing at "Doc Gloom" By Show of New Business

(By ENERGY)

Leather is still floundering in the sea of despair. The tanners are doing likewise. If taken literally they might catch many of this species of fish and it would be more profitable than tanning leather. The only trouble would be the bait and some kinds such as fishing parties always had a plenty, is mighty scare and high these days. So as leather men as a rule are not burdened with money in plenty, let's stay with the leather.

* * *

Years ago there was a popular song, "The mistakes of my life are many," which with variations would turn the hardest heart to the melting point. I presume most tanners could appreciate those words, for had they quit at the proper time, they now would be journeying in foreign countries showing the natives how to spend money. Sad but true.

* * *

But why not jest a bit. It gets one just as much as biting one another. It gets more. For life is what you make it even if the tanning business works the other way. The mighty question today is what and how to do. Some fellows have the faculty of doing things at the right time and place, but unfortunately for the big majority they guess and often times wrong. To try and figure out how and when to do the proper thing has been copyrighted by only a few. Many will tell you that few are only lucky and guess right, but somehow such fellows keep getting there and there is a reason, as there is a reason for the earth revolving on its axis. The trouble is most of us are not gifted with the proper amount or the kind of brains that draws the prize.

* * *

So I have conversed with many makers of leather, for it is part of my way of getting a little bread and less butter. Each week I find spots of light. Each week I find more spots of light than the week previous. No doubt some of my readers will want to know where they are, but perhaps that would be telling tales out of the tannery, and I must keep my assets. But it is a fact that some of the local manufacturers are perking up to the extent of saying their business is better. Here is one of the several cases. The Sealer of Weights and Measures, who is always on the job, visited a certain factory and found the measuring machine running at least 65 revolutions a minute. Now such speed is forbidden by the powers that be. To be according to Hoyle, 55 revolutions is the limit. The men connected with measuring appeared surprised when told how fast the machine was traveling. But they evidently had a good bringing up and carried their part well. But during the conversation it came out that there was so much leather to measure, the machine had to be speeded to get out the day's work. Now this has not been the case since Foch measured the Germans for civilian clothes. Another case where a sheep skin manufacturer admitted his business was growing from week to week. Do not get me that the fellow who makes one line painted black or brown is thriving as yet. It is the fellow who can finish skins on the edges if necessary who brings home the bacon.

* * *

There is to be another conference in Washington to decide what are measuring machines. Some of us thought that point was settled once for all when they adopted the pin machine, as being nearest to perfection. There was a machine made after that called perfection, but evidently the officials did not believe it. Since then it is presumed most of those officials have been fired to make way for republicans, therefore the new fellows want to have their say about measuring leather. They have been measuring pocketbooks on the inside so long, they need the change. So I am told the Massachusetts officials will journey to Washington and fill those republicans full of measurement. They will tell of the German made machine of the Turner Tanning Machine Co. which will be cheap advertising. They will measure everything except liquids, and that will be left for another visit when the times will warrant beverages of five per cent. and better.

* * *

But such meetings will no doubt bring out arguments which cannot but have beneficial effects. I hope they will be shown why this foreign made machine will not do. I hope they will devise some way to keep on improving these machines, for it will tend to make many come back to honesty, and not mark up every other skin for luck. After all said and done, the only difference between the thug who shoots from the hip and the smooth gent who takes your money legally in an illegal way, is that one is more ungentlemanly than the other. The result is the same.

* * *

I hope and trust I have not tread on local tanners' feelings by making such assertions. It is tempting to mark up a bit for gasolene and tires cost money. Then when you tee up a dollar on the first tee, and bat it into the woods, it is spending money faster than buying poker chips in Monte Carlo. But I must admit the tanners as a rule are honest. The only ones they would like to trim is the shoe manufacturer, but that fellow is some keen himself. He does not hesitate to send back your leather when he gets a countermand of a shoe order, and he figures the tanner should help pay the bill. The only time he was real humble was during the war, and during that time he practiced something he was not brought up to do, namely beg for leather. Those were happy days, but it is doubtful if they come again in 1922, "doubtfuller" if the present generation of tanners will see it again. After all, they are all good fellows, even if you have to say it quick in some cases.

City Clerk Refuses To Save Cash

field was given his present city berth over the head of a woman aspirant.

City Clerk Dowd early in his advent to City Hall engaged in a wordy altercation with Mayor Shea, when, it is said, he practically ordered Mayor Shea out of his office. The Mayor is not known to have entered the office of the city clerk since the day of their verbal combat.

City Clerk Dowd, haled before the supreme court on petition of the Peabody Enterprise last year was ordered to allow this newspaper and any citizen of Peabody to see the records of marriage intentions. He declared he had no malice against the publisher of the Enterprise, who by competitive bidding has secured the contract for the city printing of Peabody. The contract for the city printing was awarded again this year to the Peabody Press Co., of which the publisher of the Enterprise is the president.

City Clerk Dowd will complete the unexpired term of his office on Dec. 31, 1922, and his re-election is in the hands of 1923 City Council. It is not believed that a majority of the City Council approve of the City Clerk's hostile attitude to Mayor Shea and his apparent desire to evade the strict letter of the city charter on contracts.

The Enterprise believes the tax-payers should have these facts, for they are concerned in having men in public office who will be eager to save the city treasury from sustaining unjustified losses.

CO-OPERATION

A successful business is a success because of the co-operation of those who are the owners or are the acknowledged heads. Without it everything is chaos, and the business suffers. Many will tell you cities cannot be run as is business. Admitting this to be true, we insist the city that comes the nearest to it can be pointed to as flourishing far more than the others. Since Peabody became a city, there have been many times when co-operation was lacking. Today it exists, and through it all the taxpayers are the sufferers and nobody else. Everything that occurs to cause extra expense to the city is paid for by property owners. No doubt we are telling nothing new, but we doubt if the large majority realize what it means. One can mingle with all sorts of men, and in most every case the subject of their conversation will revert to city politics, and reasons why taxes are high will be discussed only to be forgotten before a remedy is suggested. Co-operation among city officials, particularly between the Mayor and Council, means much to us all. In the last five years it has cost thousands of dollars, and will continue so unless a better understanding exists. We will not attempt to explain the why's and wherefore's, but all admit it exists. Voters can remedy the trouble, but will they? If they look into cause and effect which applies to city government, it would be far different than listening to a few speeches before election and voting accordingly. Therefore whatever happens in city affairs which points to non-co-operation must be laid at the doors of the voters, for they have the remedy to make it otherwise.

PASSING OF OLD RESIDENTS

When the old residents pass on and leave their valuable estates to the younger generation, in most cases such estates pass into other hands. The young people of today want action. Few of them desire to pass their time in country houses, no mater how well equipped. It is the sign of the times. Not only with the wealthy, but the poor boy and girl seeks his fortune in the city. So when Mrs. Jacob C. Rogers passed away, her estate, taxed for $100,000,000, is offered to the highest bidder. It is reported that there are several prospective purchasers, but who will be the next owner is now in doubt. The J. N. Smith estate on Mount Pleasant is another where the owners prefer to live elsewhere. Then just over the Peabody line in Danvers the Peabody estate, famous in history. The owners of these properties were of the sort which any city or town would gladly welcome. The taxes from real and personal property enhanced the treasuries of the municipalities where they resided. The story of the hospitality dealt out to those who were fortunate enough to be invited to these homes would read like fiction. J. Pierpont Morgan, the greatest financier of his time, if not of all time, was a frequent visitor at the Rogers home when he was in his prime. So we could enumerate further. But the fact remains we cannot hope to duplicate the doings of these residents who have passed on. They were of the old school and those of this generation do things in a different way. New ways of living have come to us, and whoever lives in these estates will live their way, but not the ways of those whose lives breathed in the atmosphere of the nineteenth century.

THE CALL OF THE BOY

Of all the interesting activities of Rotary, Boys' Work is one of the most appealing. It has such an attraction that it causes men to go out of their way in making organized efforts to help needy and underprivileged boys. The basic reason for this "urge" which comes to every man is a response to an instinct that is in every human being—the instinct to love and protect.

It makes you want to supply some of the things that have been sadly lacking in the lives of these boys—who have not been favored by fortune—who are handicapped physically—who have never experienced the companionship of one whom they can truthfully call "Dad"—or who have never experienced the supreme love of one who bends over the bed at night and with loving hands tucks in the covers and gives a "good night kiss." You may call this "sentiment," or what you will, but the fact remains that the desire or instinct to love and protect, remains the impelling motive for interest in boys' work.

God help the miserable man who has become so callous that he does not instinctively respond to the appeal of a boy.

It is easy for the boy to be lured from school by tempting wages. It is hard for the other boy to sit in school when he sees his chum making money and apparently forging ahead of him. It is difficult to make a boy realize that hard study now will provide him with the steam that will later put him far ahead in the race.

It is a great work, this instilling into the boy the desire to make good—in the school room—on the athletic field—in his own home. And in all the joy of your work, don't forget the old proverbial saying, "Boys are boys and boys employ themselves with boyish matters." Talk to the boys in their own language.—Excerpts from The Rotarian.

HOME SPORTS

An announcement recently that Peabody is to have a local baseball team is welcomed by the thousands of fans who have to go elsewhere to witness well played games. Several attempts have been made in recent years to organize a ball team in Peabody which would please the public. The outcome has not been satisfactory to the public or to those who backed the proposition. It was a losing venture. The trouble as we see it was that the players were imported from other places. There was no interest in seeing a player from Boston, and the player had little interest in the game only to draw his salary. But with the promising material available in Peabody, a team could be organized which would give all of them an argument. Properly handled such a team should break even financially. The fact that Peabody young men were on the team would certainly stimulate an interest which would draw record crowds. In the early spring and summer we have the high school team, in the late fall high school football. We believe the difficulties now on as to management will be smoothed over, and any hasty move by coach Donovan or the advisory committee will be forgotten for the best of all concerned. So we hope all lovers of sport can look forward to amusement the coming season and will not have to journey to neighboring cities and towns to see their Saturday afternoon ball game.

ROUND ABOUT

Associate Justice William H. Fay and Atty. William H. McSweeney of Salem are bitter rivals at the bar and the friendliest of pals outside the various tribunals where they are called to expound in behalf of clients. They met in combat of wit and sarcasm before Judge Manning in the district court Tuesday morning and while they "fought" with brain and vocabulary it was interesting. Judge Fay won the points and it is now neck and neck between these legal lights. Apropos of Judge Fay, I understand he will again spend much of his leisure time this season on his home garden, and already some of his neighbors tell me he is at work with his garden tools. Atty. McSweeney asks the Enterprise to remember him to all of his Peabody friends, and we are glad to do that for Billy.

Parking machines on Peabody square is becoming more common. Several times this week 50 machines have been counted, parked in front of Pushard's drug store, in front of the South church, and near the soldier's monument. It is fair to presume later the number will increase, and some day a parking place will need to be provided. Machines which contain people who want to shop in the stores in the Allen block must stand outside the machine line.

We note several merchants on Lowell and Main streets are playing for trade with flaming signs announcing how low their goods can be purchased. Judging by the number who sought these stores, business was good. Constant advertising keeps stores thrifty.

* * *

The discussion of the trouble between Marty Donovan and the advisory board who control athletics at the high school, has spread to the Salem News, and this paper tells us the committee was wrong and Marty right in placing himself above that board. There is a long story connected with the trouble, the first not being the present controversy. When the truth comes out, and it will if misrepresentations continue to appear, another light will show the other side, and we believe the right side.

* * *

Peabody has been fortunate so far in not having forest fires, with so much wooden land in South and West Peabody. Other years have given the firemen no end of trouble.

* * *

When the Salem Gas Light Co. established an office in Peabody, it not only favored itself, but Peabody derives much good. Attention to repairs, leaks and the like can be quicker which means much to the house wife. Gas heating is fast taking the place of coal stoves, being cleaner and as cheap, with coal at $15 a ton.

* * *

Principal Assessor Patrick J. Sheehy is making good in his office, according to the best information. He is not trying to run the department. He has two able assistant assessors in Messrs. Nelson and Bomer, and the trio are hard at work completing their annual valuations on taxable property.

* * *

Peabody can have a good baseball team here this summer, with the talent taken from locals. A classy pitcher would keep the team in the running.

* * *

West Peabody with its social club has started something which will be a benefit to all in that section. The membership is fast increasing and with a committee to keep something in the air, the club will thrive. Checkers is attracting attention, and it is proposed to have an expert show the boys fine points of the game.

* * *

The Stockwell property on Main street is for sale and already an offer far over $20,000 has been made. We predict this property will sell nearer $30,000 than $20,000, and in a short time.

* * *

There are several would-be purchasers for the Rogers estate. One a Danvers man, and it would not be surprising if he bought it. We cannot conceive of a better summer home in the country than is this estate. What a dandy golf course it would make, in fact it is what the doctor ordered for any purpose but a distillery.

* * *

There is urgent need of signs near City Hall and Sawyer street, warning auto drivers of the danger of running over children who play in the street in spite of frequent warnings. Several children have been run over on this stretch of road, one at least fatally hurt. A suggestion for the street department.

* * *

Main street is fast being turned to commercialism. It is the natural growth of a city, and naturally property there will increase in value. But few houses remain from Peabody square to Washington street.

* * *

With the Ponzi financiering of the trip to Charleston last fall, some doubt is expressed in some quarters as to the feasibility of our southern friends coming here this fall. The story of that trip is not completed, for the bills are not all paid.

* * *

Ray Porter and Andy Highlands will play a golf match at the Kernwood club this Saturday. Both long drivers, the match will be worth while. A good gallery will follow the cracks.

* * *

There are 134 stores and small piece leather places in Ward Four. Most of them are centered about and on Walnut street.

* * *

Hyman Isenburg has purchased 15 acres of land and a small camp on the highlands in the rear of Bartholomew street. The land is known as the quarry lot. There is no question but what the camp is founded on a rock.

THE RIGHT THING at the RIGHT TIME

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

BEVERAGES

"Men really know not what good water's worth."—Byron.

IT HAS been said that the real test of good table manners depends on one's ability to manage a knife and fork in the right way. Quite as good a test might be shown in one's mode and manner of drinking any of the ordinary everyday beverages. The really fine points in manners are revealed in these everyday things. Don't worry your head over the proper way of dispensing tea from a Russian samovar. It is much more important to drink the everyday brew from an everyday tea pot.

It seems unnecessary to say that we should drink noiselessly. However, most people don't. Keep tab on yourself sometime and see whether you yourself do not have to exert quite an effort in order to make your drinking absolutely noiseless. In drinking tea, coffee, or other beverages served in cup and saucer, you should use the spoon only in order to mix the sugar and then to take a few spoonfuls by way of testing the temperature. To sip the entire cupful in spoonfuls is decidedly bad form. If you have been advised to "sip" tea or water in this way for your health, then out of kindness to your associates take this in your own room as you would any other sort of remedy.

Needless to say we never leave the spoon in our cups. After the sugar is added it should be mixed by one or two motions of the spoon in the cup and then it should be laid on the saucer beside the cup. If your venerable grandmother or grandfather drinks with the spoon in the cup, just recall that in the days that are long gone by this was regarded as a perfectly correct mode of drinking; but that is no excuse for anyone else.

The same rule applies to spoons in any glass or cup. And remember when you are partaking of a soda fountain concoction that you should not drink with the straws in the glass. As a matter of fact very good manners make no allowances whatever for straws. At all events they and the long spoon that is served with the fountain drink should be removed and laid aside before attempting to drink from the glass.

An exception to this rule against straws must be made in favor of certain warm-weather drinks that really contain so much chopped ice that to drink them in any way save through a straw would be quite impossible.

College Combines Study With Job

Frank P. Speare
Pres. of Northeastern University

"YOUNG men, wishing to succeed, must realize that trained men have better chances than untrained. It always was so in the history of our Great New England and it always will be so. Yet training takes time and that is what discourages a good many young fellows. When however a college has made it possible to combine study with a job on salary—thus learning and applying at the same time, a short-cut to success has undoubtedly been found." That is what Frank P. Speare, President of Northeastern University, said at the Y. M. C. A. in Boston, referring to the approaching graduation day of Northeastern's Engineering School.

The number of students in Civil, Mechanical, Electrical and Chemical Engineering is now 820. The number of students in 1910 was only 8. These figures show how the idea of co-operative education has grown in a few years. It is a system that combines work on a job with technical training, and obviates for employer and student the unhappy breaking-in period that usually faces the man who hires and the man who tries to work after leaving school or college.

In a statement recently delivered to a number of engineering firms and contractors in Boston and vicinity, Dean Ell made the system of the School of Engineering clear.

The School of Engineering, Northeastern University, is the highest development of "learning by doing." Its students alternate in their study between the classroom and industrial plants. They spend a certain number of weeks in studying the theory of engineering at college. Then, they spend a like period on the actual job.

This practical experience, lack of which often is the college man's greatest handicap, is made possible through the co-operation of many of the largest industrial establishments in this part of the country. More than 150 concerns already have recognized these and other advantages of co-operating with the School of Engineering and employ students because they are available at a wage which is satisfactory to both.

In practice there are two student-workers to each job in a co-operating plant. During the five weeks that A is on the job, B is in college. When B goes on the job for the next five weeks, A returns to the classroom.

The only variation from this plan of operation is in the case of freshmen.

On the actual job, the student learns how to get along with men. He acquires the rare characteristic, executive ability, which employers always are seeking in men, and which the men themselves must have to rise in their jobs."

THE GENUINE BAKELITE

From a soldier in the A. E. F. Army of occupation, the manufacturers of the WDC Triangle Bakelite received this: "The Bakelite mouth piece has stood the test. It is much stronger than the amber mouth piece that the German meerschaum pipes have. Many Germans believe that it is a real amber stem. While the pipe has been scraped and scraped, nothing but the top of the bowl is worn out." We have nothing to add to this, except to say come into our store and take a look at the WDC Triangle Bakelite.

Why continue to feed this old expensive way when The Ful-O-Pep Way will give you the same gains with only half the feed?

FUL-O-PEP GROWING MASH

Costs Less Per Pound of Gain Made Than Any Other Feed

The Ful-O-Pep Way consists of feeding Ful-O-Pep Growing Mash from the very start—continuously keeping it before your birds all the time. Ful-O-Pep Growing Mash, because of the high feeding value of its Oatmeal, fish and bone contents goes twice as far as grain feeds—every ounce is digested by chicks' delicate digestive organs—there is no waste and when compared with results cost only half as much in pounds of feed consumed for gains in pounds of meat produced. Furthermore, your losses from bowel and digestive troubles that arise from feeding hard indigestible grains, will be very much less and your flock will be of even growth and development. Give The Ful-O-Pep Way a trial this season—it will reduce your feed costs and materially increase your profits.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court within and for the County of Essex: RESPECTFULLY libels and represents LILLIAN M. VILES, of Peabody in said county, that she was lawfully married to Frederick J. Viles, now of parts unknown, at Lynn, on the seventh day of November A. D., 1914; and thereafterwards your libellant and the said Frederick J. Viles lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth, to wit, at Lynn and Peabody, that your libellant has always been faithful to her marriage vows and obligations, but the said Frederick J. Viles being wholly regardless of the same, at Peabody on the sixteenth (16th) day of May, 1916 without just cause wilfully and utterly deserted your libellant, which desertion has continued from such time to the date hereof, being more than three (3) consecutive years prior to the filing of this libel.
Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Frederick J. Viles. And your libellant represents that there has been born of said marriage a son, Gilbert E. Viles, now aged seven (7) years, and prays that the care and custody of said minor child be decreed to your libellant.
Dated this eleventh day of March A. D., 1922.
LILLIAN M. VILES.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS

School Days Monday At The Strand

Fred Stone in "Billy Jim," a roaring western comedy-drama, paced to the brim with thrills and fun, and Ben Turpin in comedy hit "Love's Outcast,' will be the two feature attractions on the bill the Strand will offer for today and Saturday.

Mr. Stone, who plays the part of "Billy Jim," is one of the most famous of American stars. He is one of the most versatile artists of stage or screen. In this production he enacts the part of a lovesick cowboy who pursues the daughter of a wealthy rancher with a view of asking her hand in marriage. Mr. Stone's skill with the lariat, his marksmanship with the six-shooter and his ability to tame a spirited horse are in evidence throughout the picture which is a high class western drama with countless thrilling scenes. George Walsh in "With Stanley in Africa" will be the other attraction on the bill for today.

The most important announcement that has emanated from the Strand in months is the news that the freckle-faced movie celebrity Wesley Barry will appear there for three days, starting Sunday in Gus Edwards' "School Days."

It is no reflection on Wesley Barry's past performances to say that in "School Days" he is seen in a part that will undoubtedly endear him to his countless admirers. For the picture has an appeal that is irresistible. It is iresistible because every mother who has boys, every man who remembers his boyhood, will glory in the pranks of Speck Brown.

Speck is at first seen as a small town youngster in love with a wistful little girl, and the old swimmin' hole and his dog Hippy. His love for the town is so great that a wealthy uncle has difficulty in persuading him to go to a private school for his education. Now, Speck is an orphan, and his guardian makes life miserable for him most of the time. So off to the city goes Speck.

He meets the youngsters of wealthy parents. Always with the untamable heart of boyhood, he performs pranks, but somehow he fails to win the friendship of his wealthy schoolmates. Tired of being an outsider, he decides to hop a freight tack to his home. The resulting climax of "School Days" is too good to reveal here, for the feature in its entirety is one of the most wholesome and entertaining offerings yet released, and a credit to the screen. The Billboard, one of the oldest theatrical papers in the country, said of "School Days": "See this one. It will bring back your youth. It should be shown to all the world."

Manager Chet Bent announces that in the future the prices for admission on Monday and Tuesday will be the same as the price charged on other days. The same policy, however, of the big, special feature program will prevail on these days.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY
CHARLES H. EGLEE

A QUEER WORLD

This is a queer old world filled up with queer people with queer ideas. Is it any wonder that we have queer problems to work out? One of the queerest things we see about us is the unwillingness of the people to realize the reason for the condition we are in today. The reason is a simple one and the remedy is simple also. Let us talk about it a little.

First, the reason. The whole world has been preaching and teaching hatred. Nation hates nation. Class hates class. The people hate the laws. The customer hates the merchant and calls him a profiteer. The wage earner hates the man who pays him his wages. The tax payer hates the government. The world has been sowing the seeds of discord and discontent. As a result we are reaping a harvest of trouble.

We look to the government for help but the government cannot help. The government is made up of elected politicians. The politician seeks popularity so that he can get votes. His mind runs that way, while the mind of the business man runs to production. Production means the creation of goods. Politicians cannot do business.

We need three kinds of labor in order to create anything. First, labor of the brain. Second, labor of the body. Third, labor of money, for money works as much as the other two. These three must work together. They must co-operate. Money receives the lowest rate of pay; we call it interest. Muscle labor receives the next highest rate of pay; we call it wages. Brain labor is paid the highest; no one can fix a rate for brain labor. Think what Edison is paid.

If labor chops down a tree, capital furnishes the axe and brain invents the axe. All three work together. If labor makes shoes, capital furnishes the factory and brain invents the machinery. All three work together. Now it is very clear that each is necessary to the other and if they quarrel among themselves somebody gets hurt. Who does? The man who wants the tree or the people who need the shoes. The cost goes up. Simple, isn't it? Seems queer that people don't see it.

It is a queer fact that the people cannot see that raising wages raises the cost of living, for 80% of the cost of anything we use is paid in wages. Shortening hours raises the cost of living for the same reason. So does loafing on the job. Every strike raises the cost of living. In 1919 labor lost in wages $723,478,000 in strikes. Capital lost $1,266,357,000; in all about $2,000,000,000 all added to the cost of living. Your living and mine. Profiteering raises the cost of living. We tried all these things in this country and each one of us blamed the other fellow, when really we were all to blame, every one of us. The profiteer got the worst of it for he not only lost his money, but in many instances his business also. We woke up after awhile and now are trying to get straight again. Queer, isn't it, that we couldn't see our mistakes when we made them? Russia couldn't see her folly and kept right on with these foolish ideas until butter cost eight dollars a pound, a suit of clothes cost a thousand dollars, and people froze and starved.

Another queer idea is that brain labor gets too much pay and the money of the capitalist ought to be divided up equally among the people. Let's see. In 1919 the total of all incomes in the United States over $1000 was $14,526,731,448. The government tax was taken out, leaving 13,257,101,344, which divided among 41,000,000 wage earners would give to each one $323. So then every man earning $1000 would get $323 more and everybody who earned over $1323 would have to give up every cent above that amount. Worse than that there would be no available working capital. Every cent would be tied up, and remember this, "Idle dollars make idle men." Money must work.

Again, if every salary of $5000 or over paid by the U. S. Steel Company (and some brain workers in that company get very high pay) was cut out entirely and divided among the 252,000 workers, it would add five cents a day to each worker; but—the whole works would have to shut down. Queer thing, isn't it?

For more than thirty years I have studied these questions. I have searched for remedies that would benefit our industries. I have had 5000 to 6000 men in my employ and never had a strike. The remedy is simple. First,—Tell the truth, no matter where it hits or who it hurts. Second,—Live "A Square Deal." Who shall do this? I, myself. It begins with me. Suppose every man in Peabody should say "I will" and then do it, our local troubles would soon be over. Suppose everybody in any one factory should do this. Think it over. Third,—Work together. Every man has ideas, some of them good. Talk it over, employer and worker, then go to it. Together. Fourth,—Give the best service you possibly can to your job, whatever that job may be. Don't worry, the work will pay you for faithful service. It has paid Edison, Carnegie, Rockefeller, Schwab, Henry Ford, who were every one poor boys. I know when Carnegie used to get a quarter for carrying home the laundry. What did he do with it? He saved it and worked. He didn't hate anybody. Lots of people hated Carnegie but it didn't hurt him one little bit. Hate and fear only hurt the people who practice them. Queer old world, isn't it?

Peabody Boys on U. S. Tampa Help Ocean Grey Hounds To Keep Clear of Huge Icebergs

George M. Gallagher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael M. Gallagher of Clement avenue, who is one of the youngest wireless operators in Uncle Sam's navy, has written the Enterprise an interesting letter from the Grand Banks, where he is on the U. S. Tampa advising shipping of icebergs. His letter:

U. S. S. Tampa at Sea,
April 16, 1922.

Mr. Penniman.

Dear Sir:

I thought you would like to hear about international ice patrol which is made every year by a coast guard cutter which goes out and patrols the waters off the Grand Banks and looks for ice which comes down into the path of the transatlantic ships and is very dangerous to navigation.

When the cutter locates an ice berg she warns all other ships to keep away from that latitude and longitude. The cutter stands by the berg until it drifts out of the path of the ships, then she looks for another to do the same. The ships are warned by the cutter just as soon as she can be reached by radio or at 250 to 300 miles.

If a ship sees an ice berg it calls the cutter by wireless and gives the position of the berg, also the temperature of air and water and by this they can tell if the berg is in the vicinity of other bergs or larger. Each transatlantic ship gives her position, water temperature and air temperature every four hours by wireless.

The U. S. S. America gave her position and temperature every four hours by the wireless phone and it could be heard very plain for about 100 to 150 miles away. We also expect to have a wireless phone aboard this ship very soon and then we will have an up-to-date wireless set, including a wireless compass, by which we can locate direction of another ship about 100 miles by wireless.

The weather up here is not very good. We have a fog every day and cool all the time and very rough sea at all times. I guess it is never calm up around here but we are used to it now, so don't mind it a bit.

We have seen a number of small bergs and they say we will see larger ones on the next trip out, which will be in about fifteen days or so. I will enclose a picture of a small ice berg and please give it to Tom, my brother, whenever you see him because I want to save it.

Ernest S. Felt is also aboard this ship. He is a fireman and he likes it very much and it seems good to me to have some one from Peabody with me.

Ice patrol lasts for three months and we will be on patrol 15 days out and 15 days in Halifax and expect to be back in Boston about first of July.

You may be able to make a story up for your paper out of this letter, if you can read and understand it.

Yours truly, Spark,
GEORGE M. GALLAGHER.

American Legion

Observance by the American Legion of the birthdays of both General Robert E. Lee and General U. S. Grant, rival leaders of the Civil war, is requested of all posts in the North and South by national headquarters of the service men's organization. The birthday of Gen. Grant, to celebrate which the Legion will assist the G. A. R., will be observed April 27. That of Gen. Lee will be observed Jan. 19, 1923.

The national Legion's celebration of the birth of these great Americans will be "an effective argument that all sectionalism is buried and that the glory of the nation is the chief concern of every patriotic citizen." Lemuel Bolles, Legion adjutant, declares.

The Naval Aviation Post of the American Legion, New York City, composed principally of officers listed in the social register, has relinquished its charter because of the national organization's fight for adjusted compensation. "Cancellation of this post's charter reduces the total number of Legion posts from 11,022 to 11,021," National Commander MacNider said when told of the naval unit's action. "Fifty-six new posts have been chartered since April 1. The loss of the naval aviation unit, therefore, reduces our net increase for 13 days to only 55 posts."

* * *

The practice of prohibition enforcement officials wearing the army uniform to trap violators of the liquor law caused the American Legion of Norfolk, Va., to register a protest with Secretary of War Weeks, who took immediate action. The Legion alleged desecration of the insignia immortalized by American arms during the World war.

* * *

When the wife of a wounded buddy was desperately ill, physicians appealed to jobless service men in the American Legion barracks, Cleveland, O., for blood for a transfusion to save her life. The blood of the unemployed veterans was too thin, it was found, and volunteers had to be obtained from a Legion post of veterans who have jobs.

* * *

Those who oppose the rights of men who fought in the World war are unpatriotic, Brig. Gen. Hanson Ely, commandant of the War Department's service schools at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., declared in memorial exercises conducted by the American Legion. Gen. Ely pleaded for adequate care of the war disabled and adjusted compensation.

* * *

Cupid is making such war romance inroads in the membership of an American Legion post of Minneapolis, Minn., composed entirely of army and navy nurses, that a men's auxiliary, composed of husbands of the fair Legionnaires, is being planned.

* * *

Fed up upon "wrong number," "line's busy" and "line's out of order," the American Legion post of Decatur, Ark., bought the city's telephone company and after overhauling the system, will operate it.

* * *

The Republican party of Minnesota, assembled in state convention, unanimously voted resolutions in favor of the American Legion's adjusted compensation measure.

Use of the Stars and Stripes to advertise a junk shop or a fish market now is forbidden in New York. Following in American Legion's issuance of instructions on how to respect the flag, the New York legislature passed a bill prohibiting reproductions of the flag on "business stationery."

* * *

When Major General Clarence R. Edwards, leader of the Yankee division in the World war, asked a group of American Legion men at Holyoke, Mass., what type of adjusted compensation they would take, 85 per cent. elected the insurance feature, ten per cent. the farm and home aid and the rest declared for vocational training.

Starting simultaneously in every community in the United States, on April 30, the international association of Rotary clubs and the American Legion will combine to observe "Boys' Week" with exercises and programs of interest and help to young America.

The part that America played in the World war will be portrayed by a huge painting given by the American Legion and preserved by the French government in the World war exhibit in the Musee de l'Armee, Invalides, Paris, France. The museum, founded by Napoleon as a home for his soldiers, was visited by thousands of Yankee doughboys during the war.

New York city is hearing voices from the clouds as Lieut. B. W. Maynard, former army chaplain, is flying over Manhattan with a group of girl singers. The airplane is equipped with a radio broadcasting device. The stunt was arranged to raise funds for an American Legion camp in the Adirondack Mountains for sick and wounded service men.

A CHILD'S GRATITUDE

Catherine McClusky is a dear little ten-year-old living in New London, Conn. From the hardships of winter weather and the confinement of the school-room she had become very much run-down. She was weak, nervous, lost her appetite and was restless at night. Her mother gave her Sanalt, the Sensible Tonic, and was delighted with the result. But Catherine was determined to speak for herself, so she wrote the following letter to the makers of Sanalt.

"Dear Mr. Sanalt Man: Mother wrote you a letter about Sanalt, but now I am writing for myself to tell you how fine Sanalt is making me feel. You know I was pretty sick when mother first gave me Sanalt, but now I'm all right and getting fat. My chum is a year older than me: she is eleven. I was no bigger than her a little while ago, but now I am an inch taller and weigh sixty-eight pounds while my friend weighs only sixty. But now her mother is giving her Sanalt, too, so we are going to have a Sanalt race to see which will be biggest and fattest. When we are playing dolls we pretend to give them Sanalt, and then we pretend it makes them awful hungry, like it does us."

Sanalt, the Sensible Tonic, is absolutely safe for either children or grown folks. It is a great health builder for those who are weak, constipated, rheumatic or whose blood is in bad condition.

All enterprising druggists sell Sanalt.

TYPICAL COAT STYLE

Out of Russia came the inspiration for this spirited coat, typical of the spring modes. It is made of a novelty mixture and its trimming is something quite new. Note that its lines are straight, its sleeves roomy and loose, its patch pockets large, its belt wide, with an original fastening, and be assured that it embodies the high points in the new styles.

Mrs. Edwin Bergstrom of Rutland, Vt., has been spending the past two weeks with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Galeucia, Lynn street.

The Ship Rock Sewing Club met with Miss Sadie Merchant, Lynnfield street, last night and enjoyed a fine supper.

The Sewso Club will meet with Mrs. Esther Walker next Monday evening.

Mrs. Sadie Morse visited Capt. Holbrook and family at Somerville on Tuesday.

Francis Donahue of Lynn street is sick with measles.

The Boy Scouts had an open meeting Monday night and Cecil Young took the boys on a hike to Ship Rock.

Herbert Tucker and family of Beverly were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Langdon Newhall last Sunday.

Mrs. Stella Newhall of Lynn street has been ill with grippe.

Mrs. Carrie Boutwell of Woburn was the guest of Mrs. Frank Tucker on Wednesday.

Mrs. Nellie Annis of Bartholomew street has been sick for the past week.

After the Sunday evening services of the Second Congregational church a special meeting will be held by the church to talk over the future of the Community House. All those who contributed to this cause, or are interested in any way, are invited to attend this meeting.

Earl Newhall of Lynn street fell from a hay-loft last week, landing on a wagon wheel. He was picked up unconscious. He received several bruises and a cut over his eye. No serious results are anticipated.

Fourteen South Peabody ladies attended the "Home Beautiful" exposition at Boston last Tuesday.

A committee meeting of the Pythian Sisters was held at the home of Mrs. Crosby on Lynn street to make plans for the anniversary of the order, which is to be held next Wednesday at Odd Fellows' hall. Supper will be served at 6.30; followed by an entertainment.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lake Shore Park church met with Mrs. Elizabeth Hetherington, Lynn street, yesterday afternoon. Plans were completed for a May supper to be held next Monday night, May 1. A menu of cold meats, beans and salads will be served, with Mrs. Edna Wilson as chairman of the committee.

The Bartholomew Improvement Association held their meeting at Davis' hall Tuesday evening, preceded by a fine salad supper at 6.30. A short business meeting was held, at which the retiring president, Marshall Blanchard, was presented with a purse of gold, and Mrs. Blanchard was presented with a bouquet of carnations. An entertainment followed, including violin and piano selections by Misses Zelda and Nettie Foster of Lynn; piano duet by Miss Ola Davis and Miss Evelyn Parsons; vocal solos by Mrs. Cora Woods and musical selections and monologues by Mr. Fay. Henniker Foster of Lynn was elected president of the association for the year.

Mrs. Kate Cross held her weekly whist Tuesday evening, at which the following players were winners: Men's first, Joseph Foster; second, Lawrence Osgood; third, Ed. Churchill. Ladies' first, Mrs. William Jacques; second, Mrs. Oliver Parker; third, Miss Velma Ellison.

The South Peabody Dramatic Club are rehearsing for another drama to be given in May, entitled "The Convict's Daughter."

Charles Parker, Jr., of Tucker's court has been quite sick with erysipelas for the past week.

Mrs. Fred Savage of County street has returned to her home, after an operation at a Boston hospital.

"The Heart of a Hero," a melodrama in four acts, was presented at the Second Congregational church Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, by the South Peabody Dramatic Club, under the direction of W. E. Weld. The play centers around a wealthy mill owner and his daughter, who disagree over the man of the daughter's choice. The villain of the play was well carried out and was intermingled with two other love affairs, making an interesting story. The parts were adapted for each one and carried out with ease. Ice cream, candy and cake were sold by the committee. The cast of characters follow: Gilbert Westover (mill owner), Wright Gregson; Seth Marlow (who had the heart of a hero), Grafton Broughton; Clarence Denton (a crook), Edward Larabee; Arnold Payne (a dude) Arthur Tedford; Cyrus Bodkins (madly in love), Roland Janvier; Robert (an office boy), Howard Gregson; Caroline Westover (mill owner's sister), Marion Newhall; Salina (the mill owner's daughter), Lottie Brown; Tillie Sloan (Salina's friend), Gertrude Holden; Em (all by herself), Gladys Le Cain.

BILLY CONNERY OF LYNN FIRST DEMOCRAT OUT FOR CONGRESS

William P. Connery, Jr., secretary to Mayor Harland A. McPhetres of Lynn, has already started his campaign for the Democratic nomination for congress in the Seventh district. When Mr. Connery was recently introduced at a dinner in Lawrence in connection with the 75th anniversary of the incorporation of that city, he was loudly greeted as 'the next member of congress from the Seventh district."

In Lynn, Peabody and Lawrence Mr. Connery has received the voluntary support of many prominent Democrats while others who are not qualified to vote in the Democratic primaries have assured him that they are with him. Mr. Connery is making a special appeal to service men and their women folks. He has assured the service men that in the event of his election he will work for better treatment of sick, wounded and gassed veterans.

Whn Mr. Connery ran for the Democratic nomination six years ago he made a creditable showing against former Congressman Michael F. Phelan, although he was then a young man with little political experience, and not so widely known as he is now. With an excellent war record and his popularity among various organizations where he has often volunteered his services as an entertainer, the young man should make an excellent showing next September in the caucuses.

Mr. Connery will throw his hat into the ring tomorrow, when he will attend the big Democratic dinner in Boston.

BEATRICE McMANUS BECOMES BRIDE OF JOHN HENRY LYONS, NEW DRUGGIST

A wedding of more than local interest was solemnized at St. John's church at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening, when Miss Beatrice M., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. McManus of this city, became the bride of John Henry Lyons, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Lyons of Danvers. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large company of friends by Rev. Charles D. McInnis. Miss Mary P. vious to the ceremony Miss Mary E. Clifford presided at the organ and previous to the ceremony Miss Mary L. McCarthy sang "O Promise Me." The bride wore an exquisite gown of iridescent over white satin. Her tulle veil was caught coronet fashion with a wreath of orange blossoms and her shower bouquet was of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Her bridesmaid, Miss Audrey M. McManus, was attired in blue Canton crepe with hat to match and carried an arm bouquet of Killarney roses. William E. Lyons, a brother of the groom, was best man.

A reception to the immediate families was held at the home of the bride, 15 Holten street, where a wealth of beautiful gifts attested to the esteem in which the young couple is held. Mr. and Mrs. Lyons are enjoying a trip to Atlantic City and on their return will reside at 15 Holten street. The bride is a graduate of Peabody high school and attended "Marycliff" academy at Arlington. The groom was in charge of the dispensary at the Charlestown navy yard during the World war and on his return to this city will open a drug store in the McManus block on Main street.

AS THE MODE DICTATES

Scattered among many new acquaintances in spring suits we meet with pleasure some tried, old friends, in suits of navy poiret twill, trimmed with braid and buttons. Here is one of them, living up to the dictates of the mode as to silhouette, length of coat and skirt and gaining new interest by virtue of a novel trimming of loose straps made of the material. Bands of silk braid about the waist, pass under these straps and six ball buttons serve to fasten and adorn the coat.

Lines to Be Remembered.

Bond Issue Of $60,000 For Schools

tion made by Mr. Waddell of the state audit bureau resulted in Mr. Goggin being declared correct. The appropriation for schools was lumped together instead of being apportioned.

James Nevins of Caller street and seven others were given licenses to build garages. Six applications for third class liquor licenses were granted, Messrs. Craig and McKeen voting in the negative.

Mayor Shea in a letter to the Council said that provision would be made to pay Salem $20,000 due on sewer rental charges. The Mayor also notified the Council that the employes of the city engineer's department would be kept at work.

City Solicitor Farnham told the Council that he had filed an answer to the suit of the Warren National bank to recover on back taxes on bank shares.

Chairman Percy Murray of the Board of Health appeared before the Council last night in support of a proposed ordinance giving his office full power to handle slaughter house permits. Much discussion ensued and a tie vote resulted on the proposed ordinance. The Council later voted to issue three licenses subject to the OK of the health department. Councillor McKeen, who championed the Board of Health, moved a reconsideration, and action goes over until next meeting.

The Council by a vote of 7 to 2 adopted the ordinance fixing the salary of Commissioner Fyfe at $1500, which will allow him to give his whole time to the relief of war veterans.

The water committee will devise ways and means for connecting two new houses in Gardner Park with water. It will require about 300 feet of pipe. Public sentiment favors the petition.

GIDEON HAYES

Gideon Hayes, for many years chief engineer at the Peter Sim Leather plant in Salem, died at his home on Cottage street yesterday, following an illness of several weeks. He was born in Belfast, Me., 79 years ago this month, having recently passed his birthday. His sister, Miss Sarah A. Hayes, aged 89, passed away about a month ago. Mr. Hayes is survived by a widow, two daughters, Mrs. Cameron McEwen and Mrs. Walter Beckett of this city, and a son, Herbert, now living in New Brunswick. George E. Hayes of Sutton street was a nephew.

EBEN KING STARS AGAINST HARVARD

Eben King, one of the few Peabody boys representing the world's largest leather city on varsity baseball teams, was much in the limelight at Harvard Wednesday when he played center field for the University of Maine against the Crimson players. Harvard won 3 to 0, allowing Maine but four hits and two of these were contributed by the Peabody boy. He also had a big day in the field, spearing five sun flies and making a sensational assist from right center, getting his man at third base. A number of his Peabody friends witnessed Eben's baseball effort and applauded him generously.

GRANT—HAYDEN

The marriage of Mary Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hayden of this city, and Basil Grant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grant of Salem, took place on Wednesday evening at St. John's rectory, Rev. Patrick F. Sullivan performing the ceremony. The bride wore a becoming gown of blue panne velvet with hat to match and her bridesmaid, Miss Nettie I. Grant, sister of the groom, was attired in blue Canton crepe with hat to match. The best man was Henry F. Hayden, brother of the bride. A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents at 18 Driscoll street. Leo Wall presided at the piano, Harry Berken gave several cornet solos, Miss Margaret Fitzgibbons rendered violin selections and vocal solos were given by Mrs. Margaret Hayden Toomey of Danvers.

MARY E. FITZPATRICK

Miss Mary E. Fitzpatrick, sister-in-law of Chief Michael H. Grady of the police, died at his home on State street early today, following a brief illness. Death was due to complications. She was 70 years old and a native of Charleston, S. C., where she lived during the Civil war and heard the bombardment of Fort Sumner. On the death of her father the family moved to Salem where her mother was born. Miss Fitzpatrick was for many years manager of the candy plant of the Geo. W. Pepper Co. of this city. She resigned her position to become housekeeper for Chief Grady on the death of her sister, Mrs. Grady, in 1906. She was a woman of sterling qualities, and was held in the highest esteem by all who knew her. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon.

PEABODY CLUB BANQUET

The Peabody Club held its annual banquet last night when 150 sat down at the tables in Masonic hall. Following the dinner the members returned to their own quarters in the Allen block, where the committee had provided a pleasing program of entertainers.

DUMP NUISANCE

Residents of Clement avenue are rightly exercised over the nuisance of a common dump being used at the extension of Putnam street, papers and refuse matter has been blown all over the neighborhood. The Board of health will be asked to take a hand in the case. Small wonder the property owners are up in arms.

PEABODY TOURNAMENT

The Peabody tournament now running at Manning's alleys will close tonight with "Ike" Holland and "Jack" Nelson rolling the final match. The tourney was a huge success and gave the fans a chance to see what the local favorites could do in a ten-string match. "Mike" Desmond went through the tourney without losing a match and is now the bowling champion of Peabody. A large crowd will be on hand to watch tonight's match, as Nelson must win from Holland to prevent being tied. If Holland wins he will be tied for second place. Scores this week:

Pickering Paragraphs

When coal mining is resumed, every consumer's bin in the country will practically be empty and every householder will place his order with the dealer at about the same time. What will be the result? Your imagination will not require stretching very much to picture the greatest jam in history; orders in excess of supply, confusion, waiting, impatience. Do you imagine that buying will be under the most favorable conditions at such a time? The present price of Egg, Stove and Nut is $15.00 per ton; cash price $14.50.

PEABODY ELKS WILL HOLD FLAG DAY EXERCISES

Flag Day, June 14, will be fittingly observed by Peabody lodge of Elks when the message of the flag will be taken into every schoolroom in the city. On that evening the wives, mothers and sisters of the local Elks will be given a banquet, and there will be an entertainment. William F. Barry, member of the school committee, and one of the lodge members, will give an oration.

The anniversary of the lodge on June 8 will see a large class of candidates initiated into the fraternity in City Hall, with many prominent Elks in attendance. Exalted Ruler Dr. Lawrence K. Kelley has appointed his committee in charge, who have elaborate plans underway.

Next Wednesday afternoon the womenfolk of the Elks will hold a whist party in the Elks' hall for the purpose of getting acquainted. The purpose of getting acquainted.

Diplomas For New Citizens

Diplomas will be awarded 11 members of the naturalization class of the evening school next Monday evening in the City Council chamber. Mayor William A. Shea will present the diplomas. The 11 men who passed the federal examiner on April 21 have been coached by Attorney Michael J. Sherry, city collector, who taught political science.

The exercises will be open to the public and there should be a large number on hand to welcome these newly eligible citizens who will be given their court papers next month.

The class was one of the evening school classses under the direction of Miss Katherine Logan, who has had unusual success in her work this year. The personnel of the class follows: Max Roltch, Verna Laakso, Hercules Kassiotes, James Perakas, Otto Lahti, Harry Weinstein, Oscar Wilson, Aristotle Zakas, Edward Wilson, Warren Peura, John Silvia.

RADIO TO MOTHER

George Gallagher, Peabody's wireless operator aboard the revenue cutter Tampa off the Grand Banks, didn't forget his mother, Mrs. Michael Gallagher of Clement avenue, on Mothers' Day. He sent a radiogram which was relayed by the radio station in New York city to Boston and Lynn and the message was 'phoned to Mrs. Gallagher.

The message read: "Love and best wishes for Mothers' Day, from George." Mrs. Gallagher was immensely pleased. George, who is 20, is probably the youngest wireless operator in the navy.

NO IDLE SERVICEMEN REPORTED IN PEABODY

Peabody has no unemployed service men who are able to work and want a job. This pleasing fact was adduced this week when Mayor Shea received a request for several men needed by the Underwriters Salvage Co. off of Lynnfield street, and was obliged to say no Peabody war veteran was unemployed. It is believed that this is a unique situation and it reflects much credit on the Mayor, the manufacturers who have given the service men preference and Councillors McKeen, Jones, Sullivan, Barnes, Barry, Eagan and Ryan. All of these Councillors have helped to place war veterans in jobs, assisting Commissioner Andrew Fyfe, who has proved a big success in his new field.

LEO B. SULLIVAN
Past Commander

Peabody manufacturers and individuals who have gone to the front for the service men in procuring jobs are the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co., L. B. Southwick Leather Co., Thayer-Foss Co., Underwriters Salvage Co., Mayor Shea, Rev. Robert A. Bakeman, Joseph E. Noyes, manager of the Thayer-Foss Co., and David Coombs, superintendent of Cedar Grove cemetery, who has been employing four war veterans.

Mayor Shea is being warmly praised by the Peabody Post, American Legion, for his whole-hearted work in their behalf, not only in obtaining work for the unemployed men, but also for seeing that government compensation was forthcoming to every deserving man. He has given strict orders to Commissioner Fyfe to spare no pains to see that justice was done every Peabody veteran. That the Legion Post is grateful for the Mayor's efforts is evidence by the following letter sent him by Commander Leo Sullivan:

Honorable William A. Shea,
City Hall,
Peabody, Mass.
Honorable Dear Sir:

In regard to the conversation of recent date between your Honor and Commander Sullivan, in reference to the unemployment situation and the

WILL PAY TRIBUTE TO DEAD FIREMEN

Peabody firemen will hold their annual memorial day exercises on Sunday, June 11, when the graves of 62 deceased members will be decorated. Mayor Shea and members of the City Council will witness the ceremonies. Spence's band will furnish music for the parade.

HERE FROM COLORADO

William Stockwell of Collbran, Colorado, is in Peabody on a visit to relatives at the home of Miss Nellie Stockwell on Main street. He will remain here for a few months recuperating his health, which has been somewhat affected by the high altitude of the western state.

NEW BUSINESS LOCATES HERE

The Dupont Leather Goods Inc. will engage in the manufacture of lumberman's and sport leather tops. The factory will be located at 14 Walnut street and from 30 to 40 operatives will be employed at the start.

The leather used in the lumbermen's tops is the only genuine waterproof leather on the market and is a local product, being manufactured by the Korn Leather Co. This business was originated by the Boston Rubber Shoe Co., a branch of the United States Rubber Co.

This leather has been given the severest practical, as well as laboratory tests and has proven its resistance to both water and oil. It is a full grain chrome tanned leather, waterproofed by an entirely new process, and is not stuffed with grease and oils, as is the case with other leathers, used for a smaller purpose.

It has the distinct advantage over leathers stuffed with grease and oil, in that it will stand freezing, and still remain soft and pliable, assuring comfort to the wearer. The business will be conducted by J. R. McAndrews, formerly with the U. S. Rubber Co.

GIVES STOMACH REMEDY TO FELLOW SUFFERERS

Mrs. Smithey, Columbus, O., Gives Her Friends Quick Stomach Relief with Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules

The best proof of the value of any remedy is the readiness with which those who are helped by it recommend it to their friends.

Those who have suffered the pangs and tortures of indigestion and dyspepsia are quick to acknowledge the prompt relief given by a brief use of Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules for indigestion, dyspepsia and constipation. They are so grateful for the relief they have obtained they not only recommend this valuable stomach treatment, but in many instances buy the capsules to give to fellow sufferers.

This is the case with Mrs. G. G. Smithey, 322 N. 11th St., Columbus, O., who writes: "Please find enclosed stamps for which send me two boxes Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules. I used them last summer in Plattsburg and they gave me such relief." A few days later Mrs. Smithey wrote again: "Received the two boxes of your Capsules and as I have several friends here who are bothered with their stomach I have given almost all my Capsules away for them to try; so send me two more boxes for which you will find stamps enclosed. Please send at once as I do not want to get out of them."

Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules relieve indigestion, dyspepsia, flatulence, catarrh of the stomach, acid stomach, biliousness, heartburn and heaviness and dizziness after eating. They are easy to take. Simply place one in your mouth and take a swallow of water. Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules are made of pure gelatin which promptly dissolves upon reaching the stomach, freeing the contents to do their work in restoring the digestive organs to normal.

On sale at Lawrence Bros., Peabody or 60 cents by mail postpaid for large package from Jaques Capsule Co., Plattsburg, N. Y.

Motor Truck For Parcel Post

A new Dodge truck, designed especially for the mail service, has just been added to the equipment of the Peabody postoffice, and will be used in the delivery of parcels post packages and also of mail in the outlying districts.

It will be operated by Carrier James A. Cronin, who has hitherto used a Ford truck for the purpose, following the discarding of the old-fashioned method of delivery by horse and carriage. Mr. Cronin, who is the youngest regular carrier in the Peabody office in point of service, deserves especial credit for the installation of the new piece of equipment. In addition to his salary, he has an annual government allowance for transportation service, and it was his desire to furnish a vehicle that would be a credit to the department that is responsible for this handsome addition to the equipment. It is his personal property.

The new truck has a covered body, with wired-in sides, and is provided with curtains that can be drawn in case of inclement weather, thus assuring protection for the parcels post packages and mail in every way.

Benefit To Aid War Veteran

The local aerie of the Eagles, Div. 11, A. O. H., and the American Legion are making arrangements in a united effort to raise some funds for the benefit of a disabled World war veteran who was a prominent and worthy member of each organization.

Arrangements are already complete to hold a joint benefit dance in the K. of C. hall and in the A. O. H. hall on Saturday evening, May 27. Tickets are now out and the same ticket will admit the holder to either hall. Modern dancing will be in order at the K. of C. hall and the old-time Irish dances at the A. O. H. hall with Irish music. The committee will stage a baseball game at Emerson park in the near future between the Peabody City team and the Navy baseball team from Fort Strong.

A full committee meeting will be held at the Legion hall this evening and the ten members from each organization are expected to be present.

John Cy McCarthy is general chairman of the committee and John Feeney secretary.

South Peabody

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Moore of Bartholomew street announce the engagement of their daughter Marion to Clayton M. Groves of East Park avenue, Lynn. Miss Moore is a graduate of the Peabody high school and is well known among her friends as a violinist. Mr. Groves is a graduate of classical high school and Bentley's School of Accounting. He is connected with the United Fruit Co. and is at present in Costa Rica, Central America.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Draper of Lynn street entertained the Misses Elizabeth and Ellen Bryan of Somerville last Sunday.

Ladies' Aid Society of the Lake Shore Park church held a supper at the church last night, which was well attended. A menu of baked beans, frankfurts and strawberry shortcake was served. The committee in charge was Mrs. Elizabeth Hetherington, chairman; Mrs. Gertrude Smith and Mrs. Edna Wilson.

The Neighborhood Club met at Davis hall Tuesday evening. This enterprising club is composed of 23 ladies who are interested in the B. I. A. They are making plans at the present time for a children's party to be held sometime in June, with Mrs. Frank Smith as chairman.

Mrs. Thomas Robinson of Middleton spent Tuesday with Mrs. Harry Morse, Maple street.

Sewso Club will meet with Mrs. Agnes Ripley, Tucker's court, next Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Legro of Lynn street are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a daughter, Virginia, born Monday.

Miss Ruth Hurt, a teacher at the Samuel Brown school, took a party of children on a picnic last Saturday morning. Lunch was carried and the children gathered wild flowers.

The Men's Club of the Second Congregational church held their annual ladies' night at the church Wednesday evening. A fine roast beef supper was served, with the following committee in charge: Holdsworth Gregson, Robert Bakeman, Carl Curtis, Charles Parker, Reginald Leach, Harry Morse, Herbert King, David Coombs, Thomas Whitworth, Joseph Fales and Carl Newhall. Judge Manning was the speaker of the evening and a musical trio from Danvers gave selections. This is the last meeting of the season.

Ship Rock Sewing Club met with Mrs. Georgia Raddin, Lynnfield street, Tuesday evening, and the usual fine supper served.

Miss Alice Bunce, county demonstration agent, spoke at the South school Wednesday afternoon at 3.30, under the auspices of the Mother-Teacher Association. Her topic was "The Diet Under Different Conditions." The South Peabody Dramatic Club are to present their latest play, "The Convict's Daughter," at the Baptist church, Salem, next Wednesday evening.

Dr. J. F. Jordan has gone to Philadelphia, where he will attend clinics at the hospitals.

Next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings the play called "Cinderella in Flower Land" will be given by 30 of the Sunday school pupils, and daily rehearsals are being held this week to make this a banner entertainment. There are all kinds of blossoms, sunbeams, rain drops, fairy, butterflies, robin, bumblebee, not leaving out Princess Marguerite and Prince Sunshine, with Mother Nature to watch over them all. There are 18 different songs intermingled with a love story and every one that attends will have an evening of enjoyment as well as help swell the picnic fund. Miss Ella Reed and Mrs. Nellie Annis are directing the children and Mrs. Sadie Morse is accompanist. Ice cream will be on sale each evening and the children are asked to come Tuesday evening.

William Julian returned to Virginia Tuesday after a two weeks' furlough.

Miss Annie McCarthy, principal of the Samuel Brown school, has received a certificate from the National Education Association for a 100 per cent. enrollment of the teaching force of the school.

A walk through Lake Shore Park at the present time is worth while. Signs of prosperity are shown by the houses in process of building, as well as several newly painted homes. The numerous trees in blossom and well kept gardens also add to the community.

The Ward One Twilight League has had its first week of baseball and by the crowd which has attended these games there leaves no doubt as to its success. Two new teams have been added to the league—High Street and the All Stars. The board of appeal represents the six teams. President of the league is Harold Millbury; secretary, Harvey Court; treasurer, Robert Bakeman. It is requested by the management that pedestrians will not cross the Cashman garden, which has already been planted. Mr. Cashman made it possible for the community baseball grounds to be obtained and they wish to give him a square deal.

An interesting entertainment with educational value will be held at Samuel Brown school next Thursday afternoon at 2.45. A band of South Dakota Indians in costume will give the young and old a perfect idea of their history, music, village customs and home life. Little Wastewin, an adopted Indian princess, will appear in two different costumes and illutrate the dances of the Indian children of the plains. This lecture comes highly recommended and will please the older people as well as children. The public is invited to attend and a small admission fee will be charged. The eighth grade pupils will conduct a food sale at the same time, including ice cream, cake and home-made candy.

Cards have been sent out announcing the marriage of Miss Mildred LeCain of Summit street to Leslie Peckham of Lynn street, which was solemnized Sept. 27. Mr. and Mrs. Peckham are residing on Broadway, Lynn.

Lake Shore Park Church

Ralph T. Templin, Pastor. Rev. Joseph W. Moore, missionary from the Philippines, will be at both services Sunday. This will be a splendid opportunity to find out what some of the centenary money has been doing. Mr. Moore spent five years on the islands and is engaged in further preparation necessary to continue his work there. He is now a graduate student at Boston University. Morning worship at 10.45. Mr. Moore will also talk before the Sunday school at 12.15. J. A. Clift of Bartholomew street will lead the Men's class with a lesson on "The Good Samaritan." The evening lecture will be at 7.30, one-half hour later than the usual hour for service. It will be illustrated by a collection of beautiful colored slides that Mr. Moore has secured during his travels on the islands. Everybody welcome.

Prayer meeting this evening at 7.45. Subject, the fifth mark of a real Christian, "The Power of a Great Experience."

West Peabody

Miss Maud MacDonald has resumed her position as bookkeeper for R. W. Bradley of Boston after an extended rest at her home on Goodale street.

The West Peabody fire company was sent for Tuesday morning to put out the flames on the roof of a home on Birch street.

Miss Hilda Monson has returned to school after a few days' illness at her home on Winona street.

Prof. McCoy of the Essex Agricultural College has formed a garden club for the boys of West Peabody. At the first meeting, held at the West school recently, the following officers were elected: President, Joseph Kowalski; vice president, Raymond Bradstreet; secretary, Beni Gelott. The name being chosen for this club is "The United Agricultural Club."

The Ta-ta-pochon Camp Fire Girls met at the home of Miss Esther Leach Tuesday evening. This was a ceremonial meeting.

The Young Men's Social Club met at the club room, corner of Lowell and West streets, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haten and two sons, Robert and Edward of Melrose, spent Sunday with Mrs. L. G. Moulton.

Miss Marion Moulton of Swampscott spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Richard Stocker on Lowell street.

Harold Preston has been confined to his home on Newbury street the past few days with illness.

The many friends of Donald Durkee will be pleased to hear that he is able to be out once more after his long illness at his home on Newbury street.

The West Peabody Grange will work the third and fourth degrees this evening (Friday) at the school hall. Deputy Arthur F. Cunningham of Newburyport will be present. There will be a baked bean and salad supper in the vestry of the church at 6.30 Friday evening for Grangers only.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will meet at the West school Tuesday afternoon, May 23, at 2 o'clock.

West Church

Morning service at 10.30. Sunday school at 11.30. Junior Christian Endeavor at 3.30. Senior Christian Endeavor at 6.30. Evening worship at 7.30.

The weekly prayer meeting will be held in the ladies' parlor Thursday evening at 7.45.

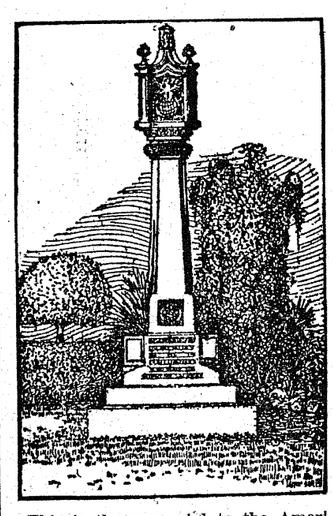
Wonderful Pageant of War



After the Civil war had been fought and won, the soldiers of the Army of the Potomac and of Sherman's army, to the number of more than 200,000, marched in a grand review through the streets of Washington. This crowning ceremony of the war, reviewed by President Johnson and by Grant and Sherman and other generals, was the supreme pageant of all time to the soldiers and the people who had fought in or supported the war for the Union. It was an American pageant pure and simple; it was viewed by the representatives of foreign nations but curiously, and with respect for the sorely proved and now triumphant power of the American republic. For two whole days, the 23rd and 24th of May, 1865, regiment after regiment, corps after corps, cavalry, artillery, infantry, subsidiary branches of the service, the sanitary commission—the Civil war equivalent and forerunners of the Red Cross—swung down Pennsylvania avenue in the full pride of their war-stained uniforms of blue, and bearing the tattered flags of a thousand battles. No one who witnessed that great final parade will ever forget it.

To Those in France

This is the memorial to the Americans who died in the World war, erected in New Orleans by the American Legion posts of that city. Opposite the memorial inscription at the base of the shaft is the first verse of "In Flanders Fields," and a bed of poppies surrounds the monument. At the top, where the world-surmounting eagle of the marines is shown, are also, on the other sides, the emblems of the army, navy and air service. The lantern effect is to carry out the idea of the dead holding on high the torch of patriotism.

Deeds Will Be Remembered.

The World war veterans join with those of the Civil war in Memorial services with a more personal and sympathetic feeling than they knew five years ago. The Civil war is a more real event than it was when they studied about it in their school history or even when they heard its tales as told by those who had fought its battles. As they miss and mourn for their own lost comrades, they realize a little the grief that the loss of thousands in the other war brought to every community. They have a reverence for and a nearness to the aged veterans that they did not have before, and if they have imagination they will look forward and see themselves advanced in years and will wonder if their own services will be remembered. They may be sure that they will not be forgotten. America never forgets her soldier sons.

Youths in Civil War Armies.

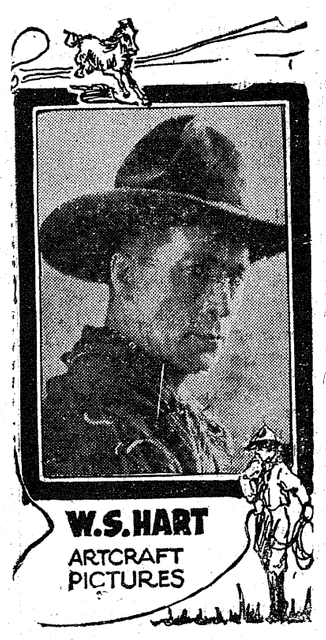
The fact that thousands of men are still alive who fought in the Civil war is perhaps one of the most illuminating facts which we can find about it. For it shows that boys, mere children, in fact, were impelled to enter the struggle by emotions strong enough to carry them through it, and it shows that the cause was desperate enough to need them.

Hub Paper Takes Fling At Peabody's City Autos

Shoe Topics, a Boston publication devoted to the shoe and leather industry, takes a slap at Peabody's city form of government in its issue of May 12, declaring that the excessive tax rate for 1922 must be laid to the fact that there are too many office holders and automobiles on the city payroll. The article does not speak of the new streets and schoolhouses built under the city form of government. The article so far as it relates to Peabody is reproduced herewith for what it is worth:

"A BURDENED CITY"

"Peabody, which is the greatest leather city in the country, and possibly in the world, makes a rather sorry showing in its present condition of indebtedness. According to the report of the Massachusetts State Commissioner of Taxation, that city is owing over $1,200,000 and with a total valuation of something like $21,000,000.



"It is only within the past few years that Peabody became a city, but it is evident that the city form of government is not working out to the best interests of the taxpayers. Under the town form of government there would be no such great burden placed upon the people of Peabody.

"High taxes mean less business in every community and this will be evident in Peabody and other cities where there is so little regard for the expenditures. No one can build where taxes take all, so to speak, and no one will start a business of any kind where the taxes are sure to eat up the profits. This is to be demonstrated in the very near future and, in fact, is being demonstrated now in the lack of building operations and the lack of new enterprises that would naturally spring up under fair conditions.

"In small cities like Peabody there are too many office-holders and too many offices. The number should be cut down by one-half at least. Every touring car should be sold and officials compelled to walk as other people do. Automobiles are becoming a source of considerable expense in every city, where officers are allowed to have them, and the only remedy in sight is to get rid of them at once and thus put an end to joy riding at the expense of the citizens."

POPULAR BILL HART HERE TONIGHT IN HIS LATEST WESTERN DRAMA

A vivid, unusual story, a star of undoubted merit, a succession of exquisite settings, the fastest bit of gunplay yet recorded, all superbly directed and photographed, is a tabloid version of William S. Hart's new picture, "Travelin' On," which will be the big attraction the Strand will offer for today and Saturday.

"Travelin' On" is a virile typification of Arizona as it was in its most picturesque days, when might was right, and a highly-strung trigger finger dictated the law. It introduces many characters which long since have ceased to exist, chief among them being the firey zealot, traveling from town to town in a wagon painted with Biblical phases, preaching the word of God, in the face of most determined opposition. In this, and in many other respects, the picture is truly an epic of the west, for it faithfully preserves for posterity the west as it was and as it will never be again. In the leading role of "J. B." Mr. Hart gives an excellent portrayal and his supporting cast is powerful. Ethel Grey Terry is his leading woman. A Century comedy, with "Brownie," the wonder dog, and George Walsh in a thrilling chapter of his serial play, "With Stanley in Africa," will be the other attractions for today.

Viola Dana in "Life's Darn Funny," an adaption of the Saturday Evening Post story, "Caretakers Within," will top the double feature bill for Sunday evening. Nazimova, the famous emotional actress, in "Billions," will be the second number on the bill for Sunday.

As the principal attraction for next Monday and Tuesday the Strand announces the showing of Richard Barthelmess in his first own starring vehicle, "Tol'able David." There is no doubt but that Mr. Barthelmess is one of the most likable personalities of today. "Tol'able David" is a simple story of West Virginia mountaineers, from the gifted pen of Joseph Hergesheimer. It first appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, and has since been published in book form. Barthelmess plays the part of a young mountain lad upon whose shoulders is suddenly cast new and heavy responsibilities. It is a picture of profound interest, of sweeping suspense and powerful dramatic scenes. Seldom has a picture so filled with genuine heart interest reached the screen. For those who look for the evolution of the motion picture to the plane where it will have all the charm and yet all of the simplicity of the worlds foremost short stories, "Tol'able David" will be a delight.

"The Man with Two Mothers," a Goldwyn feature, starring Cullen Landis, Sylvia Breamer and Mary Alden, the famous "mother" in "The Old Nest," will be the second feature for Monday. This production combined with "Tol'able David" makes up a great bill.

Next Tuesday evening the Ladies' Auxiliary of the American Legion will put on a show at the Strand, consisting of vaudeville and pictures.

Don't Let Cats Prey on Birds

Division of Fisheries and Game,
State House, May 10, 1922.

To the Editor:

The breeding season for wild birds is at hand, and from the middle of May to the middle of August is a time of great destruction to bird life, the mother birds being confined to the nests, and the fledglings as yet unable to care for themselves.

While some of the mortality is due to injurious birds and animals and exposure to unfavorable weather conditions, the greatest single living agency in the destruction is the unrestrained house cat.

At this time the officials of this division wish to impress this fact on the people throughout the state, and we trust you can give it space in your paper. Ask the owner of every cat to keep it under such control that it will be impossible for it to catch ground nesting birds or the young birds leaving the nests, during the critical period (May 15 to August 15).

Appreciating your help to the cause by calling this to the attention of your readers, I am,

Very truly yours,
WILLIAM C. ADAMS,
Director.

CIVIC PRIDE

In every city and town there are people who are always ready to help so that their residing place will be benefitted. Not many years ago this spirit was more pronounced than to-day. Before the World war it showed itself far more than at the present time caused, no doubt, by the feeling of distrust which permeates the whole world. Everybody for themselves was the cry, and doubtless it has been necessity in a large majority of cases. But any community must have those who will sacrifice their money and time that the public may benefit. It goes with the success of every community. Such people care little what is said, for they believe themselves above those who slur at everything that is not a direct benefit to themselves. Selfishness cannot and will not guide the majority, for if so such a community goes backward. Peabody in the past has had many public spirited men whose deeds still exist. George Peabody was followed by many others. We are not without them today, and if the history of the many drives during the war and since the war were spoken of, we would be gratified to know there is an element in Peabody where everything which will better our city will be cared for. The war spirit of selfishness is fast waning. With the prospects of better business here, we will return to pre-war conditions of more intensive civic pride. For at least five years it has been a struggle for existence, but the clouds are breaking, and we will come back to ourselves, a community where the majority will work with the view that a city worth living in, is worth working for.

BETTER BUSINESS

There can be no denying the fact that the leather business shows signs of awakening from a lethargy which has had its sway for two years or more. It has been a long and hard pull but as in the past our tanners kept above water and everything now points to a reward for their patience. Business in normal times has its difficulties. It goes with all organized activity. One often hears the name of this or that successful business man as being lucky. The credit that goes to him for being successful would be taken away by those who have tried and not reached the goal. We are put on this earth, some to be successful, others to fail. Why it is so can only be answered by our Maker. The few who have passed through the excessive dullness and come out well equipped to continue, are a small minority. The others who have struggled and almost in vain, can now feel that with prospects ahead which warrant a new struggle, will do so and win. It has been so many times before. Peabody tanners for at least 60 years have succeeded in keeping the name of Tannery Town in the foreground. That they will continue to do so goes without saying.

THE SEWER AGAIN

If the sewer question between Salem and Peabody could be settled, and settled agreeable to both parties, the public and local newspapers would have less to talk and write about. Now we read that the State Board of Health will make a thorough investigation of conditions and charge the expense to the municipalities. The State Board of Health is an all powerful institution. History does not read they have hung individuals, but they have been known to hang up cities if they did not behave in a healthy manner. It is a wonder to us that there are any people in Salem left to tell the tale. They have been impregnated, vaccinated, and have tolerated North river for 70 years, and yet the records show that instead of being unhealthy, Salem people live long lives. The investigation that is to come will show what every one knows who has looked into the sewer question. If the pipes are kept clear they will carry off all the sewerage that both cities can produce. When not clear, the North river, which is older than most of us, and therefore should have discretion, has obligingly helped out. Investigations may come and go, but the truth of the matter is our sewerage must flow some place and the Atlantic ocean is perfectly willing to care for it.

OUR WATER SUPPLY

About two months ago Engineer Emerson was contemplating sending a message to the Council enumerating the difficulties which confronted the city from a water standpoint. Unlike other years the supply ponds were low at a time when in other years they were nearly full. Rain and plenty of it was needed. That rain came and came in plenty. Instead of requiring added water supplies we are today shaped up with the ponds full. It appears to us a lucky solution. May we always be as fortunate. Should it be otherwise, we will face a problem that should be solved before and not after it comes to us. With our other debt, it cannot be solved this year or next, and continued good fortune must favor us until such time as we make the right move for a larger water supply.

OF PERCALE AND DIMITY

Polka dotted percale and white checked dimity make this pretty dress for little missy. It is in two pieces. The blouse of the dimity has a Peter Pan collar and turn-back cuffs adorned with feather stitching of silk floss. A white silk cord ending in small tassels is laced across the front of the bodice and a patch pocket at one side maintains that practical things can be pretty.

THE RIGHT THING at the RIGHT TIME

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

MR. AND MRS.

How much the wife is dearer than the bride.—Lord Lyttleton.

NEVER send any sort of formal invitation to Mrs. John Brown and not to her husband when other men are invited to the event. That is, it is not in good form to invite either a husband or wife to a formal party without inviting the other when persons of both sexes are invited. If you are giving a tea for your daughter, and no men are invited, then you may invite Mrs. Brown and not Mr. Brown.

It is not customary to ask a man or woman to be your house guest without including the husband or wife in the invitation. You would hardly ask a man to spend a week-end at your home without asking his wife; also, unless because of absence from town or some other reason it was quite patent that she could not be present.

Never ask a husband or wife to a dinner party where both sexes are present without asking the other. Suppose Mr. Brown belongs to a musical club, to which musical folk of both sexes belong, and the members of this club give a dinner. If Mr. Brown has a wife, then she should be invited, and so, also, should the husbands and wives of the other members. However, if only men or only women belonged to the club, then the dinner might be given for the members without including the husbands or wives.

Any sort of announcement is sent to both husband and wife, even where only one is known. This applies to announcements of weddings and births.

A reader writes to say that she is planning a wedding anniversary and that, as a part of the festivities, she wishes to have a dinner at which just the ones who were in the original wedding party should be present. Now it happens that since the wedding one of the bridesmaids and two of the ushers have been married. May the ushers not be asked without their wives and may the bridesmaid not be asked without her husband?

No. The invitations should be sent to the couple in both cases. Not to do so would be to show real discourtesy to the persons invited, as well as to the ones to whom they are married.

However, it should be remembered that married folk, even though they are "newlyweds," are not seated next to each other at parties. They should not of their own accord seek to monopolize each other's society. At a dance married folk, though they usually dance with each other rather than with any other person, should show their sociableness by dancing with others present. Women used sometimes to decline to waltz with any one but their husbands, but now, if a married woman dances at all, she usually draws no such line.

If a husband and wife are invited to a party of any sort and it is necessary for one to regret, this does not mean that the other need to do so also. If a husband is absent on business a wife may accept an invitation to a dinner party, dance, wedding or other function, though, if she prefers not to attend alone, she may claim as her excuse her husband's absence.

ROUND ABOUT

No doubt the automobile drivers know what the myriad of dots mean about Peabody square and vicinity. Should some of the boys who went to Lexington see them it would be a case of Indians and something doing. Now that we have prohibition, no autoist would do anything but pass these circles, in the proper manner. But some years ago when John Barleycorn was alive, some fellow would attempt to navigate the circles by passing each one first right then left. We certainly are trotting fast, rather too fast for us who are used to guide posts with Winchester 40 miles away.

There is some kind of paint which will stick to cement. It may not be made in this country, but possibly a lost art and buried in the ruins of a Grecian city. Under present conditions the city should hire a master painter who is left handed and he could keep them white.

Buxton's Hill is nearly a thing of the past. Once noted for sight seeing, it was sighted by business, with the result that it is spread about on the roads as far as Portland, Maine (not Oregon). Whether it is the intention to continue getting rock below the surface or level of the street near by has not been announced. We are positive its neighbors on Lowell street will be thankful when it is all over. Some one said there was a possibility of gold, silver, copper or mother earth being found there later.

Another form of mother earth in the shape of sand is found in several localities about the city. Business is no respecter of land, therefore contractors are selling and using the sand at dollars a load, which figures about a large fraction of a cent a particle. It takes sand to build these days.

* * *

Are you making any hootch these days. If so, watch out for Inspector Dive Pierce and his gang of door breakers. Bolts don't bother them, and the various ways the hootch man has of hiding his production are easily found by the liquor squad. But seizing a still each day when two are produced, does not figure out well by arithmetic.

* * *

No one ever supposed automobiles were as cheap as tax papers declare them to be. Many are worthless if taken as declared. To sell them would be different, however.

We note in a Boston paper this week where men who were employed putting out forest fires struck for more money. Speaking of civic pride, this goes one better or more. Such men as that should be deported to Russia, where they could not have a fire.

The Rogers estate has not been sold so far as we know. The latest is a local man who would organize a golf club there. It would only require $100,000, and why hesitate? Peabody golfers could have their daily round before breakfast if they had money enough left after buying the estate to get the breakfast. A dandy place for a golf club, in fact for anybody or thing where the price is forthcoming.

John Macdonald, an older brother of Elliott L. Macdonald, passed away at his Dorchester home last week. Born and spending his boyhood days in Peabody, he left here to enter the employ of the Magee Furnace Co. as a boy. He retained the position 50 years, up to the time of his death.

The Wetan Leather Co. burned out Saturday afternoon in Danversport formerly occupied the shop in the rear of 96 Foster street. It is likely they will come back to their first love, for shops are plentier today than during the war, which compelled them to emigrate to Danversport.

A second time the factory owned and forsaken by the Peabody Leather Co. slipped a cog. The Danvers light concern will stay in Danvers. The third time should not fail.

The line dividing Salem and Peabody in the vicinity of Aborn, Charlotte and Pierpont streets runs diagonally and places several houses partly in each city. It seems that something should be done to place the dividing line in the middle of the streets. If the cities agree as well on this question as the sewer, it will be easy.

Work is being pushed on the office building at the Danvers Bleachery and by next fall the most modern power plant in this vicinity will be installed and running. This bleachery which has held its plant for 50 years or more will be thoroughly modernized.

One of my readers has called attention to the fact that the first woman to represent the citizens on the school committee was Miss Frances Kitteridge, daughter of a Dr. Kitteridge, formerly a practitioner in Peabody. She died some years ago in the west. The Enterprise stated last week that Mrs. Mary C. Harrington was the only woman to be a member of the local school board.

THE GENUINE BAKELITE

From a soldier in the A. E. F. Army of occupation, the manufacturers of the WDC Triangle Bakelite received this: "The Bakelite mouth piece has stood the test. It is much stronger than the amber mouth piece that the German meerschaum pipes have. Many Germans believe that it is a real amber stem. While the pipe has been scraped and scraped, nothing but the top of the bowl is worn out." We have nothing to add to this, except to say come into our store and take a look at the WDC Triangle Bakelite.

A hundred years ago a wealthy bachelor, named Paige, who lived near Albion, R. I., gave a party; one of the young ladies left a glove. Mr. Paige returned it with the following note: "If from your glove you take the letter G, that glove is love and that I have for thee." The young lady replied: "If from your name you take the letter P, that Paige is age and that won't do for me." The story is vouched for by a friend of the Outlook, whose grandmother had it at first hand.—The Outlook.

Noise Must Follow Explosion.

No man has ever made a noiseless engine or a noiseless gun. The one would make work in a mill or forge almost a pleasure, while the other would remove one of the horrors of warfare. Incidentally, of course, the latter would be a great asset to the strategist. Silencers have been invented for engines, but they only reduce noise. They do not kill it, and, though smokeless powder has almost been attained, a noiseless explosion is a thing unheard of. When there is a burst, there is a bang.

M., at my office, Room 3, No. 81 Washington Street, in Salem, in said County of Essex, all the right, title and interest which Spiros Kallelis of Peabody, in said County had (not exempt by law from attachment or levy on execution) on the 14th day of November, A. D. 1921, at 30 minutes past 12 o'clock P. M., (being the time the same was attached on Mesne Process) in and to the following described real estate.

The land and buildings situated on the corner of Walnut and English Streets in said Peabody and bounded and described as follows, viz:

Northerly by land of the Greek Hellenic Orthordox Society; Westerly by English Street; Southerly by Walnut Street and Easterly by land of owner unknown.

WALTER H. BROWN,
(M-12-19-26) Deputy Sheriff.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed, given by Alice L. Montague to John H. Martin, dated August 1, 1921 and recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 2491, Page 145, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage deed and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction on the mortgaged premises, on SATURDAY, the twenty-seventh day of May, 1922 at 10:00 o'clock (Daylight Saving Time) in the forenoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely:

The land in said Peabody, (in that part of said Peabody known as West Peabody) Essex County, Massachusetts, bounded and described as follows:

Commencing at a point in the southerly line of Southwick Avenue, which is eleven and 5-10 (11.5) feet easterly from the northeasterly corner of Lot 17 shown on a plan recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 2395, Page 296;

Thence running easterly by said Southwick Avenue, ninety-one and 5-10 (91.5) feet to a point in said line which is three (3) feet easterly from the dividing line between Lots 18 and 19 as shown on a plan of "Pinehurst", West Peabody Highlands, sub-division of J. Oscar Goodale land, W. H. Southwick, owner, H. A. Conant, C. E., dated October—1917 and recorded with said Registry of Deeds, Book 2395, Page 296;

Thence turning and running southerly on a line parallel with and at all points three (3) feet easterly from the dividing line between Lots 18 and 19, two hundred forty-one and 95-100 (241.95) feet to a point in the boundary line between said Lot 19 and land of Walter Martin, which point is three (3) feet easterly from the point of intersection of said boundary line of said Martin's land;

Thence turning and running westerly by said Martin's land sixty-seven and 3-10 (67.3) feet to a point in said Martin's boundary line which is thirty-five and 7-10 (35.7) feet easterly from the southeasterly corner of Lot 17;

Thence turning and running northwesterly but more northerly two hundred forty-one and 1-10 ft. to said Southwick Avenue and the point of beginning.

Meaning to convey the greater part of Lot 18 and a three (3) foot strip off the westerly side of Lot 19 as shown on said plan, and being all of Lot C shown on a sub-division plan of Lots 17, 18, and 19, recorded herewith.

Said premises will be sold subject to a mortgage of $1200 given by John H. Martin to Ernest L. Noera. The subscriber is advised that the balance of the principal amount due on said mortgage is now $1000. Said premises will be sold also subject to any and all unpaid taxes, tax liens, and assessments.

Terms: Three Hundred (300) Dollars at the time of sale and balance in ten (10) days.

Dated at Lynn, Mass., May 4, 1922.

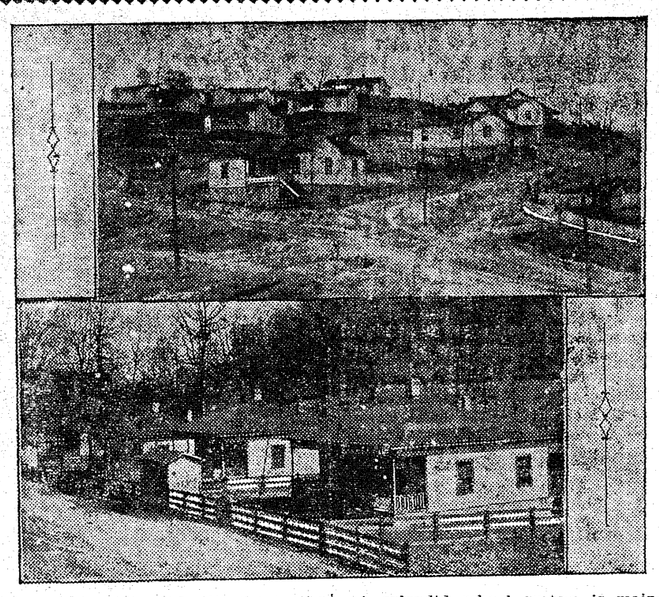
Chas. Newhall Respected For His Character

The funeral of Charles R., son of the late James B. and Angeline E. (Galeucia) Newhall, took place Tuesday from his late residence, 37 County street, and was largely attended by relatives and friends who gathered to pay the last tribute of respect. Rev. Robert A. Bakeman officiated. The flowers were profuse and beautiful, among them being a standing wreath from the office of the National Calfskin Co., where his daughter Marion is employed; a wreath from the N. E. O. P., of which he was treasurer, and many other floral tributes from relatives and friends.

He leaves beside his widow to mourn his loss two sons, Ralph E. and Carl A., employed at the U. S. Machinery plant in Beverly, and Marion M., who is employed in the office of the National Calfskin Co. in Peabody, and two sisters, Mrs. Georgie A. Copeland of Lynnfield and Mrs. George E. Parker of Peabody, and two brothers, Frank E. Newhall, the well-known ice dealer, and Dr. A. L. Newhall of Lynn.

Burial was in the family lot in Cedar Grove cemetery by Undertaker Harry Stockwell.

The bearers were Charles A. Copeland, Oliver E. Parker, Rupert and Raymond Newhall, Horace and Perley Bodge, all nephews of the deceased. The committal service was read by the Rev. Robert A. Bakeman.



LEO GUILD

The calendar committee of Leo Guild announce a May party to be held in K. of C. hall Monday evening, May 29. It will be an informal affair and as it comes on the eve of a holiday a large attendance is anticipated. Mrs. D. J. Conroy is hostess for that evening and she and her committee are planning to make the affair one of the most enjoyable of the season. A whist party is planned at the home of Mrs. John Shanahan early in June, the proceeds to aid the charity work of the Guild.

Mrs. John F. Cummings has returned from a trip to Florida. She motored over the road in a Marmon sport car with a party of friends and among other places visited Palm Beach, Jacksonville and Miami.

OAKWOOD, WEST VIRGINIA

A typical mining town of the New River Company, located in Fayette County, sixty miles from Charleston, the State Capital.

Oakwood is located adjacent to the beautiful village of Oak Hill. There are 137 houses in the town where more than 225 men are employed as miners in the mines adjacent to the town.

The upper picture shows the older portion of the town which is made up of comfortable four and five room houses renting from $7.60 to $12.90 per month.

The lower picture shows a group of the new houses which are of four and five rooms, equipped with electric lights and running water and which rent from $8.00 to $12.85 per month. Each house is accompanied by a fine garden spot which many of the men use for raising vegetables and garden truck.

A splendid school system is maintained in Oakwood as well as Sunday schools and Churches. The White Sunday school during the past year has had an average attendance of 82, while the colored school has had an average attendance of 24.

Amusement Parks, recreation halls and other places of amusement are maintained by the Company for the men and their families.

Coal is supplied the men at the rate of $2.00 per ton.

A splendid baseball park is maintained by the Company for the benefit of the men, and during the baseball season, many interesting and exciting games are played by the teams from the nearby towns.

ESSEX AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL

Since the class work in the agricultural department closed on April 28th, most of the boys have gone to their projects for full time or have obtained acceptable agricultural work for the summer. There remain only fifteen students who have been unable to place themselves satisfactorily. Opportunities are coming in daily and soon all will be at work.

The ownership project is gaining ground with the boys, many of whom have hired places and are thus proprietors. This kind of a project offers many advantages. The ownership project in agriculture is a farming enterprise carried on at or near home. The student studies and makes plans for his work during the winter at the school. When spring comes the work is begun and is carefully supervised by the agricultural instructors, who make frequent visits to the boy's home. The student is required to keep a diary record of all operations connected with his project and submit weekly reports to the principal and director of the school. Accurate accounts of all business transactions are also required.

Seasonable Notes

The so-called calyx spary is now in order. This should be done when petals have two-thirds fallen and before the calyx closes. The spray should consist of 2½ gallons lime sulphur, 2 to 3 lbs. of lead arsenate powder, and 1 pt. "Black Leaf 40" to 100 gallons of water. It is the most important spray for coddling injury and should be thoroughly applied and under good pressure.

"Black Leaf 40" may be found very helpful in the control of lice and leaf hoppers on the roses at this time. Add one teaspoon of "Black Leaf 40" to a gallon of water in which has been dissolved an inch cube of hard soap. The soap aids in spreading and sticking the spray.

Ammoniacal copper carbonate is a very useful and effective type of spray against disease such as rusts and blights of ornamental shrubs and plants. It is especially valuable on these, because, unlike Bordeaux mixture, it does not change the appearance of the foliage, being practically colorless. The formula for a small quantity is ½ ounce copper carbonate, 1-3 pint strong ammonia, 5 gallons water.

CHOIR OF 30 VOICES AT ST. PAUL'S SUNDAY EVE.

A choir of 30 voices will augment the musical program at St. Paul Episcopal church Sunday evening under the direction of Francis Armory Spurr, formerly organist of the church and now of the Holy Name church in Swampscott. Lauriston Mackenzie, boy soloist, will sing two selections. The Holy Name choir is admitted one of the best in this district. Mr. Spurr, a graduate of Peabody high school, was for over ten years organist at St. Paul's, and had a number of pupils in music. He is a teacher at Burdett college, Lynn, in addition to his profession of music. Rev. Dr. Beal, the rector, will give a special sermon.

JUSTICE SERVICE COOPERATION

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

COAL

The nation-wide coal strike has been in progress about a month and during that time coal production has been equal to one-half of the usual quantity. The stocks of coal on hand have been large enough to prevent any serious interference with industry or the railroads, except that several thousand railroad men usually at work on coal transportation are now idle.

We have learned considerable about coal since this shut down has been talked about, and there does not seem to be much difference of opinion about the main facts of the coal situation. We know that one great trouble in the bituminous mines is too many mines and too many men at work. As a result, both the capital invested and the men employed are idle a great part of the time. Even in the big year 1918 the men lost 59 days, or 20% of their working time. In 1919 they lost 111 days. In 1920 it was equally bad and during the past thirty years the mines have been idle an average of 93 days in each year. A somewhat similar condition exists in the anthracite mines.

To the miner this means loss of earning power; he contracts irregular habits; he wanders about looking for work where there is no job for him. To the mine owner it means high costs per ton, added expense in the conduct of business, more costs in keeping machinery and mines in order. To the railroads it means heavy work at certain seasons, many coal cars idle in spring and summer, loss of income when coal is not moving. To the consumer it means high cost coal, for the coal industry must be paid for the 93 days it is idle, as well as the 215 days during which it is at work.

The capacity of the bituminous mines in men and machinery is 16,000,000 tons each week. The greatest production known in any single week was 13,146,000 tons. In other words, our capacity in men and machinery is not only greater than our general average needs, but much greater than our highest needs.

One remarkable fact is that except during two war years, there has always been a large surplus of labor in the coal industry. It has constantly attracted more labor in spite of these bad labor conditions. Probably this is on account of the high pay while at work, together with the many days of idleness. Men have been attracted toward the mines where they can loaf 93 days in the year and yet earn a living. But this has a very bad influence upon the habits and character of the workers. The whole economic principle is wrong. The higher the wages, the more men are attracted and the more the wages have to be divided.

The remedy is simply one of obeying the Economic Law; the law of "the greatest good to the greatest number;" the law that will in time work out that "greatest good" which is the lowest price of coal possible, bringing the most good to the most people. The miners have the remedy in their own hands. If there are too many men looking for work, if there is always a surplus of labor, some of them should leave it and find work elsewhere. This is not a severe or unusual remedy. Suppose there were too many doctors, or lawyers, or school teachers in Peabody. What would they do? Some of them would go to work at something else. They would have to. They could not demand support from the public. Every single one of us is responsible for finding out for himself whre he can be useful. It is the Economic Law.

Some people think that the Government should take over the coal industry. What should the Government do? Should it continue to divide up the work among too many mines and too many men? Should it pay a full year's pay for 215 days' work and interest upon the capital invested in too much machinery? This would continue the high price of coal which the public will not accept. Should it organize the industry as an efficient factory is organized and compel one-third of the miners to find other work? If this is the remedy the miners can apply it themselves without the help of the Government. Wouldn't they rather do it themselves than have the Government do it?

It is a dangerous thing to give the Government power to tell men where they must work or where they must not. Every free man in this country should claim for himself the right to choose his own work, and to live his own life as he chooses, provided he lives in accordance with the laws of the land. We cannot claim to work at any occupation that is overcrowded with workers.

The coal industry concerns the public very greatly. The public pays the bill. What you and I spend for coal prevents us from buying many other things we need. The condition of the miner and his family is a matter of very serious concern. No family can raise children to be good citizens under the conditions surrounding the life of a coal miner. The great public is waking up to the fact that all industry must be based upon the Economic Law. It is waking up because it always has to pay the bill.

LADY ELLEN CIRCLE HAS 100 MEMBERS

Among the fraternal societies which is fast making progress in Peabody is Lady Ellen Circle, Foresters of America, which last week initiated a class of 25 candidates, bringing their roster up to over 100 members in the short year they have been organized. Mrs. Mary McGinn, wife of Patrolman Philip E. McGinn, is chief companion of the circle and the degree work was under her direction. Next week Thursday the circle will hold its first anniversary dance. There have been two deaths in the circle the past year.

PERSONAL

Mrs. William Hajassen (nee Marshall) formerly of Peabody, now of Reno, Nevada, is the guest of Mrs. George Morgan, 9 Waters street. Mrs. Hajassen and husband will shortly sail for Germany to visit relatives and to open business.

TANNERS EARN LESS THAN 7%

(By ENERGY)

The Tanners' Council, an organization composed of most of the leading tanners of the country, met last week. J. Willard Helburn of the Helburn Leather Co. of Salem and Gloversville read a paper which attracted attention. After examining the books of 42 tanners who make 60 per cent. of the total output in the United States, during a period from 1912 to 1920, a profit of 6.92 per cent. was realized.

* * *

Such being the case, it seems tanners are not in clover. The profits as compared with many other branches of business is much smaller. The Central Leather Co., which when organized was the United States Leather Co., has not spattered dividends about as have corporations as large in other business. The American Hide and Leather Co., a corporation in upper leather, as compared with the Central Leather in sole leathers, have never shown large profits. In fact such organizations have held the umbrella over the smaller concerns. They have served to protect others by keeping prices of raw material and finished leather nearer uniform than before these trusts were organized, when competition was far brisker. What little I know about the success of the Central Leather Co., it has been a fair investment only. As to the American Hide and Leather, whatever I have gathered would lead me to think they have kept above water only.

* * *

No doubt one of the great reasons why the American Hide and Leather has had its troubles, is the fact they took over many tanneries which never were run. The money paid for them was a loss. The Creese plant in Danvers, for instance, stood idle for many years only to be torn down of late. This plant had a large capacity but was not needed. Such doings stifled competition for a time, but in years independent tanneries were built which took their place, thus the loss.

* * *

But tanning as a money making institution has not been promising in the past. Let us look back and try and figure out how many tanners were rich when they died. In the '90s brogan leather went out. Of the crop of tanners in those days I do not recall one who has been termed rich. What few had money lost most of it before they retired. I will not mention names, but one of the sheepskin tanners who died a few years ago left several hundred thousand dollars, but a fire furnished most of it.

* * *

Therefore I heartily agree with Mr. Helburn that tanners make leather for a living and get little more. Say what you like there is a fascination making leather. The many processes must be watched closely, and the boys must know when everything is right or wrong. A mistake in tanning costs far more than $1.98 and I sometimes wonder why more leather is not damaged in the process of manufacture. Particularly these times when it is all chemicals, many of which are powerful and work quickly.

* * *

The extreme test of leather making has been made the last year. Shoe manufacturers have had their choice of leather in the market. The tanner who made the best leather has been selling his product. One could visit many leather plants here and elsewhere, and find one now and then who was busy. It is useless to dodge the issue. The facts are plain. The best leather has sold, the medium at times, the poor not at all. No one can blame the fellow who makes poor leather not to acknowledge it, but results tell the story the last year or two. As business grows better, and it is growing better, all will get a bite in the pond of business, but all the while the best leather is making the most money.

Thus it all simmers down to the point, cannot many tanners better their product? The would-be tanner comes and goes, principally goes. All of us have seen some of them drifting from one job to another only to drift again. A thorough knowledge of leather chemistry is as essential today as is the tannery. Chemistry is digging deep into the industry. It is digging deeper every year. In fact it is my belief it is only the beginning of radical changes in tanning and finishing. Skilled chemists have made it possible to produce leather today never dreamed of when first chrome tanning became a factor.

* * *

The aniline industry has been a great help to tanning or better the finishing of leather. Then comes the maker of finishes. He goes into your shop and produces what is wanted. He has become a specialist, and so much so as to be a factor in the business. New materials have made the finishing of leather almost an art.

* * *

So the tendency, and it is pronounced, is to place leather making on a higher scientific basis. The man today who starts in the business should have a chemical education. With it experience and horse sense makes the successful tanner. What the old timers did is not a byword as it was a few years ago. Come on boys, get on the wagon.

* * *

I note trade conditions as voiced by the Shoe and Leather Reporter show improvement. One concern here has been talking stock. Because of orders, stock taking has been postponed. So down the line. All whom I have talked with say better business. Instead of a summer full of thunder showers, golf balls and ugly looks, those who have the ambition can buy new overalls and get busy. Perhaps the profits will not be large, but what can be made plus what would have been spent if not busy will figure a fair week's pay. No?

Keefe School Pupils In Cast For Minstrels

A minstrel show to be given entirely by the pupils of the Daniel Francis Keefe school will be presented in the school hall next Friday evening, May 26. The rehearsals have been in progress for the past several weeks and under the direction of the teachers some real talent has been developed among the children who are working hard to make their initial performance a good one. Every grade in the school will be represented by pupils participating, and in addition to the old-fashioned minstrel show a number of specialties will be introduced which will add greatly to the program. The ends are Russell Lake, Valaga Melanchook, Arthur Burke, Annie Balkus, Mary Chebator and Rose Glass, and the soloists Rose Sherry and Mary Eshtook. Following the show dancing will be enjoyed.

RADIO

PROGRESS OF RADIO THROUGH THE YEARS

Wireless Research Began Long Ago, But Development Has Been Swift Lately.

Wireless research started many years ago, as far back even as 1827. Even the radio telephone is not a recent perfection; rather it is that introduction to the layman of the human voice and music has suddenly popularized something that wireless men had thought a pastime or amusement. Here is the chronological record of wireless:

1827—It was found that the magnetic discharge from a leyden jar would magnetize a steel needle.

1831 — Electro-magnetic induction was discovered between two entirely separate circuits by Michael Faraday.

1837—Cooke and Wheatstone of London, England, and Morse of the United States take out first patent for electric telegraph.

1838—K. A. Steinhell of Munich suggested that a system of wireless telegraphy could be established after his discovery of the use of the earth return.

1840—Joseph Henry (U. S. A.) produced the first high-frequency electric oscillations, and stated that the condenser discharge is oscillatory.

1842 — Wireless experiments were made by S. F. B. Morse by electric conduction through water across Washington canal and across wide rivers.

1848—A wireless system for transatlantic communication was suggested.

1845—Water was used as a conducting medium in wireless experiments across a wide river.

1849—Intelligible signals were actually sent across a river 4,500 feet wide in India, but the cost was found prohibitive for commercial use.

1867—The electric waves that are now utilized in wireless telegraphy and telephony were predicted in an address before the Royal Society in London, England.

1880—The sending of an electric current through earth was systematically studied by John Trowbridge of Harvard. It was found that signaling might be carried on over large distances between places not connected by wires.

1885—It was found that telephonic speech could be conveyed by induction over a space of quarter mile. This experiment took place in England.

1889—Electric waves were suggested as being particularly suitable for the sending of signals through fogs.

1892—An instrument for the detection of electro-magnetic waves was discovered which was given the name of a "coherer."

1894—A scientist of Berlin signaled through three miles of water.

1895—High frequency waves excite curiosity of Senatore Marconi.

1896—First patent for practical wireless transmitting system is taken out in London by Marconi. Afterward, successful signaling was carried out over distances as great as one and one-quarter miles. Sir William Preece of the British postoffice system interested his cohorts in Marconi's wireless experiments.

1897—Marconi establishes communication between points four miles distant. Balloons were used to suspend antennae.

Marconi demonstrates his wireless system before the king of Italy, communicating with two Italian warships nine miles distant.

The first Marconi station is erected on the Isle of Wight and experiments conducted over a distance of 14 miles.

Near the end of the year the first floating wireless station was successfully operated.

1898—The first paid marconigram was sent from the Isle of Wight station.

1899—Reports made on lighthouse accident by radio. First French gunboat is fitted with radio apparatus. In Vienna communication between two balloons is established. New York Herald receives radio report of international yacht races. The British war office introduces Marconi apparatus into the South African battlefields.

1900—German vessel communicates a distance of 60 miles by radio signals.

1901—Radio communication started with five islands in the Hawaiian group. The first British ship is fitted with the wireless telegraph.

1902—Radiograph signals received aboard vessels at sea at 1,500 statute miles. Signals received from a distance of 2,000 miles.

1903—King Edward receives a radio message from President Roosevelt. High-power stations were ordered by the Italian government. First transatlantic radio message sent. Telegraphic news service for ships at sea is started. Marconi knighted in Russia.

1904—The first press message was sent across the sea.

1905—Patent suit started in New York between the Marconi and De Forest company.

Patent for horizontal directional aerial is taken out. This was a great step forward in long-distance work.

1906—International conference is held in Berlin, at which most of the countries of the world are represented.

1907—The use of steel disks for producing notes were successfully tested.

Radio stations in Ireland and Nova Scotia were opened for limited public service.

1908—Radio stations opened for unlimited public service between Great Britain and Canada.

1909—Steamship in collision with another off the coast of Florida succeeds in calling assistance by radio.

1910—Marconi receives messages 6,700 miles while on board ship going to South America.

Spanish radio company formed.

1911—Canadian government leased radio stations for 20 years.

1912—Radio distress signals from the Titanic bring assistance and save lives of 700 passengers.

1913—Tests were made between the Eiffel tower in France and the station at Washington. During the trip into Central Asia an explorer received his longitude and time signals from a distant radio station.

1914—Marconi and radio officials start test of wireless telephone between vessels of the Italian fleet. The test was continued between vessels on the high seas and voices were heard with clarity at a distance of 44 miles. One day radio telephone communication was kept up constantly for 12 hours. Great Britain declared war upon Germany August 4 and all private radio telegraphy and telephony suspended.

1915—Radio communication between America and Japan is completed. The stations were located at San Francisco and Tokyo with a relay station at Honolulu.

The American Telephone and Telegraph company succeeded in radio telephoning from Arlington station at Washington to Hawaii, a distance of nearly 5,000 miles.

Secretary Daniels of the United States navy transmitted telephonic messages from Washington to the Brooklyn navy yards.

1916—President Wilson and the mikado of Japan exchange messages over the new transpacific radio service, which is formally opened.

1917—Senatore Marconi visits the United States and aids greatly in recruiting for radio operators for the United States army.

1918—Wireless telephony progressed rapidly, being used to a great extent in the equipment of airplanes.

Several new long range stations were erected in the United States, it being claimed for one built at Annapolis, Md., that it was capable of communication at 4,000 miles. The United States government also opened a high-power station at Bordeaux.

In September of this year radio signals sent from a point 12,000 miles away were received in Sydney, Australia.

1919—With the exception of the three transatlantic flights—that of the U. S. NC-4, and the British flights of Alcock and Brown and the dirigible R-34, in which radio communication played an important part in keeping the ships of the air on their courses—no very great progress was made in radio telegraphy, although radio telephony was being pushed along quietly.

Restrictions upon amateur receiving and sending were lifted by the American government.

1920—This was the year of the radio telephone, more attention probably being paid to this branch of radio than to its older brother, telegraphy. Several broadcasting stations were opened.

1921—This year was another radio telephonic year. It was marked by the opening of numerous broadcasting stations.

Peabody High School

Mrs. Annie E. O'Connor, matron at the high school, was absent this week because of illness.

Miss Broadbine, teacher of French, conducted a French spelling match Wednesday morning, and Philip Southwick and Helen Wiggin came out leaders.

Those pupils to have honor parts at graduation have selected their themes and have begun work on them. Miss Grace Harlowe, Miss Winifred Johnson, Miss Alice Barry and Miss Annie Fairchilds have charge of these pupils.

David Collins, a graduate of the commercial class of 1920, will graduate from Bentley's School of Accounting and Finance in June.

The seniors held a rehearsal for the class song Wednesday.

Following a meeting of the Spanish club this week, a short sketch entitled "The Unfortunate Young Doctor" was given by three members of the club. The part of the young doctor was taken by Frank Dennis; the part of "Una Senora" by Florence Hollingsworth; and Ray Burlingham took the part of "Un Cabellero." The plot consists of a young doctor who has been rather unsuccessful until the arrival of two, who proved to be friends, when the doctor's fortunes take a turn for the better. The parts were well taken and the sketch was enjoyed by the other members of the club.

Miss Mary Barry substituted for her sister, Miss Alice Barry, two days last week.

Arthur O'Connell of the sub-freshman class has returned to his studies after an absence of four weeks.

Miss Alice Woodman substituted for Miss Bagley last week.

Miss Mary Moynihan will spend the week-end with friends in Lynn.

Ruth Frame has left school and is employed in the office of the Turner Tanning Company.

Joseph Macione was ill this week.

George Clancy has discontinued his studies.

Material for "PEP" is coming in well and the next issue, which will be the Commencement number, promises to be a success.

George Welch has left school.

Edna Horner has been seriously ill at her home for the past two weeks.

Students of Latin are preparing for the college entrance examination which will be held in Beverly on June 23. The examination is made up by several of the colleges and a passing mark which will enable the pupil to enter any of these colleges without having to take any further examination.

All the girls in Mr. Higgins' senior class in college Latin are on the honor roll.

Mrs. W. W. Woodman, Mrs. George Farrington and Mrs. Benjamin Palmer were visitors at the school last week.

The decorating committee composed of juniors in charge of the senior graduation has begun its plans this week. The committee is as follows: Chairman, William Ratcliffe; William Hosman, Karl Ricker, Raymond Burlingham, Francis Harrigan, Blanche Hayward, Irene Kelly, Cecelia Hanley, Pauline Lawton, Rose Lane, Helen Laitenen.

Many interesting letters have been received from pupils in France and Belgium. Among them is one received by Miss Margaret Batchelder from a boy in Bruges, Belgium. Following is an extract of the letter, translated by Miss Batchelder:

"You asked me if the city was destroyed during the war. No, far from that. Aside from about fifty houses which were badly damaged, there was no great destruction in the city. But that which suffered most was the port. The Germans constructed there a base where fifteen submarines were stationed. The constructions were so strong, that the heaviest arial bombs could not do great damage, and for a good reason! The roof was from one and one-half to two metres thick and was made entirely of reinforced concrete. It was useless, therefore, for the air forces of the Allies to bombard the submarine port during the night. Each night and twice during the day we were visited by the aviators. They were met on the part of the Boches by the fire of thirty cannons set all around the city and camouflaged to conceal them. One curious detail was the kind of bombs used. The bombs that they used at night made great furrows in the ground, and, if they fell on a house, destroyed it from top to bottom. The bombs which they threw in the day time, on the contrary, exploded at the slightest contact, and made only small holes. The bursting of the shells grazed the ground so that it was useless to throw oneself flat on the ground. It was only a miracle that one got up safe and sound.

"I, myself, just missed being hit. One day the Germans gave the signal of the approach of the Allies' air forces. I went out to find out if they were very far off. I had scarcely walked thirty metres when I heard a shrill whistling, a noise that I will not forget if I never hear it again. Four bombs had been thrown. I don't know what happened! I didn't hear! I didn't see! All that I recall is that I had my hand scratched by a bursting shell and ——, that I was in a cellar seated on an old bench! It seems that I had beaten the speed record in the race, but with obstacles!!! While I was recovering from my fright, they picked up a poor man fatally wounded. There is a war memory which I shall never forget!"

New Drug Store Opens Saturday

Peabody citizens are invited to inspect the new drug store owned by J. Henry Lyons, which will open its doors tomorrow at 45 Main street, next to the Strand theatre. Mr. Lyons is a registered pharmacist and is a native of Danvers. He recently married Miss Beatrice McManus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. McManus, and has many friends in Peabody who will wish him all success. His store is handsomely appointed and will be a credit to the city.

RADIO STORE FOR PEABODY

Peabody is to have a first-class radio store with all of the equipment for home and office sets. The new emporium will be opened by June 1 in the court house building on Lowell street, formerly occupied by the Chamber of Commerce, and Everett Wilson, world war veteran, who was among the first Peabody boys to volunteer, will be the proprietor.

Mr. Wilson has recently returned from a three year residence in Los Angeles, where he mastered the radio art and is prepared to serve the public. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Murray Wilson. He left Peabody high school to enter the war service.

Carpenters are at work fitting up the spacious salesroom which will provide for complete radio demonstration and a large stock of supplies of everything used by the radio owners. Mr. Wilson proposes to make his establishment for all Essex County and Peabody is sure to find a busy establishment.

SHEA DEFENDANT IN CHICKEN CASE

Cliff Shea, World war veteran, goes on trial tonight on a charge of purloining a chicken. He must appear before a judge 'n everything in a mock trial to be staged by Masconomo Tribe of Red Men in their hall on Foster street. Cliff has secured Ray Vorrel as his counsel and Herman Jung, who will be the district attorney, must step some to get a conviction. Cliff says he is not the fellar who stole the chicken and he won't squeal on any buddy.

Charles Southworth will be the austere judge, with Arthur Jermyn as clerk of court, and Miles Dense as the gruff sheriff. The trial is to be staged under the direction of Fred Morse. It will be open to the public.

WON LOVING CUP

Miss Frances J. McCarthy of Northend street won a handsome silver loving cup offered by the bowling league of the Pitman & Brown Company, Salem, for the ladies' highest average during the bowling tournament just finished, and was presented same at a banquet held at Ferncroft last Friday evening, at which about thirty employes of the company were present.

SERVICEMEN

ex-service men in this city, we wish to inform you that the conditions at the present time are a great improvement over the past few months. It is our belief that the ex-service men are getting just treatment from you and the employing officials of the city. At least two of the firms in this city are to employ only ex-service men from now on, which bids fair to relieve the unemployment materially among our comrades.

We want to take this opportunity to thank you for the favors you have done for us in the past and wish to assure you that we appreciate your efforts in our behalf.

We are not aware of anything that can be done by you in this matter at the present time, but should occasion arise, we would be glad to bring any situation which we deem worthy to your attention.

Thanking you for past favors, we remain,

Respectfully yours,
PEABODY POST NO. 153,
THE AMERICAN LEGION.
By John F. A. Feeney, Adjutant.

Some days ago the Mayor sent a request to the Legion for names of any unemployed men and he was informed that no war veteran is now without a job.

That the Peabody veterans have been well taken care of in getting their just desserts at the hands of government red tape is clearly proven by citing the instance of a well-known Peabody service man who while being called into action of battle fell from a hayloft in France and injured his hip. He was unable to get any satisfaction from the U. S. army doctors in Boston and not until Commissioner Fyfe sent an appeal to President Harding with affidavits was action taken to get justice to this man, who is married and has a family.

The letter to the president was referred to the department of justice and an official was sent to Peabody to investigate, with the result that the injured war veteran was at once taken in hand and is now being handsomely compensated today. He will later be given vocational training. Mayor Shea asked Commissioner Fyfe not to let up on the government examiners until every service man was given satisfaction. Today Peabody veterans have attention and before the incident of President Harding it was almost impossible for local service men to get just treatment from the government agents.

Of interest to all war veterans is the announcement that poll tax bills are to be sent out next week. To secure the rebate of $3 due every service man he must present his discharge papers and fill out a blank at the assessors' office.

FORMER LIEUT.-GOV. SPEAKER

Grafton D. Cushing, former lieutenant governor, was the speaker before the Ladies' Benevolent Society at St. Paul's church last night. He talked on the work of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and urged the local branch to a more active year. He is president of the state organization.

S., will play third bag. The line-up: Hammond c, Sullivan p, Coan or Lane 1b, Boyle 2b, Morrison ss, Maguire 3b, Barry, Buckley, Maroney and McHugh outfielders. Carl Nelson is manager and is looking for games.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue of the statutory power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Gustaf J. Puska to Mollie E. Cohen, dated April 16, 1921, and recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 2481, Page 288, which mortgage has been duly assigned to Max Goldberg, present holder thereof, for the purpose of foreclosing said mortgage for the breach of the conditions thereof, will be sold at public auction, upon the premises, on Monday, June 12, 1922, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by the said mortgage deed, namely: A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon situated in Peabody, Mass., and being lots numbered thirteen (13) and fourteen (14) on a plan of King Highlands made by R. W. Seamans, C. E. October 1906 and recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book of Plans 15, Plan 33, and bounded and described as follows, viz:

Beginning at the southeasterly corner of the premises on King Street and thence running westerly by said King Street ninety (90) feet on said plan; thence northerly by lot numbered fifteen (15) ninety-five (95) feet as shown on said plan; thence easterly by land of Tobey about ninety (90) feet as shown on said plan; and thence southerly by lot numbered twelve (12) ninety-four (94) feet as shown on said plan to King Street and point begun at.

Said premises are to be conveyed subject to a prior mortgage for $1800.00 held by the Warren Five Cents Savings Bank, unpaid interest thereon, unpaid taxes, sewer assessments, and other municipal liens, if any.

Two Hundred ($200.00) Dollars in cash will be required at the time and place of sale the balance in cash in ten days at the said Registry of Deeds upon tender of a good and sufficient deed.

MAX GOLDBERG,
Assignee and present holder of said mortgage.

AMERICAN ★ LEGION

Post 153, American Legion, will conduct a novelty dancing party in K. of C. hall Friday, May 26. Belmont All Star orchestra will play. The committee in charge—Joseph Sweeney, James Cronin, Fred Sherry and Edward Beirne. Tickets are on sale at Curtis' and from the above committee.

* * *

The American Legion Auxiliary will conduct a Strand night on Tuesday evening, May 23. In response to many requests from patrons, Manager Bent has secured for that evening, two feature pictures, "Tol'ble David" and the "Man With Two Mothers." Two new specialties will be introduced between the pictures, and a fine evening's entertainment is promised to all who attend. The public are urged to give the Auxiliary their support in this venture, as the proceeds are used to provide comforts of all kinds, flowers, fruit and smokes for the disabled veterans in the Danvers State, Essex Sanitorium and Chelsea Naval hospitals. Also for any local boys who may be in the local hospitals.

* * *

A hustling committee is busy on Memorial Day plans. The boys of Post 153, and all ex-service men who can possibly do so, will attend the exercises, and decorate the graves of departed comrades in the afternoon. After visits have been made to the various cemeteries, a buffet lunch will be served by the women of the Auxiliary in the American Legion hall.

* * *

The welfare committee of the Auxiliary visited the Chelsea Naval hospital on Mothers' Day. They carried potted plants and magazines with them and left them at the bedsides of the inmates of the ward to which the Peabody Unit has been assigned. Owing to the fact that these boys are all seriously ill, the Auxiliary did not visit the hospital in a body, as they usually do, but sent their messages of cheer to help brighten the day for the invalids.

P. H. S. SENIORS IN LINE'S BUSY WILL BE PLEASING SHOW

Judging from the dress rehearsal held in City Hall yesterday the cast of P. H. S. seniors who are to put on the two-act comedy "Line's Busy" at City Hall tonight will give a pleasing performance.

Bessie Moore and Dorothy Wiggin have comedy parts that add much to the wit of the play, while Marea Johnson, Lottie Brown and Grafton Broughton will be seen in heavier roles.

The play is in two acts and has been directed by the Misses Margaret Beirne and Helen Wollohan of the faculty, who have worked hard for its success.

Elizabeth Gourley and William Glencross will be heard in a duet, "Every Cloud Has a Silver Lining" from "Sally," the show which is making such a hit in Boston. "My Old-Fashioned Girl," a solo by William Glencross, will also be one of the high lights of the performance Other parts will be taken by Dorothy Brown, Timothy McCarthy, Ralph Holden and Elbridge Tarbox.

Evelyn Hall, Elizabeth Newhall, Helen Dorgan, Dorothy Moffet, Bertha Stone, Mary Moynihan, Bertha Rollins, Marguerite Smith, Betty King, Dorothy McCharles, Pauline Wilson, Olivia Cummings and Mary Malarkey will be seen as students at the Fenwick Hall School for Girls, where the scene of the play is laid. Dancing will follow the show.

Whidden Store Observed 48th Anniversary

Harry F. Whidden, head of the A. H. Whidden & Son, tanners' supply and hardware dealers, has been well remembered by his many customers on the firm's 20th anniversary sale of its incorporation and the 48th anniversary of the founding of the business. The store was opened May 18, 1874, by the father of the present Mr. Whidden, and today the establishment is known throughout the eastern states and among all tanners of the Atlantic coast.

Mr. Whidden is identified with everything that spells progress for Peabody. He is a trustee of the Warren Five Cents Savings bank, member of the Rotary Club and numerous fraternal organizations. His concern is soon to build a large storage warehouse off Lowell street, near Endicott street. Mr. and Mrs. Whidden have one son, Donald, a student at Worcester Academy.

Lowell Street

Miss Louise McGlone of King street has resumed her duties at the Center school after an enforced absence of several weeks.

Miss Frances Carroll is at Alton Bay, N. H., arranging for the opening on June 1st of the Green Nettle tea room which she will conduct this season. Her sister, Miss Katharine Carroll, will also spend the summer at Alton Bay.

Virginia Arnold, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Arnold, is quarantined at her home on account of an attack of measles.

Lincoln Reid(and possibly his father) has become infected with the radio "germ" and has installed a listening-in set at the South church parsonage.

Dorothy Elwell is convalescing at her home on Franklin street from an attack of tonsilitis.

Lowell street is well represented in the Essex superior courts with Ernest B. Dodge completing his seventh week as a juror in the civil session at Salem and Frank H. Sanger serving in the criminal court at Newburyport.

Charles H. Symonds spent the last week-end on a camping party with friends in Connecticut.

Massachusetts Girl Scouts are to have a prize drill and inspect at the Boston arena tomorrow afternoon, when they will be reviewed by Gov. and Mrs. Channing Cox and Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

William F. Sawyer has been confined to his home this week by illness.

Jean Ingraham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Ingraham, Jr., is confined to her home with measles.

Miss Mary Boettner spent the week-end with her sister in Lynn.

William Noonan of Franklin street has recently purchased a Hudson coach.

Barbara, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Batchelder of Emerson street, is recuperating from an attack of the whooping cough.

Miss Alice Woodman of King street substituted at the high school one day this week.

Miss Dorothy Wessel of Danvers has been stopping with her sister, Mrs. Wilbur Merrill.

The presence of Atty.-General J. Weston Allen at the Essex Congregational Club meeting last Monday evening brought forth the information that the attorney general's wife and sister were collegemates at Smith College with Mrs. John Reid and Mrs. Albert Robinson. It was regretted by these latter two ladies that Mr. Allen found it impossible to arrange for Mrs. Allen to accompany him to Peabody.

The King's Daughters will meet with Mrs. John Reid next Monday evening.

Miss Elizabeth Osborn is confined to her home with a severe cold.

Frederick S. Macalister has bought of John O. Ballentine two lots of land on Orchard street and will build a residence thereon immediately. Plans are already dawn and the contract awarded to Mr. Ballentine, who promises completion by Labor day.

STORY IN "VICTORIAN"

A cleverly written short story appears in the current issue of the "Victorian," a Catholic magazine published monthly by the orphan boys of "Our Lady of Victory Home" in Lackawanna, N. Y. It was written by Luke B. Callan, one of the regular carriers at the local post office, and has a strain of real Irish wit running through it. The story is named "The Taking of Timothy Flynn."

FIRST HOLY COMMUNION

A class of several hundred children will receive their first holy communion at a mass to be celebrated at St. John's church tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock.

RADCLIFFE LUNCHEON

The recent luncheon held at the home of Miss Mary Poole, 1 Jacobs street, for the Radcliffe Endowment fund, netted $62.

Peabody Enterprise To Build Model Printshop On Foster St.

Land will be broken in a few days on the former James Linehan property, Foster street, near the Rowe Motor Co., for a model printing plant to be built by the Peabody Enterprise for its general publishing and printing business. The land title passes from Raymond E. and Leslie R. Porter of the Edward H. Porter Co., who acquired the Linehan estate some years ago for development.

A single story brick building of 2400 square feet, 30 feet front and 80 feet running back, will be erected, with ample skylights to permit of a daylight shop in which the most efficient printing can be turned out. The office will be divided from the composing and press room by a glass partition to allow all possible light. An outside boiler house will be built to supply the heat for the new printing plant.

Plans for the building have been drawn by the E. H. Porter Co., contractors. They will permit of a second story being added to the building.

The new plant will give the needed floor space for the printing presses, typesetting and other machines and stock rooms and permit the owners to install a much larger press for the Enterprise as well as for its magazine and book work. Much of the layout of the proposed plant is taken from the Wakefield Daily Item plant in Wakefield, this state, which is considered one of the most efficient printing plants in New England.

With the installation of a larger press a seven-column paper will take the place of our present six columns, and 12 pages instead of eight will be undertaken. A more frequent issue than once a week is being considered for the Enterprise.

The Peabody Enterprise made its first issue on May 10, 1912, ten years ago this month. On January 1, 1916, the Peabody Press Co. plant was purchased by the publisher of the Peabody Enterprise. Our present quarters at 27 Lowell street are far inadequate for our business of publishing and printing for the trade of Peabody, Salem, Danvers, Lynn, Beverly and Swampscott.

Our two Linotype machines in addition to the typesetting work on our own printing contracts supply service to a dozen print shops of Essex County. These machines, with provision for a model 14 to carry newspaper heading type, will be so placed in the new plant as to be seen in operation by the trade.

SALLIES IN DRIVE TO RAISE $1500

Peabody is anxious to help the Sallies in their quota of $1500 for the Salem district and many citizens will eagerly buy the home service buttons next week. Charles S. Batchelder, cashier of the Warren National bank, will act as treasurer and will receive checks or money contributions. The A. C. Lawrence Co. plants are conducting their own campaign for the drive with Asst. Supt. Edward W. White and John J. Gallagher in charge. All factories will be canvassed next week. The drive will be for the whole week beginning Monday.

MAY PROCESSION

The annual May procession and crowning of the statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary will take place at St. John's church on Sunday afternoon. Rev. T. P. McGinn, pastor, will preside.

Lowell St. Gets Shower of Rocks

Lowell street residents were given a bad scare last Tuesday night when a shower of rocks fell on the street following a loud blast at the Essex Trap Rock Co. on Buxton's hill. Shingles were torn from roofs in a number of cases. The shower of rocks fell in the vicinity of Emerson street where generally a dozen small children are at play. Fortunately no child was near. Several pedestrians were near victims of the rocks.

Legion To Aid Grand Army In Decorating Graves

Peabody will honor the memory of its deceased war veterans on Memorial Day with appropriate services at all of the cemeteries. The Grand Army veterans will be accompanied by a detail of American Legion boys and Sons of Veterans and will visit West Peabody and Lynnfield cemeteries in the morning. Cedar Grove and Monumental cemeteries will be visited in the afternoon. A firing squad from the Field artillery will fire the salute at the cemeteries. The graves of all G. A. R., Spanish war and the World's war veterans will be decorated.

The Peabody high school will hold its memorial exercises for the Grand Army and the American Legion in the City Hall, May 30th, at 3.45 o'clock. Speakers in costume from the high school will describe incidents in the history of Peabody. There will be a soloist and quartet from the high school, and a chorus of 250 grade children under the direction of Miss Anna F. Sullivan. The Grand Army has engaged Spence's band for the afternoon.

The Legion boys will leave their headquarters at 12.15 Tuesday to march to St. Mary's cemetery to decorate the graves of deceased veterans. Spence's band will lead the procession. At the cemetery the roll of honor will be called and prayers offered. The Legion will then march to Harmony

MRS. HARRINGTON STRUCK BY AUTO

Mrs. Mary C. Harrington, member of the school board, is confined to her bed as a result of being knocked down by an automobile in Lawrence last Friday night. While no bones were broken she suffered contusions and a severe shock. Only the fact that the driver of the machine succeeded in quickly stopping his car prevented Mrs. Harrington from being horribly crushed and fatally injured.

Mrs. George Chandler and Mrs. Isaac Cowdrey, also of this city, were knocked down by the same auto. The three women were crossing the street to return home after attending the Universalist church conference. Mr. Harrington had preceded the women across the street. Mrs. Chandler and Mrs. Cowdrey were fortunate to escape serious injuries.

CHARLES C. HILLS GIVEN BANQUET

Charles C. Hills, dean of Peabody newspapermen and staff of the Salem News, observed his 60th birthday anniversary last Wednesday with a dinner given in his honor at the Homestead Golf Club, of which he has long been secretary. Among the guests at the banquet table were Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Lummus, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Porter, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ingraham, Edward Barrett and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thorndike.

LEO COUNCIL K. of C. HAS RECORD CLASS

Leo Council, Knights of Columbus, initiated 54 candidates in the third degree last night in appropriate exercises held in the City Hall. It was the largest class in the history of the council and the ceremony was witnessed by several hundred members of the fraternity. District Deputy Cavan of Haverhill and suite worked the degree. Atty. Joseph Reardon of Salem was a member of the suite.

GIVES STOMACH REMEDY TO FELLOW SUFFERERS

Mrs. Smithey, Columbus, O., Gives Her Friends Quick Stomach Relief with Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules

The best proof of the value of any remedy is the readiness with which those who are helped by it recommend it to their friends.

Those who have suffered the pangs and tortures of indigestion and dyspepsia are quick to acknowledge the prompt relief given by a brief use of Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules for indigestion, dyspepsia and constipation. They are so grateful for the relief they have obtained they not only recommend this valuable stomach treatment, but in many instances buy the capsules to give to fellow sufferers.

This is the case with Mrs. G. G. Smithey, 323 N. 11th St., Columbus, O., who writes: "Please find enclosed stamps for which send me two boxes Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules. I used them last summer in Plattsburg and they gave me such relief." A few days later Mrs. Smithey wrote again: "Received the two boxes of your Capsules and as I have several friends here who are bothered with their stomach I have given almost all my Capsules away for them to try; so send me two more boxes for which you will find stamps enclosed. Please send at once as I do not want to get out of them."

Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules relieve indigestion, dyspepsia, flatulence, catarrh of the stomach, acid stomach, biliousness, heartburn and heaviness and dizziness after eating. They are easy to take. Simply place one in your mouth and take a swallow of water. Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules are made of pure gelatin which promptly dissolves upon reaching the stomach, freeing the contents to do their work in restoring the digestive organs to normal.

On sale at Lawrence Bros., Peabody or 60 cents by mail postpaid for large package from Jaques Capsule Co., Plattsburg, N. Y.

Peabody High School

The Edgar A. Guest program given in the assembly hall last Tuesday morning by members of the sub-freshman class, under the supervision of Miss Katharine Logan, was very interesting. The chorus, under the supervision of Miss Anna F. Sullivan, musical instructor of the schools, sang "Love's Old Sweet Song." "A Merry Life," and were accompanied by the orchestra in singing "The Soldiers' Chorus." The orchestra has rehearsed faithfully since January, under the direction of John Crowley, and gave very pleasing selections as the pupils entered and left the hall. The selections by the sub-freshmen were well given, especially those by Albert Lowe and Frank Donahue. Both were given with energy, and were of entirely different character. The poem by Albert Lowe was "Ma and the Auto" and was of a humorous character, and that given by Frank Donahue was of a more serious character, the name of which was "A Patriotic Wish." Chaplain Frazer, representing General Edwards, was present and spoke a few words of the life at the Citizens' Training Camp at Camp Devens. Three boys from the high school were at the camp last summer and Chaplain Frazer said that plans were being made to accommodate three thousand boys this year and hopes to see more boys from P. H. S. Blanks and posters have been left at the school for all boys over 17 years of age who wish to take advantage of this offer. The mothers of a number of the pupils attended the exercises.

Nellie Hubisz of the sub-freshman class has discontinued her studies.

The sketch which was to be given by the girls of the sophomore class has been postponed indefinitely.

The three winners in the French spelling match held by Miss Helen Brodbine in the first year French class were Philip Southwick, Bernard Gonsberg and John Hallahan.

Frank Dennis has been elected to the junior decorating committee for graduation. Dennis' name was not added until after the first publication.

Monday was visiting day at Salem high school and Amy Mann, formerly of P. H. S. and now of Salem, took advantage of the holiday to visit the school.

The senior play, "Line's Busy," presented by members of the senior class last Friday evening, was very successful and the parts were very capably taken. Dorothy Wiggin as Magnolia, the seven-year-old daughter of Mrs. Olive Gleason-Hamilton, was very good, and provoked more than one laugh from the audience. The part of Mrs. Olive Gleason-Hamilton, a haughty society woman, was very well taken by Marea Johnson. Lottie Brown as Lorraine Fenweck, owner of the boarding school for girls, took her part well, and Dorothy Brown as Miss Janice Reese was also good. Timothy McCarthy as Roscoe Linden, Ralph Holden as Parker Hamilton, and Elbridge Tarbox as Jack Huntley took their parts very capably, and Grafton Broughton as Jeremiah Stokes, the constable, was the hit of the evening and rendered "An Old Fashioned Girl" very pleasingly. William Glencross as Richard Fenwick, and Elizabeth Gourley as Trixie, an actress, rendered a very pleasing duet. The seniors wish to thank all those who helped to make the evening a success.

Friends of Edna Horner of Room 3 are glad to hear that she is recovering from her recent illness.

John Sheridan and Karl Hagarstrom were winners in the Spanish spelling match held in Miss Brodbine's class this week.

Miss Ruth Penniman, teacher at Salem High School was a visitor at P. H. S. Monday of this week.

Principal Woodman was among the interested spectators at the graduation exercises of the Americanization class which were held in the Council Chamber, Monday evening. He was one of the first to welcome the new citizens. The following members of the High School orchestra, under the leadership of Master Moffat Glencross, rendered several selections which were enjoyed by all: Arthur Gavigan, Mansfield Munroe, Gordon Randall, Franklin Reid, and Morriss Sogolof.

Miss Mary Barry substituted for Miss Helen Brodbine Friday of last week.

Friends of Mrs. Annie E. O'Connor, matron at the High School, who was taken suddenly ill last week, are glad to hear that her condition is somewhat improved. Mrs. O'Connor made many friends at the School and she has been missed for the last two weeks.

The Misses Day and Eckford, teachers at Salem High visited the school Monday.

Mrs. Ethel Trask of Lowell St. substituted at the school this week.

A meeting of the High School athletic advisory board will be held this evening at City Hall.

Albert Hosman has successfully passed an examination for the apprentice school of the General Electric Company in Lynn, with an average mark of ninety per cent. The examinations were in College Algebra, College Geometry, and Physics.

Daniel Keegan of the class of '17, will enter Salem Normal School this fall.

Wednesday morning after recess a number of visitors arrived at the school. They were Miss Bryant, music supervisor at Ithica, N. Y., Miss Levin of Boston, and Richard Grant of Winchester. The visitors, accompanied by Mr. Robinson, listened to the Senior class song, which is to be given on Graduation Night, and expressed pleasure at the way the Seniors sang. This was followed by general assembly in the Auditorium. With Miss Sullivan conducting, the chorus sang "Love's Old Sweet Song," "A Merry Life," and "The Soldiers Chorus" and the boys sang a boating song "Out On The Deep." The visitors were much pleased with the singing and Misses Bryant and Levin spoke to the pupils of the good their music would do them in later years and Mr. Grant sang a French song and had the chorus come in on the responses. The visitors were very much impressed by the new school and with the spirit in which the pupils sang.

The ball team from Miss Wollohans' room defeated the team from Mr. Gilmore's room 8-7 this week.

Honor Silent Heroes

Thousands of persons in Clay county attended the unveiling of the Liberty memorial at Liberty, Mo., Memorial day last year. The picture shows the statue erected at a cost of $4,000 in memory of the "silent heroes" of Clay county who took part in the World war. Clay county furnished more than one thousand men for the war.

YOUR TEETH

By Rea Proctor McGee, D.D.S., M.D., Editor "Oral Hygiene"

VARIETIES OF PLATES

If you have lost very many teeth, you must consider some method of replacing them, because if you don't you will only partially chew your food and your digestive apparatus will suffer severely from overwork and your general system must necessarily be undernourished.

So common sense dictates that when you lose a tooth, it must be replaced. There are other good reasons why teeth should be replaced but, just now, the matter of plates is under discussion.

In a jaw where the are some natural teeth remaining the plate that carries the missing teeth is called a "partial plate."

There are many methods of keeping these partial plates in position, and the methods are so extremely clever that the feelings, appearance and function of the normal teeth are almost restored.

The old idea of placing fixed bridges, to restore every form of tooth that was missing, is rapidly giving way to the extensive use of the partial plate.

One of the great advantages of partial plate is the fact that it can be removed and thoroughly cleaned.

Now, cleanliness is one of the greatest possible measures in the conversation of health and anything that can be cleaned can be made sanitary; but if you have in your mouth an extensive lot of uncleanable apparatus, it will be very difficult to maintain a hygienic condition.

Always consider the possibility of cleanliness when any new work is being done in the mouth. The partial plates depend for their retention upon the teeth that are remaining in the mouth. They do not depend upon suction as do the full plates, particularly the full upper.

To be satisfactory, the teeth upon which the partial plate depends for support must be very healthy.

You cannot hope to have either a satisfactory or a healthful piece of partial plate work in your mouth unless the teeth to which it is anchored are healthy and will remain so.

If you have to have a partial plate, don't try to save a lot of hopeless teeth to interfere with it.

MEMORIAL DAY

From James Russell Lowell's Commemoration Ode.

Not in anger, not in pride,
Pure from passion's mixture rude
Ever to base earth allied,
But with far-heard gratitude,
Still with heart and voice renewed,
To heroes living and dear martyrs dead,
The strain should close that consecrates
our brave.
Lift the heart and lift the head!
Lofty be its mood and grave,
Not without a martial ring,
Not without a prouder tread
And a peal of exultation;
Little right has he to sing
Through whose heart in such an hour
Beats no march of conscious power,
Sweeps no tumult of elation!
'Tis no Man we celebrate,
By this country's victories great,
A hero half, and half the whim of Fate,
But the pith and marrow of a Nation,
Drawing force from all her men,
Highest, humblest, weakest, all,
For her time of need, and then
Pulsing it again through them,
Till the basest can no longer cower,
Feeling his soul spring up divinely tall,
Touched but in passing by her mantle-
hem.
Come back, then, noble pride, for 'tis her dower!

NEW DISCOVERY

Two Dayton chemists are said to have discovered a compound which will increase gasoline mileage 100 per cent. This is tellurium, regarded as waste at lead and copper refineries and the total yearly visible supply is said to be but 60 tons. Nevertheless this difficulty may be overcome and that if tests are perfected the discovery may revolutionize the industry.

MARCONI REALLY FATHER OF RADIO

Story of the Gifted Italian's Work In Development of Air Communication.

While experiments along the line of radio really started as far back as 1827 and hundreds of scientists were interested in solving the problems involved for many years, it was not until 1896 when Senatore Guglielmo Marconi took out his first patent that the mastery of air communication got its first great impetus. His life history is to all practical intents the history of radio communication.

Senatore Guglielmo Marconi, G. C. V. O., L. L. D., D-Sc. M. I. E. E., was born in Bologna, Italy, April 25, 1874. His mother was Irish, while his father was of a family whose mechanical ability was marked. After an education at Leghorn and Bologna, the young man interested himself in the problem of wireless telegraphy, starting his research in 1895. He went to England and in 1896 took out the first patent ever granted for a practical system of wireless telegraphy, by the use of electric waves. His early experiments in England were made at Westbourne Park. Shortly afterward Marconi saw W. H. Preece and at his request made some experiments for officials of the postoffice. Some further experiments were made in May, 1897, in the Bristol channel, wireless communication being established between Lavernock and Brean Down, a distance of nine miles.

On the invitation of the Italian government Marconi afterward went to Spezia where a land station was erected, which was kept in constant communication with two Italian battleships working from a distance of 12 miles. For this success the Italian government conferred upon Marconi the honor of knighthood. After a return to England further experiments were conducted and on July 20, 1897, the first radio company was formed and two permanent stations erected. In 1898 wireless reports of yacht races in Kingston were made and proved the usefulness and adaptability to which the system lends itself to commercial purposes. In December, 1898, Marconi installed apparatus to provide communication between the South Foreland lighthouse and a lighthouse on the south coast. In 1899 Marconi read a paper on "Wireless Telegraphy" before the Institution of Electrical Engineers in London.

Early in 1901 telegraphic communication was established between two points more than 250 miles distant and at the end of that year Marconi transmitted signals from Poldhu, in Cornwall to St. Johns, Newfoundland. In 1902 he received on board the steamship Philadelphia in the presence of the officers, good messages on the tape when at a distance of over 1,500 miles from the transmitting station and signals at over 2,000 miles. In December, 1902, the station established at Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, under a contract with the Canadian government for transatlantic wireless telegraphy, was put into communication with the Cornwall station at Poldhu and inaugural messages were transmitted to the King of England, the King of Italy and to the London Times. In October, 1903, the steamship Lucania published a daily wireless bulletin from messages received from the Marconi stations. A powerful station at Clifden on the west coast of Ireland was opened early in 1907 for the establishment of commercial relations with the American continent at Glace Bay.

Mr. Marconi's work has been recognized by many governments and seats of learning; he has been decorated by the King of Italy and the late ex-Czar of Russia as an honorary doctor of many universities, including Oxford, Glasgow, Aberdeen, Liverpool and Pennsylvania, besides having received the freedom of the principal Italian cities. In 1914 he was elected a senator in the Italian parliament. He also holds many scientific awards granted by various societies and institutions.

Upon the declaration of war by Italy, Senatore Marconi placed his services at the disposal of King Victor and was given the rank of lieutenant in the Italian army. He was employed on important military missions to England by the Italian government and after this service was transferred as temporary commander in the Italian navy. Marconi visited the United States in 1917 as member of the official mission sent by Italy. In 1919 Marconi was appointed plenipotentiary delegate to the peace conference at Paris, and in this capacity signed the peace treaties with Austria and Bulgaria. He was afterward awarded the Italian military cross.

This very important figure in the wireless world, who has received about all the honors possible for the scientific world to bestow upon him, including the Nobel prize, has not given up active work, but is even now engaged in radio telephone experiments.

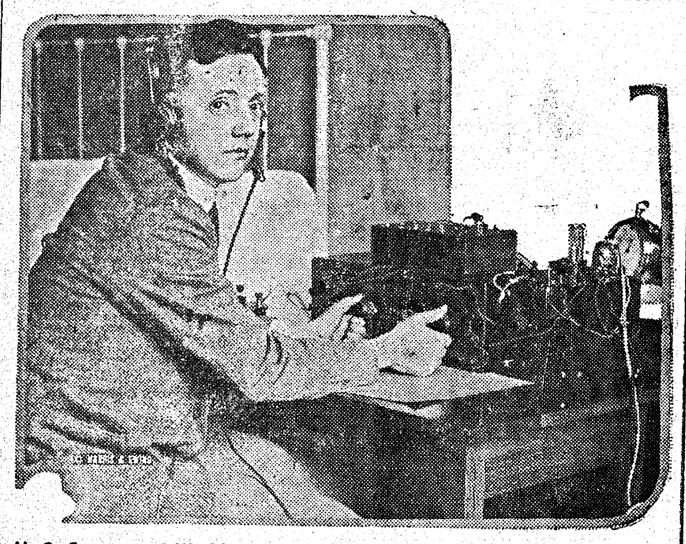
Guglielmo Marconi.

Radio enthusiasts have increased tenfold within the last few months, it appears from a survey conducted by the Associated Press and covering the central west, Kentucky and Texas. At virtually all points from which reports have been received, there are thousands of radio sets, particularly for purposes of telephony, where at most there were hundreds before.

While the sets are used chiefly for pleasure and experience, they are being put to practical uses in many cases. Numerous farmers are receiving market and weather reports, and police are receiving bulletins. Sermons, concerts, health talks and style talks are transmitted. Universities and professional operators are co-operating.

Approximate figures are reported from various states and centers indicating the present number of radio sets. According to A. L. Benson of St. Louis, division manager of the American Radio Relay league, about 90,000 radiophones are used in four states as follows: Iowa, 28,000; Missouri, 25,000; Nebraska, 22,000; Kansas, 20,000. In St. Louis alone there are some 2,200. The radiophones chiefly carry concert music, but in many localities farmers have installed them to receive market reports.

Correspondence from Texas reports 263 stations in Dallas, ranging in size from ¼ K. W. to 20 watts, and almost equal numbers in other cities of the state.



Cleveland, Ohio, reports probably 15,000 radio enthusiasts, 1,000 sending stations in greater Cleveland, virtually all amateur, and 10,000 receiving sets used almost nightly. These estimates exclude commercial sets. Cincinnati reports 500 sets.

Indiana has 4,500 amateur radio sets, and Indianapolis 1,000 radiophones.

Wisconsin has nearly 1,500 stations, and the number is said by Malcomb P. Hanson, University of Wisconsin operator, to be increasing at the rate of five a day. Nearly 1,000 sets are reported in Milwaukee and vicinity.

North Dakota has a number of receiving stations and a few fairly powerful telegraph and telephone sending stations. The North Dakota Agricultural college is planning to install a 100-watt service for farmers. The vacuum tube is displacing older equipment in the state.

Marked growth is reported at Omaha, Neb., by two radio clubs, which have been in existence only six months. The University of Nebraska and Nebraska Wesleyan, co-operating, send to amateurs in Nebraska, South Dakota, Iowa, Colorado and Kansas.

Sheepskins Consigned To Peabody Leather Plants

(By ENERGY)

About the best thing to write about in this column today is the fact that leather is in more demand. That tells the whole story in darn few words. Caesar came, saw and conquered, and that is what the leather business is going to do, mighty quick.

* * *

We have among us many conservative tanners who have up to this time refused to take stock in the repeated sayings of newspapers and mouth echoes that sang of better times. But these tanners today have come out of their shell and announce their intention of doing business in leather. One in particular has made one of the largest purchases of sheepskins on record, and this former pessimist declares business will be brisk not later than fall.

* * *

I have been reading all I could corral about the tariff which is coming some time. I know as much about the tariff as affecting the leather business as about numerous other things in Russia. But I do absorb some of the stuff which the down trodden newspaper reporter writes or lose his Job. I am satisfied he writes, as many more of us writes, to get something to eat. But reporters sometimes hit the mark, and I am fond of reading when they do. About this tariff. The Shoe and Leather Reporter tells us we cannot have a tariff today as were the ones of years ago. We then were trying to keep out foreign competition. Now in order to help Europe we must let in their wares to the extent of not harming our own business. If we do not help Europe we cannot hope to get their business, which we sadly need. Our surplus which amounts to more than I can tell, must be absorbed, and Europe is the outlet. Therefore from what I can gather, the objection to the tariff now framed is that the framers have not looked at the thing as above stated.

* * *

I am not quite sure some of them know the war is ended. At any rate they are daily such fool things in congress as to exasperate their party. So unless this tariff is changed radically, there will be an awful mess. Remember that is what the other fellow said, not I. The South today are protectionists. Ten years ago they woke up to this fact. Before, they were free traders because the Republicans were not. It took 60 years for the South to realize that business was more important than politics. Now although the Democratic party has always stood for free trade, our southern friends cast aside their democratic ways but insist the tariff is not a political issue.

* * *

The Shoe and Leather Reporter has a heading—The Awakening of Business." They go on to tell of signs from every direction all pointing to business revival. They say: "In the leather industry which has suffered more than the average depression, there are signs of awakening on every hand. Tanners are receiving more orders and frequent requests for immediate delivery, tell of short stocks in second hands. Letters, telegrams, cables are received, the latter from European countries and South America."

* * *

Again they say, "Some of the largest tanners the past three weeks have received more orders than in six weeks before. We are not whistling to keep our courage up. We have seen the documentary evidence to prove the truth of what we are writing."

* * *

I expect to get the credit for this business revival. I have predicted for a year, business would be better, and my prediction has come true, as I was sure it would. I have been careful to not name the date of this change for the better, and have played it safe. So as the congratulations come in, I beg that they be made short. In fact I would prefer they be held up for the next dull period.

* * *

Patent leather is still booming. Never in my memory has the shiny leather had such a run. Perhaps some of the wise ones can tell the reason why, but it appears so ridiculous that with dull times, the human race turns to a leather fit for a ball room or a closet. But many thanks for the popularity of this leather. It cannot take long before the wearer of these shoes will want something different, and calf leather will again come into its own. Then sheep leather has come back from its long journey to Hades. It has arrived with a chip on both shoulders, and it will not be for long when train loads of these skins will arrive to have their face washed.

* * *

There are several available tanneries in Peabody today. The Armstrong plant on Walnut street will attract some one. Then the Peabody Leather Co.'s plant a few steps down the street. The Pepper plant on Central street is empty. Then if you want to start small, there are 1000 places on Walnut street where from one side to ten daily can be transformed into shoe leather. Then there is land enough in South and West Peabody suitable for leather making, shoe making and hootch. Come on you who want the good things of life. The procession has started, get aboard.

* * *

Should everything come as it appears to be coming, wages in leather plants will not suffer a farther reduction. It will mean that leather workers will continue to draw down a week's pay that will mean a good living and some for the proverbial rainy day.

MRS. MARY DOLAN

Mrs. Mary A., wife of Thomas J. Dolan, died last Friday morning after a long illness at her home, 46 Holten street. Besides her husband, she leaves one daughter, Mary E., three sons, John L., Thomas J. and Joseph F., a father, mother, one brother and a sister in County Galway, Ireland, where the deceased was born; also three sisters, Mrs. Nora Manning, Mrs. Ellen O'Donnell and Mrs. Sarah Manning of Salem; two brothers, Michael and John Manning of Salem. The deceased was held in high esteem by a large circle of friends, was a devoted wife and mother, and a good neighbor. Her loss will be deeply mourned. The funeral took place Sunday afternoon with prayers at St. John's church at 1.30 o'clock, and was very largely attended, there being 250 men in line. Rev. P. J. Sullivan read the prayers for the dead and also the committal service at the grave in St. Mary's cemetery. The bearers were the deceased's six nephews, John R. Dolan of New York, John O'Donnell and Michael Garrity of Salem, Timothy, John and Thomas Garrity of Peabody. There were many floral tributes, including beautiful pieces from the L. B. Southwick Co., the general manager, the superintendents and the employes from that company, a wreath from the mayor and standing cross from the B. E. Cox Co., also 85 spiritual bouquets. A prayer burial mass was held Monday morning at 7.45 by Rev. Father C. McInniss. The soloists were Miss Mary McCarthy and Henry L. D'Entremont.

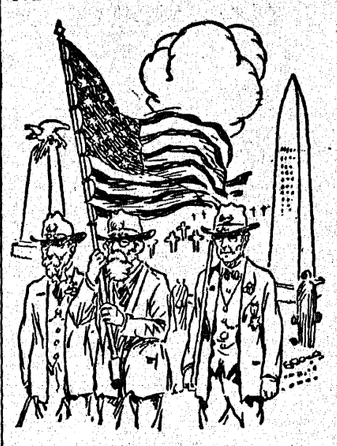
CITY VERSUS TOWN FORM

When the voters of Peabody elected to become a city, there were many opposed to such a move. It was pointed out by opponents of a city form of government that economy would not prevail. Such opponents today no doubt can claim they were right and that a city form has proved beyond doubt that a mistake was made. But let us ponder. If the history of tax rates was compiled, from all we can glean, cities and towns raised their tax rates in the same proportion with a few exceptions. Such being the case, any argument against city forms as compared with town forms would seem to us to be out of order. The meat of the whole matter is that cities, towns and individuals were in the same boat, all forgetting economy, all out to be extravagant. It simply goes to show that with all the common sense the human race is supposed to have, there is something lacking which helps us to forget ourselves. There was no preponderance of one class over another class, all joined the procession. So from the angle of extravagance neither form of government has claims over the other. As to spending money for city wants, the present charter has so safeguarded the treasury that the officials elected by the people have plenty of check. If those in office elect to spend money unjudiciously, then others can be elected to replace them. No matter what form of government, those selected to handle that government can make it good or bad. If the mayor raises salaries or appropriations for any purpose, the council has the check and if wrong should use that check. If politics is to have all the say, there is little hope for any municipality. If there are citizens in Peabody who flout present conditions, they have the whip to make themselves felt in many ways, and if their reasoning appears sound to the majority, men, yes women, can be chosen to fill the positions that appear to be wrongfully filled, and city interests will be taken care of more to their liking.

PROHIBITION IN PEABODY

In analyzing this subject, it might appear to many we are criticising prohibition. Such is not the case. We will give our readers the facts so far as we can get them. The local police have made hundreds of seizures in as many months. They are bringing distilled liquor to the stations daily, and in most cases this liquor was distilled to sell. The business appears to be growing in spite of the fact the police are watching and doing the best of work. The only bright spot in the proceedings is the fact the city gets the fines. Peabody is perhaps differently situated as to breaking the liquor laws than most cities, as the foreign population appear to carry on the traffic in far greater numbers than native born residents. There continues to be drunkenness and it is increasing rather than decreasing. They tell us such liquor as comes from the homemade article is unfit to drink and will kill. Either a better article is being sold here, or the stomachs of those imbibing has become so calloused as to be proof against dynamite. We recall but few deaths from that source. The fact remains that liquor law in Peabody is little respected by a certain element, and the remedy has not been applied strong enough to check the trouble. There are so many people who do not respect prohibition and they are far from being all foreigners, "where there is a will there is a way," can be well applied.



GROWTH IN PEABODY SQUARE

With business on the increase, there is every reason to predict added retail business facilities in this section. It is plainly evident that Peabody will grow faster in the next two years than in the five previous ones. This is made possible by the fact we have in our midst citizens who believe Peabody will grow and back that belief by investing their money in real estate. The last few years has witnessed many radical changes on Main street where business blocks have taken the place of residences. No doubt but for war effects this work would have been carried much farther. Now returning to normal conditions, we fully expect many changes on Lowell and Main streets, all for the betterment of our city.

CATERPILLARS

Spring this year is two weeks ahead of last year. The foliage is out and early flowers in abundance. Lilacs last year had not bloomed Memorial Day, but this year most of them will have gone. Not in years have caterpillars been in such evidence. The trees in the suburbs are being injured by the pests. A campaign of extermination is on in many sections. Burning is the popular method of extermination, but due care must be taken or fires result. The heavy rains of late has been a godsend, but because of so much rain, the caterpillar thrives. The tree warden's duties this year will be trebled no doubt, but the work must be done or the results will be damaging.

The Old Guard

By T. C. HARBAUGH

Hats off! Here they come to the tap of the drum,
A thin and wavering line;
They stood long ago in the face of the foe;
In the shade of the battle-struck pine.
There's many a ridge on their brows, as you see,
Their features by Time have been marr'd;
And the ivy is green, with a daisy between,
On the graves of the gallant Old Guard.

They were "boys" when they charged on the fort on the hill
And sabred their way thro' the foe;
They were stalwart and true in their garments of blue,
In the days of the long, long ago.
A stillness comes on and the night nestles down
As the diamond dew sparkles the sward,
And feebly they march 'neath the star-sprinkled arch—
These men of the noble Old Guard.

They dream of the battle, the camp, the foray,
Of victory, prison and rout;
The night will fall fast; it will claim them, at last,
And summon to "mustering out."
They hear the wild bugles that blew in the morn,
As clear as the notes of a bard;
They laugh as they come to the tap of the drum—
The remnant of Freedom's Old Guard.

The wind softly blows thro' their snow-sprinkled hair,
As slowly they march down the street;
And their step on the grass you may hear as they pass,
Not long at a muster they'll meet.
Tramp! Tramp! They are moving in glorious review
'Neath the flag that Columbia has starr'd;
It floats o'er but few in their old, faded blue—
The last of the cherished Old Guard.

Forget them? No! Never! Columbia kneels,
With tears on the velvety sward;
And there falls from her hands at Affection's commands
A wreath for the deathless Old Guard!

Nation Can Never Forget.

Once more comes Memorial day, and, while the gallant deeds of our noble young soldiers in the late World war naturally are fresher in our memories, the sacrifices of our patriotic defenders in 1861-65 will not be forgotten while the nation endures. The passing of those veterans in blue has been rapid, and it is saddening. Each day sees 100 of these old veterans, and two-thirds as many of their wives, carried to the grave. For them the end is not far off; another decade and scarcely a veteran will remain.

The officers who led the Union troops averaged several years older than the enlisted men, many of the latter, as is well known, being mere striplings at their entry into service; and few of the higher officers of volunteers now remain alive.

ROUND ABOUT

"Dick" Langmaid, who will heed the call of Hymen next month, and take unto himself a June bride, was in the tonsorial chair last Monday morning when the three blasts on the whistle at the Essex Tanning Co. plant called to him. The call was repeated and "Dick" urged the barber to speed. The next time he goes forth to the beauty parlor he hints he may cut the string to the whistle.

If you see Postmaster Searle going over the routes with his letter carriers don't imagine that he is a severe task master. Regulations prescribe that so often the P. M. must accompany every carrier to see if proper provisions are made to receive the household delivery of mail. There are other notations to be made also. Within a few days you may see the new postmaster on your street together with your painstaking carrier. The P. M. is open to any suggestion which will improve the local postal service.

Many members of the Father Mathew C. T. A. Society can thank Stephen O'Rourke, for many years the treasurer, for a word of advice which has helped him to take up man's burdens. "Steve," as he is hailed by the members with real friendship and reverence, has a tolerant attitude with Young America. He is one of those men who doesn't forget as a boy he took a fling here and there from the rule of teaching laid down by his mother and he gets along with the younger members accordingly. He has just completed his 25th year as a member of this splendid organization and will still be found promoting the welfare of the society.

I presume that several weighty questions regarding the progress of Peabody, the leather mart of the world, was discussed by Rev. Robert A. Bakeman and Dr. Harry Halpern at the former's summer bungalow at East Alton, N. H., during the past few days. They left Wednesday at daybreak for their motor trip to the New Hampshire town. Both men are fast thinkers.

* * *

We note Commissioner Goodwin of the highway commission is taking away licenses of some of the careless drivers. There are a few who roam about Peabody square who could take a lesson of this kind. Recently a machine traveling at least 40 miles an hour, raced up Chestnut and narrowly escaped running over several children. He never looked back to see the result of his hoggishness.

The liquor traffic officers receive all kinds of receptions in their calls on the moonshiners. Some receive them with a smile, others with a bottle. It is a great game, something after the manner of football, but not as rough. The female of the specie is said to be the champion actor, and do not hesitate to put over a dozen shots at the first opportunity.

Golfers had a great opportunity last Saturday to witness the king of golf swatters at the Salem Golf Club. Some of the local men can drive a golf ball inside of a mile, but this man Guilford drives them outside of the mile. Clarence Murray and Ray Porter turned in an 80 in the tournament, but Guilford and partner with a 69 drove all to the 19th hole.

* * *

This Salem Golf Club is mostly in Peabody by the way. Some one has said the Jacobs farm which adjoins the club grounds on the westerly side will be taken over and an 18-hole course may be the answer.

* * *

The Boston & Maine land bordering Walnut and Wallis streets and recently sold to the Morse Blacking Co., and by them one-half of it to M. P. Stone, the coal merchant, is valuable for business purposes. The Morse Co. have a solidly built brick building over the brook, and other changes are planned by the owners. Some of the buildings owned by others are for sale, and being on land not owned by them makes the sale imperative.

* * *

A decided contrast in the spring of this and last year. Memorial Day this year will have flowers of every variety in abundance, while last year there was only the hot house variety.

* * *

We note Mayor Shea takes his Sunday dinner at the Homestead Golf Club. A good dinner and a fine place in a sunny day to lay off. It means relaxation for our busy Mayor.

* * *

The town ball team is welcomed Saturday and Sunday with good attendance. They lost their first game last Sunday, but it is not all honey in this world. We do not hear from Chick Davies so far this year. A Peabody boy, although now living in Salem, he has hundreds here who follow his baseball career with interest. If Salem has a team, as it will no doubt, Chick will most likely be seen in a Salem uniform.

* * *

The city clock on the South church went vacationing again this week. Whoever is in charge of this clock needs to be charged higher. But perhaps the charge for taking care of it is not worth charging. Besides the city is poor.

* * *

Had Sawyer enjoys the reputation of wearing the first straw hat of the season, as he appeared early in the morning on the day designated by Father Time. The last straw can be found in any soda fountain about town.

* * *

The price of land in West Peabody is going up, judging from the price asked for pasture land somewhere there—$1500. About seven acres in the lot.

* * *

Dr. Yale, the dentist, has another daughter, born last Saturday morning. We all have heard of the smile that would not come off, that is Dr. Yale. If he had been in the leather business during the long dullness that smile would have started something.

* * *

What about the car track on Washington street? With all the oratory indulged in by the city fathers, something should come from it. There are many residents on that street who are hoping the tracks will stay away. Electric cars are noisy these warm nights.

* * *

The one-man cars appear to satisfy the public now. A change after a long period does not appeal to human nature. But we honestly think they are a success, and that the public today would not return to the heavy cars by choice.

THE GENUINE BAKELITE

From a soldier in the A. E. F. Army of occupation, the manufacturers of the WDC Triangle Bakelite received this: "The Bakelite mouth piece has stood the test. It is much stronger than the amber mouth piece that the German meerschaum pipes have. Many Germans believe that it is a real amber stem. While the pipe has been scraped and scraped, nothing but the top of the bowl is worn out." We have nothing to add to this, except to say come into our store and take a look at the WDC Triangle Bakelite.

Terrier Is Thief's Aid.

A burglar arrested at Hampstead had in his possession a cage of rats. The police said that his method was to open a window, turn in a rat, and then set his terrier after it. If there were wires or other burglar alarms, the animals were fairly certain to get them ringing, in which case the burglar decamped with all speed, leaving his terrier to follow him. If, on the other hand, there was no sound of jangling bells or alarms, he could proceed peacefully with his nefarious business.

Old Christmas Customs.

It is generally conceded that some of our Christmas customs are survivals of the earlier Roman Saturnalian festival. Holly, box ivy, laurel and bay adorned the Roman houses at this time. It is true, however, that the Druids kept a winter festival, when the priests sent sprigs of holly to each rude Briton but, partly as a peace offering, partly as a reminder to decorate the home with it and thus encourage sylvan spirits to enter and drive away frosts and winter.

JUNE TAG DAY TO HELP SICK BABIES

The North Shore Babies' Hospital on Dearborn street, Salem, will open the first of June, and sick babies will be received as usual from the greater Salem district, which includes Peabody, and all the cities and towns in the eastern part of Essex county.

Miss Dorothy Smith, who served two years as assistant superintendent, has returned to the hospital as superintendent this year, and together with her assistant, Miss Sara Schafer, is at the hospital and is making the final preparations for the reception of the little patients.

This is the only hospital in the greater Salem district which cares exclusively for sick babies. Already many anxious mothers, as well as health nurses, are sending in applications for little ones who need hospital attention.

It will be remembered that last year a building fund drive was held, which it was hoped would be entirely successful, reaching the goal of $250,000. Thus it would have been possible to do away with the tag days which have been held in the past to raise funds for the running expenses and upkeep of the present hospital. At the end of the drive only $100,000 was realized for the building fund, and so it will be necessary to hold a tag day on June third in order that the work may go on. Last year tag day was eliminated and as a result the hospital ended its year with a deficit of over $6000. This cannot happen again, and in the drive of June third it is hoped that $10,000 will be raised, which will take careof the losses of last year and the running expenses of this season.

Peabody men and women on the hospital management are: Hon. S. Howard Donnell,Dr. S. Chase Tucker, Joseph E. Noyes, Michael J. Sherry, Lyman P. Osborn,Miss Mary E. Poole, Mrs. Louis P. P. Osborne.

Many people will wonder why it is necessary to hold a tag day this year, but when it is recalled that only $100,000 was raised for the building fund instead of the hoped-for $250,000, the answer will be readily seen. This money which was raised last year can only be used for the building of a new hospital and is no way available for the running expenses of the present institution.

West Peabody

"The Scoutmaster," a three-act drama, will be presented by Troop Two, B. S. A., this evening, in the schoolhouse hall. This drama was given with great success in Peabody. An orchestra, under the direction of Perley Bodge, will play. The proceeds will be divided between the Scout Troop and the West Peabody Christian Endeavor Society.

The following officers have been elected at the West Peabody Christian Endeavor: President, Mabelle Leach; honorary vice president, Howard Johnson; vice president, Raymond Burlingham; recording secretary, Audrey MacDonald; corresponding secretary, Lillian Rankin; treasurer, Mildred MacKenzie; chairman of flower committee, Clara Felt; chairman of lookout committee, Everett White; chairman of social committee, Dorothy Danforth; chairman of prayer meeting, Mildred MacKenzie; chairman of missionary committee, Raymond Bradstreet.

A meeting of the West Peabody Canning Club was held Monday afternoon. Asparagus and dandelions were put up.

Miss Newhall of Salem is spending the week with Mrs. Oscar Goodale on Goodale street.

Mrs. Richard Stocker entertained many of her friends from Lynn and Swampscott at a bridge party at her home on Lowell street Tuesday, May 23.

Mrs. Maud Kelly of Rhode Island is spending the week with Mrs. Levi Hadley on Lowell street.

Miss Clara Morey is ill at her home on Lowell street.

A reception was held in schoolhouse hall Tuesday evening, May 23, for the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Natt Scott. They were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. White under an archway of lilacs. The orchestra played during the reception. The program for the evening consisted of two selections by the West church orchestra, accompanied by the chorus; Miss Helen Phillips gave a vocal solo; two readings were given by Miss Amy Hansen of Saugus. The Ta-ta-pochon Camp Fire Girls acted as waitresses. The following acted as ushers: Cyrus Tenney, Harry Rankin, Raymond Burlingham, William Moore, Gus Fisher, Charles Murray, George Collard, George Taylor, Ralph Sawyer, Everett White and Lawrence Durkee. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett E. White and daughter Barbara will sail for Ellsworth, Me., May 29, where they will spend the summer months.

West Peabody's former pastor, Fred D. Gealy, of Townville, Penn., is spending the week with Mrs. Lewis A. Felt. West Peabody citizens had an opportunity to hear Mr. Gealy preach for the first time since he left for Europe last Sunday evening. He told of his travels through Spain, France, Italy, Austria Hungary, Germany, Switzeralnd and England.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

FINANCE

The problem of the pocketbook is the great problem of the day. How shall we make both ends meet? How shall we balance our income with our expenses? It is exactly the same problem with the family, with the manufacturer, with a big corporation like a railroad, or with a nation. Let us analyze it among ourselves.

Suppose a man and his wife own their own home. They are living there with their children and the man's salary or wages has been reduced quite considerably. This man and wife would decide to cut down expenses, live as economically as possible. They would not paint the fence or repair the roof, or have the plumber fix the basin, although all these are necessary and ought to have been done before, but the man's income has been so poor that they had waited until the wife and children had been fitted out with new dresses and hats and the man had bought some new clothes, although these could have waited. Well, hundreds of people are doing the same and consequently the plumber, the painter and the roofing men are "out of luck." They also lose work and wages. The storekeepers who had been supplying all these people with clothes and food lose trade, lay off clerks, and unemployment spreads. The problem is upon the whole community. What is the answer? You know it as well as I do. Work is the answer. Hard work in order to keep the job and close economy to keep within the income. Not some of the people, but everybody. Saving every cent possible, for, it may be, business will be worse.

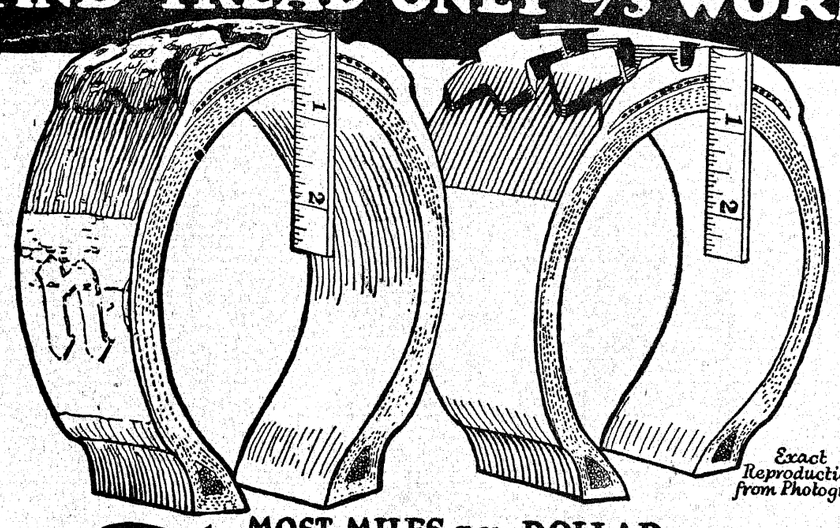
Ah, but such a problem cannot be the same problem with a big railroad, can it? Let us see. Suppose this same man and wife were directors on a railroad. They would sit around a big table with other directors and listen to reports from this division and that division, telling of less freight moving, cars idle, increase of taxes, government restrictions, income cut in half and a lot of such tales. What would they do? Exactly the same as they did in their own home. Cut down expenses. Lay off 500 men here and another 500 men there just as the plumber, painter and roofer were laid off. Cut down wages just as in the home the children were cut off from new clothes and the movies. They would have to because the directors do not own the railroad. The railroad is owned by thousands and thousands of stockholders, many of them widows and orphans whose little sum of money is invested in the railroad stock. The problem of the railroad is exactly the same as the problem of the household and the answer is the same. Work. Save. Economize everywhere possible. It is exactly what is going on today with every leather manufacturer.

And now suppose this man and his wife were king and queen of some country or the president and vice-president of the United States. They see the wealth of the country burned up in war. Their income which should have been spent on improvements, roads, schools, and good things for the people, is blown away in the smoke of battle, along with millions of precious young lives selected from the best of the land. Billions of expense and no income except a bitter taxation of the people. The wealth of the nations destroyed until $350,000,000,000 of property is wasted and 20,000,000 useful lives wiped out. What would they do? Exactly the same as in the household. Work. Save. Economize, and right here is where the problem changes. A man and his wife can make the children save and economize, but the rulers of a nation cannot make the people believe that the money troubles of the nation are exactly the same as the money troubles of the home. Just as the children do not understand why they cannot go to the movies any more, and cry out against father and mother, so do the people cry out against the government and demand all sorts of things. Where is the money to pay for these things? It all must come from the work of the people. It must be earned by the people and some of it given to the government in taxes. All sorts of demands are made which the government tries to satisfy. Well, tax the rich man, tax the cororation, tax the railroads. They have plenty of money. Maybe they have, maybe they have not, but whether or not, every cent taken away from industry stops paying some man who ought to be at work earning wages. And taxes today are so high that every man in the country feels the strain of the government's demand. Rich and poor alike pay this whether they know it or not.

CHARLES H. EGLEE

The problem of the pocketbook is the same problem in the home, the shop, the store, the railroad, the nation. It can only be solved by obeying the Economic Law.

Grand Army Needs Autos For Tuesday



The Peabody Rotary Club makes an appeal to owners of automobiles for the use of the cars for the Grand Army veterans on Memorial Day afternoon. There are still a few cars needed in addition to those promised and the committee headed by George A. Barnaby, of the M. E. Kelley Co., will be glad to receive pledges of other cars. Here is a chance for kind-hearted citizens to be of service to the grand old veterans.

A very enjoyable dinner was held last Tuesday at the Rotary Club, when Charles H. Eglee, writer of the golden rule articles in the Enterprise each week, was the principal guest and speaker. He told Scotch stories of the Harry Lauder type and immensely pleased his audience.

The attendance of the club members during April was the highest during the present year and brought forth a compliment from the district governor.

Members of the Rotary Club attended the exhibition of boys' work at the Community House yesterday. The Rotary Club financed the organization of 40 Boy Scouts who have drilled and done excellent work under their instructors.

Firestone CORD TIRES

The tire section above at the left shows the condition of a Firestone 33x4½ Cord Tire after 20,994 miles on a Yellow Cab in Chicago.

The section at the right was cut from a new Cord of the same size. Careful measurements show that only 1/3 of the tread of the tire on the Yellow Cab has been worn away after this long, gruelling test. The carcass is intact after more than 11,000,000 revolutions.

Firestone Cords have averaged over 10,000 miles on Chicago Yellow Cabs (1,200 cabs all Firestone equipped). In thousands of instances, they have given from 15,000 to 30,000 miles.

Look at the tread—scientifically angled against skid, massive and heavy in the center where the wear comes, tapered at the edges to make steering easy and to protect the carcass against destructive hinging action of high tread edges. The carcass is air bag expanded to insure uniform tension and paralleling of every individual cord. It is double "gum dipped" to make sure that each cord is thoroughly insulated with rubber.

This is the reason why Firestone Cords unfailingly deliver extraordinary mileage. It explains the unanimous demand of thoughtful tire buyers for these values. The local Firestone dealer will continue to provide the personal service that makes Firestone tire comfort and economy complete.

Rudolph Valentino At Strand With Gloria Swanson Monday

Wallace Reid in "The World's Champion," a knock-out picture with a champion star, will be the feature attraction on the bill the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. This production is adapted from the play "The Champion" which played Boston last season.

The story concerns the son of a British commoner, who falls in love with a lady of the nobility, is rebuked by his father, and ordered to leave his home. He comes to this country, becomes citizen, and incidentally middleweight champion of the world. After acquiring the title he goes to England on a visit, thrashes a former rival, and then is accepted by the girl after he confides to her that he is now an attorney-at-law, having taken up law after retiring from the fight game, the undefeated champion. The characters are played in a satirical vein and the comedy is rich and highly entertaining. Lois Wilson is the leading woman, Lionel Belmore plays the father, with Guy Oliver and Helen Dunbar in important roles. A Mack Sennett comedy entitled "The Duck Hunters" and George Walsh in an exciting chapter of his aerial play "With Stanley in Africa" will be the other number on the bill for today.

Wanda Hawley in "A Kiss in Time" will be the main feature on the double bill for Sunday evening. May Allison in "Extravagance" will be the other attraction which rounds out a Sunday bill which registers high above the average run of Sunday programs.

It is safe to say that you have never witnessed the last word in the art of love-making until you see the romance that is most delightfully enacted by Rodolph Valentino and Gloria Swanson in "Beyond the Rocks," which will be the special Paramount feature the Strand will offer next Monday and Memorial Day.

"Beyond the Rocks" is an adaption of Eleanor Glyn's famous novel of the same name. It is at present breaking all attendance records at the Rialto theatre, New York City, which indicates that Peabody is right in the running when it comes to getting the big pictures while they are brand new. The story takes the audience to London, Paris, the Alps, Algeria and other parts of the globe, and introduces Miss Swanson as the daughter of a poor, but aristocratic English family, who is married off by her father to a fat millionaire. Of course the marriage is a loveless one on the part of the bride. While on their honeymoon the girl is rescued from certain death by an attractive nobleman, played by Rodolph Valentino. It is a case of love at first sight. His lordship attempts to possess the heroine for his own. These efforts take one through a maze of passionate scenes, with Gloria introducing a new gown at every flash of the camera. Part of the action of the picture which is laid in the desert will recall "The Sheik," in which Mr. Valentino scored a triumph. No expense was spared to make it the biggest picture of the current season, and all who see it will feel amply repaid.

Twain's Film At The Federal

"Hurrah for Mark Twain and for 'A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court'! Then throw in a couple of hurrahs for Emmett Flynn, director, and Harry Myers, star. For hark ye, the most brilliant comedy drama in the history of picturedom is here, and 'A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court' is it.

" 'Make 'em laugh, make 'em cry, make 'em thrill,' D. W. Griffith said once, and the Yankee does all three superlatively. Its comedy has Charlie Chaplin's brilliant aliveness and great common, human touch; it has lightning flashes of William DeMille's fine whimsy; it has moments as great as some of Griffith's own ;it has touches of 'Miracle Man,' spiritual vision; and yet it is much more, for it is all Mark Twain.

"In this film Twain again lives, and, though he has gone before, has triumphed as the greatest picture story writer the world has seen. The adaptor's hand seems fairly inspired."

MRS. WM. McKEEN

Funeral services for Mrs. William H. McKeen, aged 65, sister of Joseph E. Bolster of this city, were held yesterday afternoon from her late home, 273 Boston street, Lynn. The deceased was born in Peabody and resided here for many years. On May 30, she would have observed her 45th wedding anniversary. She became ill ten days ago and heart failure was given as cause of death. Mrs. McKeen was a charter member of the Eastern Star of Lynn and for over 40 years had been a member of the North Congregational church of that city. Besides her husband, she is survived by a married daughter, Mrs. Emily Norton of Lynn, and five sisters.

SAW CAPITOL

Miss A. L. McLaughlin and Miss Evelyn Fairn of Peabody and Nova Scotia respectively have returned from a delightful trip to Washington, D. C., taking in Atlantic City, Philadelphia and New York. The girls at the Lynn Home for Young Women, where Miss McLaughlin and Miss Fairn reside, are all urged to make this trip, covering a week, which in many ways is like a visit to wonderland.

Cinderella In Flowerland At Second Church

"Cinderella in Flowerland," given at the Second Congregational church Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, was enjoyed by a large audience both evenings. Pauline Bakeman and Ruth Ricker took the part of fairies and sang the opening song, telling of fairyland. The blossoms hear of a wonderful ball to be given by a prince and decided to go, all except the meadow daisy, who is considered to be too common a flower. The hollyhock and tiger lily are the two haughty sisters, who try to make life miserable for the daisy. Godmother Nature finds the daisy longing to go to the ball and with her flower wand transforms her old dress into a beautiful daisy costume. At the ball several pretty dances are given by the prince and the blossoms and all marvel at the beauty of the daisy, whom no one knows. The bumblebee tells her it is time to depart but she stays later and in her hurry loses her slipper. The princess tries it on all the blossoms but it does not fit. Six little sunbeams dance around the flowers and sing, when six little raindrops arrive with their watering pots and the sunbeams scatter, only to return and put a rainbow over each raindrop. The prince claims the daisy as his princess as the slipper fits her foot and all sing her praises. She is crowned by the six little sunbeams and the tableau at the end was extremely pretty, with the princess on a high throne, and all the participants on the stage. Mrs. Annis decorated the stage as a miniature forest, with trees and blossoms, and butterflies. The two little butterflies who carry the daisy to the ball were dressed in pink and white and sang with the spirit of the older ones. Robin red breast did the bidding of the prince. It was a pretty story and the children did remarkably well under the direction of Miss Ella Reed, Mrs. Nellie Annis, Mrs. Sadie Morse, Miss Evelyn Brown and Miss Florence Osgood. Home-made candy was sold each evening.

Those in the cast were: Blanche Barrowclough, Kenneth Legro, Doris Knights, Gladys LeCain, Grace Batchelder, Bradford McGreggor, Dorothy LeCain, Georgia Coombs, Donald Legro, Edna Bowden, Marjorie Ricker, Helen McKeen, Lillian Stuart, Thelma McGreggor, Alice Coombs, Esther McKeen, Annie Whitworth, Marjorie Begg, Lena Osgood, Doris McGlue, Greta Glencross, Mary Gromko, Thelma Curtis, Erdine Newhall, Muriel Legro, Harry Morse, Herbert Peabody, Albert Morse, Erwin Nelson, John Molasky, Walter Bowden, Pauline Bakeman, Ruth Ricker.

RADCLIFFE POEM

A Peabody graduate of Radcliffe College is the author of this poem which presages further luncheon parties in aid of the college endowment fund:

Have you a "hunch"
That the Radcliffe punch
Of the Radcliffe bunch
Made the Radcliffe lunch
A thing to munch
As well as to crunch
With a zest every bit unique?
It's hard to smother
The taste for another,
So tell your mother
As well as your brother
Or else some other
To speak for one next week.

Peculiarity of Wood.

There is a figure which may be brought out prominently in certain kinds of woods, mostly those of tropical origin, says the American Forestry Magazine. This is variously known as roe, ribbon grain, feather grain, etc., and appears as narrow to broad longitudinal stripes, alternating light and dark. This is due, not to actual differences in color, but to the way in which the light is reflected by the different layers.

Exercises in observance of Memorial Day will be given by the West school children in the school hall next Monday, beginning at 12.30. The public is cordially invited.

GOLFERS MAY TAKE OAK HILL

Negotiations under way today bid fair to culminate in a few weeks in the sale of the Rogers estate on Oak Hill to a golf club corporation, which will comprise prominent enthusiasts of greater Boston, Peabody, Salem, Lynn and Danvers.

William F. Carlin, the real estate dealer, has the negotiations in hand and prospective members of the new golf club may obtain further information at his office. Several prominent Peabody citizens are already interested in the project.

The Rogers estate comprises 200 acres of land on Oak Hill, off Andover street, overlooking the valley toward Danvers and Beverly, and to the sea beyond, being a most ideal location for golf. It is planned to lay out one 18-hole course and a 9-hole course for women and juveniles. In addition to the Rogers mansion, which will make an elegant club home, there are farm buildings, greenhouses and a seven-room dwelling on the estate now used by the caretaker. The sale, if consummated, and there is every reason to expect it will see the deeds passed, will rank as the biggest real estate transfer this city has recorded in years and will reflect much credit on the enterprise of Mr. Carlin. The accessibility of the estate for golf course appears to insure the sale of the property.

PERSONALS

Councillor Francis L. Poor, who has been at the Parker Hill hospital for some months, may visit Peabody on Memorial Day. He is able to take short walks and has added to his weight.

Horace Wilson, employment manager at the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co., is to enjoy a few weeks' vacation in New Hampshire.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving C. Paine of Sutton street will motor to Maine for over the holiday.

Elmer E. Durkee has added seven acres to his farm land on Goodale street, West Peabody, by a purchase from Mrs. Ella Tibbetts.

Three Peabody women were among the 11 to receive the chivalry degree, the highest honor given to Rebekah lodges connected with the Odd Fellows, in Salem last Tuesday. The Peabody women were Mrs. A. A. Mackinnon, Mrs. George E. Parker and Mrs. Will T. Danforth, members of Starlight Rebekah lodge of this city.

James H. Gavigan, assistant superintendent at the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co., is recuperating from the effects of a carbuncle and hopes to resume his duties early next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Attridge left Saturday for Riverside, California, where they will spend the next year.

PASSES $60,000 FOR NEW LOAN

Peabody's City Council held a short meeting last night which was featured by the granting of May licenses to sundry applicants. The Council refused to grant a Sunday license at 54 Lowell street, where a conviction was secured following a liquor raid.

On recommendation of Dog Officer O'Brien the Council ordered a yellow St. Bernard dog owned by Ralph Drinkwater restrained.

The committee on claims reported leave to withdraw on the petition of Frank Chinery for soldier's pay from the city on the grounds that he was not an employe of the city when he entered the war service.

John Hayden of 18 Driscoll street was drawn for jury duty.

Mayor Shea sent in a loan order for $60,000 and a emergency order appropriating $935 for the sinking fund commission.

SALEM TRUCKER HITS MELLO GIRL

Little Beatrice Mello, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mello of Love Lane, is in the Thomas hospital as the result of an accident which occurred on Tremont street near the Endicott school yesterday afternoon. The driver of the truck which struck the little girl was Peter Hoogasian of Salem and in trying to avoid hitting her, he ran into a hydrant, breaking it off and causing a flood which tore a large hole in the street. The extent of the child's injuries are not yet known and she was reported at the hospital this morning as being in a stupor.

LEGION NOTES

One-half of the A. E. F. in France drank a glass of beer in a Coblenz cafe about a month ago, American Legion men have informed their back-home buddies. The other half, who stayed back in Paris, was a quartermaster corps sergeant. The A. E. F. soon will be reduced to just one of the pair.

* * *

While a forest fire was sweeping down upon sick and wounded ex-soldiers confined in a Lakewood, N. J., hospital, American Legion men rescued their invalid comrades and parked them in an open field. Then they saved the hospital from destruction.

LEO GUILD

The dancing party to be conducted in K. of C. hall next Monday evening under the auspices of Leo Guild is being looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure by dance lovers of this vicinity, and it is expected that the party will be one of the most enjoyable of the season. Mrs. D. J. Conroy is hostess for the evening and Miss Marion Ellis is in charge of a group of young ladies who will see that those present enjoy themselves. The sale of tickets assures a large attendance. Potter's orchestra will furnish the music.

PERSONAL

Judge Daniel C. Manning has gone to Alton Bay, N. H., over the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Woodbury and family will spend the week-end and holiday in Wolfboro, N. H.

DESTROY MASH

A squad of officers raided the old Needham house at 58 County street last night and seized moonshine and destroyed 50 gallons of mash.

Southern Tribute To Geo. Peabody

The following article on George Peabody, who aided the south in his benefactions, which appeared recently in the Arkansas Gazette (Little Rock, Ark.), was written by Miss Ruth Tucker, formerly a teacher in the Warren school of this city. Miss Tucker has been on the staff of the Arkansas Gazette since 1919. She was a recent visitor to Peabody as the guest of Mrs. Minna Brooks:

Peabody, Mass., April 29.—Just back from the sidewalk, on one of the principal thoroughfares of this delightful, little New England city, stands a quaint old house, its high pitched roof and sheltering eaves reminiscent of an earlier day. To those who delight in humble origins, the place has an especial interest, for surely the business world today holds no figure more spectacular in its rise from comparative obscurity to international prominence than that of an earlier financier and philanthropist, George Peabody, whose birthplace was this tiny frams house, in the city which now bears his name.

We wonder how many of the boys and girls who have been students of Peabody school in Little Rock realize that the old, red brick building was named for this New England schoolboy, who in his generation was honored by two continents for his philan thropy and for his far-reaching contributions to education.

Of his benevolences, amounting to more than $8,000,000, the two greatest were a $2,000,000 fund for the alleviation of the condition of the poor of London, and an educational trust fund of $2,500,000 for the advancement of education in the South. Of this latter fund, which was distributed by quota among the Southern states, Arkansas received $129,000 in the period between 1868 and 1897, which was used, we are told, for the partial maintenance of schools at Little Rock and Fort Smith. It was during this period that Mr. Rightsell, for thirty years superintendent of the Little Rock schools, perpetuated the name of the philanthropist by suggesting that the "new high school," then in course of construction, be called the "Peabody" school.

Nor is this the only memorial that bears the name of George Peabody. The Peabody Normal College at Nashville, Tenn., and the Peabody Institute at Baltimore were aided by the Peabody educational fund. Peabody Place, London, recalls his gift to the London poor, Peabody Land, in the Artic wastes, was named in 1852 by the expedition, which, in a ship provided through the generosity of Mr. Peabody, visited the northern shores in search of the lost Sir Francis Lane. And his native city which was originally a part of Danvers, upon its incorporation as a separate town, took the name of its famous son.

Peabody in 1789 was a straggling parish, lying south of Danvers, and just west of Salem. The little frame house, now on the main thoroughfare, then stood somewhat on the outskirts of the village, It was an unimposing little house, even then. Today, it is not less unarresting. The front door opens close to the ground, just a step from the edge of the walk, and the front of the house is as bare as if it had been shaved with a plane. It is a two-story house, with a short hall and a narrow staircase in the middle, with a single, small room on each side of the hall on each oor. The original rooms have not been altered, and on the first floor they are only a little over six feet high. Across the middle is an old beam, which tall visitors must stoop to avoid, and the heavy timbers also show at the corners of the room. The visitors may reconstruct in this room the tiny shop, where, as a boy, George Peabody gained his first business experience. The narrow staircase leads to the attic bedroom from the window of which the boy looked out across the fields toward the village.

No small part of Mr. Peabody's interest in education arose from the fact that he himself was able to secure only a scant grammar school training, for at the age of eleven he was compelled to go to work.

The younger Camp Fire of Miss Ruth Farrington met Wednesday evening at the home of Dorothy Elwell.

Frank T. Arnold and family are re moving this week to their summer home at Hampton, N. H.

Miss Elizabeth Cohen entertained a large number of her friends at a barn party Wednesday evening.

The many friends of Councillor Francis L. Poor are greatly pleased over the marked impovrement which he is showing from week to week. The operation which it was proposed he should undergo has been abandoned as unnecessary and he has been able to enjoy several automobile rides with visitors at the hospital. He has also arranged to attend a masonic luncheon in Boston next Monday evening.

A daughter Dorothea was born last Saturday morning to Dr. and Mrs. Henry I. Yale at their home on Chestnut street. Both mother and daughter are reported as doing nicely.

Mrs. George B. Chandler, accompanied by Mrs. H. A. Harrington of the school committee and Mrs. I. A. Cowdrey, figured in a painful but not serious accident at Haverhill, where they were attending a Universalist convention early in the week. All three ladies were knocked down by a careless automobile operator and considerably bruised and shaken up.

Rev. John Reid of the South church spent the early part of the past week in Fitchburg.

William J. Costello has purchased two lots of land on Fay avenue, Perkins Park, and will erect a residence on the newly acquired property.

Councillor C. W. Barnes motored to Norway, Me., over the last week-end with a party of friends.

Warren D. King returned this week from an automobile trip to northern Maine. He reports some of the country roads in almost unpassable condition and mentions one section alone from which forty cars had to be dragged from the mud. The genial electric light superintendent says that he was one of the forty.

Harry F. Whidden is in Gloversville and Johnstown, N. Y., on a business trip.

It is reported that the A. O. H. hall on Lowell street is to be remodelled and that the front land will be occupied by two new stores. The rear of the present building will be used by the society as their headquartres.

Miss Grace Harlow of the present high school faculty entertained her Sunday school class at a basket lunch and bacon bake at Page's hill last Tuesday evening.

Miss Marion Ellis of Franklin street is confined to her home with illness.

Miss Christine Sinclair is home from Rochester, N. H., spending a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey Sinclair.

Miss Harriett L. Trask, formerly of Franklin street ,is the owner of two old samplers, one worked in 1826 and the other in 1787. To antidate the latter much means that a sampler of Revolutionary days must be brought to light.

Mrs. Phillip Warner (nee Emily Osborn) is on from New Jersey, visiting her mother.

CLEAN UP THE SQUARE

The condition of Peabody square is being criticised and prompt measures by the highway department to clean out the gutters would seem to be in order. The motor sweeper is unable to clean out the street near the curbing because of standing autos. City Engineer Emerson will probably order a real clean-up.

BUSHBY TO LEAVE CITY

William Bushby and family, consisting of wife and three children, are to take up their residence in Hampton Falls, N. H., having sold their Central street home to Samuel Bernstein. Their removal takes the last Bushby from Central street, the family name being listed on this street for over a hundred years.
